Chicago Refuse Company Sues Village For $150,000

A Chicago refuse company which was ordered to stop removing refuse and debris from an Elk Grove Village business has sued the village for $150,000.

Speelman Refuse Co. has filed suit in Cook County Circuit Court, charging that the village has illegally prohibited the company from doing business within the village. The suit lists as defendants Police Chief Harry Jenkins, Village Pres. Charles Zetek, six village trustees and the five scavenger services licensed by the village. It asks $150,000 damages and a temporary restraining order prohibiting the village from interfering with the company's business.

Speelman charges that it has a contract to remove construction debris and refuse from the W. E. O'Neil Construction Co., 2200 Busse Rd., but was ordered to discontinue the work by the police department because it had no license.

ATTEMPTS TO GET a license from the village have been unsuccessful, the company charged.

A village ordinance limits to five the number of licensed scavengers allowed to operate in the village. To license another scavenger the ordinance would have to be amended.

Village Atty. Ed Hafert said yesterday he was investigating this suit.

The five scavengers now licensed by the village are: Menard Disposal Co., Van Der Moler Disposal Co., Roy Strom Inc., Barrington Trucking Co. and Ace Disposal Co.

Summonses on the charge were delivered to village trustees this week. No hearing date has been set.

Area Library Adds Zip Code

For Elk Grove Village area residents, it will be a little easier this year to send holiday greeting cards to their out-of-town friends.

New and missing street addresses can be found at the Elk Grove Village Public Library, which has many out-of-town telephone directories, representing the major cities in the United States.

The Elk Grove Village Public Library, at 101 Kennedy Blvd. in Elk Grove Village, is open daily from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The directories are filed alphabetically by states, making it an easy matter to locate any community quickly.

The library also has a Zip Code directory, listing the Zip code of every community in the United States. Use of Zip codes will help Christmas cards and other mail go through faster.

Library officials say the volume of requests makes it impossible to handle this information by telephone.

Moonlighting Teacher A Fix-It Man

Like many teachers Eldo Reid moonlights to pick up extra money. Unlike most, he does it in his own school district.

Reid, a science teacher at Thomas Lively Junior High School, repairs and maintains the audio-visual equipment for the 20 schools in Elk Grove Township Elementary Dist. 50.

"I like to fiddle with things and in 1964 the guy who was business manager asked me if I could look over some of the broken equipment and see if I could do anything with it," he said.

As a result he started checking the tape recorders, movie projectors and other items that came from the schools and found he could fix many of them without sending them to a repairman.

HE HAD never had any formal training in that kind of repair, but, he explained, "my hobby is electricity and ever since I was a kid, I've wanted to know what makes things work. If I have time sometimes I'll just take a piece of equipment apart to see if I can see something wrong."

So far that procedure has been pretty successful. "I've never gotten something apart and not been able to put it together again," he said, "but I've come close sometimes."

Although the work was very limited when he first began, now he gets about 12 pieces of equipment a month and sometimes even more. The district pays for his work by each piece he fixes, and now he has built a special workbench in his basement for the work.

"It's getting to be a pretty good part-time job. I just play it by ear when I charge the district and charge what is fair and what the job is worth," he said. ABOUT FOUR years ago, he proposed that he spend part of his summer going around the district and doing preventive maintenance on the equipment. "That way I know things are in pretty good shape at the beginning of the year," he said.

Even so, the equipment breaks down, sometimes because of simple things. "A lot of teachers have never taken any audio-visual courses," he said, "and they have trouble. There's one teacher who says those machines have it in for her because they're always going haywire."

Some of the problems are too complicated for him to fix and he sends them to a regular repair company.

"I used to feel like I was giving up when I sent something out," he said. "Then I found out the place we send them to sends most of their stuff out too, so now I don't feel so bad."

ELDO REID REPAIRS tape recorders, movie projectors and other audio-visual materials in his "spare" time when he is not teaching science at Lively Junior High School. All equipment in Dist. 59 is sent to him.

'Hot Potato' Zoning Review Complete

The Elk Grove Village Board of Trustees finished its review of a proposed comprehensive zoning ordinance Wednesday night, but indicated it would return later for further discussion of two "hot potatoes."

With only four of seven board members present, the board agreed on a number of minor changes in the ordinance and agreed to consider at another meeting two controversial issues, bans on home occupations and parking of commercial vehicles.

The board last month informally approved a ban on all home occupations which involve "rendering of a service... on the premises," but rejected a proposal to ban parking for commercial vehicles in the residential area.

The comprehensive zoning ordinance has been under study for two years since hearings were held on it by the plan commission. The board has been reviewing the ordinance for expected passage later this month or early next year.

At Wednesday's meeting, Village Pres. Charles Zetek reiterated his opposition to the board's decision to allow commercial parking.

"I still say we should have it in there as a control," he said of the provision to ban commercial vehicles.

BOARD MEMBERS indicated both the parking ban and the home occupation ban would be brought up again informally before the ordinance is considered for formal approval.

The proposal to ban home occupations has provoked opposition from a number of village residents and was opposed by trustees Nancy Vanderweel and George Spees in last month's informal vote.

Object To Home Occupations Ban Plan

An Elk Grove Village resident has objected to the proposed ban on home occupations, which would prohibit hairdressers operating out of their homes. She lodged her objection during Wednesday's village board committee meeting on the comprehensive zoning ordinance.

Film Program Slated Tuesday At Library

A film program for children age four and older will be shown at the Elk Grove Village Public Library Tuesday. The program, featuring three films, will be shown at 10:10:30 a.m. and 1:30-2 p.m. in the library.

The following films will be shown: "Caps for Sale," "The Naughty Owl," and "The Story of Cinderella."

Dems Favor Condylis To Oppose Crane

Democrats in the new 12th Congressional District are attempting to enlist John Condylis, 103 Landmeier Rd., Elk Grove Village, as a candidate to oppose U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane in the 1972 election.

Crane, Republican representative in the present 13th Congressional District, will formally launch his campaign for reelection in the new 12th District at a press conference at his Randhurst office tomorrow.

Condylis, an attorney, is president of Autoquip Corp., a Chicago firm specializing in manufacture of hydraulic equipment. Formerly president of the Elk Grove Township Regular Democratic Organization, Condylis headed the Elk Grove Village March of Dimes in 1964.

He has previously been favorably considered by Democratic leaders as a congressional candidate, but was prevented from running by demands of his business, according to Chester, Chesney, Elk Grove Township Democratic committeeman.

Chesney said he has urged Condylis to appear before township committeemen, who will meet Monday evening to interview candidates for the Illinois General Assembly in the new 3rd Legislative District.

CHESNEY SAID he was hopeful that Condylis would agree to seek election to Congress or to the state Senate in the 3rd District.

Expected to appear before the five township committeemen Monday are incumbent Rep. Eugenia S. Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, and John Kelley of Schaumburg, candidate for the state House. Committeemen on the screening committee are James L. McCabe, Wheeling Township; John Morrissey, Schaumburg Township; Richard Magalian, Palatine Township; Nicholas B. Blase, Maine Township; and Chesney.

They will meet at 8 p.m. Monday at the Maitre D' Restaurant, 111 E. Higgins Rd., Elk Grove Village.

County OKs Shopping Center

The Cook County Board has approved a rezoning request that will allow construction of a service-oriented shopping center on the south side of Algonquin Road in unincorporated Mount Prospect.

The board's action Monday rezoned the 2.2-acre site from general residential to general business use. The developer, Donald Geller of Northfield, said his company could now begin to lease the proposed 11 to 13 units in the center, which is about 175 feet east of Briarwood Drive.

The proposed one-story building will take up 27,000 square feet and will contain among others a television repair shop, a beauty shop and barber shop. The stores will face Algonquin Road, rather than the residential section nearby, Geller said.

According to the plans, there will be parking space for 128 vehicles, and storm sewers will run along the property.

Geller said that he has done similar centers in this area, including ones in Arlington Heights and Schaumburg. He said there is no set date for construction to begin but it would probably be some time next year.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

President Nixon promised to press for a guaranteed annual income for the elderly and generally to expand federal programs that would "bring the generations together again."

The Senate confirmed President Nixon's nomination of Earl L. Butz to be agriculture secretary after debate spiced more with presidential politics than farm policy. The vote was 51 to 44. The Purdue University dean will succeed Secretary Clifford M. Hardin, who is leaving the post to assume an executive spot with the Ralston-Purina Corp.

President Nixon decided to fly to Florida for a weekend of conferences with top advisers on the forthcoming 1973 federal budget. Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon and his aides expect to wrap up the major budget decisions in three or four days.

Acting under a new, no-compromise veto threat from President Nixon, House and Senate negotiators scuttled a Democratic-sponsored campaign financing plan for the 1972 elections but approved the concept for future presidential campaigns.

The State

Salary increases for some 2,000 state employees in higher pay categories will have to be put off until the state's welfare crisis has been solved, Governor Ogilvie said. However, he approved a 3 percent salary increase for state workers who earn $15,000 a year or less.

The state still doesn't know how it misplaced $2.3 million in income tax payment checks. But it does know now that no more such checks are missing, Revenue Director George Mahin said.

The World

Pakistani Sabrejets crossed the Indian border for the first time, strafing an airstrip in the populated Indian border city of Agartala military spokesmen said. The midday attack by three F-86 jet-fighters followed at least eight hours of shelling and bombing on Agartala. Military spokesmen also said a number of civilians were killed or wounded in the artillery barrage that continued throughout the day.

Gunmen in the Irish Republic and British commandos in Northern Ireland exchanged small arms fire and automatic weapons fire for 15 minutes across the Republic-Northern Ireland border. One commando was wounded. An army spokesman said that the gunmen fired about 20 rounds from the republic side of the border and the commandos fired back from an armored car.

The War

The U.S. command reported nine Americans were killed and 78 wounded last week. This is the highest battle death toll in two months. Records listed 45,613 American soldiers killed and 302,283 wounded since the start of the war Jan. 1, 1961.

The Market

The euphoria that has pervaded Wall Street the past week enabled stocks to score their sixth consecutive advance despite pockets of profit taking. The Dow Jones Average scored a gain of 2178 to 843.79 bringing the one-week rise to more than 50 points. Advances outnumbered declines, 824 to 620, on the New York Stock Exchange. Turnover was 17,700,000 shares, down from 21,040,000 the previous session. Prices were steady in moderately active trading on the American Exchange.

Dr. Middleton Evidence Suppressed

Most of the evidence collected by police when they arrested Dr. James G. Middleton of Des Plaines last year was thrown out of court yesterday by a criminal court judge.

Judge Robert J. Downing ruled all the evidence, except two .38 caliber revolvers, be suppressed.

The judge also ordered Dr. Middleton to be examined by a psychiatrist from the Cook County Behavioral Clinic. A report on the results of that examination are scheduled to be disclosed in court Dec. 13.

The evidence was collected by Cook

County Sheriff's Police during a 4½-hour search of the doctor's office at 969 Elm-hurst Rd., Des Plaines, last Dec. 1.

The police, who said during the hearing they had no search warrant, went to the office with a warrant to arrest the doctor on a charge of deviate sexual assault. He was charged by a former woman patient, who said the doctor drugged her with a "stupifying, intoxicating substance" and then sexually assaulted her.

In his finding, Judge Downing ruled two pistols, confiscated during the search, would not be suppressed. According to testimony during the hearing, the doctor voluntarily surrendered to police the first gun, hidden in an interior trouser pocket, and told them where to find a second gun in his private office.

INCLUDED AMONG the items and materials suppressed by the court are: Explosive powders, a .22 caliber automatic pistol; films, photos and tape recordings of a reported sexual nature; tape recorders; projectors; cameras and a closed-circuit TV camera. Also suppressed were: Various artificial sexual stimulation devices; about 75 electrical detonators; two one-pound cans of black powder; 10 to 15 boxes of ammunition; and three capped galvanized pipes, referred to by police as "pipe bombs."

The state, through James Kavanaugh, assistant state's attorney, said it felt the entire search was legal and proper. Kavanaugh said when the police went to the doctor's private office under his direction to find the second gun, they saw "in plain view" some of the explosive devices on shelves and in an open file cabinet. "Under those circumstances," Kavanaugh said, "The police had not only the right, but the duty, to continue the search."

Edward M. Genson, doctor Middleton's attorney, argued during the hearing that the search and seizure of the items, except for confiscation of the first gun, was illegal.

JUDGE DOWNING said the court found that because the doctor volunteered the first gun and directed police to the second, those weapons would not be suppressed.

He said the rest of the evidence would be suppressed because the doctor, handcuffed to a door for almost four hours, did not consent to the search and there was no basis for the search.

The judge also said proper procedure for the police, who said they were investigating the doctor for 2½ months prior to the search, would have been to have obtained a search warrant prior to the raid.

The court previously had ordered Dr. Middleton to submit to examination by the county psychiatrist. Dr. Middleton at that time reportedly refused to cooperate with the county psychiatrist because he was fearful statements he made might be used against him in court.

Genson said yesterday neither he nor Dr. Middleton no longer objected to the examination and would cooperate fully.

A MAKESHIFT SHELTER of pine boughs, dead timber and blankets isn't a very comfortable place to spend a night on a 7,000-foot mountain during a snow storm and blankets isn't a very comfortable place to spend a night over Thanksgiving.

Looking For Sunset, Finds Only Danger

Mountain Cold, Snow Traps Reporter

by CRAIG GAARE

When the mountains get you on their own terms they punish and brutalize you. And when you're stranded in them overnight in a snowstorm with no food and no hope of getting down until morning, their brutality is magnificently awesome.

The mountains rip through the thin skin of civilization and expose large chunks of raw meat reality.

You don't want to go out in knee-deep snow in the dark on the side of the mountain, but you know if you don't the fire is going to burn itself out and the cold will penetrate your damp clothing.

YOU ARE at the mercy of the mountains and the mountains have no mercy. No man-made gadget or any of the material progress humans have made can help you. The internal combustion engine, one of the major inventions of recent centuries, is useless, hopelessly stuck in the snow.

The mountains even turn the fire on you. The smoke from the fire always seems to be blowing right in your face and the sprays lash out at you.

My encounter with the Manzano Mountains of New Mexico occurred over the Thanksgiving weekend. It started as an attempt by four University of New Mexico students to show me what it was like when the sun sets on the mountains and it ended up with us breaking and entering federal property to get help.

I had never seen New Mexico before and had gone out to visit Becky Graham of 611 Mayfair, Arlington Heights, a student at the University of New Mexico at Albuquerque and her three friends, David Nickelson of Carlsbad, New Mexico, Cynthia Weitz of Albuquerque, and Niki Marsicano of Delavan, Wis.

On the Sunday afternoon before I was to return home, the five of us drove about 55 miles and entered the mountain range near the town of Manzano.

WE DIDN'T make it to the top in time for the sunset and as all of us were craning our necks to look at the sun, the pickup truck went off the snow-packed dirt road and into a ditch about two miles from the top of the mountain.

After trying for an hour to get the truck out of the ditch, we decided just before dark that we would have to spend the night there with no food, three blankets, two sleeping bags and a quarter of a tank of gas in the truck.

We fashioned a shelter out of the blankets, snow, dead branches and started a fire using gasoline from the truck.

Throughout the night we took turns tending the fire, and sitting in the truck with the motor running. Because we were low on gas, we ran the truck just long enough to get the cab heated and turned the engine off until it got so cold it had to be started again.

Things weren't going too bad until it started snowing. The snow soaked the blankets and the heat from the fire turned the inside of the shelter to mud.

BEFORE IT started snowing, we all joked about our adventure and how none of us had ever been rescued and what a story we could tell our friends.

After everything got soaked, things changed. Conversation dropped off and none of us even talked about how cold or wet we were. Only one of us talked about hunger and I later found out that most of us were thinking about how to build a better shelter and what we should do to get help the next day.

Mostly we just stared into the fire. The fire had to burn at a certain intensity to provide enough warmth. There was a fine line. If it was too low, the chill started to set in and if it was too intense, your boots and pants started to steam.

And even if you were right up next to it, the part of your body closest to the flames was uncomfortably hot while the rest of your body was just barely warm so the cold was not noticeable.

THE MAIN point of my concentration throughout the night was the fire. You can't put the big logs on right away. You have to build the fire up with smaller branches until the fire is going strong enough to put a big log on. And even when you do that, the chill returns until the log catches fire. Also during the night, I was able to tell just by touching damp logs whether they would burn or not.

Toward the end of the night we started singing parodies of popular songs and re-

'Homestead Exemption' Assistance Is Offered

Marshall Theroux, Wheeling Township assessor, yesterday offered help to any senior citizen planning to file an application for a "homestead exemption" on his real estate taxes.

"I will help anybody, even if they're not in Wheeling Township," Theroux told about 75 Extensioners, a group of senior citizens in Mount Prospect.

The exemption would give homeowners aged 65 or over a reduction of $100 to $110 in real estate tax bills.

Theroux said applications for the reduction, which would not be allowed before Spring of 1973, would probably not be available until June of next year. Senior citizens had expected the exemption to be applied to next spring's bills, but a Chicago Circuit Court judge recently ruled the exemption unconstitutional for this year. 1971 assessments are reflected in the 1972 tax bills.

Almost 1,000 senior citizens in Wheeling Township have already applied for the exemption, but got them back. Theroux told them to hold on to the old applications because the same information will probably be required on the new forms.

The assessor told senior citizens who felt it unfair they weren't getting the reduction next year that it would probably be accepted in 1973. He said the exemption would probably be tested in court, but that it was constitutional under the new state constitution that went into effect in July.

Fran Altenburg of the Elk Grove Township Assessor's office was also at the meeting. She said Elk Grove Township officials would also keep senior citizens advised on new developments concerning the exemption.

Several residents over 65 complained because they have been paying school taxes, which amount to nearly 72 per cent of the real estate tax bill, while they have no children in school.

"It's unjust," said one man. "I've lived here 11 years and paid those taxes. And I did not send one child to school."

Nurse's Blood Saves Baby

Paul Joseph Slad, a 5-day-old Streamwood boy, owes his life to a nurse at Alexian Brothers Medical Center.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Slad, was born Nov. 28 at the hospital in Elk Grove Village suffering from a liver condition that prevented his blood from clotting properly.

The problem can only be treated by transfusions of fresh blood until the liver begins to work properly, according to hospital spokesman Robin Leach, and after several transfusions the hospital ran out of the baby's blood type.

The baby was going into shock, Miss Leach said, when one of the nurses in the maternity ward offered to donate blood for him.

THE NURSE, who wishes to remain anonymous, had the proper type of blood for the baby and made the donation. The doctor said later the transfusion was the "decisive factor" that saved the baby's life.

Miss Leach said the nurses at the hospital all know their blood types and added, "I think this demonstrates that the people who work in the hospitals think of their patients as more than just patients. She saw the baby needed help and she gave it."

Paul went home yesterday in good condition, and although the doctor will follow his case closely, he appears to be a healthy, normal baby now.

Joseph Slad described his son's recovery as "a miracle come true. We're very happy about everything."

NOW MOUNT PROSPECT Picasso lovers will have to travel only a few blocks, instead of miles, to see one of his works. The Picasso imitation is on the front of the Illinois Range Co. Building at 708 W. Central Rd.

Schools Reveal Emergency Plans

If sometime this winter the weather gets so bad schools in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 close, it will be hard for anyone affected not to find out.

The district has a procedure set up for notifying all employees by phone and for getting the news out on seven selected radio stations and over the 24-hour phone message line operated by the district. (Number 437-7837)

The decision to close the schools must be made by the superintendent, or an administrator in the superintendent's absence, according to Arthur Perry, assistant superintendent for administrative service.

"That means the superintendent is the guy who has to get up at five in the morning and look out the window to see how things are," he said.

A combination of weather factors usually results in a school closing, he said, including icing that makes transportation difficult.

The district did not close because of weather at all last year and closed only once the year before, Perry said.

Imitation Picasso At Site On Central Road

Picasso has come to Mount Prospect. Chicago can still boast it has the only original of the "horse-like, man-like, whatever it is" statue designed by Pablo Picasso. But Mount Prospect is close behind with a replica of the famous work now on display on the front of the Illinois Range Co. building at 708 Central Rd.

"It's an example of what we can do," said Ed Krakowiak, treasurer of the firm that manufactures food service equipment. "I guess you could say we're masters of the technique in working with stainless steel."

The stainless steel statue, which took five weeks to build, is scaled to one-seventh of the original. The work was built by the Illinois Range engineering team which took pictures and made sketches of the original. Krakowiak estimates the imitation Picasso cost about $1,000, including materials and labor.

Illinois Range decided to build the statue as a display for the National Restaurant Show held in May at Chicago's McCormick Place. The company decided on the Picasso because "it is a symbol of Chicago" according to Krakowiak. After the restaurant show, the statue went on to be part of a sail-boat display which took first place in competition during Venetian Nights, a Chicago festival.

The company then decided to put the statue on display. As Ed Krakowiak said, "It will probably outlast the building."

Police To Hold Bicycle Auction

Bicycle enthusiasts may be able to buy a bicycle cheap next week — courtesy of Elk Grove Village.

The village has 20 bicycles which will be sold to the highest bidder Monday. The bicycles were recovered at various times and have not been claimed by owners.

Prospective buyers may view the bicycles Saturday and Sunday between 1 and 4 p.m. in the lower level of the police garage.

Forms and instructions for submitting bids will be available at that time. Bids will be opened Monday and successful bidders contacted by the police department.

Weigh Grading System

The grading system will be discussed Tuesday at the regular meeting of the Salt Creek School Parent-Teacher Organization. The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the school, 65 Kennedy Blvd.

Pastore's Amended Revenue Act OKd

by BOB LAHEY

The Senate last week passed the Revenue Act of 1971 after accepting the much-amended proposal of Sen. John Pastore, D-R.I., providing tax incentives for political contributions and establishing the Presidential Election Campaign Fund.

The plan for taxpayer financing of election campaigns was later scuttled, however, by House-Senate conferees but voted a proposal that would affect the 1976 race.

The Senate also passed the Defense Appropriation Act, after defeating a proposal to limit the number of troops in Europe and placing a ceiling on funds for intelligence activities.

The House was not in session last week.

Following is a summary of the voting records and other activities of Illinois' two senators, Republican Charles H. Percy and Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson III.

MEASURES SPONSORED

Percy, a bill to amend the John F. Kennedy Center Act to authorize funds for operations and maintenance of non-performing arts functions of the center.

Sen. Charles H. Percy

MEASURES CO-SPONSORED

Stevenson, a bill to authorize grants and loan guarantees for construction or modernization of hospitals and other medical facilities in the District of Columbia.

RECORD VOTES

Curtis (R-Veb.) amendment to Pastore amendment to the Revenue Act of 1971, barring payment of any funds from the Presidential Election Campaign Fund until a taxable year following a federal budget surplus, defeated 53-43.

Percy Stevenson Weicker (R-Conn.) amendment to Pastore amendment, making any person holding federal office on the date of enactment of the bill ineligible to receive money from the Presidential Election Campaign Fund, defeated 55-42.

Percy Stevenson Dole (R-Kan.) amendment to Pastore amendment, requiring the words "the cost of bringing you this message will be paid for by the U. S. Treasury," to be added to any printed or broadcast communications for which payment is requested by the candidate, defeated 56-43.

Percy Stevenson Dominick (R-Colo.) amendment to Pastore amendment, requiring an annual report of the Senate Committee on Finance on costs for administration of the Presidential Election Campaign Fund, defeated 54-44.

Percy Stevenson Cooper (R-Ky.) amendment to Pastore amendment, to provide incentives for contributions to potential candidates, rejected 53-46.

Percy Stevenson Mathias (R-Md.) amendment to Pastore amendment, permitting taxpayers to designate a candidate of any specified party or a general account for all candidates, passed 72-27.

Percy Stevenson Cook (R-Ky.) amendment to Pastore amendment, to eliminate the $1,000 limit on political contributions by unauthorized committees, defeated 59-40.

Percy Stevenson Buckley (R-N.Y.) amendment to Pastore amendment, barring funds to be appropriated for the Presidential Election

Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III

Campaign Fund in any year unless a majority of individuals filing tax returns designate funds therefor, defeated 59-40.

Percy Stevenson Pastore (D-R.I.) amendment, providing tax incentives for contributions to candidates for public office, passed 82-17.

Percy Stevenson Pastore amendment for financing of presidential election campaigns, passed 52-47.

Percy Stevenson Packwood (R-Ore.) amendment extending to single persons tax rates applicable to married persons, defeated 55-41.

Percy Stevenson Pell (D-R.I.) amendment to provide for admission without regard to quota limitations of resources extracted from ocean waters or submarine deposits, defeated 58-38.

Percy Stevenson Taft (R-Ohio) amendment to exclude up to $200 per month of income of law enforcement officers and firemen, rejected 50-46.

Percy Stevenson Revenue Act of 1971, passed 64-30.

Percy Stevenson Jackson (D-Wash.) amendment to the Defense Appropriations Act, appropriating $500 million, to enable the President to provide military assistance to Israel, including $250 million for F-4 Phantom aircraft, passed 82-14.

Percy Stevenson Committee amendment to enable the President to provide military assistance to Israel, including $250 million for F-4 Phantom aircraft, passed 82-14.

Percy Stevenson Committee amendment to prohibit use of funds after June 15, 1972, for support of U.S. military personnel in Europe in excess of 250,000 men, rejected 54-39.

Percy Stevenson

Stevenson Dominick (R-Colo.) amendment increasing by $12.3 million funds for hydrofoil ship research and development, passed 59-30.

Percy Stevenson Symington (D-Mo.) amendment setting $4 billion ceiling on expenses of the Central Intelligence Agency, the National Security Agency, the Defense Intelligence Agency and military intelligence activities, rejected 58-31.

Percy Stevenson McIntyre (D-N.H.) amendment to restore $93 million for research and development, passed 53-33.

Percy Stevenson Defense Appropriations Act, passed 80-

5. Percy Stevenson Proxmire (D-Wis.) amendment to bill on federal credit unions, providing provisional share insurance to those which have failed to meet standards of the National Credit Union Administration, passed 62-17.

Percy Stevenson Bill to provide federal credit unions an additional two years to meet requirements for insurance, passed 79-0.

Percy Stevenson Bill to ban unregulated dumping of material in the oceans, estuaries and the Great Lakes, passed 73-0.

Hilton Remley

View From The Highest Perch In The City

He Could Hunt Geese With A Net

by BRAD BREKKE

Hilton Remley could hunt geese with a net. He could spit the length of three football fields.

He could jump out of his office window and parachute safely to Michigan Avenue.

Remley sits higher than the clouds. Higher than the birds. So high he can see four states on a clear day, and then some.

Or wave hi to a low flying jet. Or shoot a spitball through a weather bureau balloon.

But Hilton Remley does none of these. He just enjoys the view instead.

Remley, you see, is a 58-year-old bachelor in charge of maintenance and operation of the WGN-TV Channel 9, transmitter and remote control AM transmitter in Roselle.

AND HIS OFFICE is located in the 93rd story of the John Hancock Center, a thousand feet up above the city.

And he feels like the tallest guy in town.

Remley, who lives at 730 E. Euclid, Arlington Heights, says he enjoys his vantage point, in spite of the fact that during a strong wind, the building sways.

"Maybe it takes a wind 50 miles an hour, but the whole center moves. I can tell. I go to put a soldering gun down and I don't lay it where I should. The building's moving. You can feel it. . . I swear."

A native of New Mexico, where he earned a degree in electrical engineering in 1935, Remley has worked for WGN for 30 years.

Much of his job today is routine. He has daily checks on equipment to make. He troubleshoots. And when something goes haywire — or a broadcast is interrupted — all hell breaks loose and he and his fellow workers try to isolate and correct the difficulty.

WGN MOVED its transmitter to the John Hancock Center in 1969. Before that they were located in the Prudential Building. And so was Remley.

Remley, who still looks more country boy than city slicker, with his bolo tie and granny glasses that outdate the current fad by a generation, says he may go back to his hometown of Cimarron, N.M., located near the Colorado border, when he retires.

His first job was with the telephone company in Santa Fe. Then he worked for a radio station there and a short time later was offered a job with WJJD radio station in Chicago. He worked there for five years, then took a job with WGN in 1942, doing pretty much what he is doing today.

"You know, since I been working up so high, I know all about air pollution. Windows are dirty soon's they wash 'em it seems like and bugs. . . you'd be surprised how many insects come flying up this high."

"AND WE HAVE problems with ice. Gets on our antenna sometimes and we have to knock it off. And ice gets on the building too. Have to watch out below. A piece of ice falling from the top could cave a car roof in with no trouble at all."

"Sometimes we get bomb threats. . . but I'd say 99 per cent of them are just pranks. But we're equipped to handle an emergency like that. . . just turn things on automatic control and we can leave the studio for a couple of hours while it's being searched."

"And elevators. . . sometimes it's hard getting up to the top. I got stuck once in an elevator for 45 minutes."

The elevator shafts in the John Hancock Center are noisy. They sound shrill most of the time, if you stand near them, like a wind tunnel. . . a column of air that is continually moving upward. . .

If you are lucky enough to get an express elevator to Remley's top office, it will whisk you up so fast your ears will pop. They say it takes only 38 seconds on an express elevator to get from the top to the bottom of this 100-story skyscraper, the largest all-electric residential and business building in the world.

THE WGN transmitter studio is a hodgepodge of electrical and radio and TV equipment that only experts such as Remley can understand or appreciate.

Remley, who drives to work and is in his office every morning at 6 a.m., says he likes to do yard work and listen to big theater organ music in his spare time.

But other than that, he likes his job.

He likes to be able to look out and see Chicago's Magnificent Mile, streets looping like ribbons below, Bug House Square, the Newberry Library, the Playboy building, the lake, the neon skyline which stretches along the shore for miles, ships and boats, and weather fronts that are moving in.

Hilton Remley sees it all from the highest perch in Chicago.

photos by Jim Frost

"The building sways . . . I know it does".

A hodgepodge of equipment only an engineer could appreciate.

Christmas Season Forgers Favorite

Christmas season is the favorite season of the "bad check" artist, warns Mayer Weinstein, president of the Chicago Currency Exchange Association.

"The non-sufficient funds checks seem to be an inevitable part of any business, but these are made good in most cases," he said.

"The real danger is from the forger, who has many different means for securing checks and through repeated efforts at cashing them has become quite convincing in his story. Dominant among the forgers is the free-lance operator who steals checks from individuals, loots mailboxes, and steals blank checks from companies.

Start Teen Group To Work With Handicapped

Teenagers interested in working with the mentally handicapped are invited to a seminar and organizational meeting at 10 a.m., Saturday in the Clearbrook Center in Rolling Meadows.

The seminar will center on what are the needs of mentally handicapped teenagers and how normal teens can help them.

Youth — Arc, a state and national organization of teens working with retarded children, will be discussed. And officers for a local chapter will be elected.

The seminar meeting is open to anyone between the ages of 13 and 21 who is interested in serving as a friend of the handicapped, said Jan Lowrey, an Arlington High School student who is one of the organizers of the local chapter.

Additional information is available by calling Clearbrook Center at 255-6120. Clearbrook Center is located at 3201 W. Campbell St., Rolling Meadows.

"During the Christmas season the forger is able to take advantage of the cashier or clerk who is too rushed and often too inexperienced to take all of the necessary precautions. Carelessness in screening because of the rush can result in thousands of dollars of needless losses."

The following tips, recommended by the Currency Exchange Association, may help to protect against excessive losses this holiday season.

1. Don't let the stranger hurry you. Ask questions about the check and about the person cashing it.

2. Never cash a check that shows any sign of alteration. Be on guard for money orders or checks which might have been raised in amount.

3. Demand that the check be endorsed in your presence. If not, have the customer sign the check again.

4. If the check is drawn on an unknown company, phone verification should be made.

5. Certified checks and cashier's checks can be lost or stolen. Use all the normal precautions when cashing.

6. Juveniles are not legally responsible; it is best when you know their parents.

7. Beware of the unknown customer who wishes to cash a check for more than the amount of the purchase.

8. Know your endorser. When accepting a driver's license for identification be sure to match the description and signature. Be sure the address is current and when in doubt get information to verify the phone number.

9. Is your customer reliable and stable? Does he appear to be the kind of person good for a check of this amount?

10. Be careful of a check casher who lives in an area outside of your normal trading area.

11. Do not accept second endorsement checks. The check may be stolen and the payee's name forged.

Let Yule Toys Be Fun For Kids, Too

by LEA TONKIN

Watch out for your parents, kids, or they may take all the fun out of Christmas toys this year.

Buying a doll for Jane and a bike for Jimmy used to be a simple task for parents and fun for children too, but not so today. The toy has to be safe, educational, and a bargain to boot. Some parents even keep the toys to themselves.

"MOST PEOPLE honestly want to make their children grown-up before their time," said Richard Ward, manager of the Olympia Toys store at the Woodfield center in Schaumburg. He also owns a toy store in Milwaukee. "Parents want to get the educational toys," he said. "I tell them they should let the children have some fun."

"Everything is bought by adults," said Ward. "They come in with the children, and listen to the toys and look at them. Then they either ask us to set the toy back for them or they come back and buy the toy another day."

Fisher-Price, Playskool, Romper Room and Child Guidance are big names in children's preschool toys. These are mostly educational, according to Ward, as the take-apart car by Games, road race sets and tea sets for girls are also popular toys in the Christmas buying this year, he said.

Games such as Monopoly and Careers are popular with the adults, he reports. "In our hobby division we sell trains and plastic models for adults," said Ward. He reports the best seller in this department is the plastic miniature war tanks.

Regardless of what people say and think, we still sell the plastic soldiers and tanks. Adults like to play war games with them," he said.

HOBBY ITEMS account for 75 per cent of sales at the Toy and Hobby House, Des Plaines. "This business is growing rapidly," said Ken Eilken, store manager. "We expect it to double in the next five years. Candle making kits, paint by number sets, and model trains are popular gifts in this line. "Model railroads are going strong," he said. There are 250,000 model railroaders in the United States and the average age is 22 or 23 years."

Educational items are taking the limelight in his toys sales at the Des Plaines shop.

The majority of people visiting the boys section of the Walt Boyle store in Mount Prospect are adults reports Sally Nattress, sales clerk. "I think the adults are buying not only for themselves but for their grandchildren and children," she said. Chemistry sets, sewing kits, and model cars are catching the eye of holiday shoppers, she reported.

A concern of the toy shopper in addition to educational values is that the item is matched to the child's level of learning, said Vivian Gowen, manager of the toy department and the housewares department at Carson, Pirie Scott & Co., in the Randhurst center, Mount Prospect.

"Parents want to know they're not buying something for a two year old that is made for 10 year olds," she said.

Carsons also tests toys to make sure they are safe for children, according to Miss Gowen. "Last year we had some toys that were reported not safe two days before Christmas and we took them from the shelf," she said.

CHRISTMAS SALES have been slow to pick up this year. "Parents have been looking for the lower priced toys, but they are starting to look at the higher priced items. Games, dolls, teddy bears, are important in sales this year," she said.

Grandparents and parents may come in to buy the educational toys, but they'll come back later to buy the fun toys their children saw advertised on TV Miss Gowen reports.

Toys are laboratory tested for safety, reports the local toy department manager for the country's largest retailer. "Every toy we carry has to be tested," he said. Nothing the U.S. Food and Drug Administration published a list of banned toys, he said the only exception to this list the store takes is one of the Etch-a-Sketch, which has replaced the old glass covering with a plastic cover.

He reports pre-school toys and games are the hottest selling items during the Christmas season, although parents are not buying the expensive toys they did last year. People in the 50-to 60-year old bracket come in for the model trains he reported.

THE TOYS BANNED by the FDA for safety reasons should be removed from the toy shelves according to Connie Schroedter, secretary to the product safety consultant in the FDA's Chicago branch office. "We have had some calls from parents asking about specific toys," she said. The best thing to do if there is any doubt is not buy the toy.

MAYBE IT won't fit in his stocking on Christmas, but this train tops his list of most wanted toys. Parents seem to take an avid interest in model trains, too, toy retailers report.

Addresses Conference On Aging

Nixon Pledges Guaranteed Income

by CRAIG A. PALMER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon pledged yesterday to work for a minimum annual income for older people and to press for programs to reverse the "growing sense of isolation and insecurity" among people over 65.

In an address to the White House Conference on Aging, on the last day of a five-day meeting, Nixon also promised the 3,500 delegates to seek tax relief for the elderly.

Other pledges were improvement of private pension systems, upgrading of nursing home care, and expansion of programs to allow the elderly to continue contributing to society after retirement.

Moments before Nixon addressed the conference, the delegates approved resolutions asking for a minimum annual income of $4,500 for an aged couple. They also asked for greater food stamp benefits, liberalized retirement laws and national health insurance.

These resolutions will be sent to Nixon as a part of the report of the conference, which Nixon called.

The President told the delegates:

14 Music Students Perform At Recital

Fourteen music students performed during a recital recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh P. Harbin, 32 Lancaster, Elk Grove Village. The youths were the students of Mrs. James B. Roberts.

The students were Lisa Bahnmaier of Mount Prospect; and Valerie Thompson, Janet Hamilton, Glee Hansen, Riley O'Dea, Charles Christie, Sheryl Krasnow, Linda Christie, Carolyn Crail, Beth Harbin, Kathy Rolfe, Gale Pearcy, Rhonda Malgaard and Laurel Castie, all of Elk Grove Village.

"As we consider your suggestions, we will be guided by this conviction: Any action which enhances the dignity of older Americans enhances the dignity of all Americans. For unless the American dream comes true for our older generation, it cannot be complete for any generation."

"This country will have to be at its best if we are to meet the challenge of competition in the world in the 1970s. And we cannot be at our best if we keep our most experienced players on the bench."

"Yet in recent years a gulf has been opening between older Americans and the rest of our people. This gulf is the product, in large measure, of a great social revolution which has weakened the traditional bonds of family, neighborhood and community. For millions of older Americans, the result has been a growing sense of isolation and insecurity."

"We must change that. Younger and older Americans need one another. We must find ways to bring the generations together again."

Nixon said it was important that Congress approve "without delay" his welfare legislation, which he said would establish a minimum annual income for all older Americans.

He said his bill would allow Social Security recipients to earn more money from their own work and that it would raise benefit levels, especially for widows.

The conference report recommending a guaranteed income also proposed earmarking at least 11 per cent of all federal aging funds for Blacks and reducing by seven years a Black male's eligible age for Social Security benefits.

"The jeopardizing status of being black and old and poor must be removed as quickly as possible," the report said.

It did not say how the income guarantee should be made available.

However, a resolution from the 140-member Massachusetts delegation said income benefits should become the responsibility of the Social Security Administration and that regulations governing the benefit should be subject to review by a government aging unit agreed on by the President and the Congress.

The Massachusetts resolution is not expected to become part of the final report.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, in a speech to the conference, said it was possible the plan, advanced by conference directors, would "distract attention from the very real problems that have been dealt with by the conference-income, health, housing and long-term care."

The voluntary plan urges local community affiliates to provide services for keeping the elderly in their own homes or other residences and out of standard nursing homes and institutions.

No federal funds, and only minimal federal staff assistance, would be involved.

Arthur S. Flemming, the former Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare who has served as conference chairman, defended the plan.

He said it was "wrong to put in an adversary position an effort on the part of national voluntary organizations to render services to older Americans... Let's don't get into an either-or frame of mind on something of this kind."

U.S. Rep. Mikva Expected To Announce Congress Bid

U.S. Rep. Abner Mikva is expected to end speculation about his political future Saturday by announcing his candidacy for the Democratic congressional nomination from the North Suburban 10th District.

Mikva, whose South Side Chicago district was eliminated under a redistricting plan recently upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court, has scheduled a morning press conference at a downtown Chicago hotel to make the announcement.

The district, which includes Maine, Niles, Evanston, Northfield and New Trier townships, already has one announced candidate for the Democratic congressional nomination — Niles Mayor Nicholas Blase.

It has been rumored for several weeks that Mikva would move to Evanston and try for the 10th District seat, which will be vacant if, as expected, Rep. Philip Crane decides to run for reelection in the new 12th District, which includes townships in northwest Cook and in Lake counties.

Mikva's 9:30 a.m. press conference will come just before a 10 a.m. meeting of Democratic committeemen from 10th District townships, which will take place at a hotel in Skokie.

MIKVA, 45, is a former member of the Illinois House of Representatives and was elected to the U.S. House in 1968. His former 2nd District constituency in Chicago included Hyde Park and the area around the University of Chicago.

Blase, Democratic committeeman for Maine Township, last week labeled Mikva an "ultra-liberal who knows nothing about suburban problems." He charged Mikva with being an "outsider" and predicted a primary fight for the Democratic spot on the ticket.

Mikva is responding to "encouragement and support" he has received from a citizens committee that has asked him to run and from "thousands of persons" who signed petitions urging his candidacy in the North Suburban district, a reliable source said yesterday.

It is not known whether Mikva plans to appear before the district's Democratic committeemen after his press conference Saturday morning. Their meeting at the Skokie hotel is being chaired by Democratic State Central Committeeman Lynn Williams, who is also committeeman for New Trier Township.

REPUBLICAN HOPEFULS in the 10th District have held off making announcements for their party's primary contest because the incumbent Crane has not formally made the choice between the 10th and the 12th districts.

Landlord Loses Long Case

The City of Des Plaines yesterday ended a six-year lawsuit by obtaining two injunctions against a west side landlord.

Circuit Court Judge Martin Luken found that Billy Joe Barr is operating eight duplexes on Dover Drive and Dover Lane in violation of the city's zoning ordinance.

Judge Luken ruled that he would issue injunctions requiring Barr to reduce the number of tenants in the duplexes to meet a city requirement that no more than three unrelated persons may live in a single dwelling.

The city originally filed suit following complaints in 1965 from neighbors that duplex tenants, many of them unmarried airline employees, were conducting wild parties and causing disturbances along the two streets.

The city suit charged Barr with operating the duplexes as rooming houses in violation of city zoning regulations. The city contended each dwelling unit was designed to be used only by a family which is defined by the zoning ordinance as no more than three unrelated persons and one guest.

THE ORDINANCE also was violated, according to the city, because an insufficient number of off-street parking spaces had been provided for the units. The city said this violation created congestion on the streets and made it difficult for firefighting equipment to maneuver in the area.

According to court depositions admitted as evidence, Barr said he rented to unrelated persons and more than three unrelated persons were living in some of the duplex units.

Thomas J. O'Brien, special attorney for the city, said in his closing arguments that witnesses have testified they lived in units owned by Barr which housed more than the legal number of unrelated persons.

At a previous hearing, Victor Ciardelli, Barr's attorney, contended that the city had not proved Barr was operating the units as rooming houses.

The city supplied the court with evidence that Barr had applied for rooming house licenses but had been denied them because the area involved is not zoned for rooming houses.

Barr did not challenge the right of the city to set a maximum number of unrelated persons who could live in one dwelling.

The city did not ask for a fine in its final complaint against Barr and withdrew a request that costs of prosecution be paid by Barr.

Film Points Out Noise Pollution Danger

An educational filmstrip kit, pointing out the dangers of noise pollution and the need for hearing conservation, is being offered without cost to public and private school systems by the Beltone Crusade for Hearing Conservation and participating Beltone dealers.

The crusade is sponsored by Chicago-based Beltone Electronics Corporation, a producer of hearing aids and electronic hearing test instruments.

The kit includes the filmstrip, an accompanying long-playing record, a teacher's guide and other supportive literature stressing hearing conservation. The kit is designed for almost any school-age audience.

The filmstrip is patterned after the movie also entitled, "To Conserve and Protect that Beltone introduced in early 1970.

Busing Isn't The Best Plan

One of the best features of the school desegregation plan recently unveiled by Michael Bakalis, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, is that it downplays the role of busing in achieving integration.

When Bakalis speaks of eventually desegregating school districts, he speaks of a number of methods, such as different forms of the traditional schools and inter-district cooperation. Pupil reassignment — which could be translated as "busing" — is mentioned, but only as one item on a list.

Those persons who were unduly alarmed when the first summaries of Bakalis' plan were circulated can relax. Busing does not seem the key point of the Bakalis plan.

In looking towards a plan which could integrate some of Illinois' schools, Bakalis reports there are a series of factors — such as racially-balanced faculties and the uniform quality of schools in a given district — which can encourage the effectiveness of a possible desegregation plan.

He reports he will "weigh heavily" these factors while examining districts. Should districts expect immediate orders from above to integrate? No, the first step is a report from each district on the "presence or non-presence" of segregated schools. No deadline has been set for that report, he said.

He does suggest a yardstick for eventual integration: each school should reflect within 15 per cent, plus or minus, the racial composition of the district as a whole. But "should," not "must," is the key word.

Bakalis does report that failure to integrate "could" cost a district loss of recognition, loss of federal or state funds or legal action. But he sets no timetable for such action.

Early Chicago newspaper reports — one paper reported that Bakalis had ordered total integration — obscured the fact that we as suburbanites have very little to worry about under the plan.

There are simply not enough children from minority groups in the northwest suburbs to prompt concern about the Bakalis plan. Even though it is difficult to pin down Bakalis on the specifics of his plan, there is little cause for local hyper-emotionalism about the issue.

We would be deeply concerned, however, if a plan were ever developed which would bus students in the northwest suburbs to achieve racial balance — primarily because we feel any such plan does not have the education of children as its primary goal.

In the past few years, the thrust of U.S. Supreme Court rulings on school integration has been orders for busing children. In effect, children have been the pawns of the court in attempting to integrate the schools.

When the Supreme Court ruled in 1954 that schools must be integrated, there was a clear-cut issue. Schools, mainly in the south, were segregated, and black children suffered from sharply inferior education. At that time there was a need for a change in some traditions in our educational system.

Today, the complete integration envisioned by the Supreme Court has met overwhelming popular opposition. Blacks and whites alike argue today that busing plans break down the community and place an unfair burden on children — the persons who are supposed to benefit from integration.

A better goal than total integration, regardless of the cost, would be to allow each child to have a fair share of the educational tax dollar through radical changes in our method of financing public education.

However, if integration should be a desirable and practical goal, housing patterns should be changed to allow minority children to live in areas where they are currently excluded, either by zoning laws or by personal antagonisms. Housing segregation is at the base of the school question.

Bakalis' plan — however misunderstood and distorted — does not call for busing as a final solution to the problem. He wisely pointed out that even physical integration may not cure all of education's ills.

The key statement he made is one that should be kept in mind as desegregation plans are considered: "We are not dealing with numbers on adding machines. We are dealing with children."

Life From Oil Slicks

Life didn't climb "out of the slime" but out of a vast oil slick, three scientists suggest.

It could have happened, they write in Science, the journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, by the action of solar radiation on the earth's original methane atmosphere. This could have caused the molecules to combine into heavier hydrocarbon molecules, resulting in the accumulation on the oceans of an oil slick one to 10 meters thick.

This primordial slick, they say, would have acted as a host for prebiotic compounds from which the first living organisms eventually developed.

If this is so, then by polluting the oceans with oil we may only be doing what comes naturally. Unfortunately, if we do it long enough, there's no guarantee that any life will survive, much less be created.

Small, Medium Businesses 'Targets'

IRS Watches Freeze Price Lists

by RAY CROMLEY

Internal Revenue Service men make 12,000 to 15,000 monitoring checks a week on American businesses as part of their normal tax surveillance.

At each visit, they now ask businessmen for price lists. This will be routine as long as Phase II lasts.

Significant price boosts found in these samples will be crosschecked and run through the computers if necessary to determine whether they fit the rules.

This is the iron fist in the velvet glove, designed to keep prices down in 10 million small and medium-sized businesses across the nation.

Businessmen deliberately will not be told precisely what price increases they are entitled to. Instead, each company will get formulas and principles. Each firm will then have to prove its case based on its own interpretation of the rules, its own concept of productivity increase and its own definition of whether a product is new and therefore partially or wholly exempt, or old and not exempt at all.

This procedure is aimed at making businessmen cautious.

They will be told, however, to take every rightful price increase.

The U.S. experience in World War II and Korean price controls may have something to teach us. Men involved in that exercise say this is what to look for:

- A tendency among producers to concentrate more on those items which have been most profitable and to cutback on the production of less-profitable items, even though the latter may be in great demand. This could create shortages.

- An unusual shift to "new" items, hardly distinguishable from the "old" items for which prices are controlled. In World War II, a possibly apocryphal story goes, it was very difficult to buy plain T-shirts but "Mickey Mouse" T-shirts were plentiful. They were a "new" item.

- A trend among producers to hedge on quality, quantity and service. Though illegal, officials say these deceptions were often extremely difficult to detect and quite often even more difficult to prove.

The Nixon administration is counting on a national will not to cheat. Men who have been through this price control exercise before say: "Don't count on it."

IRS men are optimistic, based on their experience with the income tax. Others, including some of President Nixon's best economists, are not so sure. They advise against putting too much confidence in the high rate of cooperation during the three-month freeze. The freeze, they say, was one thing. It was straight across the board, with almost no exceptions. It was short in duration. It caught people unawares, without time to think up efficient methods of evasion. Longer-term price control, with its multitude of exemptions and confusing and imprecise rulings, is something else again.

Crane Told: Hit The UN

After reading Congressman Crane's "Letters to the Editor" which appeared in November 17th Arlington Herald, I wish to voice my opinion on the matter.

First, the United Nations is a godless organization which was founded by known Communists for the purpose of a one world government. As a God fearing American, I recognize that the guiding influence behind individuals who would destroy our nation and our people is not of God.

If America is to survive as a nation you and I must be willing to expose the forces that are willingly financing the expansion of Communism, as well as, the "peace philosophy" of a one world government.

As an elected Representative of the 13th Congressional District, it is not your responsibility to help establish a one world government, but to defend the Constitution, and the Republic, the United States of America.

What efforts are you making for the return of those hundreds of prisoners of war who are literally rotting in Communist Red China? One thing you could do, and the very least you could do is to make certain that President Richard M. Nixon call this plight to the attention of Mao Tse-tung on his visit to Peking.

Congressman Crane after you read this letter and you continue to compromise by saying "... complete withdrawal of funding to the UN would be disastrous." And also that, "I agree that the United Nations can be a valuable agency in the world and should not be destroyed..." It is my firm and uncompromising conviction that the blood of the dying American POW's and the now deceased veterans of World War II (those who fought in Asia), Korea and Viet Nam will be on your hands; not only on your hands alone, but the hands of all who commit TREASON!

Word-A-Day

Thanks Mount Prospect Officials

During the past three months, as a safety representative for a local P.T.A., I have found it necessary to communicate with representatives of three Mount Prospect village departments. In order to inform other citizens of the total cooperation I received from these officials of Mount Prospect, I have chosen to thank them publicly through the newspaper. Many residents are unaware of how willing the village is to be of service to its residents. I was unaware until I had specific requests connected with my P.T.A. duties.

Our P.T.A. had a question regarding a fire department program in existence in several nearby communities. I spoke to Mr. Lowell Fell, of the Mount Prospect Fire Department as to the department's views on the program. He spoke to me at length, explaining the procedures the local department follows. Although the local department is not supporting the specific program in question, he explained the reasons why to my satisfaction. He also emphasized that any time the P.T.A. I represented had any questions regarding the fire department, we would receive his full cooperation.

On another occasion some rumors arose pertinent to the area where our school is located. At this time, several representatives of the P.T.A. felt we could get our answers from the local police department. Detective Sergeant Joseph Bopp took the time to meet with us to answer our questions. Upon our invitation, he agreed to appear at a scheduled P.T.A. meeting the following week to answer the questions of the general membership. He also emphasized the willingness of his department to cooperate any time the need arose.

The FENCE POST Letters to the Editor

Our P.T.A. membership passed a resolution requesting that a temporary walking bridge be built by the village. We felt that the construction of this particular bridge was important to the safety and convenience of the students walking to and from our school. This time I contacted Mr. Robert Eppley, our village manager. I have nothing but praise for how quickly and efficiently he handled our request. I feel certain Mount Prospect residents are extremely fortunate to have him as manager.

All three of the above mentioned officials took seriously the concerns of a small segment of the community. Despite the many complexities of their work, they kept sight of the fact that they were serving the individuals of Mount Prospect. We, as citizens, can be grateful.

Mrs. Ronald A. Stavoe
Safety Representative, Lions Park P.T.A.

Enjoyed 'Prairieville'

I have just finished reading Daisy Paddock Daniels' book entitled "Prairieville U.S.A." This is the history of Arlington Heights. I have never enjoyed a historical novel more, and I am compelled to write and urge those who have not yet received their copy to pick one up at the new "Country Store" directly behind the Historical Society building.

We who have lived in Illinois all our lives certainly have a heritage to be proud of, and we who have adopted Arlington Heights as our home will enjoy not only its history, but also its little anecdotes along the way. Now street names have more meaning; now I know why Arlington Heights Road goes in such a zig-zag pattern; now I appreciate the wooded streets in and near our downtown section. They were planted by our early settlers.

Do read all about the Duntons, the Klehms, the Volzes, the Lauterburgs, the Kennicotts and all those "familiar" names we see on store fronts and street signs. Read about the history of each and every one of your churches.

Believe me, once you start, it'll be hard to put down. And for us newcomers who have come in the last five or ten years, we too have our spot in this history toward the end of the book. All the surrounding towns will be interested since they are also a part of this history.

Thank you, Mrs. Daniels; what a wonderful legacy to leave to us residents.

Pageant 'Gratitude'

I would like to take this opportunity to thank Paddock Publications for sponsoring the Junior Miss pageant. I'm sure the other girls are as grateful as I am for the many people who spent long hours working for the success of the show. They were very nice and very patient, willing to help us whenever we needed it.

Also, I want to thank all of the thoughtful people who have shown me kindness in so many ways. Each card or letter, unexpected phone call, surprise visit or word-of-mouth congratulations is individually meaningful. I'll always remember this most gratifying aspect of being selected a Junior Miss.

Business Today

NEW WORK — The price of a good steak and finding one with true flavor are real problems for the American housewife.

Most Americans probably would be surprised to learn that their much less affluent grandparents could afford steak for dinner several times a week. Today it's an expensive dish but the industry is doing something about it.

An association of cattle breeders is introducing the Alpine Simmental beef cattle into the United States for cross-breeding with Herefords, Shorthorns and Angus in order to produce bigger steers faster. A half-blooded Simmental bull recently weighed in at 1,705 pounds on his first birthday, a record for any breed. Simmental cross-bred slaughter steers average 1,100 pounds at 12 to 13 months. There are now more than 20,000 cross-bred Simmentals for breeding purposes in the United States and in several recent contests, Simmental calves have outperformed other breeds in daily weight gaining tests.

The Simmental, which looks a lot like the red and white Hereford but is bigger, has been bred in the high pastures of the Swiss Alps for 1,000 years or more. They always have been entirely grass and hay fed because Switzerland grows no grain.

Although crosses between the Simmental and other breeds have produced much of Europe's beef for nearly a century the Simmental didn't reach North America until 1968, because of the U. S. quarantine laws and American cattle breeders' preoccupation with the problem of finding cross breeds that could withstand drought and feed on Western ranges.

In the 19th Century the Sonora or Texas Longhorn was imported for that reason. But the picturesque Longhorn was actually a poor beef producer and went his way long ago. The humpbacked Brahman bull from India has been brought in this century and crossed with the Hereford and the Shorthorn, fine beef breeds that originated in Britain.

With modern water supplies and feeding pen methods, the North American cattle grower is in position to pay more attention to the consumers' desire for more and better steaks and roasts. "The big, fast growing Simmental with his proven record in Europe could be the answer," says Lorenz.

Mutual Funds Can Make Ideal Christmas Presents

Toys are transient, but sound securities can help make future Christmases merrier ones according to William A. Reasoner, head of the Waddell & Reed, Inc., financial services complex.

Waddell & Reed manages and sponsors the United Funds Inc. and United Continental group of mutual funds, with assets of approximately $2.6 billion. United Investors Life Insurance Co. is also part of the Waddell & Reed complex.

"While the child may not realize it at the time, such a gift may help send him to college, start his own business or fill some other future financial need," Reasoner said. "At the same time, it can benefit the donor, who can reduce his tax bill by deducting the value of the donated shares."

"It's easy to do, too, under the Uniform Gift to Minors Act, which is applicable in all 50 states and the District of Columbia," he said. "Fund shares can be placed in a short-term trust — or the simpler, more flexible custodian account can be used by parents and grandparents."

Reasoner said a custodian account can be set up simply by registering shares in the minor's name, with the donor, a third person or a bank named as trustee. The share goes to the child at age 21.

"The use of mutual funds in setting up a custodian account has the advantage of relieving the custodian of most record-keeping and investment decisions. And he is assured of getting diversification and professional management through the fund," Reasoner said.

He said an annual exclusion of $3,000 is permitted so each parent could contribute that amount without incurring a gift tax liability. If two grandparents are living, they could each add up to $3,000 annually without incurring a gift tax.

"With the custodian account the donors could continue their Christmas-giving each year or any time during the year up to the $3,000 limit. At the same time they continue to receive a tax break by deducting the amount from their own taxes," Reasoner said.

Another advantage, he points out, is that minors may now receive up to $1,825 annually and pay no income tax. This applies to both wages and any dividends or capital gains which might accrue from the fund shares.

"Thus, the tax savings for a custodian account can be significant over a 10-year period, for example, during which it would be possible to accrue some $18,000 of tax free income. A gift of securities will help teach children the virtues of thrift and financial planning and give them a head start toward financial independence."

Personal Finance

by CARLTON SMITH

Slowly, the realization is sinking in that life in America will never be the same again.

We aren't merely spectators at some economic game plan, being briefly played out until the whistle blows, after which we all go back to business as usual. From now on, we live in a controlled economy.

Most of us haven't quite grasped, yet, that our traditional laissez-faire, let-it-alone brand of capitalism and free enterprise has been declared an incompetent. If you find that hard to credit, listen to a sampling of views, from the strongholds of traditional free enterprise.

"The American economic system has been revolutionized," is the view of Burnham & Co., the Wall Street brokerage firm. "Strong words, perhaps, but . . . in essence the administration has conceded that over a period of many years, the historic system of capitalism has been so altered that traditional economic practices are no longer functional."

Says Dean Witter & Co., another major brokerage firm: "It was an announcement that a free society had failed in its efforts to meet the challenges . . . without interfering in the free-market mechanism. The rudest jolt, as yet unappreciated, will be the recognition of the loss of freedom to try to do, pay, act, work, produce or earn what the individual alone feels is necessary or appropriate."

And finally, Salomon Brothers, the prestigious investment banking firm that is, in its quiet, unobtrusive fashion, perhaps the nearest thing we have to what the House of Rothschild was in another era. They have an impressive record at Salomon Brothers of knowing what's about to happen — seldom wrong, and often eerily accurate.

"We are embarking on a wholly new system of economic restraint . . . We are in fact now facing up to a massive defeat for all of us." The words of Sidney Horner, a Salomon Brothers partner who is retiring shortly, and thinks he may have picked a good time for it:

"From now on it will be a new ball game for the American capital markets, and we don't yet even know the new rules of the game. All we know is that the old rules are obsolete."

"We are at bat, but we don't know whether there are three bases, or six, or two, or where they are; we don't know whether the ball will be pitched to us by the pitcher, or by somebody else." Much that's uncertain, but one condition of the new ball game of which there's little doubt: "Controls of some sort will continue."

True, the President has indicated that Phase II is temporary, intended to last only long enough to achieve near-term objectives: control inflation and a return to full employment. He doesn't like controls; we'll soon be back to business as usual.

But can anyone's memory be so short as to forget that the President strongly objected to passage of the legislation that gave him the authority to control wages and prices — and said he would never, never use it?

Courts Overloaded With Litigation

A heavy dose of newly filed litigation combined with an increasing backlog of levels is leaving more cases ending in the federal courts than ever before, said Commerce Clearing House (CCH).

On the appellate level, a study of the overall trend shows that the number of cases filed in the U. S. Courts of Appeals have increased 204.2 per cent over the past ten years while filings before District Courts have leaped 53.2 per cent in the past 11 years.

Appeals in 12,788 cases were docketed in fiscal 1971, up ten per cent from the previous year and 165.1 per cent greater than fiscal 1962 filings. The 1971 figure marked the third straight year the number of filings passed the 10,000 level.

There were 12,368 cases disposed of during the period — a climb of 1,669 cases from 1970, according to the CCH report of court statistics. This increasing workload in Courts of Appeals assumes added importance with the fact that the number of 1971 terminations nearly tripled the 4,167 terminations recorded in 1962.

CCH noted the pending 1971 Appeals Court case load of 9,232 more than tripled the 1963 figure of 3,031 and was up 420 from the 1970 figure of 8,812. However, the fact emerges that new filings continue to outstrip terminations, leaving a continually growing pending case load.

District civil case filings leaped by more than 6,000 to 93,396 from the year before, for a rise of 7 per cent, with civil case filings constituting 60 per cent of all new District Court litigation.

There were 86,563 civil cases closed — more than 6,000 cases disposed of in 1970 but nearly 7,000 less than the number filed in 1971. Thus, CCH reported, the number of civil cases pending in District Courts reached the all-time high of 100,040 — a surge of 6,833 from the previous year and the first time the District Court civil case pending docket has passed the 100,000 case level.

Actions under the federal statutes currently account for 46.8 per cent of all civil actions in federal district courts, compared to 23 per cent in 1961.

During the year, District Courts received 41,290 criminal case filings — up nearly 3,200 — and disposed of 39,862 cases — up nearly 3,000 — leaving a pending criminal case load of 24,465 — up more than 3,500 from the year earlier figure.

Once again, CCH noted, the composition of criminal cases filed changed sharply during the year. Of note was the rise in prosecutions under the federal weapons and firearms laws. In 1971 there was 2,036 such cases filed, against only 1,547 in 1970 — a 31.6 per cent leap.

Robbery cases were up 23.7 per cent;

Selective Service cases climbed 22 per cent; embezzlement cases rose 16.5 per cent; larceny and theft cases increased 14 per cent; and forgery and counterfeiting case filings, and immigration cases were each up 9 per cent.

Only four major criminal offense categories show decreased filings: homicide petitions were down 13.8 per cent; actions relating to civil rights statutes dropped 18.8 per cent; violations of liquor laws fell by 13.8 per cent; burglary filings declined by 8.9 per cent and auto theft cases dipped 41.1 per cent, CCH reported.

Peoples Gas Reports Record Sales

Peoples Gas Co. in its annual report gave details on record sales and earnings posted during the 1971 fiscal year and announced that a record $267 million in capital expenditures has been budgeted for 1972.

Consolidated net income for the fiscal year ended Sept. 30 amounted to $57,329,000, compared with $57,220,000 in fiscal 1970. As previously reported, net income amounted to $3.58 a share in each year, a record level for the company.

While investment tax credits provided only one cent per share toward 1971 net income, compared to 38 cents per share in 1970, a new high in income from regular operations successfully offset the tax credit fall-off. Earnings from regular operations in 1971 rose to $3.57 a share, 11.6 per cent above the $3.20 a share reported for 1970.

Operating revenues in 1971 of $593,416,000 advanced 13 per cent over the 1970 level of $533,804,000. Gas sales by system companies in 1971 again exceeded 1 trillion cubic feet, increasing 1.3 per cent over the volume delivered in 1970.

Record capital expenditures of $267 million are budgeted for 1972, with $114 million devoted to financing supply and exploration programs. The balance will be used primarily for construction of new pipeline to bring the gas to market, including an offshore network in the Gulf of Mexico and new facilities to store gas for peak wintertime demands.

The report noted that during fiscal 1971, more than $95 million of the record $194 million in capital commitments was devoted to exploration and the development of new supplies of gas on both a short and long-term basis. Short-term actions include agreements or contracts with several gas and oil producing companies for rights to purchase gas found in offshore Louisiana and Texas acreage, on leased lands in the South and Southwest, and in southern Canada, including adjacent territorial waters.

Harper Achievement Program Set

Harper College in Palatine will participate in the third annual student achievement awards program. The program is sponsored by the Continental Bank in Chicago for all Illinois' public community colleges.

Named to coordinate the recognition program on Harper's campus is Fred Vaisvil, the college's director of financial aids and placement.

Two Harper students, one man and one woman, will be chosen next February by locally-selected judges as winners of the campus competition. The winners must have demonstrated noteworthy achievement toward their desired career goals and have shown leadership qualities through participation in campus and community activities.

The winners will receive a $100 cash award, a certificate of merit and their names will be permanently inscribed on a school plaque. Their achievement also permits them to compete in the district and final state competition.

Last year Christine Lekowski and Cary

Amen, both of Arlington Heights, were selected as the two outstanding Harper students.

THE AWARD winners from Harper College will participate in one of six district competitions next March with the winners from the 45 other public junior college campuses in Illinois. Two finalists will be chosen from each district, one man and one woman, each will receive a $250 cash award and a personally engraved plaque.

The 12 district winners are then invited to Chicago where two state winners will be selected, again one man and one woman. The two will be honored at an awards banquet on April 27 and will receive $1,000 and a trophy.

Entry applications are now available at the Harper Financial Aids office (Room A349) or from the information booth in the College Center, Building A. They are accepted from candidates or from faculty and administration sponsors until Jan. 14, 1972. Entries should be submitted to the Financial Aids office.

To be eligible, students must be in good academic standing and have completed nine semester hours or 12 quarter hours and be an enrolled junior college student at the time of the final judging in April.

Continental Bank is sponsoring the program in cooperation with the Illinois Association of Community and Junior Colleges. The bank is providing over $14,000 in award money and is administering the program.

Newsman Murray To Speak On China To Harper Group

David Murray, editorial writer for the Chicago Sun-Times, will speak on "China in the Bull Shop" during a 7 p.m. dinner-discussion meeting at Old Orchard Country Club in Mount Prospect next Thursday.

The social science department of Harper College in Palatine has arranged the event in cooperation with the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations.

Murray, who has been a United Nations observer and reporter for 22 years, will discuss the admission of China to the UN, and tell of immediate reactions behind the scenes. He will also speak on the role of China in the UN, and make predictions concerning the President's forthcoming visit to Peking.

The dinner-discussion is open to the public. For reservation information, telephone the Office of Continuing Education at 359-4200, Ext. 233.

Murray is author of the book, "Charles Percy of Illinois." In addition, he has written major newspaper profiles on potential presidential candidates.

In 1969 Murray spent two months covering the Vietnam war and filing stories from India, Thailand, Hong Kong and Japan.

His newspaper experience includes work on the Boston Globe, New York Herald Tribune and the New York Post. He spent four years in Paris and London as staff correspondent for United Press International (UPI).

A veteran of World War II, Murray was with the Marine Corps from 1943 to 1946.

Murray, formerly national affairs reporter, was named editorial writer for the Chicago Sun-Times in 1970.

Lecture On Individual's Worth Is Sunday

"You're Someone Worth Knowing" will be the title of a lecture to be given by Miss Jessica Pickett, a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship 3:30 p.m. Sunday at the Keller Junior High School, 804 W. Bode Rd., Schaumburg.

Miss Pickett's lecture will explore the questions of what determines an individual's worth and what makes someone worth-knowing.

A native of Atlanta, Ga., Miss Pickett is a graduate of the University of Chicago. She formerly served as a lieutenant in the U.S. Navy (Waves).

The lecture is open to the public and there will be no admission charge.

4 Firemen Injured In Addison Fire

A fire and series of explosions yesterday morning at an Addison plastics firm injured four fire fighters and caused heavy damage to the building.

Firemen were fighting a smoldering fire at Quality Molding Co., 31 Industrial Rd., when blasts of undetermined origin ripped through the building, knocking out the building's west wall and damaging several trucks parked outside.

Neil Jones, 27, of Villa Park, was treated for leg burns at DuPage County Memorial Hospital in Elmhurst. Three other firemen were overcome by smoke from the fire, which was fought by fire departments from four neighboring communities in addition to the Addison Fire Department.

Fire equipment from Elmhurst, Lombard, Villa Park and Wood Dale were called in to battle the blaze, the Bensenville department was standing by to offer assistance. Smoke from the fire could be seen for miles before it was brought under control late yesterday morning.

Night shift employees of the company were out of the building when the blasts occurred. They had left the building when the small fire broke out at about 2:45 a.m., four hours before the blasts occurred.

The company, which makes plastic pots, employs about 150 persons.

SMOKE FROM THIS fire in Addison was seen from almost all areas of the Northwest suburbs yesterday, as a great plume of smoke and particles rose from the firefighting battle. At least four firemen were reported injured at the site of the Quality Molding Co. fire in the extreme north end of DuPage County.

Snowmobiles And Scarves Not A Healthy Mix

A new scarf for Christmas and a snowmobile ride could be a deadly combination.

In Wisconsin last year, an eleven-year-old boy suffered partial strangulation when the long wool scarf he was wearing while snowmobiling wrapped around the machine's spinning flywheel pulley.

A 12-year-old girl wasn't as fortunate — she was strangled to death when her scarf caught in the flywheel of the snowmobile she was riding.

Here's advice given by the National Safety Council: To enjoy snowmobiling safely, dress comfortably for wind and weather conditions — but avoid wearing long scarves or other loose-fitting apparel which may become entangled in moving parts of the machine.

The council recommends the following protective wear:

—Outer apparel should be warm, wind-proof, and water resistant — yet light and sufficiently flexible so as not to impede movement. Extra layers of clothing may be worn for additional warmth.

—Turtlenecks and other warm headwear will protect ears, neck and entire face if necessary, but approved helmets are recommended.

—Insulated boots and mitts are designed for warmth. Mitts should permit free operation of snowmobile controls.

—Goggles or helmet-attached visors with changeable lenses for varying sun conditions provide face and eye protection.

Do not wear apparel which could get caught in moving parts of the snowmobile and cause injury or death.

The Lighter Side

by Dick West

WASHINGTON (UPI)—It was my first visit to a doctor of that type and I was relieved when he had me sit in the chair by his desk rather than recline on the couch in the corner.

"What seems to be troubling you?" he said, picking up yellow ruled notepad.

I had been dreading that moment, but there was something about his voice — Sincere and reassuring — that made it easy for me to blurt it out.

"I seem to have lost interest in Jackie Onassis," I said.

Professionally trained to mask his reactions, the doctor hardly batted an eye. Only the fact that he fell over backwards betrayed a trace of astonishment on his part.

"PARDON ME," he said, regrouping himself. "This is the first case of this type I have run across. When did you begin to notice that your interest in Mrs. Onassis was flagging?"

I had not until that instant realized how distraught I had become during all those weeks of carrying the secret bottled up inside me. How desperately I longed to confide in someone!

"I can't pinpoint the exact time, but it must have been early last spring," I said. "As best I recall, Mrs. Onassis had been involved in some sort of incident with photographers in front of a New York museum.

"After reading a couple of paragraphs about it, I suddenly found myself not really caring about the details of the encounter. It was frightening."

The doctor jotted something on the notepad. "And has this aberration continued?"

"It has grown steadily worse. I seldom drink in more than a line or two about her visits to the dressmakers and don't even bother to find out who she had lunch with."

"BUT THE THING that made me realize how badly my curiosity had deteriorated was my failure to buy any of the books by Mrs. Onassis' upstairs maid, weekend chauffeur, apartment doorman and substitute bartender on the yacht."

"Believe me, doctor, I used to be a normal, red-blooded Jackie-watcher like everyone else. You can't imagine what it's like, feeling less than human, knowing you are out of step with your fellow man. Is there anything you can do to help?"

The doctor rose and patted my head. "Maybe you just hear a different drummer," he said comfortingly. "I can't promise you a complete recovery but after two or three years in analysis you should be able to live with it."

Labor Hits Pay Board For 'Chaos, Confusion'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Labor sources said yesterday the Pay Board is beset by chaos and confusion, leaving the country in doubt about how to apply for wage increases.

"The Pay Board still has no detailed rules, regulations, procedures or forms," said one labor source on the 15-member panel. Another union official said that because of the situation the Internal Revenue Service, which enforces the wage controls, has been putting a rigid 5.5 per cent lid on pay raises, making no exceptions for unusual or inequitable situations.

The official said this "represents a substantial change in the procedures and policies of the Pay Board," which has said the 5.5 per cent yardstick is a general rule not necessarily to be applied in all cases.

Scott, Harris Clash On Tax For Politics

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott, in a shouting match with Sen. Fred R. Harris, D-Okla., accused Democrats yesterday of "being partisan without principle" in pushing for taxpayer financing of the 1972 presidential election campaign.

The exchange erupted when Scott sarcastically noted that fewer than half a dozen senators were present for the final round of debate on the nomination of Earl L. Butz to be agriculture secretary. He compared this to almost unanimous attendance during consideration recently of the public financing program pushed by Democrats.

"You get a far bigger crowd for the sweet smell of green money," Scott remarked. Harris demanded if Scott was accusing foes of Butz of partisanship.

"NO, WE'RE NOT accusing you of being partisan," Scott shouted. "We're accusing you of being partisan without principle. We're accusing you of being partisan in raiding the U.S. treasury — of the clear, cold, ruthless, sharply cutting effect of being able to slice enough funds from the treasury to finance yourselves."

Scott continued that President Nixon would veto his own tax reduction bill if it contained — as it did while House-Senate conferees were continuing to work on a compromise bill — the $1 per taxpayer checkoff authorization for campaign financing.

Harris yelled back, "Well, let me tell you, if he does veto that bill, there's not going to be any tax bill this year."

The chairman of the conferees, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., said Wednesday that the compromise bill being worked out by conferees would contain the Democratic financing plan. Nixon had objected to more than $12 million in additional tax cuts added by the Senate and the conferees eliminated most of those.

But the administration insisted that Nixon would stand by a threat he made Monday to veto the bill if it reached him with the financing feature still in it.

Boy, 11, Tells How He Stowed Away On Planes

HOUSTON (UPI) — Serramone Manuel, 11, of Ingleside, Calif., explained Wednesday how he stows away on commercial jetliners. It has worked several times.

"See her? She's my mother," the lad said he told a stewardess Monday as he boarded a Los Angeles-to-Houston flight. He said he chose a woman, a total stranger, at random in the airport and "just followed her." "You ain't no son of mine," he said the woman said.

"But I told the stewardess 'she always says that.' He arrived in Houston without being detected, but ran into trouble when he tried to reboard the same plane to New Orleans.

"See him? He's my grandfather," he told the stewardess as he entered the aircraft behind an elderly man. But this time the stewardess demanded to see his ticket.

"IT WAS KIND of funny and I started laughing," so I said, "Oh, my stomach hurts," but she called the police and they come and took me away to the jail." He was in the custody of Houston juvenile authorities today.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Manuel, has sneaked aboard jetliners taking off from Los Angeles six times in the past five months. On four occasions he was discovered and the aircraft, on the runway or in the air, turned back to release him.

But on the fifth time he said he made it to San Francisco, and the sixth to Houston. "He has always wanted to go to Hawaii," his mother said in a telephone interview. "He's a real bright boy. But he's a chronic runaway."

He was asked why he stows away. "Flying is fun when you're young," he said.

"There's an air of chaos and utter confusion at the Pay Board," the labor official said. The source on the panel added that "there's utter confusion out across the country on how to file for wage increases and get them approved."

THE PAY BOARD reportedly was studying a proposal that would exempt workers at all firms with fewer than 100 employees from wage controls, if the workers involved were not represented by a union or other collective bargaining agent. There was opposition to the idea, however, from some board members who felt that no segment of the economy should have a blanket exemption.

The under-100 exemption would not include construction workers, whose wage hikes still are subject to the construction industry stabilization committee set up in April.

The coal industry, meanwhile, protested Wednesday's Price Commission decision to allow the Old Ben Coal Co., a subsidiary of Standard Oil of Ohio a 3.73 per cent price increase instead of the 6.71 per cent hike the firm requested.

"If, with one hand, the government has approved a wage contract, another hand of government cannot legitimately compel the industry to operate at a loss," said Carl E. Begge, president of the National Coal Association. "If the formula issued today by the Price Commission as we now understand it is applied industrywide, it will impair the ability of the coal industry to meet the critical energy needs of the nation."

Alcoholism Is Nation's 'Number One Health Problem'

by L. T. FRUIN, M.D.
President, Illinois State Medical Society

There are an estimated 102,688 alcoholics living in Cook County outside Chicago.

Shocked? You shouldn't be. America has nine million alcoholics, 546,000 of them in Illinois.

And some authorities believe these estimates are conservative. Certainly alcoholism is a major health problem in our state and nation. In fact, the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare says alcoholism is the "number one health problem facing America."

Alcoholism is a disease which exacts a tragic toll in human suffering. It strikes young and old, blue collar workers and white collar executives, men and women of all races.

Studies show that each alcoholic intimately affects the lives of at least four other persons. Every member of a victim's family — more than two million Illinoisans — suffer emotionally, spiritually, socially and financially because of alcoholism.

ALCOHOLISM IS A disease. It's recognized as a chronic, progressive illness by the Illinois State Medical Society, the American Medical Association and the World Health Organization. And the disease has spread throughout the state. It threatens the health and well-being of small communities — such as my home town of Normal — as well as large metropolitan areas such as Chicago.

We once thought of alcoholics as skid row bums and believed alcoholism was a sign of moral weakness. Now we know better. One out of 18 beginning drinkers will become an alcoholic. He may want to stop drinking, but won't be able to because to him alcohol is a slow, but addictive poison.

There is another category of drinker we must be concerned with — the heavy drinker. These individuals can control their drinking, but it still causes them serious personal problems.

What about the rest of us — the estimated 71 million Americans who are moderate or social drinkers — those of us who take an occasional cocktail, wine with a meal, or a few beers at a ball game? Until recently it was believed occasional drinkers suffered no permanent effects.

This assumption is now under attack. Strong evidence indicates there is no "safe" level of drinking . . . that even alcohol in moderate doses damages or destroys cells in the brain and other vital organs. This loss goes unnoticed because the brain and other organs have millions of cells. But it's still a loss.

EVEN THOUGH these findings are still being debated, no one denies that excessive drinking causes serious health problems. It can cause inflammation of the stomach and pancreas, impairment of memory, judgment and learning ability and even cause heart attacks.

Cirrhosis of the liver develops eight times more often in alcoholics than non alcoholics. Other fruits of alcoholism include:

- * A high suicide rate. Thirty-three per cent of all suicides are chronic alcoholics. The suicide rate among untreated alcoholics is 58 times that of non alcoholics, and alcoholism ranks second as a cause of all suicides among Americans.
- * A shortened life span. Untreated alcoholism shortens the life span by 12 years.
- * The breakdown of family life. The divorce rate among alcoholics is four times the national average.
- * High traffic accident rates. Studies show alcoholic drivers are seven times more likely to be involved in fatal traffic accidents. Alcoholism is a factor in 50 per cent of the auto accidents which result in death of the driver.

THAT'S WHY THE Illinois State Medical Society supports stricter traffic laws such as the implied consent bill recently approved by our state legislature. The new law recognizes that drivers give their "implied consent" to a chemical test for intoxication when they receive the privilege of driving a car in Illinois. This law should help reduce traffic deaths due to drunken drivers.

But tougher laws won't keep the alcoholic from drinking. The public must learn — as physicians have learned — that alcoholism is a disease. To successfully combat alcoholism we need:

- A society in which sympathetic and enlightened citizens support treatment rather than jail for alcoholics.
- Community programs of medical and follow-up support for alcoholics.

- Employers who help alcoholics by instituting early detection and rehabilitation programs.
- Educators to explain the dangers of alcoholism and help plan rehabilitation programs.
- Enlightened legislators to enact laws which provide treatment and rehabilitation programs for alcoholics.

Natives Restless, Whites Fearful

by TOM TIEDE

PORT MORESBY, Papua-New Guinea—The dark comes early here. Even in summer there is no light by 6:30 and the streets of this territorial capital are deserted. There is raucous laughter from the jalousied windows of the native pubs, there is the click of cue balls from the all-white billiard clubs, but the noise remains inside and the streets remain quiet.

Except for a scream now and then. A call for help. A woman being raped. Or a man being robbed. Or a boy being dragged off to some unsaid horror.

This town is on the verge of a nervous breakdown.

And so is this emerging nation.

THERE IS growing crime here, and growing tension, too. In Port Moresby, the white immigrant women believe they are in constant danger from black native men: "A Gailala will rape you and cut your throat," says one wary wife, "or he might do it the other way." In Rabaul, 500 miles east, the white residents warn visitors to be careful of angering the black population: "If you hit one with a car, just keep going. If you stop, they gang up and maul the hell out of you."

The wariness is no doubt based more on suspicion than statistics. Territorial authorities insist that crime is not bastard better pack up and leave."

THE DEMAND is so loud, actually, that Australia has begun to hint compliance. The rumor is nationhood will be granted in 1975. But, in fact, that's about all it is — rumor. And black leaders here, following history's leads, are impatient.

One leader, John Kaputin of Rabaul, puts it thus: "I am not opposed to people using violence if they are in the right." White men shudder at such statements. And with reason. Not long ago a respected New Britain district commissioner, making his rounds, was stabbed and killed by natives who have been identified as John Kaputin followers. Of the incident, Kaputin only shrugs:

"When men are frustrated enough, they will resort to anything. My people are very frustrated now. The white pigs have ruled too long. We want to own our own country again."

There is much thinking, some of it justified, that Kaputin's people are wholly unable to own their own country again. The natives are still tribalistic, there are 700 different languages, some people drive sports cars in cities while others still wear bones through their noses. Even Kaputin, the best-known black leader, doubts if a purely democratic government of natives "would survive a week."

Yet, still, as history is witness, colonized people think with their hearts. "We are now primitive and enslaved," says a Kaputin follower, "we dream at least of being primitive and free." And so the drama continues here. Blacks are demanding more pay from plantation owners. Blacks are winking at white girls (Kaputin, for one, has a European girl friend). Blacks are wanting and asking and getting. "It used to be they showed some respect," sighs a confused (white) Port Moresby resident. "Now, when you walk down the sidewalk, they won't even get out of the way."

Harper Staff Will Vote On Affiliation

Harper College teachers will decide next week whether they want to exchange four years of independent status for affiliation with a state teachers' association.

If the teachers vote in elections held Monday and Tuesday to give up their present status, another election will be held to decide with which state association they will choose to affiliate. Representatives from both the Illinois Education Association and the American Federation of Teachers have solicited the Harper teachers' membership.

The move toward affiliation with a state group was prompted by the Harper teachers' dissatisfaction with salary negotiations last spring, according to Martin Ryan, president of the Harper College Faculty Senate. "It was not a question of money but the manner in which the negotiations were held. The negotiations were broken off unilaterally by the college board of trustees. That is not negotiations as I understand it."

Ryan has urged his fellow teachers to vote for affiliation because he believes it will "improve the board-administration-faculty relations."

"Teachers are often open to capricious and unjust actions on the part of school boards. The board can change policy anytime it wants. Affiliation with a state association would formalize our relations with the board and make all parties accountable."

In addition, Ryan believes affiliation will be beneficial to the teachers because it will provide them with association services. These services include such things as advice on legal matters and negotiations.

When asked his reaction to the proposed affiliation, Robert Lahli, college president, said, "It is entirely their own matter." He would not comment on Ryan's contention that affiliation will improve administration-faculty relations.

spreading as rapidly as the rumors of crime. Yet one rape or 100, it doesn't matter any more. The animosity between the area's 2.4 million native blacks and 40,000 mostly European whites is such that hearsay is as deadly as fact. Every time there is a crime, or the telling of one, the split between the nation's two populations widens to ever more unbridgeable proportions.

"Let's be realistic," says one black official, Ebia Olewale, an assemblyman. "In this multiracial society, we have grown to hate each other."

Many people, high and low, agree. The natives are restless. The white immigrants are apprehensive. Some say a black-white slaughter is possible or probable.

THE RIPENESS of the racial tension here is complex but not original. History has thousands of similar examples to draw from. New Guinea is just one of scores of primitive lands which have, in this century, begun to blossom and wilt at the same time. Ignored by most of the world for generations, conquered and claimed by several different nations, it has only recently had the opportunity to stop and think for itself—and what it thinks, largely, is about all-native independence.

Situated wholly in the tropics, the territory incorporates both Papua (a Portuguese word meaning "fizzy hair") and the several islands of New Guinea. It is some 183,540 square miles in size, twice as large and three times as hot as Great Britain.

Its few inhabitants have always been mostly Negroid, some of them still not entirely divorced from cannibalism. Yet the land and its worth has always, historically, been in the hands of nonblacks. The Portuguese discovered the place, Indonesians early tried to influence it, Germany claimed it as a territory in 1880, the British also got in on the gobble, followed by Australia. In World War II, the Japanese overran most of it (their hill caves are still here), then the Americans came. Today the country is under a U.N. trust (protection and obligation) to near-by Australia.

In short, the natives feel they've been bandied about long enough. The loud cry here is for an independent nation, ruled by and for the indigenous people.

And as one black puts it: "Every white

County Chairmen Back Kucharski

SPRINGFIELD, ILL. (UPI) — Cook County Chairman Edmund Kucharski has "enthusiastic support" among Republican county chairmen for the GOP nomination for secretary of state, according to Richard Northern, chairman of the GOP County Chairmen's Association.

"Ed Kucharski has won the enthusiastic support of his downstate colleagues for the office of secretary of state," Northern said yesterday. He said his statement was based on a telephone poll which reached about 80 per cent of the state's GOP county chairmen.

Northern said most chairmen were "very impressed with Rep. George Lindberg, R-Crystal Lake and hopeful that he would be a candidate for another office."

Lindberg, sponsor of ethics legislation in the fall session of the General Assembly, and Kucharski appeared before a GOP county chairmen's meeting here last month, seeking the group's endorsement for secretary of state. The group, however, endorsed neither candidate, a fact regarded as at least a partial victory for Lindberg.

Northern said he met with Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie early yesterday and informed him of the results of the poll.

Principal Reinstated After Questionnaire Feud

CHICAGO (UPI) — All was forgiven today for a Chicago school principal who was suspended without salary for his refusal to submit to federal questionnaires seeking personal information about his pupils.

William Rankin, principal of Murphy Elementary School, read a letter from Superintendent of Schools James F. Redmond at a school meeting Wednesday night announcing his reinstatement.

Rankin also said he had received a letter from Rep. Roman Pucinski, D-Ill., saying that the survey, known as the Belmont Project, was being recalled by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

PUCINSKI, CHAIRMAN of the House Subcommittee of general education, said the survey stirred up nationwide objections, and that in California some boards of education refused to distribute the forms to their schools.

"The inquiry has no validity in its present form," Rankin quoted Pucinski.

Rankin had contended the survey lacked validity. He told Redmond earlier he would pass out the forms to his pupils if their validity was examined by the HEW.

The questionnaires asked about the income of a pupil's family, if anyone in the family had ever received psychiatric treatment and other such inquiries, Rankin said.

Simon, Walker Both Lose

EVANSTON (UPI) — The Evanston Township Democratic Organization tried but failed to endorse a candidate for governor Wednesday night.

Lt. Gov. Paul Simon led the balloting with 84 votes, but fell 18 short of the majority needed for endorsement.

Dan Walker, an independent aspirant for the Democratic nod, received 61 votes and eight persons voted not to endorse any candidate.

Victor DeGrazia, Walker's campaign manager, interpreted the vote as a victory for his man, who seeks an open primary.

"It wasn't until a month ago that we actually started building a volunteer committee in Evanston. Up until that point, most people believed that Paul Simon dominated the suburban Democratic vote," he said.

Crusade Of Mercy Pledges More Than $18.1 Million

Pledges of $18,157,317 have put the Crusade of Mercy over the half-way mark in its drive for $33,836,954, according to Robert E. Brooker, general campaign chairman. The $18 million plus represents 53.7 per cent of the crusade's goal for 1971. At the same time last year, the crusade had pledges tallying $17,548,330 or 51.9 per cent of the goal.

"I want to encourage the suburban chests and funds who haven't done so to finish their campaigns as quickly and as successfully as possible," Brooker said.

"We must reach our goal because the needs are so great. Crusade-supported voluntary social service agencies make a significant impact in our communities and benefit all of the people in metropolitan Chicago. Each of us must do our fair share to keep these agencies in full operation."

"Per capita giving is up in spite of fewer employees in many of the companies solicited by the crusade," Brooker said. Money contributed to the crusade comes from three major sources: employees of business and industrial firms in the metropolitan area who are asked to pledge contributions through payroll deductions plans where they work; corporate gifts from their employers; and suburban campaigns that reach small businesses, professional people and residents of suburbs who are not asked for contributions where they work.

"Many people may have been missed by our solicitors," Brooker said. "Those who have not had the opportunity to give at work or at home may mail a contribution to Crusade of Mercy, 72 W. Adams St., Chicago 60603."

The annual fund-raising campaign for the Community Fund of Chicago, the Mid-America Chapter of the Red Cross, and the Suburban Community Chest Council with its 91 participating chests and funds covering 154 suburban communities will hold its formal final report luncheon on next Wednesday. Campaigns in companies and communities will continue, however, after that date.

The Doctor Says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Our family often substitutes popcorn for a meal, especially instead of Sunday supper and sometimes during the week, too.

For three adults, we use one generous cup of unpopped corn, prepared by popping in three tablespoons of shortening (which is marked "high in polyunsaturates"). This, when prepared, yields about two quarts per person. No butter is added as the oil and salt used in popping give it a sufficiently good flavor.

Your comment, good or bad on this practice, would be appreciated.

Dear Reader — Thumbs up for popcorn, if you are careful what you pop it in and what you put on it. About 11 percent of the calories in plain popcorn are from vegetable fat and over half of these are the polyunsaturated type. It is, then, a very low-fat food and what fat it contains is probably beneficial, since the usual American diet contains limited amounts of polyunsaturated fat.

I would recommend popping it in a small amount of cooking oil. Of these, safflower oil contains the least amount of saturated fat and the largest percentage of polyunsaturated fat. Corn oil is about second on the list. Then leave it plain, seasoned with salt.

This makes a far better snack than most items. For calorie control or fat intake control, it is far superior to potato chips, crackers impregnated with cheese or fat or similar snack items. For calorie restriction, it is superior to any nuts used as snacks. The vegetable oil of cereals, like popcorn, are an important source of Vitamin E. So thumbs up for popcorn and let's hope it replaces a lot of other goodies that are not so good for the health.

Popcorn, along with turkeys, belongs to the tradition of Thanksgiving. The Indians brought the popcorn to the feast and amazed the colonists by popping it. In rural areas a bowl of popcorn by the fireplace was a winter night tradition. Not too long ago, the family sat by the fire, ate apples and popcorn while reading — there were few places with radios and none with TV — but we didn't have as many of a lot of things then that we have now — including too many fat snacks and an epidemic of heart and vascular disease.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Can you please settle an argument in our family about birth control pills. I say that at 16 you can get the pill from your doctor without telling your parents. My mother says you can't until you are 18. Who's right?

Dear Reader — Only your doctor knows who is right, my dear. After all, he is the one who writes the prescription or has the pill. Ask him.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I would like your opinion on dogs living with infants (house dogs).

Is it harmful for a Yorkshire-Terrier, that has a continual lick, unless she is pushed aside, to be with a crawling, helpless baby?

Dear Reader — Probably not nearly so dangerous as exposure to other children. The truth is that animals often do not have the same diseases as humans and humans cannot catch most of the diseases animals have. This is why it is so difficult to study some human diseases in animals. Distemper, for example, in dogs has no counterpart in humans. Of course, there are a few exceptions, such as rabies from unvaccinated sick animals and cat scratch fever.

Depending upon the pet's habits, the child may be exposed to some dirt and unsanitary elements that are more offensive to the sensibilities than to health. But from another child the baby can get common colds, an endless variety of contagious diseases and, not infrequently, pin worms. A child who never has the pin worms is often a child without friends. Humans don't get worms from dogs or cats.

A pet of the right kind can be a great source of joy for babies and children. The danger is usually to the pet, not the children.

Harper College Faculty Wives To Offer Two $200 Grants

The Harper College Faculty Wives organization is offering two $200 grants to qualified Harper College students for the 1972-73 year.

One of the Faculty wives organization grants is awarded to a woman with dependent children attending or planning to attend Harper College full time. The second grant is made to a student, male or female, currently enrolled or who plans to enroll at Harper full time.

Information about the 1972-73 grants may be obtained from the Financial Aid office at Harper College, Algonquin and Roselle Roads, Palatine, 60067, telephone 359-4200, extensions 247 or 249.

The deadline for submitting applications is April 1, 1972.

Grant recipients for 1971-1972 were Mrs. Shirley Ebeling and Miss Margaret Tobin, both of Palatine. Mrs. Ebeling plans to complete the dental hygiene program in June. Miss Tobin is involved in the two-year child care program. Associate degrees are awarded upon program completion.

Auto License Plates Ready

The sale of 1972 automobile and motorcycle license plates began on Wednesday at all currency exchanges, the three motor vehicle facilities in Chicago and selected banks. Wednesday was also the first day for legally displaying the new plates, which are blue on a white background.

Those persons purchasing their license plates now may use the applications which they received in the mail in late August if they have not purchased a new car since that time. If the computerized applications have been discarded or a new car has been purchased, a new application should be submitted.

License plate fees in Illinois are based on the rated horsepower of the car. Automobiles under 35 horsepower pay a fee of $18 while autos over 35 horsepower pay a $30 fee.

The 1971 plates will expire on Dec. 31. In past years, the deadline for displaying the new license plates was Feb. 15th.

In most areas the deadline for displaying the vehicle stickers runs concurrent with the deadline for license plates.

REMEMBER? Before the current airline lounge war broke out, these kind of "luxurious" cabins were touted by airlines as the latest in posh comforts. These passengers are aboard the big Stratocruiser of the early 1950s which made the trip to Hawaii in 11 hours from the West Coast.

Airline Lounge Idea Is Not New

Air passengers must feel they are either the most fated minority in the country or the most glibbie, but in the latest sweepstakes for passenger sales among airlines, the battle over plush lounges has reached a new high. Spacious seating, piano bars, wide windows, gourmet foods, stereo headsets with eight-channel selections are all part of the promotion battle. Perhaps one day we will even see the realization of a recent comic line in which the Ajax Air Lines offers a rodeo on board for passenger entertainment.

Recent skirmishes in the airline "lounge war" have created an impression that luxurious lounges are an innovation born with the DC-10s and 747s.

While the spaciousness and furnishings of today's jumbo jet lounges are modern, the lounge "idea" isn't.

Veteran passengers will be quick to recall lounges date back almost 15 years. The first "lounge flight" on record was logged Jan. 19, 1937, when a United Air Lines DC-3 Skylounge Mainliner carried a full load of 14 passengers on an historic one-stop flight from Chicago to New York.

The Skylounge, by standards of its day, was a grand aircraft. Yet, it came nowhere near providing the room and comfort of the modern 747 or DC-10.

For example, the 747 contains three furnished lounges. Each has a stand-up bar, cocktail tables and soft swivel chairs. The DC-10 the trijet introduced this year — has a pair of spacious lounges, equal in comfort to the 747 lounges. The newest jet had a capacity of 218 passengers.

BACK IN THE days of the twin-engine

DC-3 — the workhorse of airline fleets in the late 1930s and early 1940s — there wasn't enough cabin area for installation of a lounge area.

Thus, United shocked the air industry when it launched the first lounge era by transforming the entire cabin in some DC-3s, creating the unique full-cabin Skylounge.

The standard DC-3 cabin had 21 seats. The full-cabin lounge was developed by simply removing the 21 seats and replacing them with 14 over-stuffed, swivel-based lounge chairs.

Because the chairs swiveled toward the aisle, passengers could arrange themselves in groups of four with plenty of room for cards. Families and friends could dine on a portable table set in the aisle. Hassocks were provided for those who wanted to stretch their legs while snoozing.

UNITED ADDED another note of luxury when it introduced overnight "sleep" service on coast-to-coast flights in the late 1930s. The special DC-3s had compartmentalized cabins which converted into Pullmanlike berths. Passengers could leave New York in mid-afternoon, fall asleep, then awaken early the next morning for breakfast before landing in California.

Since the DC-3 Skylounge era, numerous other milestones in lounge development have been set by United.

DC-6 Mainliner — The four-engine piston plane joined the fleet in 1947, adding long-range, pressurization and high-altitude capabilities to air travel. The plane, had a small lounge at the rear of the cabin where six passengers could gather on a semi-circular banquet around an oval table. Some DC-6s were equipped as sleepers for overnight flights.

Stratocruiser Mainliner — While other carriers ordered the two-level, Boeing-built plane with seating capacity for more than 100, United's Stratocruiser fleet was designed with deluxe accommodations for 55 passengers, including a 14-seat luxury lounge in the lower level.

DC-7 Mainliner — United's version of this 350 m.p.h. propeller plane was placed in transcontinental and Hawaii route service in 1954, replacing the slower Stratocruisers. First to fly nonstop coast-to-coast, its on-board amenities included a rear lounge where as many as six persons could gather.

DC-8 Jet Mainliner — Aircraft technology continued to advance, and in 1959 United added the DC-8 to its fleet. The jet age arrival in commercial aviation brought with it not one, but two, passenger lounges. In flying coast-to-coast and Hawaiian routes, the 600 m.p.h. jetliner carries 113 passengers. Long and sleek, the DC-8 provides a first-class lounge and a rear coach lounge.

BOEING 747 Friend Ship — The jumbo era began in 1970 with the giant 747 and its three spacious lounges providing more room for social activities than the entire cabin of the DC-3 Skylounge. There is a unique first-class lounge that accommodates 12 passengers. The coach section has two lounges — one forward, one aft.

DC-10 Friend Ship — Latest of the jumbo jets entered the fleet earlier this year. The aircraft has two lounges, each with leisure chairs, multi-purpose tables and stand-up bars.

Talent Network Helps Open The Doors

Marketing Pro Athletes Is Big Business

NELSON BRILES MADE an important phone call shortly after the final game of the World Series.

"What can you do for me now?" the 28-year-old righthander for the Pittsburgh Pirates asked Jack Childers of Talent Network, Inc. in Skokie, Ill.

Briles had dazzled Baltimore's powerful Orioles in a pulsating two-hit, 4-0 Series victory that enabled Pittsburgh to take a 3-2 edge in games. He had returned to center stage after a two-year struggle to regain the eminence he knew in 1967 with St. Louis.

Briles wanted to capitalize on that Series exposure. He knows that an athlete finds glory for only a few years. His body is his skill, and it can depreciate very fast.

He called Childers because this 41-year-old former Air Force jet fighter pilot makes it his business to help athletes, to market athletes, to make sure that the athlete has proper representation in business offers.

Briles was a onetime bit player in Twelfth Night at Chico (Calif.) State College, a budding thespian who had taken voice lessons. Could Childers help him now? He knew he had helped a former Cardinal teammate Lou Brock.

Jack went to work. He made some phone calls, worked out many details with the proper people, and then made some more phone calls. Nelson Briles was in business, the entertainment business.

Briles, who has his own television show in Pittsburgh, is booked into Mr. Kelly's in Chicago Jan. 17-20 and then he heads to Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas. He's working with such talented performers as Kay Stevens and Kaye Ballard. He sings, he has several routines, and he has been called by some critics "the best talent to come out of sports since Joe Garagiola."

A lot has happened to Nelson Briles since that afternoon of Oct. 14 when he walked off the mound at Three Rivers Stadium in Pittsburgh.

"What can you do for me now?" he asked Jack Childers, and Jack did the rest.

Jack Childers has been doing things for athletes for several years now. That's his line. Timing is important in any profession, and the proper marketing and handling of professional athletes has become big business.

"The athlete today has become what the movie star of yesterday was," says the 41-year-old Childers, who has always been a sports enthusiast and was an all-city basketball player at Senn High School in Chicago.

"The athlete provides recognition. More than that," he continued, "he also supplies the image. The 1970s will be the decade of the athlete. Our country has always idolized someone. Actors are just that, actors, and there is a suspicion they're always acting. There was a time when television stars were something special, when you'd talk about a George Gobel or Milton Berle, but there are too many stars, too many shows now."

"You'll always come up with your Beatles or Elvis Presleys in the entertainment field, but how often? Who could you point to now? Tom Jones? That leaves a tremendous void, and you have sports. Ninety-two million people watched each game of the World Series. Then there's the Super Bowl."

Childers, who became involved in representation of athletes after beginning as the licensing agent for such products as James Bond 007 and Batman, is the exclusive agent for Dick Butkus of the Chicago Bears and Lou Brock of the St. Louis Cardinals among others.

He worked with the Heath Candy Co. on Super Crunch, a new candy bar that was initiated through a series of teaser promotions that had everyone asking, "Just what is Super Crunch?" Now they know and you can see the ads saying, "Super Crunch. Butkus Loves It. Don't Argue. HIS candy bar."

"There is a problem of when to utilize an athlete for a commercial or something like this candy bar," says Childers. "There are only certain circumstances when an athlete is applicable. You don't just say, hey, let's get an athlete for this. There must be a legitimate reason and when they came up with a candy bar, a crunchy candy bar, you think of the crunchers in football and . . . well, doesn't that remind you of Dick Butkus?"

When Lou Brock of the Cardinals starred in the 1968 World Series, showing his speed to such good advantage, he worked with Childers in hooking up with a company that makes sneakers. Lou had been working on a new design sneaker and it proved to be a major breakthrough. Today, Lou still gets a royalty on every shoe sold.

Childers has a list of clients that sounds like a "Who's Who" of sports, names like Ernie Banks, Ron Santo, Pete Rose, Dennis Hull, Oscar Robertson, Roman Gabriel, Lenny Dawson, Jack Concanon, Dick Gordon, Bobby Douglass and many more.

It was Childers who worked with Old Orchard Country Club and Paddock Publications in landing Douglass for the first Paddock Sports Club luncheon. He had 18 athletes making personal appearances that day across the country.

"Prices obviously vary on these personal appearances," says Childers, "and it's a matter of supply and demand. Quarterbacks obviously have the most ups and downs. I try to limit the number of appearances a week and then for only about two hours at the most. It's more difficult for these athletes than it might look. Just the signing of autographs can be demanding if they make a couple appearances a day. But Pete Rose once told me, 'Don't worry about the autographs or how long I stay. I've got a short name.'"

Many of these athletes are not tied up in exclusive contracts with Childers and Talent Network because as Jack puts it, "If a person in this business is really interested in representing an athlete, he should try to get him into something respected, something meaningful, and we don't want to be so tied down that we can't do a proper job."

Childers was in the Chicago news frequently in the summer of 1969. The Chicago Cubs worked out a unique arrangement with Jack. They were to share equally all endorsement moneys, even if only one player was used. This concept was supposed to promote team solidarity but there were some repercussions as the club folded in September.

"The Cubs were a fantastic property that summer as everyone can remember," says Childers. "You couldn't go anywhere without someone talking about them and I wanted to help the players in this regard. But it was the adulation of the fans that took such a tremendous toll. They were drained because everywhere these players went, even in their own off-the-field lives, they were mobbed by fans. It was the first time something like this had happened to them, and the pressures became too great."

"From our end we had everything wrapped up by August so I honestly feel a lot of what was said later was unwarranted publicity. If I had to do it all over again, I'd do it the same way."

Jack Childers is in a fascinating business. It's a business that keeps growing every year. How important are these agents? An athlete without proper representation can throw away a fortune. Baseball's Denny McLain and basketball star Jerry Lucas both claimed bankruptcy because of poor business associations. Deacon Jones of the Los Angeles Rams went far into debt.

"I don't think there's an athlete alive who doesn't get business offers," says baseball star Willie Mays. "The tough thing is to know good from bad, especially when you're playing. And, if it is good, how to keep it going without making expensive mistakes."

That's where Talent Network, Inc. comes in.

That's their job.

That's why Nelson Briles called Jack Childers after the World Series and asked, "What can you do for me now?"

Palatine topped Crystal Lake 69-64 and Wood stock 65-63 in weekend basketball . . . Johnny Seehausen poured in 39 points in the two games . . . Prospect rocked Proviso West 55-41 as Tommy Thomas scored 23 but fell to Morton West, 57-47 . . . Chuck Close popped in 19 and John Burgermeister, in his first starting role, scored 14 as Arlington surprised Maine East, 58-51.

10 Years Ago . . .

PETE ROSE of the Cincinnati Reds is just one of the many athletes represented by Jack Childers of Talent Network, Inc. in Skokie. Childers works out licensing arrangements, and he says the 1970s will be the decade of the athlete. "Our country has always idolized someone," he says, "and now it's the professional athlete."

RUNNER PAYS TRIBUTE

Dear Mr. Logan:

I am writing this concerning your column on my coach, Mr. Bill Mohrmann, and our Forest View cross country program. Although it was about two weeks ago that the article was printed in the Herald, I read it over and over and still get a lump in my throat every time.

Even though I have experienced all the accomplishments that were mentioned in your article and others, I am still almost unbelievably. Ever since Mr. Mohrmann has been coaching us in my sophomore year, he has never stopped encouraging us to push ourselves and each other. Everything he said and did brought us hopes and dreams of someday really being something.

He has gotten and kept more boys on the team than any other coach could have or would have. I know that some of the guys on this year's very successful varsity team, including myself might have quit or never come out if it weren't for him. I'm sure all the other guys on the team will agree with me when I say that Mr. Mohrmann has been more than a coach and more like a father to us.

To close, I'd just like to thank you for writing what you did. There's no one I can think of who is more deserving of such praise than our great coach and friend, Bill Mohrmann.

BEAR DRAFT: "JANUARY FOLLY"

Dear Sirs:

Well, the season's almost over and it'll be time once again for that annual January folly, the Bears and the college player draft. And once again Papa Bear and his staff of "experts" will figure they can pick up another gimpy-legged running back at a bargain price. (Remember Mike Hull? Joe Moore?)

There's a bumper crop of runners with potential coming out of the college ranks this winter. Please, Mr. Papa Bear, let's not let ourselves get slickered out of another John Brockington this time around. OK?

MORE TRADES NEEDED

Dear Sirs:

As a Cub fan, I was dismayed to read that the team does not plan to make any more trades, being content with only the Ken Holtzman-for-Rick Monday deal.

It will take a lot more than this to make the Cubs a winner. There are still too many overpaid, under-productive crybabies on the squad and too many who will not put out their best for Leo Durocher. (By the way, that is his correct name for you people and the immature Chicago sportswriter who keeps referring to Durocher as "Whathisname").

At first glance, this week's deal looks like a big-name transaction. But if you look at last year's statistics, it was merely a swap of two players who have been overrated and never nearly lived up to expectations. The Cubs got rid of a pitcher with a 9-15 record and 4.55 earned-run average for a guy who wasn't even a regular last year and hit .245.

To be a winner next year, the Cubs had to do one of two things: Either get rid of Durocher or make a major house-cleaning of players. I'm glad they kept Leo because I feel he is still a good manager and is not to blame for the failures. But it has been clearly proven in the last two seasons that the present group of players will not be inspired to play their best for Leo. And there are still some urgent needs talent-wise: A bullpen, at least one GOOD pinch-hitter, a fast, hard-hitting outfielder and a shortstop (Kessinger is really over the hill).

If (general manager) John Holland thinks he is an astute wheeler-dealer just because of that one trade, or if he thinks the same tired old bodies are going to get any better, he's kidding himself.

SOMEONE UP THERE LIKES BEARS

Dear Sirs:

We Bear fans — and the Bears themselves — should be thankful that Chicago has won six games this year.

While looking over the team statistics for every team in the NFL, I came across the fact that, of the 26 teams in the NFL, the Bears rank 26th in first downs, 25th in protecting their quarterbacks from getting sacked, 23rd in completion percentage, 22nd in rushing yardage, 21st in total offense, 19th in punting and 18th in passing yardage.

In total defense, the Bears rank 18th out of the 26 teams in the NFL.

Somebody up there somewhere must like the Bears very, very much.

Dear Sirs:

I just turned off the television set after watching the Bears humiliated by Miami.

I used to be envious of the season ticket holders at Wrigley Field.

No more. I pity them.

Mid-Suburban Quintets Face Busy Weekend; North Vs. South Tonight

by THE HERALD SPORTS STAFF

Having each had two or three outings in which to get their feet wet, Mid-Suburban League basketball teams will plunge into competition against conference foes for the first time tonight.

But don't be misled. There is a fine distinction between playing conference opponents and playing conference games. As in football, there has been a little confusion about cross-over games.

MSL varsity squads, with the exception of Glenbard North and Rolling Meadows, tonight will all play cross-over games (North Division team vs. South team) at the home floors of the South delegations.

But, just as was the case in football, these opening contests against conference foes will NOT count in conference standings. Only later games within each division will mean something in stand-

Here are the outlooks on tonight's battles . . .

HERSEY AT CONANT

Hersey will be anxious to rebound from a discouraging 64-52 setback to Willowbrook when it enters Conant's lair Friday evening. Narrow victors (55-54) over the Cougars on their home court a year ago, Roger Steingraber's outfit will enter this fray taller but not necessarily stronger than they were at the same time in 1970.

"We've got plenty of material out there but too much of it is still raw," Steingraber observed of his unit, noting that some of it shouldn't be in that undeveloped state.

Ironically, it was his youngest eager, skyscraper 6-11 center Dave Corzine, who came on with the only credible performance against Willowbrook last week. Other varsity vets and newcomers had difficult meshing Saturday after an impressive victory over Crystal Lake three days earlier to kick off their season.

The Huskie mentor expects to go with his same starting five but hints of some changes as things develop. He is even more uncertain about Saturday when Hersey will entertain a red-hot Maine South outfit already emerging as one of the area powerhouses.

"I don't even want to think about Saturday. We'll have all we can do to keep this Conant bunch in check Friday. They've got nice size and more than a couple kids who seem to know where the bucket is."

One of those kids is Bill Arkus, one of the area's biggest surprises to date. He scored 20 and 32 points in the first two games in leading the Cougars to a pair of victories. Arkus was on the varsity squad last year and showed flashes of promise, but played little.

At 5-10, Arkus will key backcourt play for Conant while Chet Pudlosky is the big man up front. Although at 6-4 Pudlosky will be looking up at Pancratz and Corzine, he possesses fine moves and is a tough rebounder to move out of the way.

Cougar coach Dick Redlinger, knowing the height disadvantage his group faces, feels there is only one way to neutralize it. "We must keep pressure on the ball out front and keep them from getting it in to the boys," he stresses.

This is important because once the ball is worked in close to a player the size of Pancratz or Corzine, they are not likely to be stopped without being fouled.

"They're going to be very hard to 'Typical' Season For Grove's Gymnasts

by JIM COOK

When Elk Grove head gymnastics coach Fred Gaines predicts his strongmen will have a "typical" season, you never know what to expect.

The Grenadiers, a perennial force in the dominant Mid Suburban League and a permanent fixture in the state-ranked roster, will open their "typical" campaign tonight against visiting Oak Park. "We're pretty far behind right now," Gaines said, "but that's probably because I've seen the boys for only about three weeks now because of football."

Gaines still hopes to hover around the 100-point mark tonight and improve enough to hit the 130's at the end of the season. Five lettermen and a healthy turnout of 65 candidates on all levels will be responsible for delivering Gaines' expectations.

Seniors Mark Damore, Andy Bowlds, Joe Guastadisegni, Bill Watts and junior Dave Khoshaba offer Gaines a sound nucleus from which to build a contending lattice.

Probably the weakest link in Elk Grove's program is floor exercise, according to Gaines. All-around hopefuls Damore and junior Scott Phillips will be joined by junior Kerry McMahon in the curtain-raising competition.

Damore and Phillips will continue in the side horse event with Bowlds and junior Bob Siemianowski before challenging the high bar with Watts and James Adreon.

Khoshaba's specialty is the trampoline where he figures to vie with junior teammate Steve Torgersen and sophomore Dave Hadley. The parallel bars are equipped with veterans Damore, Watts and Phillips and junior Marc Mydill.

Guastadisegni, a 10th place qualifier on the rings in last year's conference meet, will team with Damore, Phillips and Adreon.

"Last year I think we hit about 102 in our opener," Gaines said. "I know we've got some talent, it's just a matter of hitting our routines."

Oak Park Whips Elk Grove

Two fourth quarter touchdown passes by Oak Park broke up a tight 6-6 ball game as Oak Park beat the Elk Grove Panthers 18-6. Fine running by Tom Haupt, 58 yards in 11 carries, and some key defensive plays by Greg Heite kept Elk Grove in the game until the final minutes.

The George Halas Panthers ended their first season with a commendable 5-5 record. The Elk Grove Cougars lost their last game to Park Ridge 40-0. Their record of 2-8 does not reflect the spirit and determination that the Cougars displayed all season. Their courage in face of constant setbacks was remarkable. The PeeWee Colts and Packers will receive team trophies. The PeeWee Packers were awarded second place in the 16 team Northwest PeeWee Suburban league.

All the boys and girls (who did an excellent job in cheering the boys on) will be honored at the Elk Grove Village Athletic Association banquet Friday, 7 p.m. Holiday Inn in Elk Grove Village.

The EGVA is planning a girls' softball league for the coming summer. Further details will be forthcoming shortly.

At Rolling Meadows

Craig Baumbach, carrying a 136 average into the Palatine Majors League at Rolling Meadows Bowl, boomed out games of 160, 197, 203 for a tremendous 560 series.

Elsewhere, Elmer Dotson registered a 546, Dick Noble hit a 235 en route to a 551 and Geo Plummer combined a 201 and 211 for a 591. Ed Garrity Sr. whipped up a 204 for a 550, H. Freeman zoomed in a 209 for a 543, Jerry Korbel hit a 209 and 224 for a 593, Ernie Dettinger blasted a 210 for a 589 and Jerominski posted a 551.

Spitfire is a national racing champion in Sports Car Club of America competition. But taking the title doesn't mean winning just one or two hard fought races a year. It means winning twenty or thirty hard fought races a year. Also don't think owning such a big winner will cost a big price. Because you can buy the Spitfire for a small price. And drive the Spitfire for a small price. So we think all this really proves that they don't call us Triumph for nothing.

PHOENIX (UPI) —The Chicago Cubs have solved the whole problem perfectly.

Next time there's any trouble at all, Hank Aguirre will keep the clubhouse door closed 15 minutes so everyone can cool off.

Who?

Hank Aguirre. You remember him, don't you? A pretty fair lefthanded pitcher and the world's worst hitter.

The Cubs released him in July of 1970 but they never really forgot him because he was one in a million, a guy a whole lot like Brooks Robinson in that the players all liked him, management liked him and the press liked him.

So Monday night the Cubs pulled off another first. They were the first to use all their coaches as revolving managers and the first to go out and hire themselves an athletic director.

On Monday night they made more history. They named a "team information and services coach" or what it really boils down to, a public relations coach, the first of his kind.

The original announcement provoked a lot of headscratching.

Was Hank Aguirre being hired as a liaison man between Leo Durocher and the press or Leo Durocher and his players? As usual, the cubs didn't make the whole thing completely clear.

It turns out Hank Aguirre, a personable, 40-year-old Detroit of Mexican ancestry, probably will be pressed into service on both counts. And with Leo Durocher's complete blessing, too.

Says Leo regarding Aguirre's function between himself and the Cubs' players:

"He's here to help me, to help the players and to help the front office. If there's anything going on, I'm gonna nip it quick. I'm not gonna let it get out of hand."

Durocher means the way it did last summer when Cubs' owner Phil Wrigley took out big ads in the Chicago newspaper and paid $40,000 to announce what everyone really knew already, namely that he was boss of the ball club, following a noisy clubhouse hullabaloo involving Ron Santo, Joe Pepitone, Milt Pappas and Leo.

As far as Aguirre's duties with the press are concerned, Durocher has this to say:

"I can't be in nine different places at one time. What if I'm in center field or at second base before a ball game and you can't get to me? You see Aguirre. I think he's a helluva man. I didn't want to bring an outsider in."

The decision to bring in Aguirre, who has 20 years in pro ball, was Durocher's, and when General Manager John Holland first heard it he said "great idea." Accordingly, Holland called the tall, dark-haired Aguirre in Detroit last Tuesday and put the proposition to him. Hank jumped at it because he had always gotten along fine with Durocher and he found that after being out of the game a year and a half he missed it.

"I did some thinking after the call," says Aguirre. "I thought how two coaches right in Detroit — Bill Van Breda Koff of the Pistons and Doug Barklay of the Red Wings — had left their jobs within the last month.

"Van Breda Koff said 'I just can't reach the players anymore and it was pretty much the same reason with Barklay. I concluded that communication between manager and player was even more important than everyone has been led to believe. This job I've got now, I don't see myself as any 'messenger boy.' I see it a lot more important than that. If one of our players has a problem and is understandably leery about going to Leo with it, he can come to me. I'll try to straighten it out, and if I can't do it myself I'll go to Leo and say so-and-so has a problem."

The Cubs picked the right man in Hank Aguirre.

He's the pleasant, non-abrasive type, the perfect one to act as a buffer between Durocher and the players or Durocher and the press.

Meanwhile, Leo says he wasn't at all upset about that announcement two weeks ago. The one out of Acapulco saying he was through.

"I heard it on the radio but it didn't worry me," he says. "No matter what, I had my reservations for the 17th of this month for Acapulco."

Six Lettermen Return; Cards' Matmen In Debut

by PAUL LOGAN

Arlington's wrestling team, a second-place finisher to state champion Hersey in the Mid-Suburban League last season, will be trying to rebuild another power this season around six lettermen.

Head coach Jack Cutlip will have five seniors — Pete Anderson, John Chapman, Mark Chidley, Tom Dal Campo and Rich Porowski — and one sophomore — Jeff Whitnell — returning from a team that lost by just three points to Hersey in a dual, the only conference setback.

The Cardinals will open their season by hosting Schaumburg tonight at 7:00. However, they'll have to forfeit at both 98 and 185 until the Glenbrook South Christmas Tournament on Dec. 22 because of an ineligible ruling last season by the Illinois High School Association.

Joining the team competitively at that time will be Chidley (155) and Whitnell (110 or 126) along with juniors Steve Frankovic (185 or 187) and Tom Patterson (145) and sophomores Ward Schell (185) and Greg Lamigan (98).

Celtics Soccer Season Ends; Juniors Also Win

The Palatine Celtics' long fall soccer season finally has drawn to a close for the two traveling teams.

When the junior (age 13-16) squad raced to a 6-2 win over Menominee of Chicago, it assured them of first place in their division of the Young Sportsman's League with two wins and two ties in four games. The intermediates already had closed out their season in the same league with an unbeaten record and only one goal allowed all season.

In the Junior win, Ken St. George scored a three-goal hat trick and Jerry Blain, Steve Sobey (up from the intermediate team) and Jim Wierzenski each scored once. Steve Sakats was goalie.

The same team ran into tougher competition in their final game for 1971, bowing to a team from Fortuna United Soccer Club which included boys up to 18 years of age. This Latin team, — bigger, faster, older and more experienced than the Celtics — kicked their way to an 8-2 victory. Jerry Blain and Ken St. George got the Palatine goals.

The intermediates traveled outside the league to take on St. Alphonsus of the National Soccer League, a team that is unbeaten in 36 games. Palatine achieved quite a moral victory by holding this powerful squad to a 2-2 tie.

Mike Sobey scored both goals for Palatine, giving it a 1-0 lead after the first half in the serious bid for an upset. St. Alphonsus tied it early in the second half before Sobey put the Celtics ahead again. St. Alphonsus forged the tie with less than five minutes remaining and put on some pressure at the finish, though Palatine held on. John Hegel did an outstanding job as goalie.

According to coaches, this game probably proves Palatine's intermediates are as good as any team their age in the Chicago area.

In the only other game, a combined intermediate and all-star team from Palatine defeated Fortuna 2-0. Lance Gackowski and Wally Hegel bagged the goals.

The Young Sportsman's Soccer League will hold its banquet Dec. 11. No details have yet been decided.

'Fun To Watch', Explosive Harper Travels To Elgin

by PAUL LOGAN

Harper College, one of the more offensive minded teams in the Chicagoland area, will open up its Skyway Conference campaign tonight at 7:30 against hosting Elgin Community College.

"This is probably as good an outside shooting team as I've ever coached," says Dave Etienne, Harper's first year head coach.

The statistics easily back up his statement. The Hawks have taken 201 shots and 118 of them have found the mark for a sparkling .587 percentage! They are averaging 96 points a game while allowing their opponents 80.3 and have compiled a 2-1 record.

Keying the Hawks' explosive attack is sophomore Kevin Barthule. This very gifted guard is hitting an incredible 73 per cent of his shots from the field! Last year's leading scorer carries an even loftier average this season — 28.0 per game.

Three other Hawks also carry double figure credentials — forwards Jeff Algaier (17.3) and Terry Rohan (11.3) and guard Scott Feige (16.7). Don Spry, Harper's 6-6 center, is only scoring 4.3 a game, but Etienne expects his pivot man to improve in that category.

"We're going to have a fun team to watch," explains Etienne. "We work hard out there . . . we press all the time."

The Hawks will receive a good test in Elgin, a team that was undefeated heading into this week's action. The Maroons nipped two teams — Morton 86-85 and Thornton 67-65.

Coach Dick Durrant has only three players 6-0 or over and only one letterman, a 5-10 guard.

"Actually this is one of our larger ones," says Durrant of his two 6-3 and one 6-0 players. "Our front line is overall larger than it has been in some time."

"I know that Harper is very much improved. I saw them play in the championship game at DuPage."

"That team won't be as big as us," says Etienne. "That'll be a change, you might say. They're a quick team. They've got a history of fast breaking and they do that pretty well."

John Gardner, a 5-7 freshman guard, leads the team in scoring with a 20-point average, most of the points coming from long range.

Palatine Redskins Cap Perfect 10-0 Campaign

The Palatine Redskins, representing the Jaycees in the Northern Illinois Junior Football League, capped a perfect season with a come-from-behind victory over the Winnetka Chiefs. Down 12-0 at halftime, the Redskins, under the direction of Head Coach Jim Zordan, fought back to win the title and post a record of 10 wins and no losses.

After the Chiefs had scored with a 70-yard run after a pass interception and a 45-yard run from scrimmage, Palatine blocked a Winnetka punt and recovered it on the two-yard line. Mike Perry, the man that blocked the kick, ran it for one yard and then John Batke took it in for the score. Perry then fought his way into the end zone for the extra point.

Midway through the third period, Al Knotek took the snap from the single wing position and galloped 55 yards for the touchdown.

The very tough Palatine defense (five touchdowns given up in 10 games) stiffened and forced Winnetka to kick. Moments later, Knotek again took the ball and fought off tackler after tackler to score again . . . this time a run of 35 yards.

Stars of the game were Knotek (who received the game ball), Mike Perry,

'Magnificent Seven' On Falcon Gym Squad

by PAUL LOGAN
Forest View coach Gay Hughes would have been hard pressed to have a varsity gymnastics team had it not been for a couple of move-ins and a transfer.
Juniors Randy Plant of Wisconsin, Rich Levey of Florida and former Elk Grove High School performer Steve Rohn helped bring the Falcon varsity team to its present size — the Magnificent Seven.
"In the history of my coaching career," says Hughes, "I've never had a smaller team. We're so small that we're going to be hurt very badly in duals."
"My two all-around men are also my trampolinists. They'll be working six events and that's not easy."
Despite his mini team, Hughes is still optimistic about his individual performers.

"I've got a bunch of good boys," he says of his one senior and six juniors. "I've got several that should place high in the conference, district and sectional."
The Falcons will be trying to all place high Saturday afternoon when they host Willowbrook at 2:00.
Leading the team will be its only senior letterman — Dan Boni. He was the district free exercise champion last season and is expected to do even better this year, according to Hughes.
The only other letterman is Don Lanham. He's an all-around man along with Chester Scofield. They'll be filling in on trampoline because Forest View just doesn't have any experience in that event.
"I haven't had a trampolinist for three years," says Hughes. "And that's really hurt me."
Filling out the squad are Brian Olsen on the side horse and high bar, Plant on the high bar and still rings, Rohn in free exercise and possibly trampoline and Levey on the trampoline.

Elk Grove Swimmers Win, 50-45

The Elk Grove swim team somehow managed to submerge Lake Forest, 50-45, despite a serious case of dwindling numbers in the Grenadiers' varsity camp.
Head coach Jim Harrington is down to just a pair of divers and five swimmers and will lose still another ace when Scott Bolin enters the hospital next week.
Elk Grove still combined to grab six firsts and the opening relay to insure its first triumph against one defeat. Bolin chalked up victories in the 200-yard freestyle (2:00.0) and the 100-yard breaststroke (1:08.9) while contributing a leg on the winning 200-yard medley relay quartet that also included Dave Toler, Mike Kinn and Spencer Huebner.
Toler went on to garner a blue ribbon in the 200-yard individual medley in 2:20.0 and notched an important second in the 100-yard backstroke in 1:02.6.
Huebner was equally impressive with victories in the 50-yard freestyle (25.5) and the 100-yard free (57.9) while Kinn posted a second in the 100-yard butterfly (59.3) and the 400-yard free (4:49.2).
Terry Broderick won the diving competition with 66.45 points and Lou Clarizio touched second in the 200-IM in 2:30.5 and third in the 100-yard butterfly in 1:07.3.
Harrington will seek help from his sophomore team as the Grenadiers shoot for two in a row at Maine West Saturday. His fresh-soph swimmers bombed Lake Forest, 72-22!

Mustang Cagers Travel Twice

Rolling Meadows, still smarting from a tough season opener, will be trying to register its first victory this weekend against a pair of junior varsity opponents.
The Mustangs will go against hosting Glenbard North tonight at 6:30. Adlai Stevenson will entertain them on Saturday night at the same time.
Coach Ken Arneson's team was shell shocked by Elgin St. Edward last weekend, 82-37, in a varsity level game. However, the Mustangs won't have to go against any varsity units for quite some time.
Leading the Mustangs in scoring last week were forwards Bill Link and Jack Lloyd with 15 and 13 points, respectively.

Wheeling Boasts 9 Gym Lettermen

by KEITH REINHARD
You can't keep a good program down for long.
When the split was made at Wheeling several years back, sending a good portion of the enrollment over to Hersey to get that school under way, perhaps no Wildcat athletic program was hurt as much as gymnastics.

Under the direction of Wayne Selvig, Wheeling's gym teams have always been highly competitive outfits. When the full impact of this division was felt during the 1969-70 season however, the 'Cats slipped to their worst record ever, a 1-8 mark right at the tailend of the Mid-Suburban league standings.
Selvig regrouped right after that. A season later he was back over the .500 mark in league play (5-4) and now, just two campaigns afterwards, he appears ready to field one of the better groups to emerge from Wheeling.
"We took our lumps for a while," Selvig recalled, "But at the time I decided to keep the younger kids together and bring them all slowly around at the same time."
So this year he has nine returning lettermen, all of them seniors, including no less than four returnees who made it as far as the state championship preliminaries a year ago.
Headed up by all around Jerry Hinkle, one of the top 15 total point producers in the circuit last winter, the veteran group will be supported by eight youngsters up from last year's fresh-soph unit. And with two more versatile performers now in the fold, the coach and his charges feel they cannot be ruled out of contention for league honors in 1972.

Hinkle, who competed in the shadow of standout teammate Rene Mathis last season, appears ready to take his place in the limelight now. In dual competition in 1970-71 he ranked among the top ten in free exercise during the dual season, ranked 16th on the high bar and came on to finish seventh in the conference meet in the latter event.
Other returning letter holders are Bill Borosak, Jim Stogsdill, Ray Meister, Bill Glenn, Chris Krolak, Rick Hoffman, Jim Poteracki and Bruce Lenth. Borosak, Hoffman and Poteracki along with Hinkle were the ones advancing to the state meet.
Hoffman, a side horse man, finished ninth in the conference gathering in his specialty. He and Poteracki both forged six-point averages in that event last season. Borosak, meanwhile, ranked 11th in dual meet averages in free exercise and is also expected to help out the team on the high bar and tramp.

Meister will be going on the rings while Glenn and Krolak bolster the parallel bar unit. Glenn came up with a 7.75 tempo in the conference meet last winter on the p-bars, good for third place.
The newcomers, all juniors, are Chuck Ruth, Gary Pagano, Dave Peterson, Dave Williams, George Olson, Jon Moriarity, Joe Bucalo and Joe Heredia. Ruth and Pagano are both all arounders and both finished among the top ten in the '71 conference soph meet, Ruth for the second year running.
Peterson and Williams are on the side horse, Olson is a rings specialist, Moriarity works the trampoline, Bucalo the parallel bars and Heredia the free ex mats.

The Wildcat team opens their season at Maine West Saturday afternoon. Their first conference affair is with Glenbard North at Arlington Dec. 18.

Lubinski Paces St. Theresa Win

Guard Mike Lubinski scored 15 points to pace the St. Theresa of Palatine sixth grade team to a 41-22 victory over Transfiguration of Wauconda. The win was St. Theresa's third of the season against one setback.
The contest was close in the early stages, but successive turnovers by Transfiguration broke a 5-5 deadlock and from that point, St. Theresa was never headed.
Besides Lubinski's 15 points, center John Martin contributed seven and guard Mike Sammons, six. Forward Noel Bruns hauled down nine rebounds and tallied five points.
The Trojans travel to Libertyville Saturday to meet the St. Joseph Warriors at 2 p.m. On Sunday, St. Theresa hosts Our Lady of the Wayside at Palatine High School. Sunday's conference game begins at 1 p.m.

St. Viator Eyes 2nd Win, Hosts Dangerous Dons

by JIM COOK

When St. Viator varsity basketball coach Ed Wasielewski reverberated the cliché "one game does not a season make," he forgot to add that an opening victory, nevertheless, still helps.

The Lions hope to parlay a 68-58 triumph over Fremd last week into a duplicate effort in their first Suburban Catholic Conference test against visiting Notre Dame tonight.

Viator has some evening up to do against the Dons who manhandled the second-year SCC residents twice last season. And off the convincing conquering of Fremd, Wasielewski's Lions just might be able to square the score with their arch-rivals.

"I think the thing that surprised me most was our speed," Wasielewski said. "I was happy with the way we were able to fast break."

The fact that 5-8 guard Ken Martin paced Viator's scoring with 22 points (many of which were of the uncontested layup variety), is a true indication of just how effective the Lions' running game actually was.

If anything, Wasielewski will be seeking more rebounding support for center

John Lohse and a sharp decline in what Wasielewski termed "excessive fouling."

"I think in most cases it (the barrage of personals) was just plain carelessness," the veteran head coach said. "The kids were in a situation where they were gambling for a steal. Half the time, the ball was concealed, so they lost."

The Dons will send lone returning let-torman Bill Abraham, Pete Egart, Kevin Mullaney, Jeff Adams and Larry Wells on the court against Wasielewski's probables of Martin, Lohse, Brian Carley, Mike Cook and Ed Foreman.

St. Viator will cap the weekend with a non-conference contest at Palatine Saturday night.

Speed Skaters Sparkle Despite Adverse Weather

The Mt. Prospect Skating Club participated in a meet sponsored by the Amateur Skating Association of Illinois and held at the Northwestern University Ice Rink in Evanston. The weatherman provided an uncomfortable day with a brisk wind and rain, but the adverse weather did not discourage the skaters.

Dan Gillogly continued to show improvement and scored a second place finish in the Juvenile Class B 440-yard event. His brother Tim just missed scoring with a fifth place in the Midget Boys class.

Joan Wagner took a spill coming out of the last turn to miss a scoring position in the 220-yard race, but she came back to place second in the 440-yard event for Class A Midget Girls.

Tommy Grunnah won his one-half mile race, but fell in his 220-yard sprint, while teammate Rich Vehe grabbed a pair of fourth place finishes in the Juvenile Boys Class.

Bob Vehe placed fourth in the Senior Mens' 440 and 880-yard events to complete the scoring for the team.

Senior Woman Helen Lutsch has been unable to compete due to illness, but is expected back in competition at an early date.

The club travels to Madison Wis., next weekend for the two-day Badger Open Indoor.

Boys and girls interested in joining the club should contact Helen Lutsch at 392-0751.

Satisfaction.

Probably the single most important reason why a wise car buyer selects one dealership over all the others.

Like satisfaction in knowing that a large, professional service organization is ready to help you, now! Not "maybe next Thursday."

Or, like the satisfaction you get in being treated as a valued customer by people who are genuinely interested in keeping you as a friend.

Tom Todd Chevrolet invites you to see all the new 1972 Chevrolets. Pick out the one you like ... for whatever the reasons. And, this time, drive away satisfied.

board against," understated Redding. "We've got to go to ball control in a game like this. We want to take only good percentage shots."

In order to play that kind of game, the Cougars will have to avoid getting behind by more than a few points. They were able to do so last year against taller teams, including Hersey in a one-point playoff heartbreaker.

Conant is one of only two Herald area teams still undefeated. They opened with a 52-48 victory over Fenton before whipping Addison Trail 64-51 behind Arkus' 32.

Conant will be home again Saturday night against Lake Park, a team the Cougars routed 80-55 last year. Their main concern, though, is Hersey tonight.

PALATINE AT PROSPECT
"It should be a real barnburner," says Palatine coach Ron Finfrock of the Pirates' visit to Prospect tonight.

Both teams like to run and both are adept at putting the ball in the basket, so another offensive festival like last year's COACHES: Ron Finfrock, Palatine; Bill Slayton, Prospect.

99-83 Knight victory over the Pirates might be in store tonight.

Palatine is one of two MSL teams unbeaten in pre-season exhibition play. That's not too surprising since Finfrock has his top six back from a team last year that improved steadily, scored well and put up some stiff arguments late in the season — though winning just two of 21 games.

Prospect is in exactly the opposite situation having all newcomers after winning the league title last season.

The Pirates have shown a lot of offense in the first two outings, nipping Maine East 78-68 before trampling Glenbrook North 86-61. Center Doug Fyfe poured in 38 points and guard Steve Garmon 36 in that pair of wins.

And the other three starters — forwards Jim Stamer and Jim Sander and guard Rick McCormick — are equally capable of keeping the nets dancing. Balance may be the biggest asset Palatine has. No opponent can concentrate on any one Pirate without getting stung by another.

Of tonight's game, Finfrock says: "We'll have to take the boards. This is the biggest thing we need to win." Palatine does not have a player over 6-4, but still holds rebounding advantages in the first two games by positioning well.

All Prospect head basketball coach Bill Slayton will be looking for tonight is "better defense, better offense, better rebounding, better ball-handling and better shooting."

The Knights will probably have to improve in all of these categories by the time Palatine pays a cross-over visit. The surprising Pirates have jumped off to a 2-0 start and offer a balanced hurdle for the 1-2 Knights.

"We saw them against Glenbrook North and they showed a lot of experience," Slayton said. "They run, shoot, rebound and play an aggressive defense. They're going to surprise a lot of teams before this thing's over."

After lifting the season's lid in a promising triumph over Evanston, Prospect has suffered back-to-back defeats at the hands of ranked Maine South and New Trier East.

"We have to do better than just what our guards are doing," Slayton said. Knight playmakers John VonBerg and Andy Blitt have paced the scoring in two of the three contests.

"I'd like to see us get the ball to the big boys more," Slayton said in referring to 6-7 Tom Bergen. "He knows what to do with it when he gets it, but it just hasn't been there."

Forwards Jack Brink and Brian Bergen are slated to join Tom on the front line again. "We need to do a better job setting up our offense," Slayton said. "We can't afford those mistakes again."

TIME: Preliminary game at 6:30, varsity game at approximately 8:15, Friday, Dec. 3.

the least. In the Vikings' last five visits to the Falcon gym, they've never lost. And the Falcons have a three-game win streak going on the Vikings' home court.

Both teams will be out to do something about the longer streak when the Vikings visit their home away from home tonight, the only meeting of the two this season.

Forest View coach Ted Wissen says he's fairly pleased with his team's progress so far. The Falcons narrowly missed taking a perfect 2-0 record into tonight's game as Elgin nipped them, 50-49, last Friday.

The Falcons cooled down in their field goal shooting in the second game at 35 per cent. In their opening romp over Maine West (65-48) they fired away at a 53 per cent clip.

Don Woodsmall and Jay Hedges paced the Falcons in both contests. Woodsmall will carry a 23.0 average into the Fremd game and Hedges is nine behind at 14.0.

Wissen will be looking for better rebounding and ball handling, two of the weaker aspects of his team's Elgin showing along with the low percentage. However, his youngsters have done well from the foul line making 74 per cent (25 of 35) of their shots.

Fremd will be trying to duplicate two victories over Forest View last year — a second being in the final conference game where they held a whammy over the Falcons, in their own nest.

Despite two Viking losses in their first three games, coach Leon Kasuboske looks for improvement, starting tonight. "We're starting to settle down and play better basketball, looking better in practice," he notes optimistically. "We're playing our half-court game well but losing on full-court basketball."

By this, he means that "our guards are having trouble setting up the offense when they are pressured. We're also giving up cheap baskets when we pressure on defense. That can take the edge off your defensive attitude."

About Forest view, he said, "They execute their offense well and worked well against Elgin's man-to-man defense." He declined to give away what kind of defense his group will employ tonight, but Kasuboske in the past has liked to switch defenses a lot during the course of a game to keep opponents off balance.

The Vikings opened their season with a 50-58 thriller over error-prone Notre Dame before falling 68-59 to Glenbrook South and 68-58 to St. Viator. Their busy schedule continues Saturday night on the road again, at Downers Grove South — a team Fremd has never contested before.

"We're not working on anything special," says Kasuboske of tonight's game. "We're just trying to correct our own mistakes. There will be no surprises or tricks from us."

WHEELING AT ELK GROVE

Wheeling's hopes of reeling off any kind of lengthy winning streak at the off-set of the season were quickly dashed at Moline last Saturday, so they'll be hoping to start from scratch when they journey to Elk Grove Friday evening.

Coach Ted Ecker's group also has another tough road test Saturday at Lockport Central but he isn't looking that far ahead. "We know this Elk Grove is an improved ball club. They've got just about everyone back from last season. We know Rog (Wood) gives us a height advantage but they've got some good shooters and this is what gave us problems more than anything at Moline."

Wood has collected 58 points in two contests now and has proved to be nearly an unstoppable force. But he needs scoring help from his teammates if the "Cats" expect to be a consistent winner and other than possibly guard Jim Kass, Wheeling has no other proven steady point producer.

In hopes of perhaps improving the team's offensive punch, Ecker is thinking of giving his 6-6 first-line reserve Bill Olson a crack at one of the starting forward berths. A junior transfer student last winter who didn't provide too much help, Olson has shown steady improvement since then. He may be ready to emerge now as both a strong scoring and rebounding threat.

The Wildcats have a string of 13 straight conference victories they'll be hoping to extend when they take to the Grenadier field tonight.

Elk Grove head coach Bill Parmentier has a big problem and three possible solutions. The second-year pilot's dilemma is Wheeling, and, more specifically, 6-11 Wood.

"We can try to keep him (Wood) below 25 (points) and see what the rest of their team does," Parmentier considered, "or we can give him his points and try to shut off the others, but by giving him his points, I don't know what that would mean."

Probably another disaster for the Grenadiers who are trying to rebound from a disheartening 72-48 season-opening setback against Addison Trail.

Elk Grove must crash the boards, eliminate an epidemic of bad passing and probably double its 31 per cent shooting against Addison if it figures to emerge as a Wheeling giant-killer.

"There are still some starting positions open," Parmentier said, "and I'm not very happy with the spirit and competition to fill these holes. I want to see someone say 'This is my spot,' and really take charge of this team."

Parmentier has elevated 6-4 Rich O'Leary from the junior varsity outfit in an attempt to his board strength. Tentatively, Ken Pollitz and Dave Chernick will join O'Leary in the front line with Bob Prince and Keith Chuppek running the show from the guard positions.

Elk Grove will take to the road Saturday evening and engage Fenton on the Bisons' home floor.

ARLINGTON AT SCHAUMBURG

he hosted by Schaumburg tonight. The Saxons are the smallest team in the MSL with none of the starting lineup topping the 5-11 mark.

Card coach George Zigman is impressed with their shooting, their pressure defense and, naturally, their quickness. Zigman is hoping that his team improves its field goal shooting percentage, defense and rebounding of it will be in trouble against the Saxons.

"To win consistently, you've got to average between 44 and 46 per cent," says Zigman. "We've been averaging 39 per cent."

Zigman expects his leading scorer — Ken Peters — to help pick the team shooting average up. Peters, a 28.5 shooter, has only been hitting a 37 per cent clip which Zigman knows is far below his potential.

Also carrying double figure averages are Bill Grandt and Mike Cleveland with 13.5 and 11.5 respectively. "I like the play of Cleveland and Grandt," says Zigman. "They've given us two consistent ball games. Peters had a good game against York (37 points) but didn't play quite as good as Maine."

The Cardinals edged York, 80-79, and then allowed Maine West to overtake them in the final quarter in losing 72-68. Arlington will host Barrington on Saturday night.

Whatever Schaumburg utilized as a success formula in their opening night victory over Maine North last week, it may have to be mixed to about triple concentration Friday night if the Saxons wish to add another notch to their belt.

This is about the approach Schaumburg mentor Joe Breault has conjured up for visiting Arlington — feelings of hope and anxiety mixed with plenty of respect.

"We've scouted them twice now," Breault remarked of the Cards. "They've got a lot of class . . . a sound, very aggressive team with a very fine coach to head them up."

They'll be big, too, compared to the Saxons. But this evidently was not the biggest concern of Breault's gang in their inaugural when they trimmed an equally lanky crew of Norsemen 73-55.

Actually, the Schaumburg pilot is more concerned about getting his own lineup together. His scoring ace John Blasco, a doubtful starter last time because of a sprained finger on his shooting hand, is even more of a question mark now. John did come off the bench against Maine and contributed 18 points, but his hand still bothers him and this week, to boot, he's been out of school for several days with a bad cold.

"Of course I'll use him if he's available," the coach said, "but right now the situation is pretty uncertain."

After the Cardinals, Schaumburg will move on to West Leyden for a non-conference bout on Saturday.

Second place Mills took a 4½-2½ decision over Parkway league-leader Gutwien in a match that ended in a series deadlock so the total pin-point had to be split.

Bie, with two 600 bowlers, took league high series for the season thus far. Al Karsten, anchorman on opposing team Rose, rolled 635 to aid in clinching the third game. Jake Herr rolled 553 and Bud Mills hit 550. Emil Metzel banged out a 235 game.

Packer Power

Green Bay has won more league championships than any other team. The Packers have won 11 times, while second place Chicago Bears have taken eight titles.

'Y' Swimmers Bring Home Many Awards In First Turkey Invitational Feature

by SALLY HARVEY

Coach John Elliot took his Northwest Suburban YMCA swim team to George Williams College in Downers Grove for the first annual Turkey Invitational. The meet was co-sponsored by B. R. Ryall YMCA and West Suburban Swim Club. There were 1,600 entries attending from six different states. Coach Elliot's team made a fine performance and returned home with many awards.

Richard Behnke, swimming for the first time in the AAU meet, had an excellent performance in the six-and-under division. He brought home first place medals in the 25-yard freestyle (17.7) and 25-yard backstroke (23.2).

Individual winners in the eight-year-old events were: Marie O'Hern, fourth (15.8) and Mary James, sixth (15.9) in the 25-yard freestyle; Mike Funk, second (15.26) and Mike Behnke, third (15.28), 25-yard freestyle; Mike Funk, third (19.67), 25-yard backstroke; Mike Behnke, third (20.56), 25-yard breaststroke; Mike Funk, sixth (17.44), 25-yard butterfly; Mike Behnke, fourth (1:30.30), 100-yard individual medley.

Individual winners in the nine year old events were: Shari Friz, second (31.8), 50-yard freestyle; Scott Beutler, second (31.15), 50-yard freestyle; Mark Funk, second (17.3), Curt Altergott, fourth (18.10), Mike Harvey, fifth (18.33), 25-yard backstroke; Barbara Larsen, swimming unattached, fourth (19.78), 25-yard breaststroke; Mark Funk, second (15.37), 25-yard butterfly; Shari Friz, second (1:20.7), 100-yard individual medley; Shari Friz, fifth (18.10), 25-yard backstroke.

In the 10-year-old individual events, Gary Stark took second in the 50-yard breaststroke (30.9). Tommy Ujilje swam to a second-place finish in the 11-year-old 50-yard butterfly (32.16).

Winners in the 12-year-old events were: 100-yard breaststroke Mark Rusche, third (1:18.80) and Chris Crouch, fifth (1:22.01); Cindy Antonik, third, 50-yard butterfly (30.73); Tom Stahnke, second, 50-yard butterfly (30.59).

Winners in the 13-year-old events were: Mark Rohl, fifth, 100-yard backstroke (1:11.25); Mark Rohl, fifth, 200-yard freestyle (2:13.03); Brad Busse, fifth, 100-yard breaststroke (1:18.7); Dan Mate, fifth, 100-yard butterfly (1:09.8).

In the 14-year-old age group, Lee Anne Doehler placed in four individual events: 1st, 50-yard freestyle (25.80); fourth, 100-yard backstroke (1:11.10); first, 110-yard freestyle (57.34); second, 200-yard individual medley (2:31.2).

Winners in the 15-year-old events were: 50-yard freestyle Eric Porter, fourth (25.90) and Mike Fitzgerald fifth (28.14); Eric Porter, fourth, 110-yard backstroke (1:11.64); Mike Fitzgerald, fourth, 200-yard freestyle (2:19.39); 100-yard freestyle, Eric Porter, fourth (59.01) and Mike Fitzgerald, fifth (1:01.77); Eric Porter, third, 100-yard butterfly (1:07.7); Mike Fitzgerald, fourth, 200-yard individual medley (2:41.55).

Winners in the 16-and over events were: Steve Smoker, fourth, 50-yard freestyle (24.335); Steve Smoker, second, 200-yard freestyle (2:05.9); Kay Nielsen, fifth, 100-yard breaststroke (1:29.66); Scott Byker, fourth, 100-yard breaststroke (1:11.11); Steve Smoker, third, 100-yard freestyle (54.20); Scott Byker, sixth, 100-yard butterfly (1:13.62).

The relay teams turned in many fine performances for the two days. A first-place medal was won by the boys nine-and under 100-yard medley relay team of Curt Altergott, Mike Behnke, Mark Funk and Scott Beutler (1:06.28).

Dave Doehler, John Elliot, Gary Stark and Tommy Ujilje swam to a second-place finish in the 200-yard medley relay (2:16.4) for boys 10 and 11.

Mark Markwell, Dan Jump, Tom Behnke and Chris Stewart took a sixth place in 200-yard medley relay (2:23.6) for boys 10 and 11.

The boys nine-and under 200 yard free relay of Curt Altergott, Mike Harvey, Scott Beutler and Mark Funk took a first (2:11.9).

In the boys 10 to 11 200-yard free relay Dave Doehler, Mike Walsb, John Elliot and Tommy Ujilje took a fourth (2:02.8). Gary Stark, Tom Behnke, Dan Jump and Chris Stewart took sixth in the 10-to-11 200-yard free relay (2:02.8). Scott Byker, Eric Porter, Dan Spaulding and Mike Fitzgerald took sixth in the 200-yard medley relay (2:13.4) for 14 and 15-year-olds.

Mixture Of Talent On Rolling Meadows Gym

BY KEITH REINHARD

Potpourri with a youthful flair. T at about turns up Rolling Meadows' first gymnastics edition, a team that will take the floor for the first time at Lake Park Saturday evening as part of a double dual with the Lancers and Downers Grove.

Under the direction of Vic Avigliano, who for the last four years has been feeding Elk Grove's highly successful gym program as fresh-soph mentor, the Mustangs are young almost to a fault.

And with candidates coming together from Fremd, Forest View and Elk Grove to make up the team, it certainly has to be considered a mixture of talent.

As for prospects, Avigliano sees a lot of hard work and any number of unpredictable hurdles on the immediate horizon. There are no seniors on the squad of course and scant few juniors so the pilot will be trying to fill out not one but two complete teams utilizing mostly freshman and sophomore manpower.

"We're not really set up for full time practice either. Our equipment has been coming in a little at a time and we're just trying to make do with what we have," the mentor shrugged. With the athletic facilities at the new school still in the construction stage it was only a week ago that the gymnasts were able to move into their regular practice quarters.

With a lot of positions to fill on both squads, the coach has not been afforded the luxury of going with many specialists. "We've got some youngsters with great potential in individual events but for the time being, a number of them will be spreading their abilities around."

A couple of his youngsters could be distinguishing themselves right off the bat as specialists though. Allen Sabatka, a junior, will head up the trampoline unit and Jim Mackin, also a junior, leads the free exercise contingent.

Sabatka, from Fremd, placed fourth in last year's soph conference meet on the tramp and Mackin, from Forest View, finished fifth in the same gathering in floor exercise.

Another junior to watch is ex-Falcon Dave Sundbloom, who will be concentrating on the high bar. Among the top sophomore prospects are a trio of youngsters who came over from Grenadier country with Avigliano. Two of them, Mike Godawa and Steve Gallis are slated for all around duty while Blaine Dahl is counted on for side horse and parallel bars.

Avigliano, an all around himself and a standout at what is now East Leyden high school and later Eastern Illinois University, coached at Oak Lawn for one year prior to going to Elk Grove.

His prep coach at the Franklin Park school was none other than Don Von Ebers, now a fellow Mid-Suburban League helmsman at Hersey.

Three Events Key For Fremd

by LARRY EVERHART

The key to improvement for Fremd's gymnastics team will lie in the progress it can make in three events — high bar, parallel bars and trampoline.

In the other half of the usual six-event challenge — free exercise, side horse and rings — coach Willie Vrba feels the Vikings will be "real strong" despite a lack of experience. "I just hope we can hold our own in the other three," says Vrba.

The team is very young, with only three returning seniors from last year's varsity, so there's work to be done.

These three lettermen are good ones, though — senior Bob Mellin (11th in the state in free ex last year), senior Jeff Weber (eighth in the district on rings) and sophomore Dale Burrow (eighth in the district in free ex as a freshman).

They will be the nucleus with which Fremd will try to improve on last year's 3-6 record in Mid-Suburban League duals and seventh-place finish.

The Vikings were better than that record would indicate for the same reason that it will be tough to rise in the standings this year. That's because of a well-known fact in this area — that the MSL may be the best conference in prep gymnastics in the country, judging by relative scores.

Last year Fremd topped the 100 mark — which few teams outside this area ever do — for the first time in Viking history. But most of the seniors from that bunch have picked up their diplomas and departed.

The young performers who were left behind will embark on a 14-meet schedule tonight at 6:30 with a double dual on the road against Niles East and Glenbrook North. They will travel to Elgin Larkin a week from Saturday and open the rugged MSL schedule Dec. 16 on the premises of powerful Hersey, state runners-up the past two seasons. Fremd does not have a home meet until after the new year.

Mellin, Burrow and junior Jim Achtabowski are the top hopefuls in free exercise. Working on the side horse have been senior George Guderley, sophomore Bill Brokaw and junior Jeff Holmes.

The trampoline will be manned by freshman Glen Stanford, Mellin and Bob Johnson. High bar candidates are soph Mike Baldocchi, junior Bruce Longhenry and junior Bob Neumann.

Four juniors are working out on parallel bars — Dave Kuhlman, Butch Graf, Jim Benson and Loughenry. The rings will have Graf, Webber and junior Don Knigge.

Longhenry will be the Vikings' all-around man.

Two Tense Games

St. Raymond continued through another week of heart-stopping basketball games against St. James. On the sixth-grade level, St. Raymond nipped St. James, 19-18, while adding an equally exciting 24-21 decision on the junior varsity.

Lou Citro paced the jayvee's scoring with 11 points and 19 rebounds. Steve Nilkinson contributed 10 rebounds.

St. James finally found the winning combination as it posted a thrilling 53-52 triumph in the varsity division.

Conant Mat Coach Sees Improvement In Varsity

by LARRY EVERHART

If Conant's wrestling team lives up to the expectations of head coach Merv Miller, there could be a marked improvement over last year's 2-6-1 record and ninth-place finish in the Mid-Suburban League.

"I think we can finish over .500," says Miller, "but it's hard to say exactly what we'll do. We don't seem to have too much depth."

Miller does have seven lettermen back from last year's young varsity, but only one of them had a winning record in MSL competition. There is experience sprinkled through the 12 weight classes, but the team is in a state of flux regarding who will be regulars and who will end up at what weight.

So a lot will have to be resolved within a short period of time. The Cougars plunge right into conference wars tonight with no non-league tuneups, and their opener couldn't be much more demanding. Defending state champ Hersey will host Conant at 6:30 this evening.

At least an initiation like that should be a good learning experience, and the next three meets will be outside the conference, affording a chance to get squared away. The Cougars will entertain Fenton Saturday at 2 p.m.

The lettermen who know what varsity scuffling is like and who are likely to land regular jobs are: sophomore John Beck at 112 pounds (possibly 105 later on), senior Al Gordon at 119, senior Dick Thomas at 126, Senior Steve Lawson at 132, senior Terry Stenger at 145, senior Steve Andrews at 167 and junior Bill Koppert at 185 or heavyweight.

All of the possible heavyweight candidates are light for that spot except for soph Chuck Redding, who scales 220 but still is recovering from a football injury.

"I was disappointed because about seven juniors didn't come out this year and the jayvee squad is hurting," said Miller. "All the varsity kids came out that I expected, but we haven't had challenge matches yet."

They'll have challenging matches tonight, though, against last year's finest in Illinois.

"We Listen Better!"

If we goofed, sock it to us!

(Us is Hoskins Chevrolet)

Next time you take your car to Hoskins Chevrolet for service, or pick up a new car you've ordered there, you'll get a little postcard.

It'll invite you to SOCK IT TO US if we goofed while serving you. Go ahead. Fill it out. It's stamped and addressed to the president. That little card will get you immediate action. Sock it to us doesn't mean we won't welcome a compliment for something we did right. Oh, no! It just means that we want to know when we goof so we can make it right and never do it again.

And, we know we know we do goof sometimes. (Who doesn't?) But we don't want to! We don't want any black eyes at Hoskins Chevrolet, Elk Grove Village.

Schaumburg Can't Afford Any Injuries

Staying healthy is the name of the game for Schaumburg's gymnastics team, now ready for their inaugural meet at Mundelein Saturday.

Gary LaRocco will be leading his first full-fledged varsity Saxon outfit into action tomorrow afternoon in the Mustang gym. The meet is a quadrangular with Elgin Larkin and New Trier West also participating.

Schaumburg has already been hit with one injury and LaRocco is concerned about losing any more of his young charges. "We're not very big in numbers so we can afford injury and illness probably a lot less than most of our opponents in the league." Now on the sidelines list in Jimmie Buckley, a free exercise man lost probably until Christmas with a broken bone in his hand.

While the Saxons will be jumping right into a varsity league that ranks among the best in the whole country, he actually can claim only one senior on his squad and even this versatile performer did not originate at Schaumburg.

Steve Riggio, a standout all around at Conant his junior year will be LaRocco's only experienced varsity performer. He should count for more than his share though. Last season he had the sixth best dual meet all-around average and he tied for third in the conference meet on the high bar with a hefty 7.95 rating.

Behind Riggio LaRocco has five returning lettermen from his fledgling frosh-soph club of a year ago that finished with a 2-8 mark in non-loop competition. All juniors, they are Manny Pendola, Mike Indovina, Jeff Martin, Mike Lefebvre and Craig Sallisbury.

Lefebvre and Sallisbury are about the only ones pegged for a singular event — the side horse. The others will be spread around to cover a lot of holes in the Saxon lineup with Pendola going all around, Indovina on parallel bars, side horse and rings and Martin on the rings and high bar.

The coach has also elevated a sophomore to fill in for his other returnee, Buckley. Rich Ninow, out for the first time this winter, has improved rapidly and will be taking over both tramp and floor ex duties.

Another new face at Schaumburg this season is Steve Scott, a Northern Illinois grad who will be assisting LaRocco with coaching chores.

Prospect's Swimmers Boast Seven Lettermen

by JIM COOK

Two months ago, it was doubtful whether Prospect would be able to field a swimming team. The school lacks its own facility and the pool the Knights used last year for practice and their home meets was unavailable.

Finally, in October, head coach Jerry Lovejoy and his eager tankers found a practice site at the Northwest Suburban YMCA in Des Plaines. Commuting to and from practice every day is, indeed, a handicap for the Knights, but at least they'll be heard from, and maybe pretty loudly at that, in the 1971-72 season.

Lovejoy has seven returning lettermen back from last year's 6-9 outfit and some promising youngsters that have already combined to make Prospect a sure contender.

Seniors Jerry House, Tony Lanzillo and Jeff Larsen head Lovejoy's veteran corps that also includes Rich Fox, Jeff Young, John Todd and Tom Bennett.

"We should be stronger from top to bottom this year," Lovejoy said. "It looks like we'll be much improved in all phases."

Larsen will be Lovejoy's 100-yard butterfly entrant while House is slated for all three freestyle events. Lanzillo will work the distance races while Young and Todd should provide a healthy one-two punch in the breaststroke.

Bennett is headed for the 200 and 400 freestyles while Lee Lobenhofer and soph Paul Bolt will handle the diving chores. Fox is extremely versatile and is capable of swimming any event.

Soph Steve Forten, Mike Barone, Jim Lyon and freshmen Chris Prinslow and Gregg Bull will be counted on heavily to add important depth to Prospect's title bid.

The Knights open at Glenbrook South Saturday with Roosevelt. It could be the start of something big.

All Wet?

Dallas Cowboy running back Calvin Hill comments on the absence of Duane Thomas from the Cowboy lineup: "It occurs to me that this ball club is like a mighty river. You can scoop a pail or two out of it, and it still keeps rolling along."

Arlington Minor Hockey

JUVENILES

Arlington's Rob Roy Golf Club lost a tough game to Palatine, 4-3. Rich Bugalski scored twice and Vic Incinelli scored the third goal. Rob Roy was winning 3-2 until a defensive lapse with two minutes to go saw Palatine score two quick goals. With 33 seconds remaining, Terry Nield was awarded a penalty shot but was stopped.

MIDGETS

The Arlington Arco's led by Mike Brawley's two goal performance rolled over the Rolling Meadows Kings 5-1. Other goal scorers were John Verdico, Kevin Boyens, and Matt Schmidt. Bill Fitton turned in a fine performance in goal as did the whole defensive unit.

The Arlington Jaycees and Schaumburg battled to a 3-3 standoff. John Cooper scored all three goals for the Jaycees, to earn his "hat trick" patch. Tom Cronin picked up two assists. Outstanding performances were turned in by Steve Lear, Marc Klomp, Cooper and Pete Wuerl who was in the nets.

Checker Oil drew a bye for the week because of the Thanksgiving holiday.

BANTAMS

Arlington's Prim Cleaners dropped the Tri City Royals, 9-1. Mike Retzer with four goals and Scott Glander with two scores led the way. Single tallies went to Scott Whittier, John McLoraine, and John Lumley. Assists went to Wayne Johnson with three, Jim Rayan with two, and Bob Davis, Whittier, and Glander with one each. John Roth and Fred Mock shared the goaltending and were excellent. Fine games were turned in by Brian Locker, Tom Olcese, and Bill Bangert.

Prim Cleaners then lost a tough one to Schaumburg 3-2. Len Jarocki scored the first goal on an assist from Mike Retzer. Wayne Johnson scored a picture goal, carrying the puck the length of the ice with two men hanging on him all the way.

Conoco Schimming Oil dropped a pair to the Rolling Meadows Penguins 5-2 and the Rolling Meadows Wings 9-2. Bob Bettis and John Walsh were the goal scorers in game one, while Tony Comitiz and Ron Schowengerdt scored against the Wings.

Arlington Soft Water drew a bye for the week.

The Bantam All-Stars started off slow Saturday Nov. 20, against the Tri City Blue All-Stars — but because of the fine goaltending of Dave DeLeisch and the overall hustle of the team, they were able to fashion a 3-0 win. It was a hard-hitting affair. Arlington goals were scored by John Walsh who was assisted by Bobby Bettis, Jeff Gardner assisted by Scott Glander and Scott Whittier, and Bill McGuire with the assist going to Bill Conway.

The Arlington Heights Bantam All-Star team remains unbeaten as they outscored Schaumburg last Saturday at the Polar Dome. Arlington's goals were scored by Brian Locker assisted by Scott Whittier and Bill McGuire, Mike Retzer assisted by Jerry Durzik and Bob Bettis, and John Walsh with two goals. Walsh's first goal was assisted by Bettis and Ian Comely, his second goal was assisted by Jim Fenderson. The defensive game was anchored by McGuire and Jim Ryan. Goalie Mike Knight made some fine saves.

In the non-league contest a group of Bantams from our three "House teams" played Palatine at Rolling Meadows. It was a hard fought game and Arlington did well before bowing, 4-1. The lone Arlington tally came off the stick of Matt Klomp who was unassisted. John Roth and Fred Mock shared goaltending duties and made some fine saves. Joe Cooper turned in an excellent defensive performance, while John Carberry and John McLoraine skated well up front.

PEEWEE

Arlington's Franklin Glue lost to Schaumburg, 7-1. John Otzen's unassisted goal was Franklin's only tally. John More had an excellent game for the Arlington team.

McEnerney Insurance was idle.

The PeeWee All-Stars dropped a 5-3 decision to the Northbrook "B" Stars. Ricky Palmer got the Hat Trick to do all the scoring for the Stars. Assists went to Jim McGuire with two, Bryan Schumann and Pat Reilly with one each. Outstanding performances were turned in by Jeff Rozwood, Mark Butler, Al Lattiof, and John Jordan in goal.

SQUIRTS

In what proved to be one of the most exciting games of the season, the Century Computers lost to the Rolling Meadows Bruins 2-1. Even with five regular boys gone for the weekend, the Computers turned in their best game so far as they outshot and skated even with their opponents. The lone computer goal was scored by Ron Culpepper who was awarded a penalty shot after a Bruin fell on the puck in the crease. Ron's goal made the score 2-1 and with one minute left the Computer goalie Kevin McGuire was pulled and the power play tried, but to no avail. Joining the Computers this week were Ron Culpepper, Lee Gray, and Scott Paulsen, they, along with George Kostopoulos, Paul Stoltzner, and the defense consisting of Matt Bangert, Dave Gardner, Bob Kaslauskis, and Jeff Price turned in a fine game.

Arlington's Lattiof Chevrolet was outshot 48-8 by Schaumburg and lost a 4-2 contest. Lee Gray scored both goals on assist from Tom Bailey. Jim Asher also picked up an assist. Jim Murphy who had a busy night in goal made 44 saves.

The Arlington Jaycees didn't play.

The Squirt All-Stars dropped an 8-2 decision to the Elmhurst Huskies. Don Chatten and Ron Culpepper scored while Rick Garber earned both assists. Outstanding games were turned in by Tony Aiello and Lee Gray. The Stars were outshot 36-14.

Bowling

At Elk Grove

Connie Beigler, bowling for the Rose Buds of the Pin Gazers League, rolled the high series both scratch and handicap. Her 544 was fashioned with games of 193, 158 and 193 and her handicap boosted her total to nearly a 700 with 688. Other fine shooting was turned in by Diane Sanders (535-187), Sharon Harrod (523-109), JoAnne Behrle (514-180), Yvonne Duncan (507-198), Joan Boduch (497-188), Ruth Lancaster (493-177), Nancy Pomrening (479-101), Judie Dunne (477-175), Ardell Bleatman (476-170), and Arlene Loprieno (198). Marilyn Walsh converted the 4-7-10 and Judy Doheny made the 5-7 split.

Tony De Rose took top series honors in the 111s & Hers Mixed League with a (223-238-202) 683. Other top bowlers for the week were Harvey Grant (204, 211), Rich Kraniewski (201, 203), Bob Chamberlain (208, 210), Erv Kassting (200, 206), Ralph Roller (233), Bob Mahnich (215), Buzz Gervasi (209), Ernie Hucksoll (203) and Bob DeCarlo (201).

St. Raymond,

St. James Split

St. James nipped St. Raymond on an eighth grade level, but St. Raymond ruled the seventh grade action in Northwest Catholic Athletic Conference basketball.

Mike Schell scored 19 points and Mike Schreiber and Tim Farrell collected 10 each as St. James pulled out a thrilling 53-52 eighth grade decision.

Mike Cnich scored 23 points for St. Raymond. Bill Langefeld chipped in 12 and Tim Kubicki 10.

In the seventh grade test Lou Citro's 11 points paced the St. Raymond victory. Pete Metzger had 7 for St. James.

guaranteed auto & truck rustproofing

A recent article in Motor Boating Magazine on Corrosion prevention & control in metallic yacht hulls describes the loss of a luxury hull in just 3 months. The culprit was the fastener — ordinary steel rivets used to fasten on hull plates below the water line. Galvanic corrosion destroyed the rivet and the hole it left was like an open sea cock.

Elk Grove Sweeps Four Hockey Contests

The Elk Grove Village Amateur Hockey Association swept four games in Polar Dome action against Tri-City.

In Squirt action Elk Grove won 3-1 for their seventh straight victory and increased their first place lead. In PeeWee action Elk Grove won 6-2. In Bantam action Elk Grove won 4-0. In Midget action Elk Grove won 7-0.

In Bantam action three of Elk Grove's four lines played near-perfect hockey controlling the game and keeping the pressure on Tri-City's goalie, getting many shots. Elk Grove's first goal was scored by Fred Musnicki assisted by Joe Danca and Mike Tucker. Mark Gustafson scored the second goal assisted by Gary Patcher and Bob Lamantia. Mike Walsh scored the third goal assisted by Joe Danca.

The fourth goal was a masterpiece as Mike Tucker was stopped on a break-away and Bruce Gladstone followed up on the play for a easy tip in goal.

The Elk Grove Midgets posted their fourth straight victory and their second straight shutout, with a 7-0 win over the Tri-City Royals.

Larry Mitsch scored the first goal which turned out to be the winner on a play set up by Jim Laing and Sven Overland.

Two minutes and sixteen seconds later Rob Gieske picked up the puck, fed it up to Mike Wellman who skated in and scored. Wellman came back 27 seconds later on a pass from John Foster to score Elk Grove's third goal.

At 11:45 Ron Cleckler put in a goal on a pass from John Gallagher. Elk Grove did not score for about 16 minutes of the second period because they had to kill three penalties. Finally at 4:43, Mike Wellman and John Foster worked the puck into Tri-City's zone, and Frank Ferraro put it into the net.

Then at 3:50 Mark Christensen took a lead from Ron Cleckler to score. At 2:20 Ron and Mark turned the act around with Bill Halfpenny shooting on goal and Christensen picking up the rebound to feed the puck to Cleckler for the final score. John Javers played a brilliant game in the net for Elk Grove. Mark Miezio and Harold Bishop played their defense positions to near perfection. With this win the Elk Grove Midgets moved into second place.

In PeeWee action Elk Grove's Bill Tucker scored the first goals unassisted.

Tom Fagre scored the third goal on an assist from Steve Farmer to take a 3-0 lead. Steve Campbell scored the fourth goal assisted by Jim Carpenter in the second period. Steve Campbell scored the fifth goal on a fine pass from Kurt Ringhoefer. Mark Helm scored the sixth and final goal assisted by Bill Tucker.

Goalie Bob Bird was outstanding in the nets for Elk Grove.

EMPLOYED BY Keystone Plumbing Co., Robert Strom of Schaumburg spends many of his evenings reciting poetry for area organizations. When he presents a program for high school students he often wears a hard hat on which are painted "love" and "peace" . . . "which is something," he says, "knowing how hard hats usually feel about the peace movement."

The Poetic Plumber

Sex Symbol, Yes, But She's Down To Earth

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Mamie Van Doren is a member of a dying breed, though she is far from extinct. After all, these days it's not easy making your way as a love goddess when the current emphasis is on woman power and sexual equality rather than cupie doll allurements.

"There aren't too many of us left," said the current star of "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?"

"Now when a roll comes up needing a sex symbol, they usually contact me."

Often actresses seen outside the careful screening protection of television and motion picture cameras can be somewhat disappointing. Not Mamie. Of course, she is not the flawless wonder her promotional photographs try to portray, but then that is a certain relief.

SHE HAS A down-to-earth beauty about her that's natural and in a sense it makes her even more interesting to meet because she is real and not a billboard image. Mother of a 15-year-old son, she is certainly outdoing the majority of women in her bracket.

Does she mind being a sex symbol?

"I don't mind at all," she said. "It's just as hard being a sex symbol as a dramatic actress. It's whatever you're born with really." And even radical liberationists would have to admire her frankness.

Born in Rowena, S.D., Mamie first embarked on her career as a Vargas calendar girl. She was Miss July.

"WHEN THE WAR came along, my family moved to California where my father worked in a defense plant. Otherwise I probably would have stayed in South Dakota or ended up here in the Windy City where my relatives are."

"I received $300 for being a Vargas girl," she continued. "Which was pretty good at the time. It was all done very legitimately. My mother was there the whole time he sketched."

Mamie's image was actually developed, however, by Universal Studios who discovered her while she was on stage in a small ingenue type role. A signed contract led to a film career that included feature roles in "Teacher's Pet" with Clark Gable and "Confidential" with Steve Allen, two of her favorite productions.

In fact Mamie said she was the third actress to do a nude scene over five years ago. Marilyn Monroe was first and Jayne Mansfield second. "After that everone started doing it. No one has really asked me lately," she laughed.

"THE ROLE OF Rita Marlowe in this play was originally written for me as a satire on Marilyn Monroe," she continued.

But this is the first time she has appeared in the George Axelrod comedy. "I got cold feet before. I got scared because I hadn't been on live stage very much and most of my publicity has been through my photos."

Thoroughly enjoying her role, she hopes to take "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?" to London when it finishes its run at the Arlington Park Theatre Dec. 19.

And in answer to what every woman wants to know, "No, I should, but I don't watch my diet. I jog around quite a bit; in fact I jog around here."

If you see a petite platinum blond streaking around the hotel, it more than likely is Mamie herself.

BUT SHE SAYS she doesn't have any problem being followed by admirers when she goes out in public.

"Of course, I'm not dressed like I am in the play," she said. "No one ever gives me a second look really. Or if I get looks, it's the kind — they've seen me from somewhere but don't know where. When I'm dressed up though . . . that's different."

by GENIE CAMPBELL

If by chance you think you hear stanzas of Carl Sandberg's "Chicago" seep through the pipes of your kitchen sink, don't let it alarm you. It's simply a good indication that Robert Strom is fixing your drain.

By trade, the newcomer to Schaumburg is a plumber. He has been one for 15 years. It's how he pays his rent and buys his groceries. And Strom will even admit that he doesn't mind handling pipes and monkey wrenches. It's a livelihood. But the plumber by day turns into a poet by night.

At the end of a working day, Strom changes from his denim workman's uniform into a suit and tie, gets into one of two wildly painted automobiles he owns with his entire repertoire represented in scenes, and arrives at a club meeting where he is billed as the special speaker, "The Poetic Plumber."

HAVING RECITED poetry in public for well over three years now, Strom knows by heart over 75 different pieces. He recites legendary ballads about puffed-up heroes like a baseball player named Casey who struck out at the wrong time, or thought-provoking works by the contemporary poet Lawrence Ferlinghetti, whose "Christ Climbed Down" is often requested around this time.

But his memory span also includes his favorite, "The Prophet" by Kahlil Gibran, which he will soon be able to recite in its entirety, and "The Creation" from the Book of Genesis. Strom even writes a little bit of his own stuff, mostly political satires.

Bob's affinity for poetry was first instilled in him by his mother. As he grew older, Strom did a lot of reading on his own. When he was ready to recite, speech teachers helped him with the timing.

"MEMORY IS ONE part of it," he said, "but feeling is another. If I don't like the material, I can't memorize it. I got so wrapped up in Carl Sandberg's 'Chicago' I had to complete it. After I've recited something once, it's a lot easier to do."

His public recitations all began while he was still working in Rockford, his former address. One day while completing a job at a school, he laid aside his wrenches and went into one of the classrooms where he began reciting poetry for the kids. The children were delighted with the poet plumber and the principal equally pleased. Strom started receiving requests to speak at other schools.

CLASSROOM audiences are still Strom's favorite, particularly high schools where in his denim work clothes and hard hat with "love" and "peace" spelled out in colorful bold letters, he recites a number of political numbers. His recitation is always followed by a question and answer period.

"I've only had one bad experience," said Strom. "One time I used some material I wasn't really familiar with and completely lost my audience."

And then, too, Strom was asked to leave one job because he attempted to recite to his buddies while still in the middle of a plumbing problem. He's learned to never mix the two.

But with calling cards like Strom's, no one can help but notice he's into more than just plumbing. "They're almost too much to drive around," he smiles about his two psychedelic-looking cars painted for him by high school students.

In addition to Strom's regular programs he will upon request double for the Easter Bunny around the appropriate season.

A FORMER MEMBER of the Oak Park Ski Club, Strom, during one week-end excursion to Michigan, devised a bunny suit complete with ski goggles as a joke.

"I took the costume up to the top of the slope, put it on and went soaring down. It caused quite a stir. I did it because beginning skiers are called bunnies."

The rabbit outfit has been put to different use the past couple of springs when Strom has posed as the Easter Bunny at various restaurants and shopping centers reciting poetry and handing out Easter eggs to the kids.

Strom has all kinds of hopes and ideas for his poetry recitations. He dreams of being sponsored one day by a large manufacturer that would fund him to tour schools across the country. He has even been thinking about reciting at weddings.

Yet presently he remains content spending his days adjusting pipes and his evenings entertaining area organizations.

She Has Warmth

Why Carol Burnett's A Success

by DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — How do you explain Carol Burnett?

She's the only girl since Dinah Shore who has made a success of fronting a TV variety show, and many have tried. Now in her fifth season on CBS, she heads up one of the four variety shows on TV this season, the only one with a girl in charge.

She is attractive, but hardly beautiful. She sings well, but not great. She is no whirlwind as a dancer. What she has going for her are two major assets — she is unexcelled as a comedienne, and she has that rare quality of warmth that conquers the coldness of the TV screen.

Folks back home in their living rooms get the feeling that Carol is a friend, and that's the stuff of TV success.

It looks as if she's going to become a hardy perennial on TV. Before she's done, she may break Ed Sullivan's longevity record. The only thing that can possibly stop her is her own desire.

AT THE MOMENT, she has that desire. She loves her work, the people she works with, the whole operation of turning out a show every week.

"It feels like a part-time job to me," she says. "I'm always home in time to be with the kids when they come home from school. I have a week off every once in a while. And I have long vacations in the summer. It's super."

She's content. She isn't looking for new worlds to conquer, but the new worlds are looking for her.

CBS keeps after her to do specials, in addition to her regular show. She and Julie Andrews got together for one, taped in New York's Philharmonic Hall, which will be aired Dec. 7.

This spring, she'll do her second movie — the first one was something she'd rather forget. It will be a Ross Hunter production called "Hollywood, Hollywood," and it's a '30s film (Hunter had success in that era before, with "Thoroughly Modern Milie"). The story of a singing star and a dancing star and the girl who dubs in their singing and dancing.

MITZI GAYNOR and Carol will play two of the three leads, but the third part has not yet been cast.

There is also talk of doing "Once Upon a Mattress," the vehicle which propelled her to fame on the Broadway stage, again as either a movie or a TV special. It was done once on TV, but Carol wasn't happy with the result.

She says that Joe Barbera, of the Hanna-Barbera animation cartel, wants to do it as a combination live-animation TV special.

"He has made some wonderful sketches," Carol says, "but it's too expensive to be done right now."

Helping to make Carol's current existence beautiful are her three daughters — Carrie, 7; Jody, 4; Erin, 3. She says all three are comics and they'd like to be the Hamilton Trio (Carol is married to her producer, Joe Hamilton) except that there already was a Hamilton Trio, which used to dance on the old Show of Shows.

THIS FALL, Erin started nursery school and came home from her first day and announced that she had a boy friend in school, and he was black.

Carrie looked up from her coloring book and said, "Guess who's coming to dinner."

CAROL BURNETT, at rear, will star with Julie Andrews in a television special to be broadcast next Tuesday (Dec. 7).

Carol remembers that, at their ages, she was interested in being funny, too. Growing up in Hollywood, she went to the movies about four times a week with her grandmother. It was a great primer to entertainment, and she learned her lessons well.

"I Left My Heart in San Francisco" — so go the lyrics to the popular song. Well, I recently returned from a trip to that fabled city, and let me tell you, on the No. 59 Powell-Mason cable car which leads from the busy corner of Powell and Market, in the center of the shopping district, lurches up and over Nob Hill, and careens down to the sights and smells of Fisherman's Wharf, I was in imminent danger of losing something else.

For 25 cents you can enjoy (or endure, if you're queasy), one of the most thrilling roller coaster rides in the country, complete with scenic splendor and a stellar performance by the "grimman." Just a word of caution (which I learned the hard way, by being bumped in the rear anatomy by his elbow), when you board the car, turn to the back, immediately. Otherwise, his energetic gyrations as he alternately grips and disengages the cable with his lever may catch you unawares. He is the prima ballerina of the trolley set, and most of the drivers I saw were as muscular as the Olympic weight lifting team.

San Francisco, so they say, has always been the place for wild and fanciful dreamers, and when Andrew S. Hallidie, London-born inventor and engineer, hit upon the notion in the 1870s of a cable running underground which could pull passengers up and down the steep grades of the city, the population took him and his invention to its ample heart.

We were told that the total number of passengers carried is about 25,000 per day, on the 39 cars which are in use most of the time. Occasionally a disabled veteran must be sent home to the car barn for repair. The wear and tear of the mechanisms, which must pull cars up grades in excess of 21 per cent, keeps a corps of repairmen busy.

The cars are essentially the same as they were in the 1870s, with few innovations. A concession to progress was allowed in 1964 when windshield wipers were installed. The gay, old-fashioned little "dinkies" sport florentine glass windows in the inside section and bright gold, red and black "circus" type lettering and advertising all around the outside. They seat from 30 to 34 and also provide precarious running boards for another 15 to 20 standees. You can tell the old-timers by the nonchalant way they hang on to a hat with one hand, read the newspaper gripped in the other and maintain a tenuous hold on the brass pole with a casual elbow.

There are two kinds of cars: double ends and single ends. Doubles may be driven from either end, but the single must be turned around on a turntable at the end of the line. It was explained that passengers used to help, but that too many suits for sprained wrists or pulled backs became involved, and now the conductor and grimman do the job. The cars aren't heated, and, in fact, one is wise to wear a warm wrap any time in this remarkable town. As Mark Twain once observed, "one of the coldest winters I ever spent was a summer in San Francisco."

The beloved dinkies enjoy a secure future, since a city committee was mobilized to "Save the cable cars" when they were threatened with extinction in 1947. The majority of voters are solidly behind the little antique toy trams, which operate at a loss, but which are as much a part of San Francisco as the Golden Gate.

At the Barn, home of the cars, one may visit exhibits showing examples of all the cars made and receive a demonstration of the mysterious goings on underground which make it all possible. The power house, which looks like an elaborate, giant-sized erector set, hums with energy and is painted the same Gay Nineties colors as the cars. The old retired cars are much in demand, and a few are housed in transportation museums throughout the world. I asked what the price would be, and the affable guide said "$5,000, plus postage." None are available for collectors at the present time.

Women's Lib won a "toehold" in 1965 when ladies were allowed, for the first time, to stand on the outside running boards, which had been male bastions ever since the first car ran. I hastened inside on every ride, leaving the lib and the rarified breezes to harder spirits.

"ON BEING DIFFERENT — WHAT IT MEANS TO BE A HOMOSEXUAL," BY MERLE MILLER.

Random House, $4.50

"DANCING THE GAY LIB BLUES," BY ARTHUR BELL.

Simon & Schuster, $5.95

If there were ever an argument for not judging people by such over-all categories as "homosexual," it is to be found in the vast differences between these two books and the chasm they reveal between the separate worlds of the two authors.

Miller is a talented, and successful writer who had a good deal to lose by "coming out of the closet" as he did — in the New York Times, of all places, where part of this introspective originality appeared. The thing is that while Miller is writing about being different, he doesn't seem different, except perhaps more articulate, than some of our more intelligent friends.

Not so Arthur Bell, and even less so some of his friends, such as the transvestite "queens." Theirs is strictly the under 30 generation of radicals and their radicalism is by no means means limited to their sexual proclivities. Perhaps if Mr. Bell were the writer Mr. Miller is, it would be easier to empathize with his marijuana-smoking activist "gays." But an over-30 reader has the feeling that if Mr. Bell uses the term "zap" once more, the reader would like to give him back a good solid "zap" in the vocabulary.

John Hanauer (UPI)

"RUSSIANS IN SPACE," BY EVGENY RIABCHIKOV.

Doubleday, $10

Evgeny Riabchikov has written a colorful account of the lives and experiences of the Soviet Union's cosmonauts. In so doing he has expanded on previous accounts provided by cosmonauts Yuri A. Gagarin, Cherman S. Tlov and a number of Soviet popular writers which have been available in the Soviet Union and abroad.

"Russians in Space" also contains 153 photographs of Soviet spacecraft, cosmonauts and other pertinent subjects. While most of these have been seen before, there are several that are being published for the first time.

From a Western reader's point of view, however, there is a serious criticism of the work. The book was written by a Soviet author in the Soviet Union and is being published first in New York by special agreement between Doubleday and the Novosti Publishing House of Moscow. It has had, therefore to follow the guidelines of the Soviet censor and skirt subjects which are considered sensitive in the Soviet Union.

There are some notable omissions. Admittedly the book avoids politics. But it seems unbalanced, to say the least, to publish a photograph of Communist Party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev with some of the cosmonauts and yet give no credit to the late Nikita Khrushchev, a prime mover in giving momentum to the Soviet space program.

Nicholas Daniloff (UPI)

"TALKING TO MYSELF," BY PEARL BAILEY.

Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, $5.95

The word for Pearl Bailey's philosophy of life is "love" and in "Talking to Myself," her second book, she tells how she loves God and people and babies and nature and friends and mankind. And there are a few bigots she doesn't really like at all.

It is a fascinating little book, one in which she jotted down her thoughts and reminiscences and poems and things pretty much the way they popped into her head. An editor might even find it disjointed, but all of the joints add up to Pearl talking to herself.

There is an amusing account of the night at "Dolly" when she lured former President Lyndon B. Johnson and Lady Bird up onto the stage to the horror of the Secret Servicemen in the audience. And what are especially pleasing are the occasional little poems that crop up like jewels. One of them:

"The Years"
The years pass
We grow — Upward, Downward,
Into eternity,
Into nowhere,
As the years pass
We go.

Walter Logan (UPI)

THE WOODS, BY CHARLES B. SEIB.

Doubleday, $4.95

Charley Seib not only has gone to the woods and built a better cabin than Henry David Thoreau. He has written what in some ways is a better story about the experiences.

Thoreau, if you've forgotten, was a two-year dropout from his family pencil factory. A rereading of the meandering prose in "Walden," his account of the period he spent building and living alone in a primitive 10 by 15 foot shelter suggests he may have been one of the factory's staid customers.

Seib, who is managing editor of the Washington Star, built his solid 16 by 20 foot cabin on weekends over three years. And he has recounted the task in the crisp, clear manner to be expected of a good newspaperman. His style happily runs to short, simple sentences, a little dry humor, and philosophizing much less lofty than Thoreau's.

He also tells us a lot more about how, without neglecting why, he built his house in the woods. This is not a manual on construction of cabins. But it does include drawings and building details that might encourage some other harassed big city types to take the same route to partial escape.

New officers were elected recently for the Northwest Choraleettes from Northwest Suburban YMCA in Des Plaines.

Colleen Crombie of Rolling Meadows was elected president. Other officers include Sue Fanchboner, Mount Prospect, vice-president; Lorraine Baly, Park Ridge, secretary; Ellen Bland, Mount Prospect, treasurer.

The Choraleettes are directed by Pat Ferguson of Des Plaines and membership is open to all women who enjoy singing.

New members are Jeannine Carroll, Jeannette Ericson, Gloria Strauss, all of Arlington Heights; Joan Ramsay of Des Plaines; Ann Bisio and Liz Weber, Elk Grove Village; Ellen Bland and Katherine Burger, Mount Prospect; Pat McDonald and Jan Ross, Palatine; Norma Gau of Prospect Heights, and Rose Black of Wheeling.

DAVID LAUGHLIN, a sculptor residing in Niles, will exhibit his bronzes, steel and copper sculptures at the Larew Gallery in Evanston during December. The artist will be present at a reception in his honor this Sunday, 3 to 7 p.m.

The sculptor often works with religious subjects and several pieces he has done are located in the area. He is the creator of the large copper "memorial" panel in the education wing of First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights. He also did the large bronze fountain for Palatine National Bank.

Laughlin has also designed a number of interiors for area churches. One of his specialties is liturgical symbolism. Among his recent works are the chancels of Trinity Lutheran Church of Rolling Meadows and Immanuel Lutheran Church of Palatine.

The sculptures on exhibit are scaled for the private collector instead of the large public commissions for which he is best known.

Night Out

'A Christmas Carol' Opens At Mill Run

A new musical version of "A CHRISTMAS CAROL" opens the holiday season at the MILL RUN CHILDREN'S THEATRE this weekend. The production is being staged at 1 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays through Jan. 2.

Adapted for the stage from the book by Charles Dickens, "A Christmas Carol" stars George Womack as Scrooge. He is assisted by the Tiffany Players, a company of professional adult actors and actresses. General admission price is $1.50. Information, 296-2333.

Following "A Christmas Carol," the Rodgers and Hammerstein Musical, "CINDERELLA," will return to the Mill Run Children's Theater on weekends Jan. 8 through Sunday, Jan. 23.

Continuing at MILL RUN THEATRE through Sunday is SAMMY DAVIS JR.

Sammy Davis Jr.

He will be followed by MITZI GAY-NOR, who opens at the theater next Tuesday for six days. Tickets, 296-2170.

JUDY ANDREWS and the NEW EXPERIENCE are currently entertaining guests in the TACK ROOM SHOW LOUNGE of the ARLINGTON PARK TOWERS.

This Sunday, Deaf Children, Unlimited is holding one of several annual fund-raising benefits at ARLINGTON PARK THEATRE. Over 300 persons will attend the theater's current production of "WILL SUCCESS SPOIL ROCK HUNTER?" starring Mamie Van Doren and Rick Jason.

Deaf Children, Unlimited is affiliated with The Alexander Graham Bell Association for the Deaf. Tickets, $7, are available through Mr. or Mrs. Bob Speros, 255-5516.

Area Author At Open House

A local author, Richard Dunlop of Arlington Heights, will be guest of honor at an autographing party this Sunday at the Book Nook in Mount Prospect.

Dunlop will be autographing copies of his most recent book, "Great Trails of the West." The open house begins at 1 p.m. and continues until 5 p.m.

A native Chicagoan and a graduate of Northwestern University, Richard Dunlop did "cloak and dagger" work for General Donovan's OSS in Burma and China during World War II.

After the war he became chairman of a committee to build an agricultural and mechanical school in north Burma for the Kachin people and also was a Washington correspondent for Newsweek's Periscope.

DUNLOP'S ARTICLES have appeared in such magazines as Reader's Digest, Saturday Evening Post, Today's Health, Better Homes and Gardens and Holiday.

He is author of "Doctors of the American Frontier," published by Doubleday, as well as Doubleday paperbacks on St. Louis, the Mississippi River and Burma.

Richard Dunlop

His current book, "Great Trails of the West," is published by the Abingdon Press. He is now working on a book on the OSS which will be issued by G. P. Putnam. He is co-editor of the Texaco Touring Atlas and for seven years was author of The Rand McNally Vacation Guide.

Dunlop is a seasoned traveler along the great trails of the West. Over a period of five years he and members of his family hiked, drove or rode over the routes of

Country Chords In Yule Concert

The Country Chords Chapter of Sweet Adelines will present "The Secret of Christmas" next Sunday, Dec. 11, at St. Viator High School in Arlington Heights. The program will begin at 8 p.m.

The chorus, composed of 50 women from the northwest suburban area, was organized in 1959 and since then, has provided musical entertainment for hospitals, nursing homes, churches and various civic organizations.

Featured in the show will be the Rarities, 1970 International Queens of Harmony from Racine, Wis.; the Counterpoints, 1969 regional champions from Mount Prospect; and the "Natural Aires," another chapter quartet. Mistress of ceremonies will be Jewel King.

Women interested in singing barbershop harmony are invited to attend chorus rehearsals, 8:15 p.m., every Tuesday at Camelot Park in Arlington Heights.

Further information about the program is available through Evelyn Wochel, 255-6886.

'Christmas Carol' On DPTG Stage

Des Plaines Theatre Guild is staging its children's play, "A Christmas Story" this weekend, Saturday, 1:30 and 3 p.m., and Sunday, 3 p.m.

"A Christmas Story" is a continuation of the famous Dickens' story, "A Christmas Carol." Scrooge, in this tale, has mended his ways and is a rather pleasant old gent.

Reservations are available through the box office, 296-1211. The play is being staged at the Guild Playhouse, 620 Lee St., Des Plaines.

Madrigal Singing At Arlington Library

A program featuring madrigal singing by the Town and Country Chorus will be presented Sunday, 2 p.m., in the Dunton Room of the Arlington Heights Memorial Library.

The performance will include Elizabethan English madrigals as well as others from Italy, Germany, France and the U.S.A. The chorus will also sing favorite Christmas carols.

The Town and Country Chorus is directed by Kenneth Eidson, a teacher for School District 15. A graduate of Northwestern University, he has sung with the Robert Shaw Chorus and the Chicago Symphony and has also taught at Northwestern University.

The program is being sponsored by The Friends of the Library.

Elk Grove Chorus Presents 'Winterset'

The Elk Grove Festival Chorus is presenting "Winterset," its annual Christmas concert, this Sunday at Grove Junior High School in Elk Grove Village.

Under the direction of Anthony V. Mostardo, the chorus will feature both familiar and unfamiliar carols. Two programs will be presented, 2:30 and 7:30 p.m.

Tickets, $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children, will be available at the door. Further information, 529-7208.

Will Announce Winter Olympics

NBC's announcers for the XI Winter Olympic Games from Sapporo, Japan, Feb. 2-13, will be Curt Gowdy, Jim Simpson, Jay Randolph, Al Michaels, Peggy Fleming, Billy Kidd, Terry McDermott and Art Devlin. The last four, of course, are former Olympic participants.

Art League Members To Judge Paintings

Next Tuesday members of the Mount Prospect Art League will become judges to participate in their own critique.

Each member is invited to submit a painting for the evening's judging. Since this is a group effort planned specifically to encourage active audience participation only honorable mention awards will be given out, said Judy Schreiber, publicity chairman for the league. Everyone attending will have an opportunity to both view and judge each piece, she added.

The critique will begin at 8 p.m. in the Mount Prospect Community Center.

Knee Pants

With all the fashion freedom — lots of different lengths and lots of layers — pants, too, are offering many different looks. Now there are wide flared bellbottoms, straight legs, knickers, gauchos and knee pants. Knee pants are slightly longer and closer fitting than the gauchos, a little like the pedal-pusher of the days of yore, but with bright tights adding a modern flair. Pants that come in regular length may be rolled to look like the new roll-ups. So much for fashion freedom.

The Score On TVs

The Oct. 1 score on color television sets, according to NBC, was 31 million American households, or 50.1 per cent of same. This was a gain of more than one million in the third quarter of 1971.

at the Chateau Louise

The NEW YEAR's of Thirty Two!

The 38th anniversary of the repeal of prohibition

The Chateau Louise proudly announces the coming of its famous Prohibition New Year's Eve Celebration.

A speakeasy atmosphere will reign throughout the Chateau Louise as we merrily welcome in the New Year and bid a fond adieu to the old. It will be another one of our gala private parties, by advance reservation. The festivities will start at 9:30 and continue all night long.

The price of the complete party will be, $24.95 per person. This will include a full five-course gourmet dinner (see enclosed menu) with your choice of three different delectable entrees. With your dinner, you will receive as much champagne as you can possibly drink, starting with the serving of the relish and ending with dessert. The champagne with this dinner is included in the price; any booze, or before and after dinner drinks, will be extra. Favors (tokens, noise-makers, hats, etc.) will be given to all guests to help them celebrate the coming of the New Year.

Our Cabaret will include a variety of entertainment with unusual surprises. A really swell time will be had by all.

Reservations should be accompanied by a minimum deposit of $10.00 per couple. No reservations will be held without deposit. Deposits will be refunded in full on any cancellation before December 15th.

Payment in full on any reservation should be received by December 15th or the reservation will have to be considered canceled.

Come as "formal" as you like — or look in the attic trunks for some flapper fun!

Early reservation will have their choice of tables of course. Act now, and receive your favorite spot, just fill out the reservation form, enclose your deposit of $10.00 per couple, and mail.

All reservations must be confirmed by telephone, letter, or personal visit before considered accepted.

Jaycees Sponsor Inmate Art Show

Inmates of the Illinois State Penitentiary at Joliet will exhibit their art this weekend in a show being sponsored by the Hoffman Estates Jaycees.

Profits from the sale of the art work will aid in supporting the Joliet Prison Complex school system.

Original paintings created by the inmates will be exhibited between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. tomorrow and Sunday in the Conant High School cafeteria.

More than 1500 paintings by 300 artists will be on sale. Prices will range from $2 to $200 with a total cash value of approximately $20,000.

JAYCEE PROJECT chairman Michael W. Marxer said that the local chapter hopes to reach a goal between $2,000 and $4,000. Since it is a non-profit event, however, no money will be retained by the Hoffman Estates group.

"We are sincerely hoping that our work will serve as a model for other local chapters," said Marxer, "And be undertaken at both state and national levels with little difficulty."

"During the winter months, prisoners are locked in their cells as early as 4 p.m. and remain confined in this seven-foot world until 7 a.m. the next day," Marxer continued.

Since inmates are not permitted to have tools or equipment of any type, they are limited to merely sitting, reading, writing or painting.

"THE AMOUNT AND quality of inmate-produced art is astounding, but over and above that, it also provides a man with an opportunity for a potential career upon release," he said.

On a wider scale, prison art shows could easily be coordinated by the East Joliet Jaycees, an inmate chapter.

Eighty per cent of the profits will be returned to the inmate with the additional 20 per cent going to the school system.

Presently the prison schools are supported totally by the inmates through a percentage of profits derived from items sold at the commissary.

The Joliet Complex educational program is supervised by Terry Bergin, superintendent, and his assistant, Dave Clinton.

THE CRITICAL need for this project was determined when a visit to the prison school revealed that the only usable educational materials that the schools had for the 1500 inmates at Stateville would hardly fill the average home bookshelf.

"With the proper type of funding, meaningful assistance to the prison school system could make a significant difference to many inmates," Marxer commented.

DISCUSSING THE prison inmate art show to be held this weekend are the Jaycee project chairman, Michael Marxer, and the superintendent of the Joliet Complex educational program, Terry Bergin.

Country Music Gets New Home

by ALLEN MUSE
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Country music is going back to the country — and it's going in style.

On a tight loop of the Cumberland River east of Nashville, 370 acres of pasture and woodland is being transformed into Opryland, U.S.A., which promoters call "The Home of American Music."

In addition to housing the Friday and Saturday night performances of the Grand Ole Opry, the Opryland complex, will offer flashes of American music history—country, folk, gospel, western and rock.

It will be the seventh home for the Grand Ole Opry radio show, the longest continuously broadcast program in radio history.

"No effort is being wasted to give this area a warm, homespun appearance," said John Kretschmer, an Opryland official.

"IT'S NOT GOING to be just a bunch of rides, although there is an amusement park aspect to it."

He outlined five distinctly American areas of music and said each is being developed in a themed portion of the park, which will include rides, live musical performances and capsule histories of the music.

"For instance," Kretschmer said, "there'll be a riverside area, showing how jazz, rhythm and blues fits into the music picture of America."

"Then there's a western area where the old ballads and the influence of the Spanish guitar on America's music is shown."

"The idea is to give a cultural understanding of our music, while having a good time."

OTHER AREAS will portray folk music from the Appalachian Mountains and hills, traditional country music and the rock and pop music of today.

Nothing is to be animated, tinseled or covered with glitter.

Even the merry-go-round is no typical, carnival model.

It was made in Germany over 90 years

IVC Sells Gourmet Booklets

As a fund raising project, the International Visitors Center (IVC) is selling special gourmet coupon booklets.

A coupon for each of 20 different restaurants in the Chicago area allows two people to eat for practically the price of one. Only the higher priced of the two meals has to be paid. A coupon covers the second.

All 20 restaurants featured in the book, including the Bavarian Haus in Wheeling and Bimbo's in Palatine, serve ethnic food.

Also included in the booklet are coupons for Armando's, specializing in Italian food; La Champagne with French cuisine; and Efendi with Turkish food. The price of the coupon booklet is $10.

IN THE SPIRIT of extending a friendly hand, the International Visitors Center, founded in 1954, provides Chicago contacts for both foreign visitors and students attending colleges and universities in the area.

Over 3500 foreign visitors came through the Center's doors this year. Besides the professional programming, the Center makes it possible for the foreign visitor to Chicago to meet its members in their homes, to dine with them and learn something about our mores.

In turn, members of the International Visitors Center have the opportunity to gain further insight into customs, cultures and ideas from around the world.

IVC IS A private organization which receives no government financing and is supported entirely by individual and corporate contributions. Over 50 residents of Arlington Heights are members of the International Visitors Center.

Those wishing to purchase coupon booklets may order through Mrs. Peter Diol, 358-4914. One free book is given out with every order of 12.

JANE GONSALVES of Tanzania, Africa, student at Chicago Circle Campus, offers William Narup of Arlington Heights, member of the International Visitors Center, a sample of a native dish. The IVC is selling gourmet coupon booklets to help support the center.

The Home Line by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: After purchasing a used car recently, I noticed a strong odor in the back seat upholstery. I've used various cleaning solutions, but the odor is still as strong as ever. Could you help me get rid of this odor? —R.K.

There are certain odors that are all but impossible to get out, especially in something like upholstery. However, you've bought the car and anything you try might be a plus though it will be experimental. Make some holes in some paper plates and cover the surface of the plates with activated charcoal granules. Leave them on the seat for at least 48 hours. If anything will draw out an odor this amazingly absorptive material will.

Dear Dorothy: This is not directly a Home Line question but I'm sure your readers would be interested in it. Mushrooms are zooming up everywhere — pillows, pictures, ceramics and so on. I've been asked if there is any symbolic meaning connected with mushrooms. Would you happen to know? —Mrs. Wm. H. McFarland.

Have never heard of any symbolism regarding mushrooms. Has any reader? My off-the-cuff guess is that its sudden popularity might well be the copycat tendencies of most manufacturers.

Dear Dorothy: If you are about to travel in areas that get pretty cold, don't forget to put a blanket in the trunk. If the car stalls, it can get pretty cold waiting for assistance. Also, it's smart to keep a shovel or carton of sand on hand to get out of ice and snow. —June Abbott.

Dear Dorothy: Ever since I read in your column that garlic powder should be stored in the refrigerator, I've never had to worry about it getting hard. Thanks again. —Roberta M.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to Dorothy Ritz in care of Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

At Home In Arlington, Va.

Miriam Jean Willging's bridegroom, John Creighton Hottinger, is a staff lawyer with the Democratic Study Group on Capitol Hill, and the newlyweds are making their home in Arlington, Va. Daughter of the Norbert E. Willgings of Mount Prospect, Miriam is a graduate of Sacred Heart of Mary High School and Marymount College, Arlington Va. She is employed at George Washington University Hospital in Washington, D.C.

Her bridegroom, son of Dr. and Mrs. Raymond C. Hottinger, Janesville, Minn., is a graduate of the College of St. Thomas in St. Paul, Minn., and received his juris doctorate degree at Georgetown University, Washington, D.C.

The couple's wedding took place Oct. 30 in St. Raymond de Penefort Church, Mount Prospect, during a one o'clock mass. The double ring service was followed by a reception in Rolling Green Country Club for 125 guests.

MIRIAM'S WEDDING gown was of ivory silk faille with Victorian neckline of Alencon lace and modified Empire bodice with long, tapered sleeves ending in lace ruffles at the wrists. A Camelot headpiece of lace held her full-length veil, and she carried a ballerina bouquet of white roses, miniature carnations, stephanotis and Starburst poms.

Julie Willging, a student at the University of Tulsa, was her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Cindy Haiduke, Elk Grove Village, another sister, Mary Joan Willging; and Karen Frolich of Boston, college roommate of the bride. All wore lavender satin gowns trimmed with wide bands of shaded lavender metallic ribbon. Their headpieces were miniature Camelot caps in lavender. The maid of honor had a deep purple veil that fell to the hemline of her floor-length gown and the bridesmaids had deep purple velvet ribbons. All carried purple asters with lavender baby's breath.

WILLIAM VOGLER of Janesville was John's best man. Also attending the groom were Greg Dahl, a brother-in-law from Coon Rapids, Minn., Michael Groark, a fraternity brother from Chicago; Michael Groebner, Janesville; the bride's brother David Willging, Mount Prospect, and Ken Penn of Chicago, also a fraternity brother.

The newlyweds honeymooned for two weeks in West Palm Beach, Fla., and in the Bahamas.

Painting Shades

It isn't difficult to paint window shades free-hand, to stencil or to spray paint on simple graphics with oil, acrylic or vinyl paints.

Whatever the method, one should always work on a surface large enough to support shade until paint is dry. (UPI).

GUESTS AT recent Chicago Heart Association benefit were Mr. and Mrs. Lambert Bradehoff, Plum Grove Estates, Palatine. Mr. Bradehoff is a member of the Association's board.

Stash Cash

There are always the fun times when carrying a pocketbook would seem to be too troublesome. But then there is always the remembrance of your dad's warning saying always carry some money with you. The solution. Get hold of the pouch that hangs freely from the belt or the belt pockets that let you inconspicuously stash your cash.

You've seen it on TV.

Next On The Agenda

SAINTPAULIA SOCIETY

The annual Christmas party for the Suburban Saintpaulia Society takes place Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Clarence Paeglow, 2703 Meadow Drive, Rolling Meadows. It begins at 11 a.m.

ST. EMILY WOMEN'S CLUB

The December meeting of St. Emily Women's Club will feature a program on Christmas floral arrangements, to be given by Kellen's Country Florist. The group meets next Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. in the school hall, 1400 E. Central Road, Mount Prospect.

ASSOCIATE NEWCOMERS

Reservations are due by Monday for the Christmas luncheon of the Associate Newcomers Club of Arlington Heights. It takes place Wednesday at Old Orchard Country Club, one-half hour earlier than usual. Cocktails will be served at noon and the meal at 12:30.

There will be a $1 gift exchange, and after luncheon the group will play cards. Guests are welcome. Mrs. Gordon Kubiak, 259-4138, and Mrs. James Smith, 392-7973, are taking reservations.

BETH TIKVAH SISTERHOOD

Both Tikvah Sisterhood will celebrate its 14th birthday by combining the November and December meetings into one on Wednesday evening at 8:30 at the Temple, 275 Hillcrest Blvd., Hoffman Estates.

Dr. Richard Maltz, psychologist, will be guest speaker. A toy discount sale is planned after the meeting and program.

Mrs. David Roth, 529-2693, has details on the sale.

ST. EDNA WOMAN'S CLUB

St. Edna Woman's Club will have its general meeting Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the parish hall. "Twas The Night Before," a musical Christmas play starring the children of the parish, will be presented. Friends and neighbors are invited to the meeting at 2525 N. Arlington Heights Road.

WOMEN OF THE MOOSE

Dr. Baranowski of the Maine Township Mental Health Center will discuss mental health services in Maine Township at the Social Service Night to be held next Thursday by Des Plaines Chapter of the Women of the Moose.

Because of the approaching holidays, the December business meeting will be held early. It will take place Thursday, Dec. 16. Co-workers are asked to bring a $1 grab bag gift for the Christmas party.

Two Parties For Newcomers

Arlington Heights Newcomers will be dining and dancing Saturday evening at Rolling Meadows Holiday Inn and dining out again Wednesday for luncheon at the Lancer Steak House in Schaumburg.

The newcomer club's "Winter Wonderland" dinner dance Saturday begins at 7:30 p.m. with cocktails, followed by a steak dinner and then dancing to the music of Jerry Dittman and his orchestra.

Reservations can still be made with dinner chairman Mrs. James Hecky, 259-9185.

RESERVATIONS FOR Wednesday's luncheon should be made by noon Monday with Mrs. Paul Nowak, 394-1294, or Mrs. Thomas Hanagan, 392-1039. Those attending are asked to bring a $2 grab bag gift, also a used toy in good condition which the club will donate to underprivileged children at Christmas.

Membership in the newcomer club is open to women living in Arlington Heights for 18 months or less.

Santa's Invited To A Luncheon

Santa Claus will be on the program next Wednesday at the Millionaires Club, Golf Mill, when Cambridge Woman's Club holds its monthly luncheon. He'll be handing out the $1 grab bag gifts brought by members.

Members will also be bringing ornaments to decorate a Christmas tree that will be donated to Little City.

Cocktails will be available at noon and luncheon will be served at 1. There will be a fashion show during the luncheon according to the hostesses, Mrs. J. Driscoll, Mrs. W. Woelke and Mrs. G. Carter. Anyone needing transportation to the luncheon may call 537-3978.

Marianne J. Ast Engaged To Wed

ONTARIO SQUARE

apartments in Hanover Park

Beautiful Living...

...Happy People

Far from the city's noise... you enjoy the seasonal changes free of the responsibilities they involve. Delightful neighbors share your enjoyment of the varied recreation, and your spacious apartment is a home to which you'll proudly welcome guests.

These air conditioned studio one and two bedroom apartments are designed with maximum wall space to give you versatility in room arrangement. Bedrooms are deliberately isolated for privacy and quiet. Efficient, coen-plan kitchen includes stove, refrigerator and disposal as well as fine wood cabinets with ample counter surfaces. Heat, gas and water included in your rent. Custom Furnishings Plan available.

You'll find the quiet of the country right at home. Outdoor grills for barbecuing, watching the children romp on sturdy playground equipment. You'll enjoy everything more on the beautifully maintained grounds at Ontario Square.

ONTARIO SQUARE

apartments in Hanover Park

Ontario Square is the newest Vavrus complex located in Hanover Park. 1 1/2 blocks from the Milwaukee Road RR. New studio, one and two bedroom apartments, some with one and one-half baths. Wall to wall shag carpeting and color coordinated kitchens.

Prices Start At $125

You pay less for more... more atmosphere... more recreation... more leisure time... more living space... more of the good things of life. Ontario Square is easy to reach. Take Route 59 and turn east on Lake Street (Route 20) to Ontarioville Road and turn right.

The Best Daily Newspaper in Illinois

Paddock Publications was recently awarded First Place for General Excellence in the 1970 Illinois Press Association Newspaper Competition.

In achieving this recognition, Paddock Publications surpassed other daily newspapers in the state, including the four metropolitan dailies of Chicago (Tribune was No. 2).

Additional First Place awards were presented for Best Photography, Best News Story, Best Typography and Makeup and Best Sports Coverage.

We appreciate these awards and extend a hearty "thank you" to the Illinois Press Association, and to our many readers and advertisers who share these awards with us.

Congratulations, You've Picked a Winner!

Prairieville USA

The History of Arlington Heights by Daisy Paddock Daniels

Young, affluent, educated, sophisticated in taste and aspiration. This is the profile of Arlington Heights today.

Hardy, self-reliant, oriented to the soil, simple in taste and modest in aspiration. This is the Arlington Heights of yesterday.

How this change evolved and came about is told in "Prairieville, U.S.A.," a new book by Daisy Paddock Daniels which traces the history of Arlington Heights and surrounding communities from the time of the French and Indian Wars to the present.

MONEY TALKS Family Finances: Mostly Catch-as-Catch-Can

By Donald F. Morton, President
 Arlington Heights Federal Savings & Loan Assn.

We know a lady who wouldn't think of throwing leftovers away. If there are not enough to put them into a container, she neatly wraps them in foil and stores them in her refrigerator. Then, when the time comes to review the refrigerator's contents, out go the containers and the foil-wrapped food. They are no longer edible, you see, and our friend can throw them away with a clear conscience.

Do you have a pet economy? You probably do, and we'd guess it's just as frivolous. There is a theory that each of us must do something — like saving string or reading the morning paper that others leave on the bus — to satisfy ourselves that we are "thrifty, money-wise" persons.

If you are like other Americans, your home finances are run pretty much on a catch-as-catch-can basis. Specialists in the field of home management get desperate about this picture of the average American household. "No business could succeed," says one, "if it were operated in the planless, unbudgeted way that American families handle their personal finance."

When you consider that a man making, say, an average $10,000 actually handles a half-million dollars over his working lifetime, you are amazed that so little of it has stuck to his fingers by the time he reaches retirement. It seems almost as difficult for the $15,000-a-year man or the $20,000-a-year man who have up to a million dollars going in, and out, of their pockets during their working lives.

It's fantastic how we all seem to come out barely even after a lifetime escapade with money.

The only planning most people do is to figure out whether a new car or vacuum cleaner will boost the monthly level of installment payments beyond their reach. This has become our way of "budgeting" — to the extent that many families don't care about the price of a new TV set or household appliance. They simply want to know what it will cost per week or month.

Doing business this way is expensive. One newspaper columnist reports on a lumber yard that opened on a cash-and-carry basis, with no end-of-the-month billings and no delivery of materials. The owners are giving other dealers a rough time, he notes, since they are selling at about 30% below other prices — and doing a huge business.

"I think if the thrifty ever get well organized, we might revolutionize merchandising," he comments.

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

North's two-club opening was artificial and forcing. South's two-diamond response was also artificial. In most systems this response is a sort of catch-all but North and South were playing JACOBY MODERN and this two-diamond call denied holding more than three high-card points.

North's three-club rebid showed a club suit as did South's bid of three spades. One of the great advantages of JACOBY MODERN is that the diamond response which denies more than three high-card points allows responder to show a bad suit later on with no fear that partner will take him too seriously.

North might have settled for three no-trump but he liked his hand and showed his four-card diamond suit. South went to five and North continued to slam.

The slam bid wasn't too frightful. South surely had at least four diamonds and it seemed to North there should be some day for six.

North turned out to be right. South held four diamonds plus the most valuable queen of hearts. He won the diamond lead; entered his hand with that heart queen and led a club. West took his ace and led a second trump. South won in dummy; ruffed a club; came to dummy with the spade ace; ruffed another

A few comments on commentary

If it's commentary you like, then it's commentary you get. Really, even if you don't like commentary, you're bound to get it sooner or later watching television or listening to radio. But then again...as they say in the business, if you don't like what you're watching or listening, turn it off!

Commentary is hard to define, but in these days following last year's Iowa tirade of one Spiro Agnew, we can all be pleased to know that it means something uttered that some figure to be a "no-no." In other words, it's not something objective...but quite subjective. What I can't figure out is exactly what you might be wondering these days. What isn't commentary?

It is extremely difficult to keep somebody's bias and prejudices out of a statement. But it is only within the past several years that people started questioning what was bias. Programming within the mass media is commentary. It is a reflection of what goes on about us, what we relate to. A commentary, if you will, on our times.

A television show contrived of incidents to which we—as viewers—could not relate wouldn't stand a chance of keeping an audience. Heaven knows even some of the programming to which we can relate doesn't have a chance.

So, in the early days of television, nice family-oriented programs filled our living rooms. But then—and only within the past decade—the full impact that television possesses started to be realized. Suddenly, the horrors of a presidential assassination or a jungle war were almost instantaneously transferred into our homes. And television news, once a weak-sister to the situation-comedies and the variety shows with their dancing bears, came of age.

There subsequently came news specials which probed into some of the problems and complex political situations that only newspapers had investigated before. And programs like CBS' "Selling of the Pentagon" aroused the interest, and the ire, of many.

Quickly, the response to such programming was heard from near and far. Some pro. Some con. And as a result of it all, it was decided to carefully label a news program—or a segment of same—as "commentary." Apparently, television executives determined that something labeled as such should not be construed as being objective. I hope they didn't expect people to assume that anything not tagged "commentary" was objective.

Because as "All in the Family" and other such new "entertainment" type shows reveal, it isn't only a newsman who comments on the world we live in today. I would not be a bit surprised to see a label—or disclaimer, perhaps—placed on entertainment programming in which a strong social, racial or ethnic comment is included.

It is the mass media which has been primarily responsible for the almost mind-fathoming menu of knowledge offered free people. It has often been said that you can't believe half of what you read and hear or see on television. That is for an individual to decide for himself.

At this stage of the game, I don't really know what effect the word COMMENTARY flashed on a screen will have on a viewing public. But here's betting we'll see a lot more of the word in the years to come.

In a recent column, this writer made several comments relative to the roller skating event showed on Sunday nights on WFLD, Channel 32.

I have been informed that the program (which I described as a "slug-'em, and hit-'em, and bite-'em free-for-all" disguised as a fun-filled sports show) aired by Channel 32 then is named "Roller Game of the Week," not "Roller Derby" as reported in this column.

"Roller Derby" is a registered trademark name belonging solely to Bay Promotions, Inc., a California corporation, and the program by that name does not appear on Channel 32.

While the shows are remarkably similar in content, we regret the mixup in names. "Roller Derby," by the way, appears on Chicago's Channel 26 (WCIU-TV) on Sundays at noon and Wednesdays at 9 p.m.

ON THE COVER: Mary Tyler Moore as Mary Richards is on the job for the second year in the newsroom of her local television station on "The Mary Tyler Moore Show," seen each Saturday, on the CBS Television Network.

Chained to a buckboard, killer Gene Barry uses satanic powers on Janice Rule, a pioneer woman who feels compelled to free him in "The Devil and Miss Sarah," a western suspense drama on the ABC Television Network's "Movie of the Weekend," Saturday, Dec. 4, 7:30-9:00 p.m.

MAKES HIS ESCAPE— Train robber Harker Fleet (George Peppard), just released from prison, beats a hasty retreat through a bedroom window, in "One More Train to Rob" an action-adventure western to be colorcast on "NBC Saturday Night at the Movies" Dec. 4, 8-10 p.m. on the NBC Television Network.

"Fury at Showdown" will be telecast Saturday, December 4, at 9:00 a.m. on Channel 32.

SANTA SEEKS HELP—Santa Claus appeals to the shy buck with the shiny nose, Rudolph, for help on Christmas Eve in the eighth annual colorcast of the animated musical special, "Rudolph, the Red-Nosed Reindeer," to be presented on the NBC Television Network Monday, Dec. 6 (7-8 p.m.).

by Jay Allen

Could you please tell me if James Franciscus of LONGSTREET is really blind? How old is he? Is he married and, if so, any children? Where can I write him?

—H.L.
Arlington Hts

ANSWER:

Franciscus is not blind, although he worked hard to adapt himself to the role, attending classes at a school for blind persons and also at a guide dog training school.

Franciscus will be 38 next month. He and his wife Kitty have two daughters, Jamie Allen, 10 and Kellie Allen, 8, both of whom were born on Dec. 4, interestingly enough.

You can write to Franciscus in care of ABC, 1330 Avenue of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Are Jean Stapleton of ALL IN THE FAMILY and Maureen Stapleton, who played in "Airport," sisters? They certainly do look alike.

ANSWER:

The two are not sisters, although there is a resemblance.

A friend and I have been having an argument of the Carpenters' hit song "We've Only Just Begun." I say it was written originally for a television commercial. He says it is a song written to be sung at weddings. Neither one of us will admit defeat on this. Who is right?

R.G.
Arlington Hts

ANSWER:

You are. The song was written for a television commercial in which a bank attempted to persuade newlyweds to open a savings account. Since then, of course, it has been very popular for weddings, in addition to being a huge hit for the Carpenters.

I really enjoy Rod Serling on NIGHT GALLERY. Can you tell me how old he is and where I can write to him?

T.C.
Des Plaines

ANSWER:

Serling is 47. You can write to him at NBC, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, N.Y. 10020.

Why aren't any of Mae West's movies on television? How old is Mae West now?

—S.B.
Arlington Hts

ANSWER:

Some of Miss West's old films have been on at one time or another. They probably will be again. It's not likely, though, that her latest movie, "Myra Breckinridge," will be shown, at least not until TV's moral code changes significantly.

Miss West is 79.

How old is Larry Hagman of THE GOOD LIFE? Is he married? Also, isn't he the son of a famous star?

—W.S.
Elk Grove

ANSWER:

Hagman is 40. He and his wife Maj have two children, Heidi, 13 and Preston, 9. Hagman is the son of famed Broadway actress Mary Martin.

How come ARNIE is on late Monday night? We enjoyed it so much more on Saturdays.

—Mrs. E.P.
Prospect Hts.

ANSWER:

In that case, you'll be happy to know that ARNIE is going back to Saturday nights, at 8:30 p.m.

CBS has halted production of FUNNY FACE, until its star, Sandy Duncan, is recovered from her recent operation. That show will probably not be back on until next fall. In the meantime, CBS is moving ARNIE back to Saturday, and moving the Mary Tyler Moore and Dick Van Dyke shows forward a half an hour.

Can you tell me how old Ken Curtis of GUNSMOKE is? Also, I have heard that he has a fine singing voice and was wondering if he has made any record albums?

—S.P.
Arlington Hts

ANSWER:

Curtis, GUNSMOKE'S Festus, is 55. He has made two albums, "Gunsmoke's Festus" and "Gunsmoke's Festus Hagan Calls Out Ken Curtis." His singing voice is on display on the program every once in a while. In addition, he appears at many rodeos and state and county fairs.

PERFECT ESCORT— Ricardo Montalban stars as Joaquin Murietta, a victim of Spanish raiders in early California who is hired to escort the beautiful Otilia (Ina Balin), wife of a wealthy landowner, to San Francisco, in "Desperate Mission" to be colorcast on the "NBC World Premiere Movie" series Friday, Dec. 3, 7:30-9:30 p.m. on the NBC Television Network, 7:30-9:30 p.m.

MUSIC PLUS ROMANCE—Elvis Presley stars as the head of night club musical act and Annette Day plays one of his fans, who later becomes his sweetheart, in "Double Trouble," to be colorcast on "NBC Monday Night at the Movies" Dec. 6 (8-10 p.m.) on the NBC Television Network.

Kids' Book Review Center Is Based In Schaumburg

A copy of every children's book published in the United States will be sent free to the Schaumburg Township Public Library. The books will be sent for review in a Children's Materials Review Center to be based in Schaumburg by the North Suburban Library System (NSLS).

The NSLS has asked the Schaumburg Township Library Board of Trustees to consider the proposal to establish the center in extra space the library will have when the new extension is completed in May.

The board approved the idea Wednesday and decided to notify the NSLS they are ready to sign a rental contract for the approximately 1,000 square feet of space the center would require.

The NSLS is attempting to interest the DuPage and Suburban Library Systems to join the NSLS and create a three system review center. If this happens, each library system would contribute $1,000 for salaries and operational expenses.

OTHERWISE THE NSLS would pay the estimated $3,000 center cost. Michael Madden, Schaumburg Township librarian, suggested the library not charge the NSLS at all for renting the space. "Instead ask for special consideration or a discount when the books are disposed of after review," he said.

Madden said locating the review center in the library would give the Schaumburg librarians 24-hour access to everything published for children.

"And, perhaps later, first crack at purchase of the materials they want for the library," he added.

Madden will suggest the center be located in the bookmobile room, adjacent to the docks and the meeting and program rooms.

APPROXIMATELY FOUR to five thousand items a year will flow through the center.

Another advantage of the room, that has separate entrances, will be its separation from other library rooms. When librarians come to review material they will not disturb or be disturbed by patrons, Madden said.

When the librarians meet to discuss the materials local meeting rooms will also be available.

Madden assured representatives of the Twinbrook YMCA that the library was still interested in leasing space to the YMCA in the lower level of the new addition.

The Y's request was still being considered because the Schaumburg Township Board of Auditors, according to the library attorney, has priority over any other body requesting a lease, said Madden. Township officials will be asked to notify the library if they are interested in leasing space and if they are not the Y will be considered a tenant.

The NSLS request takes precedence over the auditors since it is an extension of library services, said Madden.

Eye Effect Of Airport Expansion

by PAT GERLACH

The environmental impact of possible expansion of Schaumburg Airport was questioned this week by Hoffman Estates Trustee Diane Jensen.

Speaking as chairman of the village Environmental Concerns committee Wednesday, Mrs. Jensen said a number of Hoffman Estates residents appear to question the ecological effect of mini-jets landing in the neighboring community.

Schaumburg's acquisition of the private airstrip is being discussed in conjunction with proposed establishment of a transportation center near Centex-Industrial Park in the suburb.

Mrs. Jensen recently talked with a representative of Northeastern Illinois Plan Commission (NIPC) which confirmed Schaumburg's request for endorsement of the airport enlargement.

The NIPC official said the Chicago Area Transportation Study (CATS) interim plan, adopted by the regional planning body, does not call for expansion of Schaumburg Airport, she added.

In other recent talks concerning the transportation hub, CATS' position has been attributed to the fact that the airport is privately owned. The CATS plan does not recommend expansion of any private airfield in its region of jurisdiction since federal or state funding would not be possible.

Several weeks ago Schaumburg Mayor Robert O. Atcher told of a meeting with NIPC after which he said he felt encouraged.

Atcher suggested NIPC might be inclined to an opposite view concerning a municipal airport.

Mrs. Jensen said her NIPC contact "does not feel the federal government is likely to grant funds unless on an emergency basis."

"He also said he doesn't feel the project will move along too fast but I, too, question the possible environmental effect on Hoffman Estates," she added.

Trustees Ponder Future Of Mental Health Center

by BOB ANDERSON

Three Schaumburg village trustees Wednesday night questioned how a proposed mental health center here is to be funded after its first year of operation.

The questioning took place as Jordan Rosen, director of Elk Grove Village Community Services, explained that his agency intends to apply for state funds to establish a mental health center to serve Schaumburg and Elk Grove townships.

The proposed center, planned near Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove, would serve the psychiatric needs of residents of the two townships. Schaumburg and Elk Grove townships have been designated a mental health planning area by the state and are thus eligible for the state funds.

Community Services, a municipally-funded mental health and social service agency, plans on requesting about $55,000 from the Illinois Department of Mental Health to hire "three to four social workers and a psychiatrist to staff the center which would be housed in The Farmhouse near Alexian Brothers Medical Center.

Rosen told trustees Jack Larsen, Jim Guthrie and Mathew Helsper, who comprise the village board's health and welfare committee, that Community Services isn't requesting any village funds in connection with the state application. The agency simply wants a resolution of support from the Schaumburg Village board, he explained. He added the agency's $53,600 annual budget provided by Elk Grove Village is being used as "leverage money" to obtain the state money.

Though indicating approval of the general concept for the proposed center, all three trustees expressed curiosity about who is to finance the center after the initial state grant, if approved, runs out. The grant is approved on a yearly basis and has to be re-applied for at the beginning of each fiscal year.

As presently planned, all the local financing for the mental health center would be provided by Elk Grove Village. The trustees agreed that it isn't fair for Elk Grove Village to continue subsidizing the center as it would be serving residents of Schaumburg Township and residents of Elk Grove Township living outside the village. Certainly, the trustees said, funding will be expected in the future from local governmental bodies aside from Elk Grove Village.

Guthrie posed the question directly. "How would you fund this as it grows?" he asked Rosen.

"We'll try to tie into as many local groups as possible for local funding such as United Fund, service clubs and municipal bodies," Rosen replied.

He conceded the "more local funding, the more state funding."

To expedite the state application, it is desirable that resolutions of support (without any money commitments) be received from all the governmental bodies in the two-township area, Rosen continued. Presently, he explained, a support resolution has been received from Elk Grove Village. The Schaumburg Township Board of Auditors is consid-

Groundbreaking Tomorrow For Fire Station

Schaumburg village and fire department officials will break ground tomorrow for the village's second fire station.

Groundbreaking for the $224,000 facility will be at 11 a.m. at the site on the west side of Meacham Road near Golf Road, said Fire Chief Lloyd Abrahamsen.

Mayor Robert O. Atcher and village board members will attend, he added.

Following the ceremonies, the Schaumburg Women's Club will serve coffee and cake at Fire Station No. 1, 1435 W. Schaumburg Rd.

Park Has Yellow 'Friend'

by STEVE BROWN

The Schaumburg Park District has a big yellow friend.

No, Sesame Street's Big Bird didn't build a new nest in Jennings' House. The friend's home is a hunk of parking lot adjacent to the park district office on Civic Drive.

The "friend" is a yellow school bus, emblazoned with the park district's name, which was acquired a few months ago.

Jeff Fox, assistant director of the park district, said the bus is a big benefit to the district's programs.

SEVERAL OTHER park districts in the area have used buses with great results, he said. The Schaumburg bus, which has been in use since this fall, has helped save the district money that would normally have been used to charter buses.

Rental fees of $50-$60 for buses was prohibitive and made it difficult for the district to take groups to different events, said Fox.

With the bus, which cost about $550, the district can take sports teams to compete against other park districts and for a variety of other events.

The bus has been a "big benefit" to the senior citizen group, he said, adding the bus has been used to pick up members of that group at their homes and take them to various events. He cited the bus as one of the reasons why the group has been attracting more members in recent months.

The use of the bus varies during different seasons, Fox said. He expects it will be put to more use during the summer months.

Another feature of the bus is its use in special events.

For example, next week the bus will carry a group of women to the Chicago Art Institute. The cost of the trip is $5 and that includes lunch. Without the bus, Fox said, trips like these would be difficult to schedule because of prohibitive costs.

Fox hopes the park district can make maximum use of the bus and that it can be used to help expand programs in the future.

Panel Seeks OK For Recycle Drive

Village board approval of a glass drive for recycling purposes will be sought by members of the Hoffman Estates Environmental Concerns committee.

The ultimate purpose of the experimental project is to establish a permanent Saturday collection point, according to Shirley Gibbons, recycling and beautification committee chairman.

Tentatively scheduled for the second and fourth Saturdays of January, the drive will be held between 9:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. on the village hall grounds, 161 Illinois Blvd.

Although not yet formally organized, Mrs. Gibbons plans to schedule a paper drive on the last Saturday of the test project.

Village dump trucks will be used at the glass collection station and will be manned by volunteers in charge of separating bottles and jars by color.

Assisting Mrs. Gibbons in planning for the drive are John Rausch and Craig Elderkin, both members of the environmental committee, a satellite of the village public works committee.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

President Nixon promised to press for a guaranteed annual income for the elderly and generally to expand federal programs that would "bring the generations together again."

The Senate confirmed President Nixon's nomination of Earl L. Butz to be agriculture secretary after debate spiced more with presidential politics than farm policy. The vote was 51 to 44. The Purdue University dean will succeed Secretary Clifford M. Hardin, who is leaving the post to assume an executive spot with the Ralston-Purina Corp.

President Nixon decided to fly to Florida for a weekend of conferences with top advisers on the forthcoming 1973 federal budget. Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon and his aides expect to wrap up the major budget decisions in three or four days.

Acting under a new, no-compromise veto threat from President Nixon, House and Senate negotiators scuttled a Democratic-sponsored campaign financing plan for the 1972 elections but approved the concept for future presidential campaigns.

The State

Salary increases for some 2,000 state employees in higher pay categories will have to be put off until the state's welfare crisis has been solved, Governor Ogilvie said. However, he approved a 3 per cent salary increase for state workers who earn $15,000 a year or less.

The state still doesn't know how it misplaced $2.3 million in income tax payment checks. But it does know now that no more such checks are missing, Revenue Director George Mahin said.

The World

Pakistani Sabrejets crossed the Indian border for the first time, strafing an airstrip in the populated Indian border city of Agartala military spokesmen said. The midday attack by three F-86 jet-fighters followed at least eight hours of shelling and bombing on Agartala. Military spokesmen also said a number of civilians were killed or wounded in the artillery barrage that continued throughout the day.

Gunmen in the Irish Republic and British commandos in Northern Ireland exchanged small arms fire and automatic weapons fire for 15 minutes across the Republic Northern Ireland border. One commando was wounded. An army spokesman said that the gunmen fired about 20 rounds from the republic side of the border and the commandos fired back from an armored car.

The War

The U.S. command reported nine Americans were killed and 78 wounded last week. This is the highest battle death toll in two months. Records listed 45,613 American soldiers killed and 302,283 wounded since the start of the war Jan. 1, 1961.

The Market

The euphoria that has pervaded Wall Street the past week enabled stocks to score their sixth consecutive advance despite pockets of profit taking. The Dow Jones Average scored a gain of 2178 to 848.79 bringing the one-week rise to more than 50 points. Advances outnumbered declines, 824 to 620, on the New York Stock Exchange. Turnover was 17,780,000 shares, down from 21,040,000 the previous session. Prices were steady in moderately active trading on the American Exchange.

Battle For Buck Is On

Woodfield Mall
Vs. Randhurst

by TOM VON MALDER

With the opening of the Woodfield Mall, it may no longer be true that, "All roads lead to Randhurst."

Some merchants at the Mount Prospect shopping center are worried that their slogan is no longer applicable and that shoppers are going more to the new Schaumburg center.

However, this feeling is not shared by all the merchants, and the official position of the Randhurst Corporation is that it is simply too early to tell.

"October sales figures will not be available until later this month," said Harold J. Carlson, vice president and general manager of the Randhurst Corporation. "But I would be surprised if we were that heavily affected — quite surprised."

Carlson said Woodfield had "almost no impact" in September. "I certainly can't forecast our Dec. 31 position now, but we have been quite pleased with what we have seen so far," he said.

The nine-year-old center, he said, is still in a growth position. Every month this year the center has done more volume than in the same month last year.

BUT THE MANAGER of a men's clothing store at Randhurst said he notices that "the traffic pattern is a little less." He said this could affect their sales.

"You don't have to write this down but I think it will be difficult for all of us (merchants at Randhurst) no matter what Mr. Carlson says," he said.

Carlson, at a meeting with Mount Prospect Village Board members, said that October sales were "down 15 per cent across the board." Clarifying his comment later, he said, "what I was doing was comparing apples to apples. If we had stood still, that's where we would be."

But the Randhurst Corporation and the Randhurst merchants did not stand still. Prior to Woodfield's triple opening — Sears in August, Marshall Field's in September and Penney's in October — steps were taken to make sure Randhurst would stay competitive.

Carlson outlined the steps. First, the Jewel Food store was relocated in a separate building along Euclid Avenue. Charles A. Stevens, a clothing store moved into Jewel's old mall site in April. Then Mary Lester Fabrics was added. Finally, Montgomery Ward's almost doubled its main floor through an expansion-building project.

"Most tenants remodeled their stores to some extent, some very expensively," Carlson said. "We encouraged this at every level."

"ALL THESE THINGS had one goal in mind, to make the center as attractive and competitive as could be. It would have been nice if we could have done this on our own but we didn't. Our people have sharpened their (selling) skills, basic skills that were the reason for our success in the first place."

Higher standards and more aggressive attitude there may be, yet Carlson admitted some stores were feeling the pinch. "Some tenants, in the nongenerative type business, have felt the competition more," he said. "They rely on the other stores to bring customers into the center."

Village officials in Mount Prospect are concerned over the situation because of vital sales tax revenues. The village makes a penny on every retail dollar spent in the village. With sales of about $60 million last year, Randhurst sales contributed some $600,000 or 61 per cent of the village's total sales tax receipts.

Mayor Robert D. Teichert said the village was "not going to get hysterical or panicky." "I don't know if we know anything yet. Later, we should have measuring sticks."

HE ADDED that he hoped everyone would not use Woodfield as a "whipping boy" pointing out that declines in the economy and the wage-price freeze have also affected retail sales in the village.

Some merchants at Randhurst agreed that the muddy economy and recent freeze have complicated the question of Woodfield's influence on Randhurst. The fact that Woodfield is new was also frequently mentioned.

"It's like a baby seeing a toy for the first time," the manager of a shoe store said when he referred to Woodfield.

Democrats Endorse
Paul Simon

The Regular Democratic Organization of Schaumburg Township has endorsed Lt. Gov. Paul Simon's bid for governor of Illinois.

The action took place during the organization's November meeting. The motion, approved unanimously by the 50 members attending, "urged and supported the candidacy of Paul Simon for governor of the state of Illinois."

The action makes Schaumburg Township one of the first Northwest suburban areas to endorse Simon. Township Democratic Committee member John Morrissey has advised Simon of the endorsement.

The township Democrats also announced the formation of a Citizens Committee for Simon. Spearheading the committee are Edwin L. Frank, former Hoffman Estates park commissioner; Selwyn Schwartz, coordinator of the Adlai Stevenson campaign in Schaumburg Township in 1970, and William Holmes, president of the Schaumburg Township Democratic Organization.

The Citizens Committee is open to township Democrats, Republicans or Independents who support Simon.

Concert Set

A Winter Concert Spectacular to be presented at 7:15 p.m. Dec. 7 is being planned by the Michael Collins Elementary School students in Schaumburg.

With the help of their music teacher, Mrs. Jane Myers, the children will perform after a short PTA meeting that evening.

Included in the spectacular will be songs of various national origin, seasonal songs and several dance numbers arranged by Julie Allen, physical education teacher. Art teacher, Mrs. Carolyn La Groux is creating winter scenes for the background sets.

The program will feature the Collins School chorus composed of fifth and sixth graders. The festivities will be climaxed by the appearance of guest star, Santa Claus.

The school is at 407 S. Summit Dr.

Cub Pack Gives Skit On Johnny
Appleseed

Hoffman Estates' monthly Cub Pack 297 meeting was highlighted last month with singing, a skit about Johnny Appleseed, and several awards.

The skit, presented by Den 4, featured Jon Langland as Johnny Appleseed, Ken Carroll, Mark Crutchfield, David Farr, Craig Hollingsworth, Rob Nikides, Gary Schneider, Mike Senman, and Steve Klein were the other performers.

Boys receiving their one year pins were: Rick Karbowski, John Duhamel, Rex Bradley, Stewart Brown, Robert Lovah, Gene Winterhalter, Bruce Trevor, Seth Swerdlow, James Devona and Carroll.

Tim Marting received his Bobcat pin and became a Cub in Den 7. Stewart Brown, Langland and Swerdlow were awarded their silver arrows. David Krouland, Todd Morgan, Hemmer and Swerdlow received gold arrows.

TODD OWENS received his Denner Bar. Bill Lyons earned his aquanaut, artist and craftsman badges. Paul Rausch received his athlete badge. John Duhamel also earned his artists badge.

Krouland received artist and craftsman badges. Tim Morgan received artist and traveler badges, while Ricky Rozycski received his artist badge.

The last of the awards were given when Krouland, Hemmer and Morgan advanced into the Boy Scouts.

Den 4 received the trophy for best attendance and Den 7 got this month's tug-of-war champion's trophy.

Dems Favor J. Condylis
To Oppose Rep. Crane

Democrats in the new 12th Congressional District are attempting to enlist John Condylis, 103 Landmeier Rd., Elk Grove Village, as a candidate to oppose U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane in the 1972 election.

Crane, Republican representative in the present 13th Congressional District, will formally launch his campaign for reelection in the new 12th District at a press conference at his Randhurst office tomorrow.

Condylis, an attorney, is president of Autoquip Corp., a Chicago firm specializing in manufacture of hydraulic equipment. Formerly president of the Elk Grove Township Regular Democratic Organization, Condylis headed the Elk Grove Village March of Dimes in 1964.

He has previously been favorably considered by Democratic leaders as a congressional candidate, but was prevented from running by demands of his business, according to Chester Chesney, Elk Grove Township Democratic com-

Mrs. Hayter Girl Scout VP

Mrs. Virginia Hayter, Hoffman Estates village trustee and former president of the Schaumburg Township Elementary Dist. 54 board of education, has been elected second vice president of the Girl Scout Council for Northwest Cook County Inc.

Mrs. Hayter was elected at a recent annual council meeting by 209 delegates from the northwest area.

Mrs. Hayter has been a member of the village board since 1969, and is chairman Better Library Service?

Talk between an Arlington Heights Library Board member and two Schaumburg Library Board members may make both libraries and their facilities available to residents who live in either one of the communities.

Schaumburg Township Public Library Board member Bob Lyons said Wednesday the Arlington Heights library, a member of the North Suburban Library System, may be ready to participate in a reciprocal borrowing plan.

Of the 31 libraries in the NSLS, Arlington Heights and Elgin remain the only two who do not honor other library cards from within the same system.

Lyons said when the proposal to take part in reciprocal borrowing was first put before Arlington Heights, library trustees turned it down, but by a close vote.

"RECENT CONVERSATIONS with an Arlington Heights board member who voted no then convince me he now thinks it's a good proposal," said Lyons.

"Maybe I convinced him, but I have to admit he was ready to be convinced," he added.

Lyons said the Arlington Heights member told him he will propose the recipcal borrowing plan to his board in December.

Richard C. Grote, Schaumburg Library Board president, was pleased with Lyons' report and added that the Elgin Library would then remain the only one in the system not in on the plan.

Grote said he has heard Elgin is also considering joining. The NSLS libraries are in Arlington Heights, Barrington, Deerfield, Des Plaines, Dundee, Elgin, Elk Grove Village, Evanston, Glenview, Glenview, Lake Forest, Libertyville, Morton Grove, Mount Prospect, Niles, Northbrook, Palatine, Park Ridge, Skokie, Waukegan, Wheeling, Wilmette, Winnetka and Schaumburg, Fox Lake, Zion, Lake Bluff, Mundelein, North Chicago, Prospect Heights and Rolling Meadows.

Cub Pack 195
Gets U.S. Flags
From VFW Post

VFW Post 3579 of Park Ridge presented American flags to members of Schaumburg Cub Scout Pack 195 during the pack's October meeting.

Each of the Cub Scout dens received a flag. Presentations were made by Jim Johnson and Matt Borek, both members of the post.

Another highlight of the meeting was a special flag ceremony by Cub Den 6 under the direction of Mrs. Ruth Smith and Mrs. Peggy Kosin. Scouting awards were also presented.

Scout leaders receiving one-year awards were John Chovenec, Clem Prusko, Mrs. Barbara Tsouloufis, Bob Pratt, Mrs. Pat Prusko, Tom Kosin, Mrs. Betty Mai, Mrs. Rosemary Hamaker and Mrs. Ruth Smith.

Scout leaders receiving three-year pins were Herb Aigner, Mrs. Carol Herman and Mrs. Marie Prester. Gold and silver arrows awards were presented to Cub Scouts Bobby Keller, Brian Knight, Walter Mai, Steve Tsouloufis, Larry Hawley and Tom Kosin. Steve Tsouloufis also received his Bear Badge while Larry Hawley received a wolf badge.

Cited for "unusual dress" during the pack's Halloween party were Bob Keller of Den 3, most original; Dean Snow, Den 8, most "scariest"; D. Riley, Den 1, most comical, and Jeff Chovenec of Den 5 for appearing as the "best looking girl."

The pack is sponsored by the Weatherfield Homeowners Association.

'Y' Indians
To Raid
Jewel-Osco

A tribe of Seneca Indians will be conducting a raid Saturday at the Jewel Osco Store, Hoffman Plaza, Hoffman Estates.

The Indians will be dressed in full ceremonial regalia, with stripes of paint across their faces. The gear is not intended to frighten shoppers, but to draw their attention to the Indians and their goals.

The tribe, part of the Twinbrook YMCA Indian Guide program, has signed a treaty with the Little City Foundation, Rte. 62 and Roselle Road, Palatine, for delivery of an artificial Christmas tree, ornaments and gifts, and will be "raiding" shoppers at Jewel-Osco for contributions.

The boys already have made the tree and ornaments, and their mothers are baking 52 dozen cookies to take to Little City for a party. They still have gifts on their Christmas treat list.

The tribe has been asked to focus its efforts on older children at the foundation. Little City spokesmen told them organizations frequently work for the younger children, but not enough is done for those in their teenage years.

For boys, the Indians are collecting wallets, combs, hair brushes and after shave lotion. For girls, they need lipstick, nailpolish, hair brushes and mirrors.

All donations are due by Dec. 14, and will be delivered by the tribe Dec. 15. Persons may give cash, and parents of the boys in the tribe will purchase the needed items, or they may give gift items.

The boys will be at the shopping center 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. tomorrow, and the same hours Dec. 11.

Nurse's Blood Saves Baby With Liver Condition

Paul Joseph Slad, a 5-day-old Streamwood boy, owes his life to a nurse at Alexian Brothers Medical Center.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Slad, was born Nov. 28 at the hospital in Elk Grove Village suffering from a liver condition that prevented his blood from clotting properly.

The problem can only be treated by transfusions of fresh blood until the liver begins to work properly, according to hospital spokesman Robin Leach, and after several transfusions the hospital ran out of the baby's blood type.

The baby was going into shock, Miss Leach said, when one of the nurses in the maternity ward offered to donate blood for him.

THE NURSE, who wishes to remain anonymous, had the proper type of blood for the baby and made the donation. The doctor said later the transfusion was the "decisive factor" that saved the baby's life.

Miss Leach said the nurses at the hospital all know their blood types and added, "I think this demonstrates that the people who work in the hospitals think of their patients as more than just patients. She saw the baby needed help and she gave it."

Paul went home yesterday in good condition, and although the doctor will follow his case closely, he appears to be a healthy, normal baby now.

Joseph Slad described his son's recovery as "a miracle come true. We're very happy about everything."

Bus Trip Planned To Art Institute

The Schaumburg Park District will sponsor a trip to the Chicago Art Institute Dec. 11 as part of the district women's special events program.

The bus will leave the Jennings House at 8:45 a.m. and return at 3 p.m. The cost of the trip will be $5. It includes bus fare and lunch.

Women interested in the trip may register at the Jennings House 20 S. Civic Dr., Schaumburg, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. any day before the trip.

Cub Scout Pack Food Drive Dec. 11

Hoffman Estates Cub Scout Pack 197 will conduct a Christmas food drive Dec. 11 for needy children.

The pack will distribute fliers tomorrow to homes in the Highlands area, announcing their efforts.

Mrs. Eric Edstrom of the pack said food will be sent to a nearby children's home which has requested assistance.

All types of food will be accepted by the scouts. Anyone interested in further information may contact Mrs. Edstrom at 894-3852.

Library Use Has Increased

The Schaumburg Township Public Library had the largest percentage circulation increase from 1968-1970 and the Arlington Heights Public Library the largest increase from 1969-1970.

Both libraries are members of the North Suburban Library System. Michael Madden, Schaumburg librarian, said circulation statistics comparing the 31 libraries in the NSLS show Schaumburg first and Arlington Heights second in the 68-70 period and Arlington first and Schaumburg second in the 69-70 period.

Madden who is now compiling circulation figures for the 1970-1971 period said this past November showed the lowest percentage increase of only 1.78 per cent in adult traffic.

Calls Meeting 'Frighteningly Brief'

Officials In Final Bid For $120,000 State Grant

Representatives of a Wheeling-Buffalo Grove-Prospect Heights youth project made a final appeal for a $120,000 state grant yesterday at a meeting one representative described as "frighteningly brief."

The meeting lasted only 15 minutes and afterwards Richard Stanowski of Wheeling said it was the first time he had been pessimistic about the future of the project.

Stanowski, who would head the local project if it receives the state grant, attended the meeting with Richard Wynn, director of the TORCH Community Mental Health Clinic in Wheeling.

Members of a committee of the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission (ILEC) questioned the two men about the project. The committee will make a recommendation about the project to the full commission.

Wynn and Stanowski apparently were disappointed by direction taken by committee members in their questions.

The committee members were particularly interested in how the proposed Youth Services Bureau would work with local police departments. In previous discussions of the project, its leaders had not dwelled on this aspect.

However, Wynn told the committee the project has excellent relations with the police. He said the bureau would take referrals from police.

In response to a question, Stanowski told the committee the primary function of the bureau would be to prevent juvenile delinquency.

One committee member said the ILEC is most likely to approve programs in which police departments have a leading role. He indicated that the commission wants the grants to aid youths who are already in trouble, rather than to prevent delinquency.

Christmas Concert Set At Willow Grove

Students in School Dist. 96 will hold their annual Christmas concert at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 10 at Willow Grove School in Buffalo Grove. Featured in the program will be band students, who will play a variety of Christmas and holiday music.

The band will be directed by Mrs. Gitana Polkes.

The public is invited to attend the concert.

Stanowski also told the committee the bureau would sponsor leisure time activities. There are not enough of these activities in the three communities, he said.

The Youth Services Bureau — sponsored by the Wheeling Youth Commission, HELP, Inc., and the TORCH Clinic — was one of six projects given a final review by the committee at the ILEC office in Chicago yesterday.

Before the meeting both Stanowski and Wynn had been optimistic about the project's chances of getting state money. The project had been approved last March by the Cook County Commission on Criminal Justice.

The Youth Services Bureau has received pledges of financial support from the villages of Wheeling and Buffalo Grove and from local civic groups.

If approved the bureau would set up a youth services center and provide counseling services for youths in the three communities.

A MAKESHIFT SHELTER of pine boughs, dead timber and blankets isn't a very comfortable place to spend a night on a 7,000-foot mountain during a snow storm over Thanksgiving.

Reporter Battles Fury Of 'White Mountain'

by CRAIG GAARE

When the mountains get you on their own terms they punish and brutalize you. And when you're stranded in them overnight in a snowstorm with no food and no hope of getting down until morning, their brutality is magnificently awesome.

The mountains rip through the thin skin of civilization and expose large chunks of raw meat reality.

You don't worry about what color your new car should be or making the next furniture payment or being socially ungraceful. Instead you are faced with the problem of staying warm and deciding whether you want to get wet all over again gathering more firewood.

You don't want to go out in knee-deep snow in the dark on the side of the mountain, but you know if you don't the fire is going to burn itself out and the cold will penetrate your damp clothing.

YOU ARE at the mercy of the mountains and the mountains have no mercy. No man-made gadget or any of the material progress humans have made can help you. The internal combustion engine, one of the major inventions of recent centuries, is useless, hopelessly stuck in the snow.

The mountains even turn the fire on you. The smoke from the fire always seems to be blowing right in your face and the sprays lash out at you.

My encounter with the Manzano Mountains of New Mexico occurred over the Thanksgiving weekend. It started as an attempt by four University of New Mexico students to show me what it was like when the sun sets on the mountains and it ended up with us breaking and entering federal property to get help.

I had never seen New Mexico before and had gone out to visit Becky Graham of 811 Mayfair, Arlington Heights, a student at the University of New Mexico at Albuquerque and her three friends, David Nickelson of Carlsbad, New Mexico, Cynthia Weitz of Albuquerque, and Niki Marsicano of Delavan, Wis.

On the Sunday afternoon before I was to return home, the five of us drove about 55 miles and entered the mountain range near the town of Manzano.

WE DIDN'T make it to the top in time for the sunset and as all of us were craning our necks to look at the sun, the pickup truck went off the snow-packed dirt road and into a ditch about two miles from the top of the mountain.

After trying for an hour to get the truck out of the ditch, we decided just before dark that we would have to spend the night there with no food, three blankets, two sleeping bags and a quarter of a tank of gas in the truck.

We fashioned a shelter out of the blankets, snow, dead branches and started a fire using gasoline from the truck.

Throughout the night we took turns tending the fire, and sitting in the truck with the motor running. Because we were low on gas, we ran the truck just long enough to get the cab heated and turned the engine off until it got so cold it had to be started again.

Things weren't going too bad until it started snowing. The snow soaked the blankets and the heat from the fire turned the inside of the shelter to mud.

BEFORE IT started snowing, we all joked about our adventure and how none of us had ever been rescued and what a story we could tell our friends.

After everything got soaked, things changed. Conversation dropped off and none of us even talked about how cold or wet we were. Only one of us talked about hunger and I later found out that most of us were thinking about how to build a better shelter and what we should do to get help the next day.

Mostly we just stared into the fire. The fire had to burn at a certain intensity to provide enough warmth. There was a fine line. If it was too low, the chill started to set in and if it was too intense, your boots and pants started to steam.

And even if you were right up next to it, the part of your body closest to the flames was uncomfortably hot while the rest of your body was just barely warm so the cold was not noticeable.

THE MAIN point of my concentration throughout the night was the fire. You can't put the big logs on right away. You have to build the fire up with smaller branches until the fire is going strong enough to put a big log on. And even when you do that, the chill returns until the log catches fire. Also during the night, I was able to tell just by touching damp logs whether they would burn or not.

Toward the end of the night we started singing parodies of popular songs and relating them to our situation.

David came up with a parody of the Beatles song "Yesterday" with the line, "Why did it have to snow, I don't know, it didn't say."

But by far the most popular song was "Wouldn't It Be Lovely" from "My Fair Lady." It goes: "All I want is a room somewhere/Far away from the cold night air/and just one enormous chair, Oh, wouldn't it be lovely."

The next morning it was still snowing and my hosts said there was a lookout station at the top of the mountain, but it was probably locked.

SO AFTER building a more sturdy shelter of pine boughs in case we couldn't get help, we set out for the lookout station.

After about an hour, we reached the lookout. It was locked, but through a window we could see a radio transmitter and hear voices coming from it.

David broke the window, unlocked the door and let the rest of us in.

I tried the radio and after several "Mayday" calls, I reached the Mountaineer Ranger Station to the west of us.

The Ranger told us to go back down the hill and help would be there in about an hour-and-a-half.

In about an hour, a green U.S. Forestry Service truck came chugging up the same road we had nearly 24 hours before. He pulled our truck out and we returned to Albuquerque a little more humble, and a lot more hungry than when we left.

PR Board To See Film, Tour Station

Wheeling's public relations commission will tour the village police station and see a movie at a meeting Friday in the municipal building.

The commission members are also scheduled to discuss plans for the next village newsletter and results of the recent questionnaire sent to residents at the 6 p.m. meeting.

On Wednesday the village industrial commission will hold a meeting to discuss the proposed Wickes Furniture Store on Dundee Road. Commission Chairman Donald Duncan said that Trustee John Koeppen has been asked to attend to discuss the Wickes development.

The commission will also form committees and begin work on two questionnaires — one quizzing industrial developers and another, industrial corporations with plans already in the area, Duncan said.

The questionnaires will ask what the industrialists like or dislike about the village and ask for suggested improvements, Duncan said.

In addition, the commission will ask the firms about their trucking practices as part of its effort to get a truck terminal in the village to take advantage of reduced freight rates.

Attempt To Ban BAC-111 Jets Fails

Wheeling residents have failed in their latest attempt to stop flights of the BAC-111 jet airplane from Pal-Waukee Airport.

Members of the "residents committee" asked the Victor Comptometer Corp. to end flights by their plane, the largest using the airport regularly.

The request was in a letter to George May, president of the Chicago-based firm.

A reply from May's administrative assistant indicated that the company would continue to use the plane at Pal-Waukee.

William Rogers and Robert Watts of the citizens committee have complained that the BAC-111 exceeded weight limits set by Cook County for planes using the airport.

The two men said that a county zoning permit limited aircraft weight to 60,000 pounds. The BAC-111, they said, is "26,000 pounds over the legal limit."

"We call upon you to take steps which will restrict Victor Comptometer's use of Pal-Waukee to only those aircraft with gross weights under 60,000 pounds," Watts and Rogers wrote. They said they did not object to the use of planes under 60,000 pounds.

In reply, R. T. Middendorf of Victor said, his company feels it is "operating within government regulations."

Middendorf said, "Before coming to Pal-Waukee in 1967, we checked and found nothing in manuals or notices to airmen or any federal publication prohibiting or restricting weights of BAC-111 aircraft into Pal-Waukee Airport."

Watts and Rogers told the Herald that the weight restrictions were not found in federal regulations but in a county permit that allowed the airport to build the jet runway used by the Victor plane.

The men said that "every move on the part of the airport management has been focused on the elimination of permit restrictions so that they can increase their profit potential."

The residents committee has also claimed that the runway is longer than the limit set by the county permit and that planes do not follow the traffic patterns required by the county.

Airport officials deny all charges. They have said that the residents have misinterpreted the weight restrictions and included a "turn-around" area in measuring the runway. They say the county has no authority over flight patterns.

In his letter Middendorf pointed out that his company has taken some actions in response to residents' complaints.

"We want to be good neighbors," he said, "and have made every effort to minimize early morning or late evening noise by rescheduling take-off and arrival times to normal waking hours whenever possible — usually at the added expense and inconvenience of overnight accommodations out of town."

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

President Nixon promised to press for a guaranteed annual income for the elderly and generally to expand federal programs that would "bring the generations together again."

The Senate confirmed President Nixon's nomination of Earl L. Butz to be agriculture secretary after debate spiced more with presidential politics than farm policy. The vote was 51 to 44. The Purdue University dean will succeed Secretary Clifford M. Hardin, who is leaving the post to assume an executive spot with the Ralston-Purina Corp.

President Nixon decided to fly to Florida for a weekend of conferences with top advisers on the forthcoming 1973 federal budget. Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon and his aides expect to wrap up the major budget decisions in three or four days.

Acting under a new, no-compromise veto threat from President Nixon, House and Senate negotiators scuttled a Democratic-sponsored campaign financing plan for the 1972 elections but approved the concept for future presidential campaigns.

The State

Salary increases for some 2,000 state employees in higher pay categories will have to be put off until the state's welfare crisis has been solved, Governor Ogilvie said. However, he approved a 3 per cent salary increase for state workers who earn $15,000 a year or less.

The state still doesn't know how it misplaced $2.3 million in income tax payment checks. But it does know now that no more such checks are missing, Revenue Director George Mahin said.

The World

Pakistani Sabrejets crossed the Indian border for the first time, strafing an airstrip in the populated Indian border city of Agartala military spokesmen said. The midday attack by three F-86 jet-fighters followed at least eight hours of shelling and bombing on Agartala. Military spokesmen also said a number of civilians were killed or wounded in the artillery barrage that continued throughout the day.

Gunmen in the Irish Republic and British commandos in Northern Ireland exchanged small arms fire and automatic weapons fire for 15 minutes across the Republic Northern Ireland border. One commando was wounded. An army spokesman said that the gunmen fired about 20 rounds from the republic side of the border and the commandos fired back from an armored car.

The War

The U.S. command reported nine Americans were killed and 78 wounded last week. This is the highest battle death toll in two months. Records listed 45,613 American soldiers killed and 302,283 wounded since the start of the war Jan. 1, 1961.

The Market

The euphoria that has pervaded Wall Street the past week enabled stocks to score their sixth consecutive advance despite pockets of profit taking. The Dow Jones Average scored a gain of 217.8 to 848.79 bringing the one-week rise to more than 50 points. Advances outnumbered declines, 824 to 620, on the New York Stock Exchange. Turnover was 17,780,000 shares, down from 21,040,000 the previous session. Prices were steady in moderately active trading on the American Exchange.

NOW MOUNT PROSPECT Picasso lovers will have to travel only a few blocks, instead of miles, to see one of his works. The Picasso imitation is on the front of the Illinois Range Co. Building at 708 W. Central Rd.

Imitation Picasso At Site On Central Road

Picasso has come to Mount Prospect.

Chicago can still boast it has the only original of the "horse-like, man-like, whatever it is" statue designed by Pablo Picasso. But Mount Prospect is close behind with a replica of the famous work now on display on the front of the Illinois Range Co. building at 708 Central Rd.

"It's an example of what we can do," said Ed Krakowiak, treasurer of the firm that manufactures food service equipment. "I guess you could say we're masters of the technique in working with stainless steel."

The stainless steel statue, which took five weeks to build, is sealed to one-seventh of the original. The work was built by the Illinois Range engineering team which look pictures and made sketches of the original. Krakowiak estimates the imitation Picasso cost about $1,000, including materials and labor.

Illinois Range decided to build the statue as a display for the National Restaurant Show held in May at Chicago's McCormick Place. The company decided on the Picasso because "it is a symbol of Chicago" according to Krakowiak. After the restaurant show, the statue went on to be part of a sail-boat display which took first place in competition during Venetian Nights, a Chicago festival.

The company then decided to put the statue on display. As Ed Krakowiak said, "It will probably outlast the building."

Dems Favor J. Condylis To Oppose Rep. Crane

Democrats in the new 12th Congressional District are attempting to enlist John Condylis, 103 Landmeier Rd., Elk Grove Village, as a candidate to oppose U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane in the 1972 election.

Crane, Republican representative in the present 13th Congressional District, will formally launch his campaign for reelection in the new 12th District at a press conference at his Randhurst office tomorrow.

Condylis, an attorney, is president of Autoquip Corp., a Chicago firm specializing in manufacture of hydraulic equipment. Formerly president of the Elk Grove Township Regular Democratic Organization, Condylis headed the Elk Grove Village March of Dimes in 1964.

He has previously been favorably considered by Democratic leaders as a congressional candidate, but was prevented from running by demands of his business, according to Chester Chesney, Elk Grove Township Democratic committeeman.

Chesney said he has urged Condylis to appear before township committeemen, who will meet Monday evening to interview candidates for the Illinois General Assembly in the new 3rd Legislative District.

CHESNEY SAID he was hopeful that Condylis would agree to seek election to Congress or to the state Senate in the 3rd District.

Expected to appear before the five township committeemen Monday are incumbent Rep. Eugenia S. Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, and John Kelley of Schaumburg, candidate for the state House. Committeemen on the screening committee are James L. McCabe, Wheeling Township; John Morrissey, Schaumburg Township; Richard Mugalian, Palatine Township; Nicholas B. Blase, Maine Township; and Chesney.

They will meet at 8 p.m. Monday at the Maitre D' Restaurant, 111 E. Higgins Rd., Elk Grove Village.

'Homestead Exemption' Assistance Is Offered

Marshall Theroux, Wheeling Township assessor, yesterday offered help to any senior citizen planning to file an application for a "homestead exemption" on his real estate taxes.

"I will help anybody, even if they're not in Wheeling Township," Theroux told about 75 Extensioners, a group of senior citizens in Mount Prospect.

The exemption would give homeowners aged 65 or over a reduction of $100 to $110 in real estate tax bills.

Theroux said applications for the reduction, which would not be allowed before Spring of 1973, would probably not be available until June of next year. Senior citizens had expected the exemption to be applied to next spring's bills, but a Chicago Circuit Court judge recently ruled the exemption unconstitutional for this year. 1971 assessments are reflected in the 1972 tax bills.

Almost 1,000 senior citizens in Wheeling Township have already applied for the exemption, but got them back. Theroux told them to hold on to the old applications because the same information will probably be required on the new forms.

The assessor told senior citizens who felt it unfair they weren't getting the reduction next year that it would probably be accepted in 1973. He said the exemption would probably be tested in court, but that it was constitutional under the new state constitution that went into effect in July.

Fran Altenburg of the Elk Grove Township Assessor's office was also at the meeting. She said Elk Grove Township officials would also keep senior citizens advised on new developments concerning the exemption.

Several residents over 65 complained because they have been paying school taxes, which amount to nearly 72 percent of the real estate tax bill, while they have no children in school.

"It's unjust," said one man. "I've lived here 11 years and paid those taxes. And I did not send one child to school."

Robbers Get 'Coin'

Robert Cox of 519 Milwaukee Ave., Apt. 10, told Wheeling Police Wednesday that $180 in cash had been stolen from his home.

The money, $98 in bills, $67 in quarters and $15 in dimes, was taken from the apartment between 7 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, Cox told police.

Separate Mental Health Grant Hit

The Northwest Mental Health Association in Arlington Heights is opposing an application for state money by Elk Grove Village Community Service.

Community Service, a municipally-funded mental health and social service agency, is planning to apply for funds to the state to become a state mental health agency.

If it receives the grant the agency would then supply psychiatric services in Elk Grove and Schaumburg townships, a job now handled by Northwest.

Boy, 14, Injured When Hit By Car

A 14-year-old Wheeling boy was in good condition at Northwest Community Hospital Wednesday after he was hit by a car in front of Wheeling High School at 11:15 a.m. Tuesday.

Cook County Sheriff's Police who investigated the accident said Randy Bourland "jumped" in front of a car which was headed north on Elmhurst Road. The boy said he slipped on ice.

The car had the green light and the boy was crossing the street 45 feet from the nearest crosswalk, county police said.

The driver of the car, John Firtik, 26, of Elmwood Park, was not charged in connection with the accident.

Hospital officials said the youth suffered a concussion and multiple facial lacerations in the accident.

Democrats Endorse Paul Simon

The Regular Democratic Organization of Schaumburg Township has endorsed Lt. Gov. Paul Simon's bid for governor of Illinois.

The action took place during the organization's November meeting. The motion, approved unanimously by the 50 members attending, "urged and supported the candidacy of Paul Simon for governor of the state of Illinois."

The action makes Schaumburg Township one of the first Northwest suburban areas to endorse Simon. Township Democratic Committeeman John Morrissey has advised Simon of the endorsement.

The township Democrats also announced the formation of a Citizens Committee for Simon. Spearheading the committee are Edwin L. Frank, former Hoffman Estates park commissioner; Selwyn Schwartz, coordinator of the Adlai Stevenson campaign in Schaumburg Township in 1970, and William Holmes, president of the Schaumburg Township Democratic Organization.

The Citizens Committee is open to township Democrats, Republicans or Independents who support Simon.

has passed a resolution favoring the grant application.

Northwest Mental Health Medical Dir. Dr. Eugene Trager said his agency will oppose the application "based on my assessment of the communities' needs and how they are best served."

NORTHWEST MENTAL Health Center, 1711 W. Campbell St., Arlington Heights, received $130,000 in state funds to provide services to Wheeling, Palatine, Elk Grove and Schaumburg townships.

The population of the four township area is now large enough that the state has divided it into two separate planning areas. As a result the state will consider funding a second mental health agency in the four-township area. Community Service wants to be the agency for the southern half of the area.

Trager said the state's division of the area is based on an arbitrary formula from the federal government. "Whenever the population goes over 70,000, the state will consider setting up a second center. In no way does the division imply state approval of a grant."

Jordan Rosen, executive director of the Community Service, said the agency is applying for the grant because "for the geographic concerns of our citizens and in terms of population growth we believe it would be difficult for one agency to handle all of the four township area."

He said with the grant Community Service could cooperate with Alexian Brothers Medical Center on providing psychiatric care. "The big issue for me is the population growth and the distance our people have to travel for service."

TRAGER SAID Northwest Mental Health is serving the entire four-township area and "we can't agree on setting up a duplicate facility."

He said Northwest has offered complete cooperation on screening and care of patients to Community Service but "so far, none has been requested. Our opposition to their grant does not mean that we won't cooperate with their agency."

Rosen said he has referred "a couple" of patients to Northwest for screening and has had no problems with that agency. He said few cases are referred from Community Service because, "we are not now a state-funded psychiatric agency and don't usually get patients who need that kind of care."

Trager said Northwest cooperates on cases with Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights, Forest Hospital in Des Plaines, Alexian Brothers and the state mental hospital in Elgin.

"There are many agencies in this area that have to be coordinated and I think it is better to have one fairly substantial facility that limits itself to severe disorders and can refer people effectively," he said.

DURING THE 1970-71 fiscal year,

Record Heist Foiled

A Chicago man was arrested in Wheeling Wednesday and charged with stealing 58 long-playing records from the K-Mart store at 780 W. Dundee Rd.

The records, valued at $237.19 were taken from the store in a cardboard box at approximately 7:40 p.m., police said.

The man arrested for shoplifting, Glenn Baker, will appear in Arlington Heights District Court on Jan. 21.

Northwest handled 848 primary cases, with Arlington Heights providing the largest number of cases with 208.

The second largest number of cases, 144, came from Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates, which would be served by Community Service if their grant is approved. Elk Grove Village provided 68 cases to Northwest and ranked seventh among the nine municipalities Northwest serves.

Northwest had a total budget of $183,041 in 1970-71, with 71 per cent coming from the state grant. Rolling Meadows was the only municipality to contribute to the agency with $1,200.

Today Is Last Day For Prospect Heights Herald

Today marks the last day of publication of the Prospect Heights Herald.

Established 16 years ago to serve the unincorporated area, the paper is being discontinued as a separate daily entity of Paddock Publications.

News of Prospect Heights will continue to be covered in the Mount Prospect and Wheeling Herald, and subscribers receiving the Prospects Heights Herald will now receive one of those two editions. Palatine Road will serve as a dividing line, with all readers in Prospect Heights north of the road to receive the Wheeling Herald, and all those south the Mount Prospect Herald.

The primary reason for the decision, according to the announcement this week from Editor and Publisher Charles E. Hayes, was the recent annexation by Mount Prospect of the heavily-populated southeast portion of Prospect Heights. By that action, a substantial number of Prospect Heights Herald readers became residents of Mount Prospect, with conversion to the Mount Prospect Herald a necessity.

Any questions by readers concerning the issue of the Herald they'll now receive should be directed to the Paddock Publications Circulation Department at 394-0110.

Calls Meeting 'Frighteningly Brief'

Officials In Final Bid For $120,000 State Grant

Representatives of a Wheeling-Prospect Heights youth project made a final appeal for a $120,000 state grant yesterday at a meeting one representative described as "frighteningly brief."

The meeting lasted only 15 minutes and afterwards Richard Stanowski of Wheeling said it was the first time he had been pessimistic about the future of the project.

Stanowski, who would head the local project if it receives the state grant, attended the meeting with Richard Wynn, director of the TORCH Community Mental Health Clinic in Wheeling.

Members of a committee of the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission (ILEC) questioned the two men about the project. The committee will make a recommendation about the project to the full commission.

Wynn and Stanowski apparently were disappointed by direction taken by committee members in their questions.

The committee members were particularly interested in how the proposed Youth Services Bureau would work with local police departments. In previous discussions of the project, its leaders had not dwelled on this aspect.

However, Wynn told the committee the project has excellent relations with the police. He said the bureau would take referrals from police.

In response to a question, Stanowski told the committee the primary function of the bureau would be to prevent juvenile delinquency.

One committee member said the ILEC is most likely to approve programs in which police departments have a leading role. He indicated that the commission wants the grants to aid youths who are already in trouble, rather than to prevent delinquency.

Christmas Concert Set At Willow Grove

Students in School Dist. 96 will hold their annual Christmas concert at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 10 at Willow Grove School in Buffalo Grove. Featured in the program will be band students, who will play a variety of Christmas and holiday music.

The band will be directed by Mrs. Gitana Folkes. The public is invited to attend the concert.

Stanowski also told the committee the bureau would sponsor leisure time activities. There are not enough of these activities in the three communities, he said.

The Youth Services Bureau — sponsored by the Wheeling Youth Commission, HELP, Inc., and the TORCH Clinic — was one of six projects given a final review by the committee at the ILEC office in Chicago yesterday.

Before the meeting both Stanowski and Wynn had been optimistic about the project's chances of getting state money. The project had been approved last March by the Cook County Commission on Criminal Justice.

The Youth Services Bureau has received pledges of financial support from the villages of Wheeling and Buffalo Grove and from local civic groups.

If approved the bureau would set up a youth services center and provide counseling services for youths in the three communities.

A MAKESHIFT SHELTER of pine boughs, dead timber and blankets isn't a very comfortable place to spend a night on a 7,000-foot mountain during a snow storm over Thanksgiving.

Reporter Battles Fury Of 'White Mountain'

by CRAIG GAARE

When the mountains get you on their own terms they punish and brutalize you. And when you're stranded in no food and no hope of getting down until morning, their brutality is magnificently awesome.

The mountains rip through the thin skin of civilization and expose large chunks of raw meat reality.

You don't worry about what color your new car should be or making the next furniture payment or being socially ungraceful. Instead you are faced with the problem of staying warm and deciding whether you want to get wet all over again gathering more firewood.

You don't want to go out in knee-deep snow in the dark on the side of the mountain, but you know if you don't the fire is going to burn itself out and the cold will penetrate your damp clothing.

YOU ARE at the mercy of the mountains and the mountains have no mercy. No man-made gadget or any of the material progress humans have made can help you. The internal combustion engine, one of the major inventions of recent centuries, is useless, hopelessly stuck in the snow.

The mountains even turn the fire on you. The smoke from the fire always seems to be blowing right in your face and the sprays lash out at you.

My encounter with the Manzano Mountains of New Mexico occurred over the Thanksgiving weekend. It started as an attempt by four University of New Mexico students to show me what it was like when the sun sets on the mountains and it ended up with us breaking and entering federal property to get help.

I had never seen New Mexico before and had gone out to visit Becky Graham of 611 Mayfair, Arlington Heights, a student at the University of New Mexico at Albuquerque and her three friends, David Nckelson of Carlsbad, New Mexico, Cynthia Weitz of Albuquerque, and Niki Marsicano of Delavan, Wis.

On the Sunday afternoon before I was to return home, the five of us drove about 55 miles and entered the mountain range near the town of Manzano.

WE DIDN'T make it to the top in time for the sunset and as all of us were craning our necks to look at the sun, the pickup truck went off the snow-packed dirt road and into a ditch about two miles from the top of the mountain.

After trying for an hour to get the truck out of the ditch, we decided just before dark that we would have to spend the night there with no food, three blankets, two sleeping bags and a quarter of a tank of gas in the truck.

'Worship In Jazz' At Long Grove

A "Worship In Jazz," featuring a dixieland band, will be presented Sunday at the Long Grove Community Church in Long Grove.

Don Gibson and his band will perform at services at 9:30 and 11 a.m., according to the Rev. Michael Paul, minister.

This will be the second time that the band has performed at a service in the church. "Last year they presented Negro spirituals. It was a foot-stomping, hand clapping success," Rev. Paul said.

The services are open to the public.

The minister said the services are in keeping with Psalm 150's admonition to praise God "with trumpet . . . song . . . stringed instruments . . . cymbals."

We fashioned a shelter out of the blankets, snow, dead branches and started a fire using gasoline from the truck.

Throughout the night we took turns tending the fire, and sitting in the truck with the motor running. Because we were low on gas, we ran the truck just long enough to get the cab heated and turned the engine off until it got so cold it had to be started again.

Things weren't going too bad until it started snowing. The snow soaked the blankets and the heat from the fire turned the inside of the shelter to mud.

BEFORE IT started snowing, we all joked about our adventure and how none of us had ever been rescued and what a story we could tell our friends.

After everything got soaked, things changed. Conversation dropped off and none of us even talked about how cold or wet we were. Only one of us talked about hunger and I later found out that most of us were thinking about how to build a better shelter and what we should do to get help the next day.

Mostly we just stared into the fire. The fire had to burn at a certain intensity to provide enough warmth. There was a fine line. If it was too low, the chill started to set in and if it was too intense, your boots and pants started to steam.

And even if you were right up next to it, the part of your body closest to the flames was uncomfortably hot while the rest of your body was just barely warm so the cold was not noticeable.

THE MAIN point of my concentration

throughout the night was the fire. You can't put the big logs on right away. You have to build the fire up with smaller branches until the fire is going strong enough to put a big log on. And even when you do that, the chill returns until the log catches fire. Also during the night, I was able to tell just by touching damp logs whether they would burn or not.

Toward the end of the night we started singing parodies of popular songs and relating them to our situation.

David came up with a parody of the Beatles song "Yesterday" with the line, "Why did it have to snow, I don't know, it didn't say."

But by far the most popular song was "Wouldn't It Be Lovely" from "My Fair Lady." It goes: "All I want is a room somewhere/Far away from the cold night air/and just one enormous chair, Oh, wouldn't it be lovely."

The next morning it was still snowing and my hosts said there was a lookout station at the top of the mountain, but it was probably locked.

SO AFTER building a more sturdy shelter of pine boughs in case we couldn't get help, we set out for the lookout station.

After about an hour, we reached the lookout. It was locked, but through a window we could see a radio transmitter and hear voices coming from it.

David broke the window, unlocked the door and let the rest of us in.

I tried the radio and after several "Mayday" calls, I reached the Mountaineer Ranger Station to the west of us.

The Ranger told us to go back down the hill and help would be there in about an hour-and-a-half.

In about an hour, a green U.S. Forestry Service truck came chugging up the same road we had nearly 24 hours before. He pulled our truck out and we returned to Albuquerque a little more humble, and a lot more hungry than when we left.

Jaycees To Sell Trees At Ranchmart And Mall

The Buffalo Grove Jaycees will begin their annual two-week Christmas tree sale this Sunday at two locations in the village.

The Jaycees will offer for sale Scotch Pine, Norway Pine, spruce and white pine trees for sale at the Ranchmart Shopping Center and the Buffalo Grove Mall.

They will be on sale from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturdays and from 1 to 6 p.m. Sundays at both locations.

During the week the trees will be on sale from 10:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. at the Ranchmart, and from 6 to 10 p.m. at the Buffalo Grove Mall.

The trees range in size from four to seven feet, and prices vary with size. They will cost the same as they did last year, according to Ron Ludders, a Jaycee vice president.

The Jaycees will provide a free delivery service so women can select a tree while they are shopping during the day and have it delivered to their home in the evening, Ludders said.

He said the mall was selected as a second tree selling location to support "an expanding slate of activities."

"It is the philosophy of the Buffalo Grove Jaycees to support all of their local activities — including the fourth of July celebration, outstanding young educators, and operation red ball to name a few — by offering the citizens an opportunity to purchase needed items," Ludders said.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

President Nixon promised to press for a guaranteed annual income for the elderly and generally to expand federal programs that would "bring the generations together again."

The Senate confirmed President Nixon's nomination of Earl L. Buz to be agriculture secretary after debate spiced more with presidential politics than farm policy. The vote was 51 to 44. The Purdue University dean will succeed Secretary Clifford M. Hardin, who is leaving the post to assume an executive spot with the Ralston-Purina Corp.

President Nixon decided to fly to Florida for a weekend of conferences with top advisers on the forthcoming 1973 federal budget. Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon and his aides expect to wrap up the major budget decisions in three or four days.

Acting under a new, no-compromise veto threat from President Nixon, House and Senate negotiators scuttled a Democratic-sponsored campaign financing plan for the 1972 elections but approved the concept for future presidential campaigns.

The State

Salary increases for some 2,000 state employees in higher pay categories will have to be put off until the state's welfare crisis has been solved, Governor Ogilvie said. However, he approved a 3 per cent salary increase for state workers who earn $15,000 a year or less.

The state still doesn't know how it mis-ment checks. But it does know now that no more such checks are missing, Revenue Director George Mahin said.

The World

Pakistani Sabrejets crossed the Indian border for the first time, strafing an airstrip in the populated Indian border city of Agartala military spokesmen said. The midday attack by three F-86 jet-fighters followed at least eight hours of shelling and bombing on Agartala. Military spokesmen also said a number of civilians were killed or wounded in the artillery barrage that continued throughout the day.

Gunmen in the Irish Republic and British commandos in Northern Ireland exchanged small arms fire and automatic weapons fire for 15 minutes across the Republic Northern Ireland border. One commando was wounded. An army spokesman said that the gunmen fired about 20 rounds from the republic side of the border and the commandos fired back from an armored car.

The War

The U.S. command reported nine Americans were killed and 78 wounded last week. This is the highest battle death toll in two months. Records listed 45,613 American soldiers killed and 302,283 wounded since the start of the war Jan. 1, 1961.

The euphoria that has pervaded Wall Street the past week enabled stocks to score their sixth consecutive advance despite pockets of profit taking. The Dow Jones Average scored a gain of 2178 to 848.79 bringing the one-week rise to more than 50 points. Advances outnumbered declines, 824 to 620, on the New York Stock Exchange. Turnover was 17,780,000 shares, down from 21,040,000 the previous session. Prices were steady in moderately active trading on the American Exchange.

NOW MOUNT PROSPECT Picasso lovers will have to travel only a few blocks, instead of miles, to see one of his works. The Picasso imitation is on the front of the Illinois Range Co. Building at 708 W. Central Rd.

Imitation Picasso At Site On Central Road

Picasso has come to Mount Prospect.

Chicago can still boast it has the only original of the "horse-like, man-like, whatever it is" statue designed by Pablo Picasso. But Mount Prospect is close behind with a replica of the famous work now on display on the front of the Illinois Range Co. building at 708 Central Rd.

"It's an example of what we can do," said Ed Krakowiak, treasurer of the firm that manufactures food service equipment. "I guess you could say we're masters of the technique in working with stainless steel."

The stainless steel statue, which took five weeks to build, is scaled to one-seventh of the original. The work was built by the Illinois Range engineering team which took pictures and made sketches of the original. Krakowiak estimates the imitation Picasso cost about $1,000, including materials and labor.

Illinois Range decided to build the statue as a display for the National Restaurant Show held in May at Chicago's McCormick Place. The company decided on the Picasso because "it is a symbol of Chicago" according to Krakowiak. After the restaurant show, the statue went on to be part of a sail-boat display which took first place in competition during Venetian Nights, a Chicago festival.

The company then decided to put the statue on display. As Ed Krakowiak said, "It will probably outlast the building."

Dems Favor J. Condylis To Oppose Rep. Crane

Democrats in the new 12th Congressional District are attempting to enlist John Condylis, 103 Landmeier Rd., Elk Grove Village, as a candidate to oppose U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane in the 1972 election.

Crane, Republican representative in the present 13th Congressional District, will formally launch his campaign for reelection in the new 12th District at a press conference at his Randhurst office tomorrow.

Condylis, an attorney, is president of Autoquip Corp., a Chicago firm specializing in manufacture of hydraulic equipment. Formerly president of the Elk Grove Township Regular Democratic Organization, Condylis headed the Elk Grove Village March of Dimes in 1964.

He has previously been favorably considered by Democratic leaders as a congressional candidate, but was prevented from running by demands of his business, according to Chester Chesney, Elk Grove Township Democratic committeeman.

Chesney said he has urged Condylis to appear before township committeemen, who will meet Monday evening to interview candidates for the Illinois General Assembly in the new 3rd Legislative District.

CHESNEY SAID he was hopeful that Condylis would agree to seek election to Congress or to the state Senate in the 3rd District.

Expected to appear before the five township committeemen Monday are incumbent Rep. Eugene S. Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, and John Kelley of Schaumburg, candidate for the state House. Committeemen on the screening committee are James L. McCabe, Wheeling Township; John Morrissey, Schaumburg Township; Richard Mughalian, Palatine Township; Nicholas B. Blase, Maine Township; and Chesney.

They will meet at 8 p.m. Monday at the Maitre D' Restaurant, 111 E. Higgins Rd., Elk Grove Village.

'Homestead Exemption' Assistance Is Offered

Marshall Theroux, Wheeling Township assessor, yesterday offered help to any senior citizen planning to file an application for a "homestead exemption" on his real estate taxes.

"I will help anybody, even if they're not in Wheeling Township," Theroux told about 75 Extensioners, a group of senior citizens in Mount Prospect.

The exemption would give homeowners aged 65 or over a reduction of $100 to $110 in real estate tax bills.

Theroux said applications for the reduction, which would not be allowed before Spring of 1973, would probably not be available until June of next year. Senior citizens had expected the exemption to be applied to next spring's bills, but a Chicago Circuit Court judge recently ruled the exemption unconstitutional for this year. 1971 assessments are reflected in the 1972 tax bills.

Almost 1,000 senior citizens in Wheeling Township have already applied for the exemption, but got them back. Theroux told them to hold on to the old applications because the same information will probably be required on the new forms.

The assessor told senior citizens who felt it unfair they weren't getting the reduction next year that it would probably be accepted in 1973. He said the exemption would probably be tested in court, but that it was constitutional under the new state constitution that went into effect in July.

Fran Altenburg of the Elk Grove Township Assessor's office was also at the meeting. She said Elk Grove Township officials would also keep senior citizens advised on new developments concerning the exemption.

Several residents over 65 complained because they have been paying school taxes, which amount to nearly 72 per cent of the real estate tax bill, while they have no children in school.

"It's unjust," said one man. "I've lived here 11 years and paid those taxes. And I did not send one child to school."

Robbers Get 'Coin'

Robert Cox of 519 Milwaukee Ave., Apt. 10, told Wheeling Police Wednesday that $180 in cash had been stolen from his home.

The money, $98 in bills, $87 in quarters and $15 in dimes, was taken from the apartment between 7 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, Cox told police.

Separate Mental Health Grant Hit

The Northwest Mental Health Association in Arlington Heights is opposing an application for state money by Elk Grove Village Community Service.

Community Service, a municipally-funded mental health and social service agency, is planning to apply for funds to the state to become a state mental health agency.

If it receives the grant the agency would then supply psychiatric services in Elk Grove and Schaumburg townships, a job now handled by Northwest.

Representatives from Community Service appeared last week before the Schaumburg Township board to ask for support for the grant, but no decision was made. The Elk Grove Village Board

Boy, 14, Injured When Hit By Car

A 14-year-old Wheeling boy was in good condition at Northwest Community Hospital Wednesday after he was hit by a car in front of Wheeling High School at 11:15 a.m. Tuesday.

Cook County Sheriff's Police who investigated the accident said Randy Bourland "jumped" in front of a car which was headed north on Elmhurst Road. The boy said he slipped on ice.

The car had the green light and the boy was crossing the street 45 feet from the nearest crosswalk, county police said.

The driver of the car, John Firtik, 26, of Elmwood Park, was not charged in connection with the accident.

Hospital officials said the youth suffered a concussion and multiple facial lacerations in the accident.

Democrats Endorse Paul Simon

The Regular Democratic Organization of Schaumburg Township has endorsed Lt. Gov. Paul Simon's bid for governor of Illinois.

The action took place during the organization's November meeting. The motion, approved unanimously by the 50 members attending, "urged and supported the candidacy of Paul Simon for governor of the state of Illinois."

The action makes Schaumburg Township one of the first Northwest suburban areas to endorse Simon. Township Democratic Committeeman John Morrissey has advised Simon of the endorsement.

The township Democrats also announced the formation of a Citizens Committee for Simon. Spearheading the committee are Edwin L. Frank, former Hoffman Estates park commissioner; Selwyn Schwartz, coordinator of the Adlai Stevenson campaign in Schaumburg Township in 1970, and William Holmes, president of the Schaumburg Township Democratic Organization.

The Citizens Committee is open to township Democrats, Republicans or Independents who support Simon.

has passed a resolution favoring the grant application.

Northwest Mental Health Medical Dir. Dr. Eugene Trager said his agency will oppose the application "based on my assessment of the communities' needs, and how they are best served."

NORTHWEST MENTAL Health Center, 1711 W. Campbell St., Arlington Heights, received $130,000 in state funds to provide services to Wheeling, Palatine, Elk Grove and Schaumburg townships.

The population of the four township area is now large enough that the state has divided it into two separate planning areas. As a result the state will consider funding a second mental health agency in the four-township area. Community Service wants to be the agency for the southern half of the area.

Trager said the state's division of the area is based on an arbitrary formula from the federal government. "Whenever the population goes over 70,000, the state will consider setting up a second center. In no way does the division imply state approval of a grant."

Jordan Rosen, executive director of the Community Service, said the agency is applying for the grant because "for the geographic concerns of our citizens and in terms of population growth we believe it would be difficult for one agency to handle all of the four township area."

He said with the grant Community Service could cooperate with Alexian Brothers Medical Center on providing psychiatric care. "The big issue for me is the population growth and the distance our people have to travel for service."

TRAGER SAID Northwest Mental Health is serving the entire four-township area and "we can't agree on setting up a duplicate facility."

He said Northwest has offered complete cooperation on screening and care of patients to Community Service but "so far, none has been requested. Our opposition to their grant does not mean that we won't cooperate with their agency."

Rosen said he has referred "a couple" of patients to Northwest for screening and has had no problems with that agency. He said few cases are referred from Community Service because, "we are not now a state-funded psychiatric agency and don't usually get patients who need that kind of care."

Trager said Northwest cooperates on cases with Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights, Forest Hospital in Des Plaines, Alexian Brothers and the state mental hospital in Elgin.

"There are many agencies in this area that have to be coordinated and I think it is better to have one fairly substantial facility that limits itself to severe disorders and can refer people effectively," he said.

Record Heist Foiled

A Chicago man was arrested in Wheeling Wednesday and charged with stealing 58 long-playing records from the K-Mart store at 780 W. Dundee Rd.

The records, valued at $237.19 were taken from the store in a cardboard box at approximately 7:40 p.m., police said.

The man arrested for shoplifting, Glenn Baker, will appear in Arlington Heights District Court on Jan. 21.

Northwest handled 848 primary cases, with Arlington Heights providing the largest number of cases with 208.

The second largest number of cases, 144, came from Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates, which would be served by Community Service if their grant is approved. Elk Grove Village provided 68 cases to Northwest and ranked seventh among the nine municipalities Northwest serves.

Northwest had a total budget of $183,041 in 1970-71, with 71 per cent coming from the state grant. Rolling Meadows was the only municipality to contribute to the agency with $1,200.

Today Is Last Day For Prospect Heights Herald

Today marks the last day of publication of the Prospect Heights Herald.

Established 16 years ago to serve the unincorporated area, the paper is being discontinued as a separate daily entity of Paddock Publications.

News of Prospect Heights will continue to be covered in the Mount Prospect and Wheeling Herald, and subscribers receiving the Prospects Heights Herald will now receive one of those two editions. Palatine Road will serve as a dividing line, with all readers in Prospect Heights north of the road to receive the Wheeling Herald, and all those south the Mount Prospect Herald.

The primary reason for the decision, according to the announcement this week from Editor and Publisher Charles E. Hayes, was the recent annexation by Mount Prospect of the heavily-populated southeast portion of Prospect Heights. By that action, a substantial number of Prospect Heights Herald readers became residents of Mount Prospect, with conversion to the Mount Prospect Herald a necessity.

Any questions by readers concerning the issue of the Herald they'll now receive should be directed to the Paddock Publications Circulation Department at 394-0110.

Environment, Health Courses To Be Offered

Steps are being taken by the Palatine Environmental Control Board (ECB) to initiate several community education programs, including a medical self-help course to be started Jan. 25.

Wayne Browning, control board member and teacher at Palatine High School, outlined plans for the self-help course at a meeting Wednesday night.

The course, to be held in two-hour sessions every Tuesday from Jan. 25 to March 14, will be offered at Palatine High through the High School Dist. 211 continuing education program. It will be open to Palatine residents for $1.25 registration fee.

Browning, Mrs. Martha Loss, director of nurses for Elementary Dist. 15, and Dr. Thomas Summons, a local physician and president of ECB, will be the instructors for the course. However, they hope to make use of residents who may have professional expertise in areas of environmental health in the instructional program.

The course will be offered from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. and provide information such as emergency medical care and first aid, methods of home sanitation, nutrition and health care in disaster situations.

A course description will be provided in the Dist. 211 brochure of night classes sent to Palatine residents. Registration can be done at Palatine High or by mail following the information in the brochure.

Besides the eight-week session, Browning said the education committee of ECB is looking into setting up a similar course during afternoon hours for local industries and businesses as a possible training program for employees.

This session would be a more intensive course done in four-hour periods.

Each of the medical self-help courses would be offered for the $1.25 fee, with supplemental funds for instruction coming from the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Also starting in January will be monthly film sessions and seminars open to any resident in the community. Browning said the film programs would be held the third Wednesday of every month in a location yet to be determined, depending on the number of persons who would attend.

Movies on environmental and medical health can be obtained free from a film distribution agency in Chicago, Browning said following the films.

The first film session is scheduled for Jan. 19 when two films on water pollution will be shown.

Short films will also precede each ECB meeting held the first Wednesday of each month in the environmental health department office. This program will also begin with the next meeting in January.

Browning suggested children also be included in the film scheduling and educational program by holding film festivals several times a year when they can be arranged. He said one could possibly be arranged for a Saturday morning in early spring.

THEY WERE WORKING on the railroad. Eighth graders at Palatine's Immanuel Lutheran School followed the tracks through downtown Palatine Wednesday afternoon, removing overgrown weeds as part of a service project in environmental health. Most of their work was centered on cleaning up the old train depot. Garbage bags used in their collection were supplied by the village environmental health department.

New Guidelines May Be Needed To Halt Erosion

Erosion of a section of Salt Creek in Palatine's Willow Wood subdivision could lead to the creation of new guidelines for the entire village for care of all five branches of the creek.

Members of the Palatine Environmental Control Board (ECB) recently made a field trip to inspect damage to the creek bank. A bend in the creek has caused gradual erosion of the bank in the subdivision.

Although recommendations were made for improvement of the situation, ECB members agreed Wednesday at their meeting to refer the matter to the village board to determine what agency is responsible for creek maintenance.

Jim Takahashi, ECB member, suggested the Palatine Park District, which owns the land on which the erosion is taking place, install rock walls with wire mesh on the side of the embankment to add some support. But the mesh eventually rusts away, leaving the rocks to strengthen the bank.

However, Takahashi said "something permanent is needed at Willow Wood" to prevent further erosion in other parts of the creek.

Lee Bridgeman of the Soil and Water Commission was also contacted and suggested willow poles be placed along the bank for protection.

In referring the problem to the village board, Environmental Health Director Dick Dawson said the problem in Willow Wood could easily become a problem in all five branches of Salt Creek running through Palatine. Established guidelines for maintenance by a particular department or agency would help to bring a solution to the erosion problem, he said.

Nab Man After High-Speed Chase

Eight traffic tickets and three complaints were issued to a former Palatine resident following a high-speed chase to the village from Lake Zurich early yesterday.

Leroy T. Weber, 21, who gave his address as the Alpine Motel, Lake Zurich, was apprehended near the Palatine Village Hall after he attempted to flee on foot from his car.

Later in the day, he was released on the Lake Zurich charges on a personal recognizance bond but was being held by Palatine police on $1,000 bond.

No one was reported injured in the 9½-mile, 6-minute chase.

Police gave the following account of the incident: Weber failed to stop his car for a red light at U.S. 12 and North Old Rand Road in Lake Zurich at approximately 12:31 a.m.

ACCORDING TO Lake Zurich police, Weber then apparently panicked because his driver's license had been revoked for earlier violations, and continued south on U.S. 12 in an attempt to elude police.

Cook County Sheriff's Police and Palatine police joined the chase, which police clocked at 90 mph in a 55 zone and 100 mph in a 65 zone.

The vehicles entered Palatine southbound on Hicks Road and turned westbound on Palatine Road, where Weber's car was reported in excess of 80 mph.

The car jumped the curb at Greeley Street, police said, then swung through a construction area and wound up along-side village hall.

At this time, police said, Weber attempted to run, but was apprehended by Patrolman William Cobb of the Palatine force and Patrolman Edward L. Leis of the Lake Zurich force. He was unarmed.

LAKE ZURICH police ticketed Weber for allegedly driving on a revoked license, reckless driving, fleeing and eluding police, fictitious license plates, improper lane usage, speeding and a stop-light violation.

In addition, he was charged with damage to village property, because a squad car incurred $30 damage to a wheel rim, and with resisting arrest "by kicking and striking a police officer."

Palatine police issued a ticket for driving with a revoked license and filed a complaint for reckless conduct. Cobb reported that Weber attempted to run his squad car off the road near Palatine Road and Brockway Street.

Weber, formerly of Palatine, is to appear in the Arlington Heights branch of Cook County Circuit Court on Dec. 30 on the Palatine charges, and in Lake County Circuit Court in Waukegan Jan. 6 on the Lake Zurich charges.

The right front wheel on his vehicle was reported damaged during the incident.

New Year's Eve Reservations Set

Reservations will be accepted Sunday for the annual New Year's Eve party at St. Theresa's Church in Palatine.

Tickets are $15 per couple, which includes a midnight dinner.

The "Phase Two of '72" theme means that the ticket price will remain the same as last year's.

Reservations can be made after Mass Sunday or Dec. 12 or by calling 359-3752 on Sunday.

The party is scheduled from 9 p.m. Dec. 31 to 3 a.m. Jan. 1, at the school, 445 N. Benton St.

Cracker Barrel

MAKING THE BIG TIME. Palatine was named in this month's issue of (of all things) Playboy magazine, but not because of the gay, devil-may-care life of village officials. Sellsberg, Inc. placed a full-page ad in the magazine on the Old Madrid apartment development at Northwest Highway and Hicks Road. That's called appealing to a definite market.

A PRESS RELEASE regarding a school fun fair mentioned that it is to be "runned" by the home and school association. We're not sure if that was meant to be "run" or "ruined"...

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

President Nixon promised to press for a guaranteed annual income for the elderly and generally to expand federal programs that would "bring the generations together again."

The Senate confirmed President Nixon's nomination of Earl L. Butz to be agriculture secretary after debate spiced more with presidential politics than farm policy. The vote was 51 to 44. The Purdue University dean will succeed Secretary Clifford M. Hardin, who is leaving the post to assume an executive spot with the Ralston-Purina Corp.

President Nixon decided to fly to Florida for a weekend of conferences with top advisers on the forthcoming 1973 federal budget. Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon and his aides expect to wrap up the major budget decisions in three or four days.

Acting under a new, no-compromise veto threat from President Nixon, House and Senate negotiators scuttled a Democratic-sponsored campaign financing plan for the 1972 elections but approved the concept for future presidential campaigns.

The State

Salary increases for some 2,000 state employees in higher pay categories will have to be put off until the state's welfare crisis has been solved, Governor Ogilvie said. However, he approved a 3 per cent salary increase for state workers who earn $15,000 a year or less.

The state still doesn't know how it misplaced $2.3 million in income tax payment checks. But it does know now that no more such checks are missing, Revenue Director George Mahin said.

The World

Pakistani Sabrejets crossed the Indian border for the first time, strafing an airstrip in the populated Indian border city of Agartala military spokesmen said. The midday attack by three F-36 jet-fighters followed at least eight hours of shelling and bombing on Agartala. Military spokesmen also said a number of civilians were killed or wounded in the artillery barrage that continued throughout the day.

Gunmen in the Irish Republic and British commandos in Northern Ireland exchanged small arms fire and automatic weapons fire for 15 minutes across the Republic Northern Ireland border. One commando was wounded. An army spokesman said that the gunmen fired about 20 rounds from the republic side of the border and the commandos fired back from an armored car.

The War

The U.S. command reported nine Americans were killed and 78 wounded last week. This is the highest battle death toll in two months. Records listed 45,613 American soldiers killed and 302,283 wounded since the start of the war Jan. 1, 1961.

The Market

The euphoria that has pervaded Wall Street the past week enabled stocks to score their sixth consecutive advance despite pockets of profit taking. The Dow Jones Average scored a gain of 2178 to 348.79 bringing the one-week rise to more than 50 points. Advances outnumbered declines, 824 to 620, on the New York Stock Exchange. Turnover was 17,780,000 shares, down from 21,040,000 the previous session. Prices were steady in moderately active trading on the American Exchange.

Yvonne Storer

If you have a seventh grader at Winston Park Junior High School, you undoubtedly have heard of YRO. This is the Youth Recreation Organization sponsored by the Palatine Park District for Junior high school youth. The group meets on Friday evenings from 7 to 9. They sing, dance, talk or just sit and watch and listen.

There are two or three people who are paid to attend each Friday evening's session. However this is not nearly enough when there are 200 to 250 students. Volunteers are badly needed and four or five couples can help each Friday evening and the burden will be light.

When your child attends this organization I'm sure you rest easy knowing they are well chaperoned. How about taking your turn and sign up for one session sometime during this school year. That's not really too much to ask. Mrs. Rosemary Hogan is anxiously waiting for your call. Her number is 358-6892.

IF YOU'RE STILL wondering what to get Grandpa or Uncle Bob or Cousin Jane for Christmas, perhaps St. Thomas School can help. The school will sponsor a book fair today, tomorrow and Sunday.

This will be a new concept in bookfairs as it is a "Fair-mo-bile" and will be held in the east parking lot of the school on East Anderson Drive. There are 300 titles for immediate delivery. Many categories for preschool through adult are available.

Don't miss this chance to do some Christmas shopping the easy way. Remember books make great stocking stuffers too.

IF YOU'RE NEW in Palatine — welcome! Have you heard about the Newcomers Club yet? It's a wonderful group of girls who are anxious to make you feel at home and help you get acquainted with your new community. On Wednesday evening, Dec. 15, there will be a coffee at the home of Mrs. Sue Livingston, 1100 Pepper Tree Dr. Any prospective member or new member who would like to know more about the club is welcome to join us on this evening. Call Sue at 358-7827 to tell her you would like to attend.

EVERY YEAR AT Christmas I have all these marvelous intentions to get cookies, candy, etc. made early so I'm not rushing about at the last minute. Well would you believe I actually did get started early this year. However, my delicious caramels have turned out to be spoon caramels. Oh, they taste very good, you just eat them with a spoon, because they didn't quite get hard enough. And my hard tack — well now if you like hard tack a whole lot you'd like this. You break off a piece (it takes a lot of muscle) and you put it in your mouth. Then you go to your room for 30 minutes because your teeth are stuck together and until the stuff dissolves you can't talk.

Call me at 358-1025. I'll keep my mouth free of hard tack so I can talk to you.

It's story time with Stella Pevsner.

Paddock First Graders 'Turned Loose' In Library

First graders at Stuart R. Paddock School are participating in a Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 pilot program to acquaint them with library facilities. Two classes have been meeting at the Palatine Public Library for half an hour once a week for the past three weeks.

"The first week we sort of turned them loose to see what they could find," said Alma L. Mehn, children's librarian and acting co-director.

Another session was devoted to showing the children the differences between thick, thin, picture and text books.

ONE OF THE youngsters' assignments was to "make" a book of their own to aid in their understanding of the concepts of author and title.

At this week's session, Stella Pevsner of Palatine, who has written children's books, spoke to the first graders on the process of getting a book into print.

Mrs. Mehn said the program was devised largely by Ida A. Bullen, former director of the library. She said, youngsters generally do not begin orientation with the library until they are in second grade.

"It's just a trial program, but it's working out pretty well," Mrs. Mehn said. "The children are extremely enthusiastic."

She indicated that if the program continues to be beneficial, it may be expanded to include classes from other grade schools.

Paddock School, located in Palatine, was chosen for the trial program because it is close to the library and the students would not require bus service to get there, Mrs. Mehn said.

C'mon, it can't be all that bad.

How To Remain 'Fit' In Winter

by DOUG RAY

Winter activities for some Northwest suburban residents range from walking the dog to tumbling in the living room.

The Herald yesterday asked local residents how they plan to stay physically fit this winter.

"I walk the dog," said Mrs. Earl Hadland, 2201 Algonquin Parkway, Rolling Meadows, who is in her "mid-sixties." "I used to skate and it was such good exercise," she commented.

Claude Bailey, 122 S. Fremont, Palatine, is a former baseball coach at Palatine High School. He suggests that "people should keep running to stay in shape. I run whenever I can," he added.

Bailey is now transportation director for High School Dist. 211 and winter keeps him busy. "I work 16 hours a day during the winter . . . it's my busiest time," he said of the transportation problems for the school district caused by harsh weather.

Mrs. Sandy Mathews, 55 W. Palatine Rd., Palatine, keeps in shape "running after the two children." She ice skates and used to "go through sit-ups and deep knee-bends daily during the winter."

Frank A. Ringwald of Arlington Heights has another answer to staying fit during the winter months. He goes to Florida. He makes his home at 2609 Bel Aire Dr. during the summer and travels to Florida "in the winter for two or three months."

"I do the usual things down there," he said. "I swim and do work around the apartment."

Mrs. Allen Weber, 2105 E. Kensington, Arlington Heights, says her family "tumbles in the living room." She also ice skates and roller skates and "loves to breathe the fresh winter air."

Another Arlington Heights resident said he does "nothing special" to stay in shape. Berthel Madsen, 215 N. Yale keeps busy with "general work around the home."

Mrs. R. W. Glaser, 3500 Bobolink Ln., Rolling Meadows, is a member of a morning bowling league. "That's about all I do in the winter," she commented. She said she used to ice skate when she was a little younger. "But the bones break a little easier now."

An Inverness resident Mrs. Jack Gow rides a snowmobile in the winter. "It's sort of a joke for staying physically fit, though," she said.

She says "working like mad around the house," keeps her in shape.

Mrs. George Grisco, 109 N. Linden, Palatine, "pulls the kids on the sled" as one of her winter activities.

May Expand Preschool Class

Salt Creek Rural Park District will expand its preschool program if enough interest is shown by area parents.

Ron Greenberg, park district director, said he'd like to start an afternoon program for three- and four-year olds to supplement the district's morning preschool program.

The district currently conducts preschool for three-year olds on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9 to 11 a.m. Preschool for four-year olds is held on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, also from 9 to 11 a.m.

Fees are $12 a month for three-year olds, and $17 a month for four-year olds.

Greenberg said he'd like to begin a similar afternoon schedule near the first of the year. He said the classes would probably be scheduled from 1 to 3 p.m. Fees would be the same, he said.

There are still a few openings in the morning preschool program for four-year olds, Greenberg said. The classes are held at Rose Park, 530 S. Williams St., in Palatine.

Parents interested in either the morning or proposed afternoon programs can get more information by calling 259-6890 weekdays between 9 and 11 a.m.

Schaumburg Public Library Chosen

Kids' Book Review Center Located

A copy of every children's book published in the United States will be sent free to the Schaumburg Township Public Library. The books will be sent for review in a Children's Materials Review Center to be based in Schaumburg by the North Suburban Library System (NSLS).

The NSLS has asked the Schaumburg Township Library Board of Trustees to consider the proposal to establish the center in extra space the library will have when the new extension is completed in May.

The board approved the idea Wednesday and decided to notify the NSLS they are ready to sign a rental contract for the approximately 1,000 square feet of space the center would require.

The NSLS is attempting to interest the DuPage and Suburban Library Systems to join the NSLS and create a three-system review center. If this happens, each library system would contribute $1,000 for salaries and operational expenses.

OTHERWISE THE NSLS would pay the estimated $3,000 center cost. Michael Madden, Schaumburg Township librarian, suggested the library not charge the NSLS at all for renting the space. "Instead ask for special consideration or a discount when the books are disposed of after review," he said.

Madden said locating the review center in the library would give the Schaumburg librarians 24-hour access to everything published for children.

"And, perhaps later, first crack at purchase of the materials they want for the library," he added.

Madden will suggest the center be located in the bookmobile room, adjacent to the docks and the meeting and program rooms.

APPROXIMATELY FOUR to five thousand items a year will flow through the center.

Another advantage of the room, that has separate entrances, will be its separation from other library rooms. When librarians come to review material they will not disturb or be disrupted by patrons, Madden said.

When the librarians meet to discuss the materials local meeting rooms will also be available.

Madden assured representatives of the Twinbrook YMCA that the library was still interested in leasing space to the YMCA in the lower level of the new addition.

5 Men Huddle For Warmth

Reporter Fights Mountain's Fury

by CRAIG GAARE

When the mountains get you on their own terms they punish and brutalize you. And when you're stranded in them overnight in a snowstorm with no food and no hope of getting down until morning, their brutality is magnificently awesome.

The mountains rip through the thin skin of civilization and expose large chunks of raw meat reality.

You don't worry about what color your new car should be or making the next furniture payment or being socially ungraceful. Instead you are faced with the problem of staying warm and deciding whether you want to get wet all over again gathering more firewood.

You don't want to go out in knee-deep snow in the dark on the side of the mountain, but you know if you don't the fire is going to burn itself out and the cold will penetrate your damp clothing.

Democrats Endorse Paul Simon

The Regular Democratic Organization of Schaumburg Township has endorsed Lt. Gov. Paul Simon's bid for governor of Illinois.

The action took place during the organization's November meeting. The motion, approved unanimously by the 50 members attending, "urged and supported the candidacy of Paul Simon for governor of the state of Illinois."

The action makes Schaumburg Township one of the first Northwest suburban areas to endorse Simon. Township Democratic Committeeman John Morrissey has advised Simon of the endorsement.

The township Democrats also announced the formation of a Citizens Committee for Simon. Spearheading the committee are Edwin L. Frank, former Hoffman. Estates park commissioner; Selwyn Schwartz, coordinator of the Adlai Stevenson campaign in Schaumburg Township in 1970, and William Holmes, president of the Schaumburg Township Democratic Organization.

The Citizens Committee is open to township Democrats, Republicans or Independents who support Simon.

Robbers Get 'Coin'

Robert Cox of 519 Milwaukee Ave., Apt. 10, told Wheeling Police Wednesday that $180 in cash had been stolen from his home.

The money, $98 in bills, $67 in quarters and $15 in dimes, was taken from the apartment between 7 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, Cox told police.

Police found p.y marks on the front door of the apartment.

YOU ARE at the mercy of the mountains and the mountains have no mercy. No man-made gadget or any of the material progress humans have made can help you. The internal combustion engine, one of the major inventions of recent centuries, is useless, hopelessly stuck in the snow.

The mountains even turn the fire on you. The smoke from the fire always seems to be blowing right in your face and the sprays lash out at you.

My encounter with the Manzano Mountains of New Mexico occurred over the Thanksgiving weekend. It started as an attempt by four University of New Mexico students to show me what it was like when the sun sets on the mountains and it ended up with us breaking and entering federal property to get help.

I had never seen New Mexico before and had gone out to visit Becky Graham of 611 Mayfair, Arlington Heights, a student at the University of New Mexico at Albuquerque and her three friends, David Nckelson of Carlsbad, New Mexico, Cynthia Weitz of Albuquerque, and Niki Marsicano of Delavan, Wis.

On the Sunday afternoon before I was to return home, the five of us drove about 55 miles and entered the mountain range near the town of Manzano.

WE DIDN'T make it to the top in time for the sunset and as all of us were craning our necks to look at the sun, the pickup truck went off the snow-packed dirt road and into a ditch about two miles from the top of the mountain.

After trying for an hour to get the truck out of the ditch, we decided just before dark that we would have to spend the night there with no food, three blankets, two sleeping bags and a quarter of a tank of gas in the truck.

We fashioned a shelter out of the blankets, snow, dead branches and started a fire using gasoline from the truck.

Throughout the night we took turns tending the fire, and sitting in the truck with the motor running. Because we were low on gas, we ran the truck just long enough to get the cab heated and turned the engine off until it got so cold it had to be started again.

Things weren't going too bad until it started snowing. The snow soaked the blankets and the heat from the fire turned the inside of the shelter to mud.

Library Use Has Increased

The Schaumburg Township Public Library had the largest percentage circulation increase from 1968-1970 and the Arlington Heights Public Library the largest increase from 1969-1970.

Both libraries are members of the North Suburban Library System. Michael Madden, Schaumburg librarian, said circulation statistics comparing the 31 libraries in the NSLS show Schaumburg first and Arlington Heights second in the 68-70 period and Arlington first and Schaumburg second in the 69-70 period.

Madden who is now compiling circulation figures for the 1970-1971 period said this past November showed the lowest percentage increase of only 1.78 per cent in adult traffic.

BEFORE IT started snowing, we all joked about our adventure and how none of us had ever been rescued and what a story we could tell our friends.

After everything got soaked, things changed. Conversation dropped off and none of us even talked about how cold or wet we were. Only one of us talked about hunger and I later found out that most of us were thinking about how to build a better shelter and what we should do to get help the next day.

Mostly we just stared into the fire. The fire had to burn at a certain intensity to provide enough warmth. There was a fine line. If it was too low, the chill started to set in and if it was too intense, your boots and pants started to steam.

And even if you were right up next to it, the part of your body closest to the flames was uncomfortably hot while the rest of your body was just barely warm so the cold was not noticeable.

THE MAIN point of my concentration throughout the night was the fire. You can't put the big logs on right away. You have to build the fire up with smaller branches until the fire is going strong enough to put a big log on. And even when you do that, the chill returns until the log catches fire. Also during the night, I was able to tell just by touching damp logs whether they would burn or not.

Toward the end of the night we started singing parodies of popular songs and relating them to our situation.

David came up with a parody of the Beatles song "Yesterday" with the line, "Why did it have to snow, I don't know, it didn't say."

But by far the most popular song was "Wouldn't It Be Lovely" from "My Fair Lady." It goes: "All I want is a room somewhere/Far away from the cold night air/and just one enormous chair, Oh, wouldn't it be lovely."

The next morning it was still snowing and my hosts said there was a lookout station at the top of the mountain, but it was probably locked.

SO AFTER building a more sturdy shelter of pine boughs in case we couldn't get help, we set out for the lookout station.

After about an hour, we reached the lookout. It was locked, but through a window we could see a radio transmitter and hear voices coming from it.

David broke the window, unlocked the door and let the rest of us in.

I tried the radio and after several "Mayday" calls, I reached the Mountaineer Ranger Station to the west of us.

The Ranger told us to go back down the hill and help would be there in about an hour-and-a-half.

In about an hour, a green U.S. Forestry Service truck came chugging up the same road we had nearly 24 hours before. He pulled our truck out and we returned to Albuquerque a little more humble, and a lot more hungry than when we left.

Chamber Group Has Breakfast, Weighs Goals

Members of the Rolling Meadows Chamber of Commerce met for breakfast yesterday at the Holiday Inn to discuss Chamber plans and goals for 1972.

The 20 Chamber members who attended the session agreed on three principal areas for action in 1972: Closer Chamber interaction with city government, a concerted thrust for new membership and a solid program of public relations.

Incoming president Frank Carroll, president of Ducks, Inc., said he'd also like to streamline the structure of the Chamber, eliminating some internal committees and consolidating others, to avoid duplication or waste of effort.

Chamber members agreed that a closer city-business relationship should be a top priority. Roger Tobin of the Curtis 1000 Co., said activity in this area should expand on work done this year by the Chamber's legislative committee.

Under Tobin's guidance the legislative committee tackled two issues this year that affect nearly all businesses in Rolling Meadows. The committee opposed a city water rate increase to businesses as unfair, and was instrumental in convincing the city council to draft an ordinance reducing fees for inspection of signs.

"WE'VE SPUTTERED along a little bit (in the legislative committee)," Tobin said, "because we didn't realize at first that it could be an important adjunct of our Chamber."

Tobin said he'd like to see "a more workable arrangement" with the council, rather than "an after the fact thing." He encouraged the Chamber members to take a deeper interest in the work of the city council and its committees.

Bob Iannaccone, of Western Electric, the Chamber's public relations chairman, said the group should make a push for new members, and set a goal of two new members a month for the next year.

"I think the Chamber needs a broader base and bigger support," Iannaccone said, "In this past year there's been very little membership action stressed," he said.

About 70 stores and businesses are represented in the chamber, in either its industrial or retail division. One member said there are 48 businesses in the industry category alone that are not represented. Thirteen new members joined the Chamber in 1971.

Bob Valentino, of the Chemplex Co. said the Chamber "accomplished some things in 1971 that we can use as selling points." Lou Beaudry of Holiday Inn added, "In the past we haven't been able to tell them (nonmembers) what we could do for them because we hadn't done anything."

In the area of Chamber restructuring, Carroll said he'd like to eliminate some of the group's 16 internal committees and consolidate others.

"I WENT DOWN the list of committees and figure we could reduce it from 16 to 9 and perhaps even pare it down some more," he said.

Al Jordan, owner of Rolling Meadows Bowl and chairman of the Chamber's retail division, said, "There are so many committees that sometimes we don't get anything done. There are three, four or five committees where nothing happens all year." The committees coordinate Chamber projects and activities.

The members also discussed activity in the area of community ecology, and a city-wide Christmas decoration project for 1972.

One member summed up the feeling that action rather than talk is the key saying, "If we don't give our members something more than a dance, they're going to drop out."

Kirchoff To Have Dash Of Sparkle

Kirchoff Road from Meadow Drive to Owl Drive, will have some extra holiday sparkle this year, thanks to the Rolling Meadows Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber bought large, cathedral-window decorations, and two city departments teamed up to hang them on 23 lamp posts along that stretch of Kirchoff.

Al Jordan, chairman of the Chamber's retail division and owner of Rolling Meadows Bowl, described the decorations as cathedral windows with a candle in the middle of each window.

He said the Chamber bought 23 of them for $2,500 as "our own idea of trying to get the center of town more attractive" for the holiday season.

City workers from the public works and fire departments were hanging the decorations Wednesday and Thursday. The fire department lent its snorkel truck to the task of hanging the windows high on the light standards.

Jordan said the decorations will be illuminated at night as soon as the electric company hooks them into the power lines. He said he hoped the job would be finished by the weekend.

In recent years holiday decorations have been conspicuously absent in Rolling Meadows, except for trimmings in the Rolling Meadows shopping center and other more isolated areas.

The Chamber is considering undertaking a more widespread and better coordinated program of city decoration for next year.

CITY WORKERS deck Kirchoff Road, with holiday decorations provided by the Rolling Meadows Chamber of Commerce. The Chamber bought the trimmings, which have been hung on the street lights along Kirchoff, between Meadow and Owl drives. The candles will be lit at night.

Speculation Over In Two Weeks

Stadium Location To Be Announced

by NANCY COWGER

The location of a major hockey stadium, strongly speculated for Schaumburg, will be announced in about two weeks at a press conference, according to Tim Worcester, spokesman for Chicago Hockey Inc.

Groundbreaking for the stadium, to cost an estimated $20 million, still is planned before the end of this month, said Worcester, who declined to commit his firm to any location.

Chicago Hockey Inc., owner of the franchise for the Cougar hockey team, is negotiating with "a number" of land holders over the site, said Worcester. The team owners have been approached by persons wanting to locate the stadium in the southwest suburbs, but the northwest area still is the top choice, he said. The stadium "will be in the northwest," Worcester said.

Schaumburg has been a frontrunner in speculation over where the team will build its new home, although Arlington Heights, Palatine, Rolling Meadows and

Offer Gift Certificate

The Rolling Meadows Park District is offering gift certificates for Christmas gift giving.

Certificates for the learn to skate program, which begins the week of Jan. 3, can be purchased at the Park District Office. The cost is $8 for residents and $20 for non-residents.

Certificates may also be purchased from the pro shop at the Sports Complex in any amount, for the purchase of skating or hockey equipment and/or patch and free style skating.

The pro shop is open from 2 to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 9 to 9 p.m. on weekends.

Barrington also have been suggested as possibilities.

The director of the team owners is Richard Pain, president of Woodfield Development Co., owner of large tracts of land around Woodfield Mall. In October, the development company announced general plans for the Woodfield area property, and included was a hockey rink.

The company shied away from any specific comment on the rink, although A. Harold Anderson, developer of the land, said it could host professional sports but not of major proportions. Pain said at the same time that "no possibility can be ruled out."

If the team comes to Schaumburg, it is anticipated the Woodfield area site, on Meacham Road, would house the stadium.

While some details about the proposed stadium have been made public, Worcester said there have been changes in plans since an announcement made Oct. 23. For example, said Worcester, 3,500 stadium seats were planned for the central arena, but architects now are drawing some of those seats as bleachers.

New renderings of the building will be made available when the location is announced, said Worcester.

There still will be approximately 20,000 seats in the stadium, and it still is seen as part of an office-hotel-apartment complex, he said.

John Syke, president of Chicago Hockey, Inc., described the complex in October as having a 250-room hotel, three office buildings and apartment buildings on a 40-acre parcel. Woodfield Development Co. plans also showed a hotel and three office buildings, as well as apartment areas, but the plans were described by firm officials as tentative and subject to change as negotiations with potential occupants progressed.

Third Ecology Day Set For Tomorrow

Just a reminder. Rolling Meadows' third Ecology Day will be held tomorrow.

City residents can bring their recyclable trash—paper, bottles, tin cans—to the city garage drop-off from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Members of local youth organizations will be on hand to help unload and sort the trash.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

President Nixon promised to press for a guaranteed annual income for the elderly and generally to expand federal programs that would "bring the generations together again."

The Senate confirmed President Nixon's nomination of Earl L. Butz to be agriculture secretary after debate spiced more with presidential politics than farm policy. The vote was 51 to 44. The Purdue University dean will succeed Secretary Clifford M. Hardin, who is leaving the post to assume an executive spot with the Ralston-Purina Corp.

President Nixon decided to fly to Florida for a weekend of conferences with top advisers on the forthcoming 1973 federal budget. Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon and his aides expect to wrap up the major budget decisions in three or four days.

Acting under a new, no-compromise veto threat from President Nixon, House and Senate negotiators scuttled a Democratic-sponsored campaign financing plan for the 1972 elections but approved the concept for future presidential campaigns.

The State

Salary increases for some 2,000 state employees in higher pay categories will have to be put off until the state's welfare crisis has been solved, Governor Ogilvie said. However, he approved a 3 per cent salary increase for state workers who earn $15,000 a year or less.

The state still doesn't know how it misplaced $2.3 million in income tax payment checks. But it does know now that no more such checks are missing, Revenue Director George Mahin said

The World

Pakistani Sabrejets crossed the Indian border for the first time, strafing an airstrip in the populated Indian border city of Agartala military spokesmen said. The midday attack by three F-86 jet-fighters followed at least eight hours of shelling and bombing on Agartala. Military spokesmen also said a number of civilians were killed or wounded in the artillery barrage that continued throughout the day.

Gunmen in the Irish Republic and British commandos in Northern Ireland exchanged small arms fire and automatic weapons fire for 15 minutes across the Republic Northern Ireland border. One commando was wounded. An army spokesman said that the gunmen fired about 20 rounds from the republic side of the border and the commandos fired back from an armored car.

The War

The U.S. command reported nine Americans were killed and 78 wounded last week. This is the highest battle death toll in two months. Records listed 45,613 American soldiers killed and 302,283 wounded since the start of the war Jan. 1, 1961.

If you're looking for unusual and/or homemade gifts or if your children have a limited amount of money to spend for Christmas, the place to go is the St. Colette Church hall (in the basement) 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. tomorrow and Sunday from 7:45 a.m. to 2 p.m. when the St. Colette Women's Club, which is comprised of seven guilds, will hold the second annual bake sale and mini bazaar.

The bake sale proceeds will be used to purchase equipment for the church kitchen and the proceeds from the booths at the bazaar will be used by each guild for their various "pet projects."

Mrs. Delores Gottschalk, president of the Woman's Club and Mrs. Joyce Muldoon, house chairman, will be selling coffee and donuts throughout the sale Sunday.

CHAIRMAN of the Our Lady of Peace Guild, Fran Gillis, reports that their booth will be bagging samples of their favorite candy or cookies with the recipe and selling them for 10 cents. Other items include jewelry, terry hand-wipes, ties, pillows and bed socks (all hand made) ranging in price up to $5.

Another table just for children will have items from five cents up, according to Mrs. Shirley Behac, guild member.

Pet project for this guild includes Ph.D. Hepline, Americana Nursing Home, Little City and making lap robes for the elderly.

Our Lady of Mercy Guild will sell wall decorations, centerpieces, jewelry and ear warmers, according to Mrs. Carolyn Curtis, chairman. They will also provide gifts and stocking stuffers for the younger folks, prices ranging from 35 cents to $3.50.

THE MARTHA'S GUILD will sell hats and purses, jewelry, and kitchen items beginning at $1, according to Mrs. Rita Hayes, chairman. A poncho, wall plaques and decorations will be raffled and the money will be used for yarn to make lap robes for the elderly.

A fudge bar will be sponsored by the Our Lady of Joy Guild, according to chairman Joyce Muldoon. Prices will start at 25 cents.

Proceeds will be used to help Father Tiernan at Elgin State Hospital where 150 children are housed.

THE HOLY FAMILY Guild will sell hand-made scarves and hats in school colors, according to Mrs. Lou McCaffery, chairman. Nancy Schram, chairman of the booth, will sell stuffed toys, Christmas tree ornaments, Santa Claus jars, and Barbie Blankets and pillows. Again prices will begin at five cents for the young shoppers.

The guild is planning to help the Santa Teresita Mission in Palatine with the proceeds.

ST. JUDE'S GUILD will sell Christmas candles ranging in price from 25 cents to $2.50. According to Kathleen Moreland, chairman, "The average price for the candles is 75 cents." A special feature at their booth will be a lollipop tree for the youngsters. Certain colors will win them a Santa Claus pencil.

This is a great way for the entire family to Christmas shop together and, at the same time, contribute to so many worthwhile projects.

It's story time with Stella Pevsner.

Paddock First Graders 'Turned Loose' In Library

First graders at Stuart R. Paddock School are participating in a Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 pilot program to acquaint them with library facilities.

Two classes have been meeting at the Palatine Public Library for half an hour once a week for the past three weeks.

"The first week we sort of turned them loose to see what they could find," said Alma L. Mehn, children's librarian and acting co-director.

Another session was devoted to showing the children the differences between thick, thin, picture and text books.

ONE OF THE youngsters' assignments was to "make" a book of their own to aid in their understanding of the concepts of author and title.

At this week's session, Stella Pevsner of Palatine, who has written children's books, spoke to the first graders on the process of getting a book into print.

Mrs. Mehn said the program was devised largely by Ida A. Bullen, former director of the library. She said, youngsters generally do not begin orientation with the library until they are in second grade.

"It's just a trial program, but it's working out pretty well," Mrs. Mehn said. "The children are extremely enthusiastic."

She indicated that if the program continues to be beneficial, it may be expanded to include classes from other grade schools.

Paddock School, located in Palatine, was chosen for the trial program because it is close to the library and the students would not require bus service to get there, Mrs. Mehn said.

C'mon, it can't be all that bad.

How To Remain 'Fit' In Winter

by DOUG RAY

Winter activities for some Northwest suburban residents range from walking the dog to tumbling in the living room.

The Herald yesterday asked local residents how they plan to stay physically fit this winter.

"I walk the dog," said Mrs. Earl Hadlund, 2201 Algonquin Parkway, Rolling Meadows, who is in her "mid-sixties." "I used to skate and it was such good exercise," she commented.

Claude Bailey, 122 S. Fremont, Palatine, is a former baseball coach at Palatine High School. He suggests that "people should keep running to stay in shape. I run whenever I can," he added.

Bailey is now transportation director for High School Dist. 211 and winter keeps him busy. "I work 16 hours a day during the winter . . . it's my busiest time," he said of the transportation problems for the school district caused by harsh weather.

Mrs. Sandy Mathews, 55 W. Palatine Rd., Palatine, keeps in shape "running after the two children." She ice skates and used to "go through sit-ups and deep knee-bends daily during the winter."

Frank A. Ringwald of Arlington Heights has another answer to staying fit during the winter months. He goes to Florida. He makes his home at 2809 Bel Aire Dr. during the summer and travels to Florida "in the winter for two or three months."

"I do the usual things down there," he said. "I swim and do work around the apartment."

Mrs. Allen Weber, 2105 E. Kensington, Arlington Heights, says her family "tumbles in the living room." She also ice skates and roller skates and "loves to breathe the fresh winter air."

Another Arlington Heights resident said he does "nothing special" to stay in shape. Berthel Madsen, 215 N. Yale keeps busy with "general work around the house."

Mrs. R. W. Glaser, 3500 Bobolink Ln., Rolling Meadows, is a member of a morning bowling league. "That's about all I do in the winter," she commented. She said she used to ice skate when she was a little younger. "But the bones break a little easier now."

An Inverness resident Mrs. Jack Gow rides a snowmobile in the winter. "It's sort of a joke for staying physically fit, though," she said.

She says "working like mad around the house," keeps her in shape.

Mrs. George Grisco, 109 N. Linden, Palatine, "pulls the kids on the sled" as one of her winter activities.

May Expand Preschool Class

Salt Creek Rural Park District will expand its preschool program if enough interest is shown by area parents.

Ron Greenberg, park district director, said he'd like to start an afternoon program for three- and four-year olds to supplement the district's morning preschool program.

The district currently conducts preschool for three-year olds on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9 to 11 a.m. Preschool for four-year olds is held on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, also from 9 to 11 a.m.

Fees are $12 a month for three-year olds, and $17 a month for four-year olds. Greenberg said he'd like to begin a similar afternoon schedule near the first of the year. He said the classes would probably be scheduled from 1 to 3 p.m. Fees would be the same, he said.

There are still a few openings in the morning preschool program for four-year olds, Greenberg said. The classes are held at Rose Park, 530 S. Williams St., in Palatine.

Parents interested in either the morning or proposed afternoon programs can get more information by calling 259-6890 weekdays between 9 and 11 a.m.

Anxious to answer, hoping to be right.

Schaumburg Public Library Chosen

Kids' Book Review Center Located

A copy of every children's book published in the United States will be sent free to the Schaumburg Township Public Library. The books will be sent for review in a Children's Materials Review Center to be based in Schaumburg by the North Suburban Library System (NSLS).

The NSLS has asked the Schaumburg Township Library Board of Trustees to consider the proposal to establish the center in extra space the library will have when the new extension is completed in May.

The board approved the idea Wednesday and decided to notify the NSLS they are ready to sign a rental contract for the approximately 1,000 square feet of space the center would require.

The NSLS is attempting to interest the DuPage and Suburban Library Systems to join the NSLS and create a three system review center. If this happens, each library system would contribute $1,000 for salaries and operational expenses.

OTHERWISE THE NSLS would pay the estimated $3,000 center cost. Michael Madden, Schaumburg Township librarian, suggested the library not charge the NSLS at all for renting the space. "Instead ask for special consideration or a discount when the books are disposed of after review," he said.

Madden said locating the review center in the library would give the Schaumburg librarians 24-hour access to everything published for children.

"And, perhaps later, first crack at purchase of the materials they want for the library," he added.

Madden will suggest the center be located in the bookmobile room, adjacent to the docks and the meeting and program rooms.

APPROXIMATELY FOUR to five thousand items a year will flow through the center.

Another advantage of the room, that has separate entrances, will be its separation from other library rooms. When librarians come to review material they will not disturb or be disrupted by patrons, Madden said.

When the librarians meet to discuss the materials local meeting rooms will also be available.

Madden assured representatives of the Twinbrook YMCA that the library was still interested in leasing space to the YMCA in the lower level of the new addition.

5 Men Huddle For Warmth

Reporter Fights Mountain's Fury

by CRAIG GAARE

When the mountains get you on their own terms they punish and brutalize you. And when you're stranded in them overnight in a snowstorm with no food and no hope of getting down until morning, their brutality is magnificently awesome.

The mountains rip through the thin skin of civilization and expose large chunks of raw meat reality.

You don't worry about what color your new car should be or making the next furniture payment or being socially ungraceful. Instead you are faced with the problem of staying warm and deciding whether you want to get wet all over again gathering more firewood.

You don't want to go out in knee-deep snow in the dark on the side of the mountain, but you know if you don't the fire is going to burn itself out and the cold will penetrate your damp clothing.

Democrats Endorse Paul Simon

The Regular Democratic Organization of Schaumburg Township has endorsed Lt. Gov. Paul Simon's bid for governor of Illinois.

The action took place during the organization's November meeting. The motion, approved unanimously by the 50 members attending, "urged and supported the candidacy of Paul Simon for governor of the state of Illinois."

The action makes Schaumburg Township one of the first Northwest suburban areas to endorse Simon. Township Democratic Committeeman John Morrissey has advised Simon of the endorsement.

The township Democrats also announced the formation of a Citizens Committee for Simon. Spearheading the committee are Edwin L. Frank, former Hoffman Estates park commissioner; Selwyn Schwartz, coordinator of the Adlai Stevenson campaign in Schaumburg Township in 1970, and William Holmes, president of the Schaumburg Township Democratic Organization.

The Citizens Committee is open to township Democrats, Republicans or Independents who support Simon.

Robbers Get 'Coin'

Robert Cox of 519 Milwaukee Ave., Apt. 10, told Wheeling Police Wednesday that $180 in cash had been stolen from his home.

The money, $96 in bills, $67 in quarters and $15 in dimes, was taken from the apartment between 7 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, Cox told police.

Police found pry marks on the front door of the apartment.

YOU ARE at the mercy of the mountains and the mountains have no mercy. No man-made gadget or any of the material progress humans have made can help you. The internal combustion engine, one of the major inventions of recent centuries, is useless, hopelessly stuck in the snow.

The mountains even turn the fire on you. The smoke from the fire always seems to be blowing right in your face and the sparks lash out at you.

My encounter with the Manzano Mountains of New Mexico occurred over the Thanksgiving weekend. It started as an attempt by four University of New Mexico students to show me what it was like when the sun sets on the mountains and it ended up with us breaking and entering federal property to get help.

I had never seen New Mexico before and had gone out to visit Becky Graham of 611 Mayfair, Arlington Heights, a student at the University of New Mexico at Albuquerque and her three friends, David Nekelson of Carlsbad, New Mexico, Cynthia Weitz of Albuquerque, and Niki Marsicano of Delavan, Wis.

On the Sunday afternoon before I was to return home, the five of us drove about 55 miles and entered the mountain range near the town of Manzano.

WE DIDN'T make it to the top in time for the sunset and as all of us were craning our necks to look at the sun, the pickup truck went off the snow-packed dirt road and into a ditch about two miles from the top of the mountain.

After trying for an hour to get the truck out of the ditch, we decided just before dark that we would have to spend the night there with no food, three blankets, two sleeping bags and a quarter of a tank of gas in the truck.

We fashioned a shelter out of the blankets, snow, dead branches and started a fire using gasoline from the truck.

Throughout the night we took turns tending the fire, and sitting in the truck with the motor running. Because we were low on gas, we ran the truck just long enough to get the cab heated and turned the engine off until it got so cold it had to be started again.

Things weren't going too bad until it started snowing. The snow soaked the blankets and the heat from the fire turned the inside of the shelter to mud.

BEFORE IT started snowing, we all joked about our adventure and how none of us had ever been rescued and what a story we could tell our friends.

After everything got soaked, things changed. Conversation dropped off and none of us even talked about how cold or wet we were. Only one of us talked about hunger and I later found out that most of us were thinking about how to build a better shelter and what we should do to get help the next day.

Mostly we just stared into the fire. The fire had to burn at a certain intensity to provide enough warmth. There was a fine line. If it was too low, the chill started to set in and if it was too intense, your boots and pants started to steam.

And even if you were right up next to it, the part of your body closest to the flames was uncomfortably hot while the rest of your body was just barely warm so the cold was not noticeable.

THE MAIN point of my concentration throughout the night was the fire. You can't put the big logs on right away. You have to build the fire up with smaller branches until the fire is going strong enough to put a big log on. And even when you do that, the chill returns until the log catches fire. Also during the night, I was able to tell just by touching damp logs whether they would burn or not.

Toward the end of the night we started singing parodies of popular songs and relating them to our situation.

David came up with a parody of the Beatles song "Yesterday" with the lib, "Why did it have to snow, I don't know, it didn't say."

But by far the most popular song was "Wouldn't It Be Lovely" from "My Fair Lady." It goes: "All I want is a room somewhere/Far away from the cold night air/and just one enormous chair, Oh, wouldn't it be lovely."

The next morning it was still snowing and my hosts said there was a lookout station at the top of the mountain, but it was probably locked.

SO AFTER building a more sturdy shelter of pine boughs in case we couldn't get help, we set out for the lookout station.

After about an hour, we reached the lookout. It was locked, but through a window we could see a radio transmitter and hear voices coming from it.

David broke the window, unlocked the door and let the rest of us in.

I tried the radio and after several "Mayday" calls, I reached the Mountaineer Ranger Station to the west of us.

The Ranger told us to go back down the hill and help would be there in about an hour-and-a-half.

In about an hour, a green U.S. Forestry Service truck came chugging up the same road we had nearly 24 hours before. He pulled our truck out and we returned to Albuquerque a little more humble, and a lot more hungry than when we left.

Youth Officials Make Final Bid For State Grant

Presses Roll Last Time For Herald

Today marks the last day of publication of the Prospect Heights Herald.

Established 16 years ago to serve the unincorporated area, the paper is being discontinued as a separate daily entity of Paddock Publications.

News of Prospect Heights will continue to be covered in the Mount Prospect and Wheeling Herolds, and subscribers receiving the Prospects Heights Herald will now receive one of those two editions. Palatine Road will serve as a dividing line, with all readers in Prospect Heights north of the road to receive the Wheeling Herald, and all those south the Mount Prospect Herald.

The primary reason for the decision, according to the announcement this week from Editor and Publisher Charles E. Hayes, was the recent annexation by Mount Prospect of the heavily-populated southeast portion of Prospect Heights. By that action, a substantial number of Prospect Heights Herald readers became residents of Mount Prospect, with conversion to the Mount Prospect Herald a necessity.

Any questions by readers concerning the issue of the Herald they'll now receive should be directed to the Paddock Publications Circulation Department at 394-0110.

Boy, 14, Injured When Hit By Car

A 14-year-old Wheeling boy was in good condition at Northwest Community Hospital Wednesday after he was hit by a car in front of Wheeling High School at 11:15 a.m. Tuesday.

Cook County Sheriff's Police who investigated the accident said Randy Bourland "jumped" in front of a car which was headed north on Elmhurst Road. The boy said he slipped on ice.

The car had the green light and the boy was crossing the street 45 feet from the nearest crosswalk, county police said.

The driver of the car, John Firtik, 26, of Elmwood Park, was not charged in connection with the accident.

Hospital officials said the youth suffered a concussion and multiple facial lacerations in the accident.

Representatives of a Wheeling-Buffalo Grove-Prospect Heights youth project made a final appeal for a $120,000 state grant yesterday at a meeting one representative described as "frighteningly brief."

The meeting lasted only 15 minutes and afterwards Richard Stanowski of Wheeling said it was the first time he had been pessimistic about the future of the project.

Stanowski, who would head the local project if it receives the state grant, attended the meeting with Richard Wynn, director of the TORCH Community Mental Health Clinic in Wheeling.

Members of a committee of the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission (ILEC) questioned the two men about the project. The committee will make a recommendation about the project to the full commission.

Wynn and Stanowski apparently were disappointed by direction taken by committee members in their questions.

The committee members were particularly interested in how the proposed Youth Services Bureau would work with local police departments. In previous discussions of the project, its leaders had not dwelled on this aspect.

However, Wynn told the committee the project has excellent relations with the police. He said the bureau would take referrals from police.

In response to a question, Stanowski told the committee the primary function of the bureau would be to prevent juvenile delinquency.

One committee member said the ILEC is most likely to approve programs in which police departments have a leading role. He indicated that the commission wants the grants to aid youths who are already in trouble, rather than to prevent delinquency.

Stanowski also told the committee the bureau would sponsor leisure time activities. There are not enough of these activities in the three communities, he said.

The Youth Services Bureau — sponsored by the Wheeling Youth Commission, HELP, Inc., and the TORCH Clinic — was one of six projects given a final review by the committee at the ILEC office in Chicago yesterday.

Before the meeting both Stanowski and Wynn had been optimistic about the project's chances of getting state money. The project had been approved last March by the Cook County Commission on Criminal Justice.

The Youth Services Bureau has received pledges of financial support from the villages of Wheeling and Buffalo Grove and from local civic groups.

If approved the bureau would set up a youth services center and provide counseling services for youths in the three communities.

Recruit Graduates

Marine Pvt. James A. Caterina, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Caterina of 31 E. Strong, Wheeling, has graduated from recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot in San Diego.

THE VOICES OF WHEELING HIGH School's madrigal singers will ring out tomorrow at the first annual madrigal dinner to be held at the school. Three hundred diners will eat roast beef and flaming fig pudding while the singers perform 15th Century and traditional Christmas music. The Wheeling High cafeteria will be transformed into a Medieval dining hall for the event. The music department has been preparing several months for the event. Many community leaders have been invited to attend as special guests of the school.

Attempt To Ban BAC-111 Jets Fails

Wheeling residents have failed in their latest attempt to stop flights of the BAC-111 jet airplane from Pal-Waukee Airport.

Members of the "residents committee" asked the Victor Comptometer Corp. to end flights by their plane, the largest using the airport regularly.

The request was in a letter to George May, president of the Chicago-based firm.

A reply from May's administrative assistant indicated that the company would continue to use the plane at Pal-Waukee.

William Rogers and Robert Watts of the citizens committee have complained that the BAC-111 exceeded weight limits set by Cook County for planes using the airport.

The two men said that a county zoning permit limited aircraft weight to 60,000 pounds. The BAC-111, they said, is "26,000 pounds over the legal limit."

"We call upon you to take steps which will restrict Victor Comptometer's use of Pal-Waukee to only those aircraft with gross weights under 60,000 pounds," Watts and Rogers wrote. They said they did not object to the use of planes under 60,000 pounds.

In reply, R. T. Middendorf of Victor said, his company feels it is "operating within government regulations."

Middendorf said, "Before coming to Pal-Waukee in 1967, we checked and found nothing in manuals or notices to airmen or any federal publication prohibiting or restricting weights of BAC-111 aircraft into Pal-Waukee Airport."

Watts and Rogers told the Herald that the weight restrictions were not found in federal regulations but in a county permit that allowed the airport to build the jet runway used by the Victor plane.

The men said that "every move on the part of the airport management has been focused on the elimination of permit restrictions so that they can increase their profit potential."

The residents' committee has also claimed that the runway is longer than the limit set by the county permit and that planes do not follow the traffic patterns required by the county.

Airport officials deny all charges. They have said that the residents have misinterpreted the weight restrictions and included a "turn-around" area in measuring the runway. They say the county has no authority over flight patterns.

In his letter Middendorf pointed out that his company has taken some actions in response to residents' complaints.

"We want to be good neighbors," he said, "and have made every effort to minimize early morning or late evening noise by rescheduling take-off and arrival times to normal waking hours whenever possible — usually at the added expense and inconvenience of overnight accommodations out of town."

Ice Hockey Clinic Slated

Some 200 boys are expected to take part in an ice hockey clinic sponsored by the Prospect Heights Park District, Ron Greenberg, director, has announced.

Greenberg said this will be the first year for the hockey clinic which will be divided by age and grade for the classes. Later teams will be formed and will compete with teams from other park districts.

Meetings on the rules of the game will start in a few weeks. The charge for the class is $5 per student. The date for the start of the clinic will be announced later.

Greenberg said two rinks are being prepared by Lions Pool on Camp McDonald Road, one for ice hockey and the other for open skating. The ice will be readied about Dec. 18.

The ice rinks will be open from 1-5 p.m. and 6-9 p.m. on weekends and during the Christmas holidays. On school days skating will be permitted from 4-5:30 p.m. and 6-9 p.m. Guards will be on duty on the ice and in the warming house when the rinks are open.

Skating lessons will be conducted each Saturday after the ice is ready. Dee Adrana, John Hersey High School senior, will teach beginners at 9 a.m. and advanced skaters at 11 a.m. the cost of the lessons is $2.50.

Greenberg said last year attendance at the rinks averaged 500 on weekends and during the holidays and 300 during the week.

Dems Favor Condylis To Oppose Crane

Democrats in the new 12th Congressional District are attempting to enlist John Condylis, 103 Landmeier Rd., Elk Grove Village, as a candidate to oppose U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane in the 1972 election.

Crane, Republican representative in the present 13th Congressional District, will formally launch his campaign for reelection in the new 12th District at a press conference at his Randhurst office tomorrow.

Condylis, an attorney, is president of Autoquip Corp., a Chicago firm specializing in manufacture of hydraulic equipment. Formerly president of the Elk Grove Township Regular Democratic Organization, Condylis headed the Elk Grove Village March of Dimes in 1964.

He has previously been favorably considered by Democratic leaders as a congressional candidate, but was prevented from running by demands of his business, according to Chester Chesney, Elk Grove Township Democratic committeeman.

Chesney said he has urged Condylis to appear before township committeemen, who will meet Monday evening to interview candidates for the Illinois General Assembly in the new 3rd Legislative District.

CHESNEY SAID he was hopeful that Condylis would agree to seek election to Congress or to the state Senate in the 3rd District.

Expected to appear before the five township committeemen Monday are incumbent Rep. Eugenia S. Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, and John Kelley of Schaumburg, candidate for the state House. Committeemen on the screening committee are James L. McCabe, Wheeling Township; John Morrissey, Schaumburg Township; Richard Mugalian, Palatine Township; Nicholas B. Blase, Maine Township; and Chesney.

They will meet at 8 p.m. Monday at the Maitre D' Restaurant, 111 E. Higgins Rd., Elk Grove Village.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

President Nixon promised to press for a guaranteed annual income for the elderly and generally to expand federal programs that would "bring the generations together again."

The Senate confirmed President Nixon's nomination of Earl L. Butz to be agriculture secretary after debate spiced more with presidential politics than farm policy. The vote was 51 to 44. The Purdue University dean will succeed Secretary Clifford M. Hardin, who is leaving the post to assume an executive spot with the Ralston-Purina Corp.

President Nixon decided to fly to Florida for a weekend of conferences with top advisers on the forthcoming 1973 federal budget. Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon and his aides expect to wrap up the major budget decisions in three or four days.

Acting under a new, no-compromise veto threat from President Nixon, House and Senate negotiators scuttled a Democratic-sponsored campaign financing plan for the 1972 elections but approved the concept for future presidential campaigns.

The State

Salary increases for some 2,000 state employees in higher pay categories will have to be put off until the state's welfare crisis has been solved, Governor Ogilvie said. However, he approved a 3 per cent salary increase for state workers who earn $15,000 a year or less.

The state still doesn't know how it misplaced $2.3 million in income tax payment checks. But it does know now that no more such checks are missing, Revenue Director George Mahin said.

The World

Pakistani Sabrejets crossed the Indian border for the first time, strafing an airstrip in the populated Indian border city of Agartala military spokesmen said. The midday attack by three F-96 jet-fighters followed at least eight hours of shelling and bombing on Agartala. Military spokesmen also said a number of civilians were killed or wounded in the artillery barrage that continued throughout the day.

Gunmen in the Irish Republic and British commandos in Northern Ireland exchanged small arms fire and automatic weapons fire for 15 minutes across the Republic Northern Ireland border. One commando was wounded. An army spokesman said that the gunmen fired about 20 rounds from the republic side of the border and the commandos fired back from an armored car.

The War

The U.S. command reported nine Americans were killed and 78 wounded last week. This is the highest battle death toll in two months. Records listed 45,613 American soldiers killed and 302,283 wounded since the start of the war Jan. 1, 1961.

The euphoria that has pervaded Wall Street the past week enabled stocks to score their sixth consecutive advance despite pockets of profit taking. The Dow Jones Average scored a gain of 2178 to 848.79 bringing the one-week rise to more than 50 points. Advances outnumbered declines, 824 to 620, on the New York Stock Exchange. Turnover was 17,780,000 shares, down from 21,040,000 the previous session. Prices were steady in moderately active trading on the American Exchange.

Six local boys won awards Saturday at the Guardsmen Drum and Bugle Corps annual awards banquet.

Highest award of the corps, "Guardsman of the Year," went to Jeff Adler of Mount Prospect. Bill Witt of Mount Prospect won "Rookie of the Year" award. Both boys play the bugle. "Best in Bugle" award was given to Tom Wolfe of Mount Prospect.

Alan Kewell of Prospect Heights was one of three corps members receiving a "Perfect Attendance Award." This means they were present at every practice session and every parade and competition—150 times in all—during the past year. Mark Hirt and Jim Isbrandt of Prospect Heights were also recognized for their attendance records, with one absence each.

Mayor and Mrs. Robert Teichert and Village Mgr. and Mrs. Robert Eppley were among special guests at the banquet in Schaumburg's Woodfield Shopping Center. The Mount Prospect Lions Club and Chamber of Commerce are two of the group's sponsors.

RICHARD LEDIG, corps director, always welcomes new members. Now he is especially looking for boys between the ages of 14 and 21 to join the newly formed rifle squad. With trainer rifles, the boys form a guard for the flag and put on a military display. Boys between 9 and 21 also play drums or bugles in the 150-member corps. Girls form the color guard, as well as play.

Practices are Mondays from 7 to 9:30 p.m. at Helen Keller School in Hoffman Estates and Sunday afternoons from 1 to 4 at the Wheeling High School fieldhouse.

Instruments and uniforms are furnished without cost to corps members. No musical experience is necessary to join. Anyone interested may come to a practice session or call Mr. Ledig at 827-1408.

At the recent "Turkey Bowl," sponsored by the Busse School PTA Bowling League, winners were Anita Ahrens, Lillian Silva, Judy Silander, and Sandy Scharringhausen. Each won a prize for bowling the most pins over her average. During the league's first 10 weeks, Judy Verscheer had high game, with 229.

YOUNGSTERS in grades three through six are invited to come to an outdoor recreation program tomorrow from 10 to 11:30 at Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church, 1010 E. Euclid, Prospect Heights. Refreshments will be served.

Bjorn Skaarlerud of 102 S. Elmhurst Ave. is a new trustee for Norwegian-American Hospital in Chicago. He is Midwest sales manager for Harvey Prober Associates, Inc., with headquarters in Chicago. A native of Norway, he became a U.S. citizen in 1954.

'Homestead Exemption' Assistance Is Offered

Marshall Theroux, Wheeling Township assessor, yesterday offered help to any senior citizen planning to file an application for a "homestead exemption" on his real estate taxes.

"I will help anybody, even if they're not in Wheeling Township," Theroux told about 75 Extensioners, a group of senior citizens in Mount Prospect.

The exemption would give homeowners aged 65 or over a reduction of $100 to $110 in real estate tax bills.

Theroux said applications for the reduction, which would not be allowed before Spring of 1973, would probably not be available until June of next year. Senior citizens had expected the exemption to be applied to next spring's bills, but a Chicago Circuit Court judge recently ruled the exemption unconstitutional for this year. 1971 assessments are reflected in the 1972 tax bills.

Almost 1,000 senior citizens in Wheeling Township have already applied for the exemption, but got them back. Theroux told them to hold on to the old applications because the same information will probably be required on the new forms.

The assessor told senior citizens who felt it unfair they weren't getting the reduction next year that it would probably be accepted in 1973. He said the exemption would probably be tested in court, but that it was constitutional under the new state constitution that went into effect in July.

Fran Altenburg of the Elk Grove Township Assessor's office was also at the meeting. She said Elk Grove Township officials would also keep senior citizens advised on new developments concerning the exemption.

Several residents over 65 complained because they have been paying school taxes, which amount to nearly 72 per cent of the real estate tax bill, while they have no children in school.

"It's unjust," said one man. "I've lived here 11 years and paid those taxes. And I did not send one child to school."

Local Firemen Attend Training Sessions

Fourteen members of the Mount Prospect Fire department attended training sessions this week at the Glenview Naval Air Station. The sessions were on aircraft firefighting and rescue training.

The men were shown slides and films and given classroom discussion. They also had familiarization of fighter, cargo and bomber airplanes. The session was the last in a series on specialized firefighting procedures which department members attended.

The men were Capt. James Hilliger, Lts. Dennis Thill and Kenneth Koeppen, and firefighters Lowell Fell, Robert Kooiker, Les Wuellett, James Wicker, Charles Forton, Clyde Hartig, William Brelle, Edward Druettel, Arthur Felski, Robert Clark and Kenneth Stahl.

Fire Chief Larry Pairitz said the men took the course so that should an airplane ever crash in the village, they would know how to handle the situation.

Boy Scout Troop 361 in Mount Prospect, a Cadet troop, is conducting a paper and bottle recycling drive today through Sunday. A spokesman for the group said a collection van will be stationed at Grace Lutheran Church, Wolf Road and Euclid Avenue.

AFS Program 'Pretty Successful'

by KAREN RUGEN

Second of Two Parts
The American Field Service (AFS) student exchange program isn't all sharing, good experiences and tearful, fond farewells.

Sometimes the student doesn't stay long enough for the fond farewell. Sometimes the host family doesn't share as it should with the invited visitor. And sometimes new experiences don't turn out so well.

While these cases are rare and most AFS students enjoy their stay in the Northwest suburbs, area high schools have experienced some problems with the program. At schools like Prospect High School in Mount Prospect and John Hersey High School in Arlington Heights, those problems aren't that serious.

"There have been disagreements between family and students, but they have always been worked out. Foreign students experience the usual loneliness until they get used to our culture," said Ron Joy, AFS sponsor who has shown students from Argentina, Sweden, the Barbados Islands, England, Germany and Japan around Prospect. "But we have had a pretty successful program. The student body is receptive."

THE BIGGEST PROBLEM at Hersey, like Wheeling High School, is that residents don't want to get involved with the local AFS chapter or become host families. According to Hersey AFS sponsor Sam Perpitch, often only one family volunteers each year to host a student, thus giving the AFS selection committee little choice. But Hersey has had few problems with student visitors. According to Perpitch, "all are top-notch and get involved in our activities."

Forest View High School in Arlington Heights hasn't been as lucky with their AFS students. When the last AFS student left in 1968, the student council voted to discontinue the program.

"What brought about the demise of the program was bad circumstances," said Burton Showers, director of student activities and former AFS sponsor. Showers said personalities of foreign exchange students, host families and lack of community involvement created difficulties.

"We have had personality conflicts—the lack of ability of a student to adjust to the cultural differences. At first the student body was receptive to foreign students," said Showers. But after certain foreign students, he said, they changed their mind.

A girl from Germany created problems because she did "not have the same values as her host family," Showers said. A boy from Afghanistan had to be moved to New Trier West High School because of clashes with the host family and with students.

PART OF THE PROBLEM is inherent in the selection process, said Showers, pointing out that in some countries AFS students are chosen from children of diplomats and military officials. "The boy from Afghanistan was chosen supposedly by AFS standards. But when he got here, he admitted he came to learn how to argue because he wanted to be a lawyer. Maybe he thought we have more freedom of speech. But all that is something that would never come out in an interview," he said.

Lack of real interest also contributed to cancellation of the program. "We polled our students, and 99 per cent wanted an AFS student. But in the same poll, only one family volunteered to host one and they were found ineligible. Nowadays the fad has worn off. Everybody wanted AFS, but nobody wanted to serve on the committee."

Showers admits that Forest View also contributed to the failure. He said he didn't feel he was qualified, because he didn't have time to work with the AFS students. Yet he became sponsor because no other faculty member would volunteer.

"I feel our biggest mistake is that we should be sending our kids over there instead of bringing them over here. I feel the average American student doesn't know much about world affairs, but it's surprising how many foreign students know about us," said Showers who has traveled around the world several times. "But the average family in Europe is afraid to open their home because they feel the average American has more than they do and are embarrassed."

LIKE SHOWERS, Mrs. Edward Collins, area AFS coordinator who lives in Park Ridge, recognizes the shortcomings of the program. But, she is nevertheless proud of AFS.

"The prime problems at Forest View are what can happen at a lot of high schools when the community leaves it all to the faculty," said Mrs. Collins. For 14 years, Mrs. Collins has been involved with AFS. Her prime function is to act as go-between for local chapters and New York headquarters. She tries to help students or host families adjust when the problems are too difficult for the school or local chapter.

"Sometimes kids find it hard to adjust because of the way a family is structured. Some find there's less freedom here than they had at home. They try to get along, but sometimes the question gets down to, are they willing to give up all their own values?" she said.

When there are problems, she tries "to find out what we can do. Sometimes it is difficult to separate adolescence problems from family and student behavior. If we have goofed in placing a student we try not to move him from the community, but to a new family or help him to make friends of his own.

"ANOTHER PROBLEM is that too many high school kids are too busy doing their own thing and think somebody else should take care of the AFS'er. Then the foreign student feels frustrated because other teens are too busy to help him," she added.

Part of Mrs. Collins' job is to plan trips so that AFS students in this area get more than just a look at the suburbs. She schedules a trip to Springfield and what she calls a "black tour" so they can see what blacks have been able to do for themselves. The students visit offices of Ebony magazine, Operation Breadbasket and black high schools. They also take a trip through the ghetto, to Hull House and to the Chicago Indian Center.

There are AFS problems on the other side of the ocean as well. "They complain about getting the same type of American student—white middle-class. We complain about the same thing on this side. But in both places it is restricted because of the type of family who volunteers to host a student," said Mrs. Collins.

"AFS realizes a lot of its failings and is trying to do something about it. We are looking for qualified American black students to send abroad," she said. The

Eye, Ear Tests Scheduled At Feehanville

Starting Monday, nearly 250 youngsters will be tested for hearing and vision problems at Feehanville School in Mount Prospect.

The screening program, for area children age 3 to 5, will be conducted from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the school, 1400 E. Kensington Rd.

The screening is being provided by the Illinois Department of Public Health and the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness in cooperation with River Trails School Dist. 26. The testing will be done by the Suburban Low Incidence Development of Exemplary Services (SLIDES).

Registration for the screening was last week. However, according to school Dist. nurse Joan Kuffel, parents can still bring their children although they have not registered.

"I suggest they drop in on Wednesday, preferably in the morning," she said. The purpose of the screening is to locate preschool children with visual or hearing problems and to identify those needing special educational services.

All children showing any difficulties at the test will be asked to return later. If the difficulty persists, parents will be requested to take the child for a complete examination.

5 Men Huddle For Warmth

Reporter Fights Mountain's Fury

by CRAIG GAARE

When the mountains get you on their own terms they punish and brutalize you. And when you're stranded in the mountains overnight in a snowstorm with no food and no hope of getting down until morning, their brutality is magnificently awesome.

The mountains rip through the thin skin of civilization and expose large chunks of raw meat reality.

You don't worry about what color your new car should be or making the next furniture payment or being socially ungraceful. Instead you are faced with the problem of staying warm and deciding whether you want to get wet all over again gathering more firewood.

You don't want to go out in knee-deep snow in the dark on the side of the mountain, but you know if you don't the fire is going to burn itself out and the cold will penetrate your damp clothing.

YOU ARE at the mercy of the mountains and the mountains have no mercy. No man-made gadget or any of the material progress humans have made can help you. The internal combustion engine, one of the major inventions of recent centuries, is useless, hopelessly stuck in the snow.

The mountains even turn the fire on you. The smoke from the fire always seems to be blowing right in your face and the sparks lash out at you.

My encounter with the Manzano Mountains of New Mexico occurred over the Thanksgiving weekend. It started as an attempt by four University of New Mexico students to show me what it was like when the sun sets on the mountains and it ended up with us breaking and entering federal property to get help.

I had never seen New Mexico before and had gone out to visit Becky Graham of 611 Mayfair, Arlington Heights, a student at the University of New Mexico at Albuquerque and her three friends, David Nckelson of Carlsbad, New Mexico, Cynthia Weitz of Albuquerque, and Niki Marsicano of Delavan, Wis.

On the Sunday afternoon before I was to return home, the five of us drove about 55 miles and entered the mountain range near the town of Manzano.

WE DIDN'T make it to the top in time for the sunset and as all of us were craning our necks to look at the sun, the pickup truck went off the snow-packed dirt road and into a ditch about two miles from the top of the mountain.

After trying for an hour to get the truck out of the ditch, we decided just before dark that we would have to spend the night there with no food, three blankets, two sleeping bags and a quarter of a tank of gas in the truck.

We fashioned a shelter out of the blankets, snow, dead branches and started a fire using gasoline from the truck.

Throughout the night we took turns tending the fire, and sitting in the truck with the motor running. Because we were low on gas, we ran the truck just long enough to get the cab heated and turned the engine off until it got so cold it had to be started again.

Things weren't going too bad until it started snowing. The snow soaked the blankets and the heat from the fire turned the inside of the shelter to mud.

BEFORE IT started snowing, we all joked about our adventure and how none of us had ever been rescued and what a story we could tell our friends.

After everything got soaked, things changed. Conversation dropped off and none of us even talked about how cold or wet we were. Only one of us talked about hunger and I later found out that most of us were thinking about how to build a better shelter and what we should do to get help the next day.

Mostly we just stared into the fire. The fire had to burn at a certain intensity to provide enough warmth. There was a fine line. If it was too low, the chill started to set in and if it was too intense, your boots and pants started to steam.

And even if you were right up next to it, the part of your body closest to the flames was uncomfortably hot while the rest of your body was just barely warm so the cold was not noticeable.

THE MAIN point of my concentration throughout the night was the fire. You can't put the big logs on right away. You have to build the fire up with smaller branches until the fire is going strong enough to put a big log on. And even when you do that, the chill returns until the log catches fire. Also during the night, I was able to tell just by touching damp logs whether they would burn or not.

Toward the end of the night we started singing parodies of popular songs and relating them to our situation.

David came up with a parody of the Beatles song "Yesterday" with the line, "Why did it have to snow, I don't know, it didn't say."

But by far the most popular song was "Wouldn't It Be Lovely" from "My Fair Lady." It goes: "All I want is a room somewhere/Far away from the cold night air/and just one enormous chair, Oh, wouldn't it be lovely."

The next morning it was still snowing and my hosts said there was a lookout station at the top of the mountain, but it was probably locked.

SO AFTER building a more sturdy shelter of pine boughs in case we couldn't get help, we set out for the lookout station.

After about an hour, we reached the lookout. It was locked, but through a window we could see a radio transmitter and hear voices coming from it.

David broke the window, unlocked the door and let the rest of us in.

I tried the radio and after several "Mayday" calls, I reached the Mountaineer Ranger Station to the west of us.

The Ranger told us to go back down the hill and help would be there in about an hour-and-a-half.

In about an hour, a green U.S. Forestry Service truck came chugging up the same road we had nearly 24 hours before. He pulled our truck out and we returned to Albuquerque a little more humble, and a lot more hungry than when we left.

Site For Stadium To Be Told

by NANCY COWGER

The location of a major hockey stadium, strongly speculated for Schaumburg, will be announced in about two weeks at a press conference, according to Tim Worcester, spokesman for Chicago Hockey Inc.

Groundbreaking for the stadium, to cost an estimated $20 million, still is planned before the end of this month, said Worcester, who declined to commit his firm to any location.

Chicago Hockey Inc., owner of the franchise for the Cougar hockey team, is negotiating with "a number" of land holders over the site, said Worcester. The team owners have been approached by persons wanting to locate the stadium in the southwest suburbs, but the northwest area still is the top choice, he said. The stadium "will be in the northwest," Worcester said.

Schaumburg has been frontrunner in speculation over where the team will build its new home, although Arlington Heights, Palatine, Rolling Meadows and Barrington also have been suggested as possibilities.

The director of the team owners is Richard Pain, president of Woodfield Development Co., owner of large tracts of land around Woodfield Mall. In October, the development company announced general plans for the Woodfield area property, and included was a hockey rink.

The company shied away from any specific comment on the rink, although A. Harold Anderson, developer of the land, said it could host professional sports but not of major proportions. Pain said at the same time that "no possibility can be ruled out."

If the team comes to Schaumburg, it is anticipated the Woodfield area site, on Meacham Road, would house the stadium.

While some details about the proposed stadium have been made public, Worcester said there have been changes in plans since an announcement made Oct. 29. For example, said Worcester, 3,500 stadium seats were planned for the central arena, but architects now are drawing some of those seats as bleachers.

New renderings of the building will be made available when the location is announced, said Worcester.

Require No Temporary Easements

Plan For Weller Creek Improvement Is Settled

The Village of Mount Prospect and the Illinois Division of Waterways have settled on a plan for the improvement of Weller Creek, between School and Emerson streets, that will require no temporary easements and only three permanent easements.

The new plan calls for all work on widening the creek in that section to be done from within the creek, rather than from along the creek sides as had been the method elsewhere along the creek. The low-flow channel of the creek will be widened from six feet to eight feet so the improved channel will stay within the 50-foot Metropolitan Sanitary District easement.

Before, it was thought that temporary easements would be required so digging equipment could operate along the creek. The new plan does away with these.

MOST RESIDENTS along the creek on the Berkshire Lane side told members of the Mount Prospect Drainage and Clean Streams Commission that they would not give temporary easements. Mayor Robert D. Teichert said the residents he talked with were also unwilling to grant easements.

(Yet a spokesman for the 16 Berkshire Lane homeowners involved, Al Dietsche of 201 E. Berkshire Ln., said at Wednesday night's meeting that only one or two had been approached and asked for easements. "We have not refused easements," he said. "But we want to see an acceptable plan before considering granting easements.")

The three property owners from whom the village needs permanent easements live on the south side of the creek where the land comes to a point, jutting into the creek. IDW's plan calls for a rounding of this point.

One of the three, Loren H. Selmer, of 204 E. Hiawatha Tr., told Teichert he was "mainly concerned with aesthetics and preventing erosion." "My picture window is only 30 feet away from the creek," he said.

Selmer will lose no trees. His neighbor, John O'Shea of 206 E. Hiawatha Tr., will lose about two. "I won't object if it's as shown on these plans," he said. The third property owner, George W. Kies of 202 E. Hiawatha Trail, would not comment.

JOHN GUILLOU, chief engineer for IDW, was at the meeting. He brought aerial views of the creek with the improvements marked out.

Guillou said that the required easements would go into private property for eight feet at the deepest point. It would taper on each side from that point.

He also pointed out that "in several instances the existing power poles will have to be moved back from the creek." However, he said the poles would all be relocated within the existing power easements.

"The general scheme is the same as before," he said. "We're real pleased with the way it (turned out)."

Work on the creek began in Des Plaines and has progressed up stream. The Mount Prospect part of the improvement is known as Stage Four, with work between School Street and Elmhurst Road classified as Phase Two. This work is scheduled to begin in 1973.

"The improvement of Weller Creek is essential to flood control in Mount Prospect," Teichert said. He said the original plans were drawn up in the early '60s and approved by the village board. He said the present board is committed to that approval as was its predecessor.

Half-Day Of School Scheduled Monday

Because of a half-day teacher institute, elementary schools in Mount Prospect Dist. 57 will close at noon Monday.

Buses transporting Lincoln Junior High School and special education students will pick up children at noon. The institute has been called to discuss with teachers new drug-health curriculum guides developed this summer.

Kindergarten through sixth grade and special education teachers will meet at Gregory School. Lincoln Junior High School teachers will meet at the junior high. New math curriculum guides will also be presented.

ment checks. But it does know now that no more such checks are missing, Revenue Director George Mahin said.

The World

Pakistani Sabrejets crossed the Indian border for the first time, strafing an airstrip in the populated Indian border city of Agartala military spokesmen said. The midday attack by three F-66 jet-fighters followed at least eight hours of shelling and bombing on Agartala. Military spokesmen also said a number of civilians were killed or wounded in the artillery barrage that continued throughout the day.

Guns in the Irish Republic and British commandos in Northern Ireland exchanged small arms fire and automatic weapons fire for 15 minutes across the Republic Northern Ireland border. One commando was wounded. An army spokesman said that the gunmen fired about 20 rounds from the republic side of the border and the commandos fired back from an armored car.

The War

The U.S. command reported nine Americans were killed and 78 wounded last week. This is the highest battle death toll in two months. Records listed 45,613 American soldiers killed and 302,283 wounded since the start of the war Jan. 1, 1961.

Dems Favor Condylis To Oppose Crane

Democrats in the new 12th Congressional District are attempting to enlist John Condylis, 103 Landmeier Rd., Elk Grove Village, as a candidate to oppose U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane in the 1972 election.

Crane, Republican representative in the present 13th Congressional District, will formally launch his campaign for reelection in the new 12th District at a press conference at his Randhurst office tomorrow.

Condylis, an attorney, is president of Autoquip Corp., a Chicago firm specializing in manufacture of hydraulic equipment. Formerly president of the Elk Grove Township Regular Democratic Organization, Condylis headed the Elk Grove Village March of Dimes in 1964.

He has previously been favorably considered by Democratic leaders as a congressional candidate, but was prevented from running by demands of his business, according to Chester Chesney, Elk Grove Township Democratic committeeman.

Chesney said he has urged Condylis to appear before township committeemen, who will meet Monday evening to interview candidates for the Illinois General Assembly in the new 3rd Legislative District.

CHESNEY SAID he was hopeful that Condylis would agree to seek election to Congress or to the state Senate in the 3rd District.

Expected to appear before the five township committeemen Monday are incumbent Rep. Eugenia S. Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, and John Kelley of Schaumburg, candidate for the state House. Committeemen on the screening committee are James L. McCabe, Wheeling Township; John Morrissey, Schaumburg Township; Richard Mugalian, Palatine Township; Nicholas B. Blase, Maine Township; and Chesney.

They will meet at 8 p.m. Monday at the Maltre D' Restaurant, 111 E. Higgins Rd., Elk Grove Village.

NOW MOUNT PROSPECT Picasso lovers will have to travel only a few blocks, instead of miles, to see one of his works. The Picasso imitation is on the front of the Illinois Range Co. Building at 708 W. Central Rd.

Imitation Picasso At Site On Central Road

Picasso has come to Mount Prospect.

Chicago can still boast it has the only original of the "horse-like, man-like, whatever it is" statue designed by Pablo Picasso. But Mount Prospect is close behind with a replica of the famous work now on display on the front of the Illinois Range Co. building at 708 Central Rd.

"It's an example of what we can do," said Ed Krakowiak, treasurer of the firm that manufactures food service equipment. "I guess you could say we're masters of the technique in working with stainless steel."

The stainless steel statue, which took five weeks to build, is scaled to one-seventh of the original. The work was built by the Illinois Range engineering team which took pictures and made sketches of the original. Krakowiak estimates the imitation Picasso cost about $1,000, including materials and labor.

Illinois Range decided to build the statue as a display for the National Restaurant Show held in May at Chicago's McCormick Place. The company decided on the Picasso because "it is a symbol of Chicago" according to Krakowiak. After the restaurant show, the statue went on to be part of a sail-boat display which took first place in competition during Venetian Nights, a Chicago festival.

The company then decided to put the statue on display. As Ed Krakowiak said, "It will probably outlast the building."

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

President Nixon promised to press for a guaranteed annual income for the elderly and generally to expand federal programs that would "bring the generations together again."

The Senate confirmed President Nixon's nomination of Earl L. Butz to be agriculture secretary after debate spiced more with presidential politics than farm policy. The vote was 51 to 44. The Purdue University dean will succeed Secretary Clifford M. Hardin, who is leaving the post to assume an executive spot with the Ralston-Purina Corp.

President Nixon decided to fly to Florida for a weekend of conferences with top advisers on the forthcoming 1973 federal budget. Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon and his aides expect to wrap up the major budget decisions in three or four days.

Acting under a new, no-compromise veto threat from President Nixon, House and Senate negotiators scuttled a Democratic-sponsored campaign financing plan for the 1972 elections but approved the concept for future presidential campaigns.

The State

Salary increases for some 2,000 state employees in higher pay categories will have to be put off until the state's welfare crisis has been solved, Governor Ogilvie said. However, he approved a 3 per cent salary increase for state workers who earn $35,000 a year or less.

The state still doesn't know how it misplaced $2.3 million in income tax pay-

The Market

The euphoria that has pervaded Wall Street the past week enabled stocks to score their sixth consecutive advance despite pockets of profit taking. The Dow Jones Average scored a gain of 2178 to 948.79 bringing the one-week rise to more than 50 points. Advances outnumbered declines, 824 to 620, on the New York Stock Exchange. Turnover was 17,780,000 shares, down from 21,040,000 the previous session. Prices were steady in moderately active trading on the American Exchange.

Six local boys won awards Saturday at the Guardsmen Drum and Bugle Corps annual awards banquet.

Highest award of the corps, "Guardsman of the Year," went to Jeff Adler of Mount Prospect. Bill Wilt of Mount Prospect won "Rookie of the Year" award. Both boys play the bugle. "Best in Bugle" award was given to Tom Wolfe of Mount Prospect.

Alan Kewell of Prospect Heights was one of three corps members receiving a "Perfect Attendance Award." This means they were present at every practice session and every parade and competition—150 times in all—during the past year. Mark Hirt and Jim Isbrandt of Prospect Heights were also recognized for their attendance records, with one absence each.

Mayor and Mrs. Robert Teichert and Village Mgr. and Mrs. Robert Eppley were among special guests at the banquet in Schaumburg's Woodfield Shopping Center. The Mount Prospect Lions Club and Chamber of Commerce are two of the group's sponsors.

RICHARD LEDIG, corps director, always welcomes new members. Now he is especially looking for boys between the ages of 14 and 21 to join the newly formed rifle squad. With trainer rifles, the boys form a guard for the flag and put on a military display. Boys between 9 and 21 also play drums or bugles in the 150-member corps. Girls form the color guard, as well as play.

Practices are Mondays from 7 to 9:30 p.m. at Helen Keller School in Hoffman Estates and Sunday afternoons from 1 to 4 at the Wheeling High School fieldhouse.

Instruments and uniforms are furnished without cost to corps members. No musical experience is necessary to join. Anyone interested may come to a practice session or call Mr. Ledig at 827-1409.

At the recent "Turkey Bowl," sponsored by the Busse School PTA Bowling League, winners were Anita Ahrens, Lillian Silva, Judy Silander, and Sandy Scharringhausen. Each won a prize for bowling the most pins over her average. During the league's first 10 weeks, Judy Verscheer had high game, with 229.

YOUNGSTERS IN grades three through six are invited to come to an outdoor recreation program tomorrow from 10 to 11:30 at Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church, 1010 E. Euclid, Prospect Heights. Refreshments will be served.

Bjorn Skarlerud of 102 S. Elmhurst Ave. is a new trustee for Norwegian-American Hospital in Chicago. He is Midwest sales manager for Harvey Propper Associates, Inc., with headquarters in Chicago. A native of Norway, he became a U.S. citizen in 1954.

'Homestead Exemption' Assistance Is Offered

Marshall Theroux, Wheeling Township assessor, yesterday offered help to any senior citizen planning to file an application for a "homestead exemption" on his real estate taxes.

"I will help anybody, even if they're not in Wheeling Township," Theroux told about 75 Extensioners, a group of senior citizens in Mount Prospect.

The exemption would give homeowners aged 65 or over a reduction of $100 to $110 in real estate tax bills.

Theroux said applications for the reduction, which would not be allowed before Spring of 1973, would probably not be available until June of next year. Senior citizens had expected the exemption to be applied to next spring's bills, but a Chicago Circuit Court judge recently ruled the exemption unconstitutional for this year. 1971 assessments are reflected in the 1972 tax bills.

Almost 1,000 senior citizens in Wheeling Township have already applied for the exemption, but got them back. Theroux told them to hold on to the old applications because the same information will probably be required on the new forms.

The assessor told senior citizens who felt it unfair they weren't getting the reduction next year that it would probably be accepted in 1973. He said the exemption would probably be tested in court, but that it was constitutional under the new state constitution that went into effect in July.

Fran Altenburg of the Elk Grove Township Assessor's office was also at the meeting. She said Elk Grove Township officials would also keep senior citizens advised on new developments concerning the exemption.

Several residents over 65 complained because they have been paying school taxes, which amount to nearly 72 percent of the real estate tax bill, while they have no children in school.

"It's unjust," said one man. "I've lived here 11 years and paid those taxes. And I did not send one child to school."

Local Firemen Attend Training Sessions

Fourteen members of the Mount Prospect Fire department attended training sessions this week at the Glenview Naval Air Station. The sessions were on aircraft firefighting and rescue training.

The men were shown slides and films and given classroom discussion. They also had familiarization of fighter, cargo and bomber airplanes. The session was the last in a series of specialized firefighting procedures which department members attended.

The men were Capt. James Hilliger, Lt. Dennis Thill and Kenneth Koepfen, and firefighters Lowell Fell, Robert Kooker, Les Woollett, James Wicker, Charles Porton, Clyde Hartig, William Brelle, Edward Druettel, Arthur Felski, Robert Clark and Kenneth Stahl.

Fire Chief Larry Pairitz said the men took the course so that should an airplane ever crash in the village, they would know how to handle the situation.

Boy Scouts Slate Recycling Drive

Boy Scout Troop 361 in Mount Prospect, a Cadet Troop, is conducting a paper and bottle recycling drive today through Sunday. A spokesman for the group said a collection van will be stationed at Grace Lutheran Church, Wolf Road and Euclid Avenue.

Eye, Ear Tests Scheduled At Feehanville

Starting Monday, nearly 250 youngsters will be tested for hearing and vision problems at Feehanville School in Mount Prospect.

The screening program, for area children age 3 to 5, will be conducted from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the school, 1400 E. Kensington Rd.

The screening is being provided by the Illinois Department of Public Health and the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness in cooperation with River Trails School Dist. 26. The testing will be done by the Suburban Low Incidence Development of Exemplary Services (SLIDES).

Registration for the screening was last week. However, according to school Dist. nurse Joan Kuffel, parents can still bring their children although they have not registered.

"I suggest they drop in on Wednesday, preferably in the morning," she said. The purpose of the screening is to locate preschool children with visual or hearing problems and to identify those needing special educational services.

All children showing any difficulties at the test will be asked to return later. If the difficulty persists, parents will be requested to take the child for a complete examination.

AFS Program 'Pretty Successful'

by KAREN RUGEN

Second of Two Parts

The American Field Service (AFS) student exchange program isn't all sharing, good experiences and tearful, fond farewells.

Sometimes the student doesn't stay long enough for the fond farewell. Sometimes the host family doesn't share as it should with the invited visitor. And sometimes new experiences don't turn out so well.

While these cases are rare and most AFS students enjoy their stay in the Northwest suburbs, area high schools have experienced some problems with the program. At schools like Prospect High School in Mount Prospect and John Hersey High School in Arlington Heights, those problems aren't that serious.

"There have been disagreements between family and students, but they have always been worked out. Foreign students experience the usual loneliness until they get used to our culture," said Ron Joy, AFS sponsor who has shown students from Argentina, Sweden, the Barbados Islands, England, Germany and Japan around Prospect. "But we have had a pretty successful program. The student body is receptive."

THE BIGGEST PROBLEM at Hersey, like Wheeling High School, is that residents don't want to get involved with the local AFS chapter or become host families. According to Hersey AFS sponsor Sam Perpitch, often only one family volunteers each year to host a student, thus giving the AFS selection committee little choice. But Hersey has had few problems with student visitors. According to Perpitch, "all are top-notch and get involved in our activities."

Forest View High School in Arlington Heights hasn't been as lucky with their AFS students. When the last AFS student left in 1968, the student council voted to discontinue the program.

"What brought about the demise of the program was bad circumstances," said Burton Showers, director of student activities and former AFS sponsor. Showers said personalities of foreign exchange students, host families and lack of community involvement created difficulties.

"We have had personality conflicts — the lack of ability of a student to adjust to the cultural differences. At first the student body was receptive to foreign students," said Showers. But after certain foreign students, he said, they changed their mind.

A girl from Germany created problems because she did "not have the same values as her host family," Showers said. A boy from Afghanistan had to be moved to New Trier West High School because of clashes with the host family and with students.

PART OF THE PROBLEM is inherent in the selection process, said Showers. Students are chosen from children of diplomats and military officials. "The boy from Afghanistan was chosen supposedly by AFS standards. But when he got here, he admitted he came to learn how to argue because he wanted to be a lawyer. Maybe he thought we have more freedom of speech. But all that is something that would never come out in an interview," he said.

Lack of real interest also contributed to cancellation of the program. "We polled our students, and 99 per cent wanted an AFS student. But in the same poll, only one family volunteered to host one and they were found ineligible. Nowadays the fad has worn off. Everybody wanted AFS, but nobody wanted to serve on the committee."

Showers admits that Forest View also contributed to the failure. He said he didn't feel he was qualified, because he didn't have time to work with the AFS students. Yet he became sponsor because no other faculty member would volunteer.

"I feel our biggest mistake is that we should be sending our kids over there instead of bringing them over here. I feel the average American student doesn't know much about world affairs, but it's surprising how many foreign students know about us," said Showers who has traveled around the world several times. "But the average family in Europe is afraid to open their home because they feel the average American has more than they do and are embarrassed."

LIKE SHOWERS, Mrs. Edward Collins, area AFS coordinator who lives in Park Ridge, recognizes the shortcomings of the program. But, she is nevertheless proud of AFS.

"The prime problems at Forest View are what can happen at a lot of high schools when the community leaves it all to the faculty," said Mrs. Collins. For 14 years, Mrs. Collins has been involved with AFS. Her prime function is to act as go-between for local chapters and New York headquarters. She tries to help students or host families adjust when the problems are too difficult for the school or local chapter.

"Sometimes kids find it hard to adjust because of the way a family is structured. Some find there's less freedom here than they had at home. They try to get along, but sometimes the question gets down to, are they willing to give up all their own values?" she said.

When there are problems, she tries "to find out what we can do. Sometimes it is difficult to separate adolescence problems from family and student behavior. If we have goofed in placing a student we try not to move him from the community, but to a new family or help him to make friends of his own.

"ANOTHER PROBLEM is that too many high school kids are too busy doing their own thing and think somebody else should take care of the AFS'er. Then the foreign student feels frustrated because other teens are too busy to help him," she added.

Part of Mrs. Collins' job is to plan trips so that AFS students in this area get more than just a look at the suburbs. She schedules a trip to Springfield and what she calls a "black tour" so they can see what blacks have been able to do for themselves. The students visit offices of Ebony magazine, Operation Breadbasket and black high schools. They also take a trip through the ghetto, to Hull House and to the Chicago Indian Center.

There are AFS problems on the other side of the ocean as well. "They complain about getting the same type of American student — white middle-class. We complain about the same thing on this side. But in both places it is restricted because of the type of family who volunteers to host a student," said Mrs. Collins.

"AFS realizes a lot of its failings and is trying to do something about it. We are looking for qualified American black students to send abroad," she said. The

5 Men Huddle For Warmth

(Herald reporter Craig Gaare's Thanksgiving holiday turned into a wet, cold and potentially dangerous adventure. Here is his story.)

by CRAIG GAARE

When the mountains get you on their own terms they punish and brutalize you. And when you're stranded in them overnight in a snowstorm with no food and no hope of getting down until morning, their brutality is magnificently awesome.

The mountains rip through the thin skin of civilization and expose large chunks of raw meat reality.

You don't worry about what color your new car should be or making the next furniture payment or being socially ungraceful. Instead you are faced with the problem of staying warm and deciding whether you want to get wet all over again gathering more firewood.

You don't want to go out in knee-deep snow in the dark on the side of the mountain, but you know if you don't the fire is going to burn itself out and the cold will penetrate your damp clothing.

YOU ARE at the mercy of the mountains and the mountains have no mercy. No man-made gadget or any of the material progress humans have made can help you. The internal combustion engine, one of the major inventions of recent centuries, is useless, hopelessly stuck in the snow.

The mountains even turn the fire on you. The smoke from the fire always seems to be blowing right in your face and the sparks lash out at you.

My encounter with the Manzano Mountains of New Mexico occurred over the Thanksgiving weekend. It started as an attempt by four University of New Mexico students to show me what it was like when the sun sets on the mountains and it ended up with us breaking and entering federal property to get help.

I had never seen New Mexico before and had gone out to visit Becky Graham of 611 Mayfair, Arlington Heights, a student at the University of New Mexico at Albuquerque and her three friends, David Nckelson of Carlsbad, New Mexico, Cynthia Weitz of Albuquerque, and Niki Marsicano of Delavan, Wis.

On the Sunday afternoon before I was to return home, the five of us drove about 55 miles and entered the mountain range near the town of Manzano.

WE DIDN'T make it to the top in time for the sunset and as all of us were craning our necks to look at the sun, the pickup truck went off the snow-packed dirt road and into a ditch about two miles from the top of the mountain.

After trying for an hour to get the truck out of the ditch, we decided just before dark that we would have to spend the night there with no food, three blankets, two sleeping bags and a quarter of a tank of gas in the truck.

We fashioned a shelter out of the blankets, snow, dead branches and started a fire using gasoline from the truck.

Throughout the night we took turns tending the fire, and sitting in the truck with the motor running. Because we were low on gas, we ran the truck just long enough to get the cab heated and turned the engine off until it got so cold it had to be started again.

Things weren't going too bad until it started snowing. The snow soaked the blankets and the heat from the fire turned the inside of the shelter to mud.

BEFORE IT started snowing, we all joked about our adventure and how none of us had ever been rescued and what a story we could tell our friends.

After everything got soaked, things changed. Conversation dropped off and none of us even talked about how cold or wet we were. Only one of us talked about hunger and I later found out that most of us were thinking about how to build a better shelter and what we should do to get help the next day.

Mostly we just stared into the fire. The fire had to burn at a certain intensity to provide enough warmth. There was a fine line. If it was too low, the chill started to set in and if it was too intense, your boots and pants started to steam.

And even if you were right up next to it, the part of your body closest to the flames was uncomfortably hot while the rest of your body was just barely warm so the cold was not noticeable.

THE MAIN point of my concentration throughout the night was the fire. You can't put the big logs on right away. You have to build the fire up with smaller branches until the fire is going strong enough to put a big log on. And even when you do that, the chill returns until the log catches fire. Also during the night, I was able to tell just by touching damp logs whether they would burn or not.

Toward the end of the night we started singing parodies of popular songs and relating them to our situation.

David came up with a parody of the Beatles song "Yesterday" with the line, "Why did it have to snow, I don't know, it didn't say."

But by far the most popular song was "Wouldn't It Be Lovely" from "My Fair Lady." It goes: "All I want is a room somewhere/Far away from the cold night air/and just one enormous chair, Oh, wouldn't it be lovely."

The next morning it was still snowing and my hosts said there was a lookout station at the top of the mountain, but it was probably locked.

SO AFTER building a more sturdy shelter of pine boughs in case we couldn't get help, we set out for the lookout station.

After about an hour, we reached the lookout. It was locked, but through a window we could see a radio transmitter and hear voices coming from it.

David broke the window, unlocked the door and let the rest of us in.

I tried the radio and after several "Mayday" calls, I reached the Mountaineer Ranger Station to the west of us.

The Ranger told us to go back down the hill and help would be there in about an hour-and-a-half.

In about an hour, a green U.S. Forestry Service truck came chugging up the same road we had nearly 24 hours before. He pulled our truck out and we returned to Albuquerque a little more humble, and a lot more hungry than when we left.

Site For Stadium To Be Told

by NANCY COWGER

The location of a major hockey stadium, strongly speculated for Schaumburg, will be announced in about two weeks at a press conference, according to Tim Worcester, spokesman for Chicago Hockey Inc.

Groundbreaking for the stadium, to cost an estimated $20 million, still is planned before the end of this month, said Worcester, who declined to commit his firm to any location.

Chicago Hockey Inc., owner of the franchise for the Cougar hockey team, is negotiating with "a number" of land holders over the site, said Worcester. The team owners have been approached by persons wanting to locate the stadium in the southwest suburbs, but the northwest area still is the top choice, he said. The stadium "will be in the northwest," Worcester said.

Schaumburg has been frontrunner in speculation over where the team will build its new home, although Arlington Heights, Palatine, Rolling Meadows and Barrington also have been suggested as possibilities.

The director of the team owners is Richard Pann, president of Woodfield Development Co., owner of large tracts of land around Woodfield Mall. In October, the development company announced general plans for the Woodfield area property, and included was a hockey rink.

The company shied away from any specific comment on the rink, although A. Harold Anderson, developer of the land, said it could host professional sports but not of major proportions. Pann said at the same time that "no possibility can be ruled out."

If the team comes to Schaumburg, it is anticipated the Woodfield area site, on Meacham Road, would house the stadium.

While some details about the proposed stadium have been made public, Worcester said there have been changes in plans since an announcement made Oct. 29. For example, said Worcester, 3,500 stadium seats were planned for the central arena, but architects now are drawing some of those seats as bleachers.

New renderings of the building will be made available when the location is announced, said Worcester.

Theroux To Assist Elderly On 'Homestead' Exemption

Marshall Theroux, Wheeling Township assessor, yesterday offered help to any senior citizen planning to file an application for a "homestead exemption" on his real estate taxes.

"I will help anybody, even if they're not in Wheeling Township," Theroux told about 75 Extensioners, a group of senior citizens in Mount Prospect.

The exemption would give homeowners aged 65 or over a reduction of $100 to $110 in real estate tax bills.

Theroux said applications for the reduction, which would not be allowed before Spring of 1973, would probably not be available until June of next year. Senior citizens had expected the exemption to be applied to next spring's bills, but a Chicago Circuit Court judge recently ruled the exemption unconstitutional for this year. 1971 assessments are reflected in the 1972 tax bills.

Almost 1,000 senior citizens in Wheeling Township have already applied for the exemption, but got them back. Theroux told them to hold on to the old applications because the same information will probably be required on the new forms.

The assessor told senior citizens who felt it unfair they weren't getting the reduction next year that it would probably be accepted in 1973. He said the exemption would probably be tested in court, but that it was constitutional under the new state constitution that went into effect in July.

Fran Altenburg of the Elk Grove Township Assessor's office was also at the meeting. She said Elk Grove Township officials would also keep senior citizens advised on new developments concerning the exemption.

Several residents over 65 complained because they have been paying school taxes, which amount to nearly 72 per cent of the real estate tax bill, while they have no children in school.

"It's unjust," said one man. "I've lived here 11 years and paid those taxes. And I did not send one child to school."

Water Will 'Hit Heights' Soon Via Reservoir

KURT BAER

There will be a lot more water in Arlington Heights soon — almost twice as much as there is now.

Construction workers are finishing a six-million-gallon water reservoir in north Arlington Heights near the sanitary landfill which, when put in operation, will increase the village's water storage capacity to 13 million gallons.

The new reservoir is adjacent to a newly drilled well which is expected to produce in excess of 1.5 million gallons of water per day.

The village's other 12 deep water wells now pump about 11 million gallons every day.

During the winter months, Arlington Heights uses about four million gallons of water every day. On peak days during the summer, however, consumption has risen as high as 12 million gallons.

"The ideal is to be able to store a full day's water supply in the tanks," said Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson. He said the cost of drilling a well can range upwards of $250,000.

Because the new well is located in the northern part of the village, it should help the residents of Northgate, Berkley Square and other subdivisions in the north, Hanson said.

THESE NORTHERN areas are frequently the first to be affected by summer water shortages and pressure problems.

Gene Willroth, Arlington Heights director of public works, said drilling of the well is now complete and it has already been test pumped. The neighboring reservoir is 80 per cent finished, Willroth said, and bids on a pump house for the new installation will be accepted during the first week of January.

"Hopefully the well will go into service by May of next year," he said.

Just before a new well is put into service, its water is tested and treated to eliminate bacteria and any other impurities which might have been introduced during the pumping process.

"Mother Nature gives us water pure," Willroth said, "it's not until we start handling it that impurities show up."

The village health department makes periodic checks on Arlington Heights' water to insure its healthfulness.

THE WATER department, along with the health department, answer complaints and responds to service problems residents and businesses may have with their water supplies.

Arlington Heights is also involved in a cooperative with surrounding municipalities designed to draw water from Lake Michigan to the northwest suburbs to supplement existing supplies.

Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Palatine (DAMP) have been working since 1957 to provide water from the lake to the four suburbs.

Meetings This Week

Saturday, Dec. 4

There will be an audio visual presentation on land planning practices and new multiple-family developments at 9 a.m. in the Municipal Building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

Arlington Heights May Change Stand

Reciprocal Borrowing May Increase

Talk between an Arlington Heights Library Board member and two Schaumburg Library Board members may make both libraries and their facilities available to residents who live in either one of the communities.

Schaumburg Township Public Library Board member Bob Lyons said Wednesday the Arlington Heights library, a member of the North Suburban Library System, may be ready to participate in a reciprocal borrowing plan.

Of the 31 libraries in the NSLS, Arlington Heights and Elgin remain the only two who do not honor other library cards from within the same system.

Lyons said when the proposal to take part in reciprocal borrowing was first put before Arlington Heights, library trustees turned it down, but by a close vote.

"RECENT CONVERSATIONS with an Arlington Heights board member who voted no then convince me he now thinks it's a good proposal," said Lyons.

"Maybe I convinced him, but I have to admit he was ready to be convinced," he added.

Lyons said the Arlington Heights member told him he will propose the reciprocal borrowing plan to his board in December.

Richard C. Grote, Schaumburg Library Board president, was pleased with Lyons' report and added that the Elgin Library would then remain the only one in the system not in on the plan.

Grote said he has heard Elgin is also considering joining. The NSLS libraries are in Arlington Heights, Barrington, Deerfield, Des Plaines, Dundee, Elgin, Elk Grove Village, Evanston, Glenview, Glenview, Lake Forest, Libertyville, Morton Grove, Mount Prospect, Niles, Northbrook, Palatine, Park Ridge, Skokie, Waukegan, Wheeling, Wilmette, Winnetka and Schaumburg, Fox Lake, Zion, Lake Bluff, Mundelein, North Chicago, Prospect Heights and Rolling Meadows.

Village Calendar Plans Abandoned

Whatever winds up being new in '72, it won't be an Arlington Heights village calendar.

The public relations committee of the Arlington Heights Board of Trustees Wednesday night agreed to abandon plans to produce a village calendar for the upcoming year because of production difficulties.

Committee chairman Dwight Walton said preparing pictures and text for the calendar had taken longer than the committee had anticipated. He suggested the entire project be postponed until 1973.

The calendar was to have carried information on various village services, departments and local ordinances.

The estimated cost for printing and mailing 20,000 copies of the calendar to Arlington Heights households was $9,663.

He is the proud father of Jack Michael Peleck, born Nov. 26, at 6:02 p.m. Promised for the first of November, young Jack was in no hurry to greet the world, which caused great anxiety for his father.

DEFINITIONS, PLEASE. Members of the low and moderate-income housing committee Tuesday night were going over the definition of some terms which will appear in their final report. A long legal description of government-subsidized Sec. 235 housing caused committee member Alice Harms some trouble. "I think we ought to write this so it's understandable to the average reader," Mrs. Harms said. "Have you ever read a government description that was comprehensible?" asked another committee member.

Arlington Woman Robbed Of Purse

An elderly Arlington Heights woman was thrown to the sidewalk and robbed of her purse Wednesday night as she was returning home from a neighborhood grocery store.

Police say Mrs. Walter Wilke, 405 W. Campbell St., was walking home along Campbell Street after grocery shopping when she was attacked by an unidentified man who allegedly threw her to the ground and ran off with her purse.

Mrs. Wilke, 66, was taken to Northwest Community Hospital and treated for injuries to her arm and elbow.

Arlington Heights police are seeking the assailant.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

President Nixon promised to press for a guaranteed annual income for the elderly and generally to expand federal programs that would "bring the generations together again."

The Senate confirmed President Nixon's nomination of Earl L. Butz to be agriculture secretary after debate spiced more with presidential politics than farm policy. The vote was 51 to 44. The Purdue University dean will succeed Secretary Clifford M. Hardin, who is leaving the post to assume an executive spot with the Ralston-Purina Corp.

President Nixon decided to fly to Florida for a weekend of conferences with top advisers on the forthcoming 1973 federal budget. Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon and his aides expect to wrap up the major budget decisions in three or four days.

Acting under a new, no-compromise veto threat from President Nixon, House and Senate negotiators scuttled a Democratic-sponsored campaign financing plan for the 1972 elections but approved the concept for future presidential campaigns.

The State

Salary increases for some 2,000 state employees in higher pay categories will have to be put off until the state's welfare crisis has been solved, Governor Ogilvie said. However, he approved a 3 per cent salary increase for state workers who earn $15,000 a year or less.

The state still doesn't know how it misplaced $2.3 million in income tax payment checks. But it does know now that no more such checks are missing, Revenue Director George Mahin said.

The World

Pakistani Sabrejets crossed the Indian border for the first time, strafing an airstrip in the populated Indian border city of Agartala military spokesmen said. The midday attack by three F-86 jet-fighters followed at least eight hours of shelling and bombing on Agartala. Military spokesmen also said a number of civilians were killed or wounded in the artillery barrage that continued throughout the day.

Gunmen in the Irish Republic and British commandos in Northern Ireland exchanged small arms fire and automatic weapons fire for 15 minutes across the Republic Northern Ireland border. One commando was wounded. An army spokesman said that the gunmen fired about 20 rounds from the republic side of the border and the commandos fired back from an armored car.

The War

The U.S. command reported nine Americans were killed and 78 wounded last week. This is the highest battle death toll in two months. Records listed 45,613 American soldiers killed and 302,283 wounded since the start of the war Jan. 1, 1961.

The euphoria that has pervaded Wall Street the past week enabled stocks to score their sixth consecutive advance despite pockets of profit taking. The Dow Jones Average scored a gain of 2178 to 348.79 bringing the one-week rise to more than 50 points. Advances outnumbered declines, 824 to 620, on the New York Stock Exchange. Turnover was 17,780,000 shares, down from 21,040,000 the previous session. Prices were steady in moderately active trading on the American Exchange.

Party For Retarded

The youth group of the Southminster United Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights is giving a Christmas party for 150 patients of the mentally retarded unit of the Elgin State Hospital Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m.

The 50-member group is busy this week wrapping presents which they will give to the children. They are also preparing a medley of Christmas songs for the party.

To help prepare the food for snacks, several Youth Group members will be baking cookies in the Church kitchen Saturday morning.

Center To Be Named

The winner of the name-the-teen-center contest will be announced tonight at a dance in the center, located in the basement of Olympic Park, 660 N. Ridge, Arlington Heights.

Instead of picking a committee to choose a name, Richard Sedowski, teen center director, mentioned several possible names each day for teens to discuss at the center. The one with the most positive responses is the winner.

It has taken several weeks to pick a winner since over 75 names were entered in the contest. The prize will be a $15 gift certificate to a Woodfield Mall clothing store.

How To Remain 'Fit' In Winter

by DOUG RAY

Winter activities for some Northwest suburban residents range from walking the dog to tumbling in the living room.

The Herald yesterday asked local residents how they plan to stay physically fit this winter.

"I walk the dog," said Mrs. Earl Hadland, 2201 Algonquin Parkway, Rolling Meadows, who is in her "mid-sixties." "I used to skate and it was such good exercise," she commented.

Claude Bailey, 122 S. Fremont, Palatine, is a former baseball coach at Palatine High School. He suggests that "people should keep running to stay in shape. I run whenever I can," he added.

Bailey is now transportation director for High School Dist 211 and winter keeps him busy. "I work 16 hours a day during the winter... it's my busiest time," he said of the transportation problems for the school district caused by harsh weather.

Mrs. Sandy Matthews, 55 W. Palatine Rd., Palatine, keeps in shape "running after the two children." She ice skates and used to "go through sit-ups and deep knee-bends daily during the winter."

Frank A. Ringwald of Arlington Heights has another answer to staying fit during the winter months. He goes to Florida. He makes his home at 2609 Bel Aire Dr. during the summer and travels to Florida "in the winter for two or three months."

American Legion Yule Dance Is Saturday

The public is invited to the Arlington Heights American Legion Christmas party and steak fry Saturday at 6:30 p.m. Tickets may be purchased in advance by calling the American Legion Hall, or may be bought at the door.

One free beverage will be served. The party will be held at the corner of Douglas and Miner.

Headlining the floor show, which will begin at 8:30 p.m. will be Miss Sue Dorosh, a vocalist from Mount Prospect. Bob Balmes and The Tradestmen will play dancing music.

Nurse's Blood Saves Baby With Liver Condition

Paul Joseph Slad, a 5-day-old Streamwood boy, owes his life to a nurse at Alexian Brothers Medical Center.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Slad, was born Nov. 28 at the hospital in Elk Grove Village suffering from a liver condition that prevented his blood from clotting properly.

The problem can only be treated by transfusions of fresh blood until the liver begins to work properly, according to hospital spokesman Robin Leach, and after several transfusions the hospital ran out of the baby's blood type.

The baby was going into shock, Miss Leach said, when one of the nurses in the maternity ward offered to donate blood for him.

THE NURSE, who wishes to remain anonymous, had the proper type of blood for the baby and made the donation. The doctor said later the transfusion was the "decisive factor" that saved the baby's life.

Miss Leach said the nurses at the hospital all know their blood types and added, "I think this demonstrates that the people who work in the hospitals think of their patients as more than just patients. She saw the baby needed help and she gave it."

Paul went home yesterday in good condition, and although the doctor will follow his case closely, he appears to be a healthy, normal baby now.

Joseph Slad described his son's recovery as "a miracle come true. We're very happy about everything."

Girl Scout Council Picks 3 Residents

Three Arlington Heights residents were chosen as leaders in the Girl Scout Council of Northwest Cook County after the annual council meeting recently in Des Plaines.

Mrs. Ray Blakeman, of 724 Catino, is the new first vice president, and the Rev. C. Edward Mixon, pastor of the First United Methodist Church, and Mrs. Frank W. Demson of 1117 W. Hawthorne were elected at-large members of the council's board of directors.

Can Vitamin C Prevent Colds?

With the colder weather months coming on, everyone is concerned with whether they will be catching the usual colds this winter. Recently there has been a lot of publicity about the ability to ward off colds or reduce their severity with daily doses of Vitamin C (Ascorbic Acid). Some physicians believe Vitamin C lessens cold symptoms.

Opinions on the effectiveness of Vitamin C differ widely, but there is not yet definitely clinical research to support either a negative or a positive conclusion. We regularly stock many reputable brands of Vitamin C preparations. Common sense in our everyday living, good diet, regular check-ups are all part of keeping ourselves healthy during the cold season.

5 Men Huddle For Warmth

Reporter Fights Mountain's Fury

by CRAIG GAARE

When the mountains get you on their own terms they punish and brutalize you. And when you're stranded in them overnight in a snowstorm with no food and no hope of getting down until morning, their brutality is magnificently awesome.

The mountains rip through the thin skin of civilization and expose large chunks of raw meat reality.

You don't worry about what color your new car should be or making the next furniture payment or being socially ungraceful. Instead you are faced with the problem of staying warm and deciding whether you want to get wet all over again gathering more firewood.

You don't want to go out in knee-deep snow in the dark on the side of the mountain, but you know if you don't the fire is going to burn itself out and the cold will penetrate your damp clothing.

Democrats Endorse Paul Simon

The Regular Democratic Organization of Schaumburg Township has endorsed Lt. Gov. Paul Simon's bid for governor of Illinois.

The action took place during the organization's November meeting. The motion, approved unanimously by the 50 members attending, "urged and supported the candidacy of Paul Simon for governor of the state of Illinois."

The action makes Schaumburg Township one of the first Northwest suburban areas to endorse Simon. Township Democratic Committeeman John Morrissey has advised Simon of the endorsement.

The township Democrats also announced the formation of a Citizens Committee for Simon. Spearheading the committee are Edwin L. Frank, former Hoffman Estates park commissioner; Selwyn Schwartz, coordinator of the Adlai Stevenson campaign in Schaumburg Township in 1970, and William Holmes, president of the Schaumburg Township Democratic Organization.

The Citizens Committee is open to township Democrats, Republicans or independents who support Simon.

Robbers Get 'Coin'

Robert Cox of 519 Milwaukee Ave., Apt. 10, told Wheeling Police Wednesday that $180 in cash had been stolen from his home.

The money, $98 in bills, $67 in quarters and $15 in dimes, was taken from the apartment between 7 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, Cox told police.

Police found pry marks on the front door of the apartment.

YOU ARE at the mercy of the mountains and the mountains have no mercy. No man-made gadget or any of the material progress humans have made can help you. The internal combustion engine, one of the major inventions of recent centuries, is useless, hopelessly stuck in the snow.

The mountains even turn the fire on you. The smoke from the fire always seems to be blowing right in your face and the sparks lash out at you.

My encounter with the Manzano Mountains of New Mexico occurred over the Thanksgiving weekend. It started as an attempt by four University of New Mexico students to show me what it was like when the sun sets on the mountains and it ended up with us breaking and entering federal property to get help.

I had never seen New Mexico before and had gone out to visit Becky Graham of 611 Mayfair, Arlington Heights, a student at the University of New Mexico at Albuquerque and her three friends, David Nickelson of Carlsbad, New Mexico, Cynthia Weitz of Albuquerque, and Niki Marsicano of Delavan, Wis.

On the Sunday afternoon before I was to return home, the five of us drove about 55 miles and entered the mountain range near the town of Manzano.

WE DIDN'T make it to the top in time for the sunset and as all of us were craning our necks to look at the sun, the pickup truck went off the snow-packed dirt road and into a ditch about two miles from the top of the mountain.

After trying for an hour to get the truck out of the ditch, we decided just before dark that we would have to spend the night there with no food, three blankets, two sleeping bags and a quarter of a tank of gas in the truck.

We fashioned a shelter out of the blankets, snow, dead branches and started a fire using gasoline from the truck.

Throughout the night we took turns tending the fire, and sitting in the truck with the motor running. Because we were low on gas, we ran the truck just long enough to get the cab heated and turned the engine off until it got so cold it had to be started again.

Things weren't going too bad until it started snowing. The snow soaked the blankets and the heat from the fire turned the inside of the shelter to mud.

Library Use Has Increased

The Schaumburg Township Public Library had the largest percentage circulation increase from 1968-1970 and the Arlington Heights Public Library the largest increase from 1969-1970.

Both libraries are members of the North Suburban Library System. Michael Madden, Schaumburg librarian, said circulation statistics comparing the 31 libraries in the NSLS show Schaumburg first and Arlington Heights second in the 68-70 period and Arlington first and Schaumburg second in the 69-70 period.

Madden who is now compiling circulation figures for the 1970-1971 period said this past November showed the lowest percentage increase of only 1.78 per cent in adult traffic.

BEFORE IT started snowing, we all joked about our adventure and how none of us had ever been rescued and what a story we could tell our friends.

After everything got soaked, things changed. Conversation dropped off and none of us even talked about how cold or wet we were. Only one of us talked about hunger and I later found out that most of us were thinking about how to build a better shelter and what we should do to get help the next day.

Mostly we just stared into the fire. The fire had to burn at a certain intensity to provide enough warmth. There was a fine line. If it was too low, the chill started to set in and if it was too intense, your boots and pants started to steam.

And even if you were right up next to it, the part of your body closest to the flames was uncomfortably hot while the rest of your body was just barely warm so the cold was not noticeable.

THE MAIN point of my concentration throughout the night was the fire. You can't put the big logs on right away. You have to build the fire up with smaller branches until the fire is going strong enough to put a big log on. And even when you do that, the chill returns until the log catches fire. Also during the night, I was able to tell just by touching damp logs whether they would burn or not.

Toward the end of the night we started singing parodies of popular songs and relating them to our situation.

David came up with a parody of the Beatles song "Yesterday" with the line, "Why did it have to snow, I don't know, it didn't say."

But by far the most popular song was "Wouldn't It Be Lovely" from "My Fair Lady." It goes: "All I want is a room somewhere/Far away from the cold night air/and just one enormous chair, Oh, wouldn't it be lovely."

The next morning it was still snowing and my hosts said there was a lookout station at the top of the mountain, but it was probably locked.

SO AFTER building a more sturdy shelter of pine boughs in case we couldn't get help, we set out for the lookout station.

After about an hour, we reached the lookout. It was locked, but through a window we could see a radio transmitter and hear voices coming from it.

David broke the window, unlocked the door and let the rest of us in.

I tried the radio and after several "Mayday" calls, I reached the Mountain Ranger Station to the west of us.

The Ranger told us to go back down the hill and help would be there in about an hour-and-a-half.

In about an hour, a green U.S. Forestry Service truck came chugging up the same road we had nearly 24 hours before. He pulled our truck out and we returned to Albuquerque a little more humble, and a lot more hungry than when we left.

Archdiocese Seeks To Halt Purchase Of Cemetery Site

A representative of the Chicago Catholic Archdiocese will ask the Illinois Junior College Board next Friday to withdraw its support of Oakton Community College's plan to build a permanent campus on a 105-acre site adjacent to Maryhill Cemetery in Niles.

John Philbin, executive director of Catholic Cemeteries, will represent the archdiocese and Maryhill while urging the state board to reverse its Nov. 12 decision authorizing Oakton to buy the site, according to a spokesman from Philbin's office.

Although the land is vacant, archdiocesan officials have said it is scheduled to be used for expansion of Maryhill to replace the nearly filled St. Adalbert's Cemetery on the Niles-Chicago border.

Philbin's appearance at the monthly state board meeting at Chicago's Bismarck Hotel will delay Oakton's plans to announce a date for an early 1972 referendum bond issue to raise the one-quarter cost of the permanent campus from local taxes.

That date was to be announced at the Oakton trustees' board meeting next Tuesday, but officials said the announcement will be postponed until after the state board meets.

The Illinois Junior College Act, which requires state board approval before land for public junior colleges can be purchased or developed, also requires the state to pay 75 per cent of the cost of land and construction.

OAKTON OFFICIALS said Thursday they doubt very seriously that the state junior college board would reverse its decision approving the site.

Oakton Pres. William Koehnline, who will also appear at the state board meeting next week to defend the college's choice, recently said the state board "agreed with us that the Maryhill site is perfect for our permanent campus because of its size, central location and easy accessibility."

The archdiocese has repeatedly voiced its opposition to Oakton's choice, both in statements from John Cardinal Cody, Archbishop of Chicago, and in full-page advertisements this week in several suburban newspapers and in the archdiocese's own publications.

The archdiocese contends the 105-acre site has already been platted for graves and that the land "cannot be sacrificed."

Catholic officials have offered Oakton two other archdiocese-owned sites which they say would "provide more land at less cost."

The first, at Wolf Road and Central Avenue adjacent to Maryville Academy in Des Plaines, contains up to 180 acres. The second, behind the old All Saints Cemetery on the east side of the Des Plaines River, contains about 100 acres.

Both alternate sites are located in the far northwest corner of the college district and Oakton officials say they would not be easily accessible for most Maine and Niles township residents.

The archdiocese contends that the two

Plan Thacker Street As Major East-West Road

by LEON SHURE

Des Plaines and Cook County officials are making plans to turn Thacker Street into a major east-west roadway to aid downtown redevelopment and to improve the county road system.

Plans for Thacker would make it a central connection for traffic to and from proposed downtown shopping developments, and for bypasses around the central business district.

City officials feel that when plans are carried out, connecting Thacker and Dempster streets, bottlenecks will be broken, traffic will be speeded and redevelopment will be encouraged.

So far, Thacker residents, who protested the probably increased traffic on their street when plans were first made public in 1970, have not shown similar opposition to the city's recently renewed plans, although aldermen in the Thacker area feel this opposition will develop.

THACKER PLANS include construction of two multi-million dollar overpasses, a north-south connection with Prairie Avenue near River Road, and widening of the street between Wolf and Elmhurst roads.

The city council applied in July for $2.1 million in federal and state funds to construct a River Road overpass. This would rise just north of Thacker to a height of 23 feet above Miner Street and the Chicago and North Western Rwy. in downtown Des Plaines, and return to ground level at River Street.

After the application was filed, the city was informed by the Illinois Division of Highways that the application would not be approved unless an east-west Thacker-Dempster connection is also constructed, to form a traffic pattern which the state feels will relieve congestion.

The city then renewed plans for the east-west connection, which had not been acted upon since strong resident protests in late 1970.

The Cook County Forest Preserve refused to allow construction on preserve land at Northwestern Woods, so the city proposed an overpass above the Des Plaines River, the C&NW Rwy. and district land to connect Dempster and Thacker.

The city is now studying proposals from the forest preserve district for the design of the overpass, and a decision could be made early next year by the floats," mobiles and posters as animated book reports of their favorite stories and characters. High Ridge Knolls 10-year-olds Sharon Jewell, left, and Pam Funk, right, show their version of "Winnie the Pooh." Karen Pelczynski, 7, inspects her fairyland float. According to librarian Rita Jewell, students also wrote poems in honor of the week and toured the Des Plaines Public Library's Bookmobile.

Dr. Middleton Evidence Suppressed

Most of the evidence collected by police when they arrested Dr. James G. Middleton of Des Plaines last year was thrown out of court yesterday by a criminal court judge.

Judge Robert J. Downing ruled all the evidence, except two .38 caliber revolvers, be suppressed.

The judge also ordered Dr. Middleton to be examined by a psychiatrist from the Cook County Behavioral Clinic. A report on the results of that examination are scheduled to be disclosed in court Dec. 13.

The evidence was collected by Cook County Sheriff's Police during a 4½-hour search of the doctor's office at 969 Elmhurst Rd., Des Plaines, last Dec. 1.

The police, who said during the hearing they had no search warrant, went to the office with a warrant to arrest the doctor on a charge of deviate sexual assault. He was charged by a former woman patient, who said the doctor drugged her with a "stupifying, intoxicating substance" and then sexually assaulted her.

In his finding, Judge Downing ruled two pistols, confiscated during the search, would not be suppressed. According to testimony during the hearing, the doctor voluntarily surrendered to police the first gun, hidden in an interior trouser pocket, and told them where to find a second gun in his private office.

INCLUDED AMONG the items and materials suppressed by the court are: Explosive powders, a .22 caliber automatic pistol; films, photos and tape recordings of a reported sexual nature; tape recorders; projectors; cameras and a closed-circuit TV camera. Also suppressed were: Various artificial sexual stimulation devices; about 75 electrical detonators; two one-pound cans of black powder; 10 to 15 boxes of ammunition; and three capped galvanized pipes, referred to by police as "pipe bombs."

The state, through James Kavanaugh, assistant state's attorney, said it felt the entire search was legal and proper. Kavanaugh said when the police went to the doctor's private office under his direction to find the second gun, they saw "in plain view" some of the explosive devices on shelves and in an open file cabinet. "Under those circumstances," Kavanaugh said, "the police had not only the right, but the duty, to continue the search."

Edward M. Genson, doctor Middleton's attorney, argued during the hearing that the search and seizure of the items, except for confiscation of the first gun, was illegal.

JUDGE DOWNING said the court found that because the doctor volunteered the first gun and directed police to the second, those weapons would not be suppressed.

He said the rest of the evidence would be suppressed because the doctor, handcuffed to a door for almost four hours, did not consent to the search and there was no basis for the search.

The judge also said proper procedure for the police, who said they were investigating the doctor for 2½ months prior to the search, would have been to have obtained a search warrant prior to the raid.

The court previously had ordered Dr. Middleton to submit to examination by the county psychiatrist. Dr. Middleton at that time reportedly refused to cooperate with the county psychiatrist because he was fearful statements he made might be used against him in court.

Genson said yesterday neither he nor Dr. Middleton no longer objected to the examination and would cooperate fully.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

President Nixon promised to press for a guaranteed annual income for the elderly and generally to expand federal programs that would "bring the generations together again."

The Senate confirmed President Nixon's nomination of Earl L. Butz to be agriculture secretary after debate spiced more with presidential politics than farm policy. The vote was 51 to 44. The Purdue University dean will succeed Secretary Clifford M. Hardin, who is leaving the post to assume an executive spot with the Ralston-Purina Corp.

President Nixon decided to fly to Florida for a weekend of conferences with top advisers on the forthcoming 1973 federal budget. Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon and his aides expect to wrap up the major budget decisions in three or four days.

Acting under a new, no-compromise veto threat from President Nixon, House and Senate negotiators scuttled a Democratic-sponsored campaign financing plan for the 1972 elections but approved the concept for future presidential campaigns.

The State

Salary increases for some 2,000 state employees in higher pay categories will have to be put off until the state's welfare crisis has been solved, Governor Ogilvie said. However, he approved a 3 per cent salary increase for state workers who earn $15,000 a year or less.

The state still doesn't know how it misplaced $2.3 million in income tax payment checks. But it does know now that no more such checks are missing, Revenue Director George Mahin said.

The World

Pakistani Sabrejets crossed the Indian border for the first time, strafing an airstrip in the populated Indian border city of Agartala military spokesmen said. The midday attack by three F-6 jet-fighters followed at least eight hours of shelling and bombing on Agartala. Military spokesmen also said a number of civilians were killed or wounded in the artillery barrage that continued throughout the day.

Gunmen in the Irish Republic and British commandos in Northern Ireland exchanged small arms fire and automatic weapons fire for 15 minutes across the Republic Northern Ireland border. One commando was wounded. An army spokesman said that the gunmen fired about 20 rounds from the republic side of the border and the commandos fired back from an armored car.

The War

The U.S. command reported nine Americans were killed and 78 wounded last week. This is the highest battle death toll in two months. Records listed 45,613 American soldiers killed and 302,283 wounded since the start of the war Jan. 1, 1961.

The euphoria that has pervaded Wall Street the past week enabled stocks to score their sixth consecutive advance despite pockets of profit taking. The Dow Jones Average scored a gain of 2178 to 848.79 bringing the one-week rise to more than 50 points. Advances outnumbered declines, 824 to 620, on the New York Stock Exchange. Turnover was 17,780,000 shares, down from 21,040,000 the previous session. Prices were steady in moderately active trading on the American Exchange.

Taxpayer Says: Live Within Budget Or Quit

Following is a letter addressed to the president of the school board of Maine Township High School Dist. 207 concerning tomorrow's tax hike referendum:

Dear Mr. Wuermann:

Although your fiscal year apparently ended last June 30, we have today received a copy of your "Superintendent's Annual Report." The purpose of this "report" seems to be simply to announce a referendum on Dec. 4, to increase the high school tax levy by 27 cents to $1.90 per $100 of assessed valuation.

To our dismay, we find you have not lived within your budget for at least five years (table on page 4). We also find that you obviously have no intention of trying to live within a budget in the future since you state (in another yellow flyer) that the additional money will not wipe out the debt. . . . "But it will keep our deficit at about $3,000,000 and allow us to maintain the current education program for the next year or two."

Then, after the "next year or two" what — a larger deficit and another tax levy?

We also note in the report that Maine Township High Schools are offering courses in acting, dancing, stage design, costuming, directing, photography, ceramics, sculpturing, digital computers, oil painting, child care (how many pupils are married?) and Afro-American history. In addition, we understand that radio stations are operated in the schools.

After reading your "Superintendent's Annual Report" we must sadly conclude the first step which you and the Board of Education must take is summarily to dismiss Supt. Richard R. Short because he has not operated within his budget.

We were shocked to discover you and your board, who were elected as managers of tax money, have not made the school administration live within the budget since 1967, according to your own figures on page four. In private business, you would not have the luxury of deficit spending for five years. We taxpayers — who are your employers — now say loudly and clearly: Live within your budget or quit.

Reduce the nonsense courses and activities and increase class size and teacher load, if need be. There is now a surplus of teachers and those who object should be replaced. Operate District 207 like any business and prove that you can live within your budget for a while before asking for more tax money.

We taxpayers must totally and completely reject management incompetence. A "NO" vote on the referendum will force you to operate District 207 in accordance with the trust placed in you and your board when you were elected. A housewife or a businessman must live within a budget; must we expect less from a Board of Education?

Very truly yours,
John Routledge

Edward J. Walther

Edward J. Walther, 52, of Los Angeles, Calif., formerly of Des Plaines, died Monday in a veteran's hospital in Los Angeles, following a prolonged illness. He was born April 11, 1919, in Chicago.

Funeral services were held Wednesday in Utter-McKinley Funeral Home, Los Angeles, Calif. Burial was in Veteran's National Cemetery, Portland, Calif.

Mr. Walther, a veteran of World War II, was a member of the Des Plaines American Legion Post, No. 36 and a member of American Legion Post, No. 206, Highland Park, Calif.

Surviving are his widow, June; and three sisters, Mrs. Marge (Raymond) Lewerenz of Des Plaines, Mrs. Bette (Edward) Ryan of Chicago and Mrs. Joan (Donald) Ellinger of Franklin Park.

VOTERS IN Maine Township High School Dist. 207 can cast ballots in Saturday's referendum from noon to 7 p.m. at one of the four Maine high schools, depending on the precinct in which they live. Persons needing transportation should call either the Administration Center, 696-3600, Maine West High, 827-6176; Maine East High, 825-4484; Maine North High, 298-5500; or Maine South High, 825-7711. The referendum will ask voters to increase the Dist. 207 educational fund tax levy by 27 cents from $1.63 to $1.90 per $100 assessed property valuation.

Geological Society To Meet Dec. 16

The Des Plaines Valley Geological Society will hear a presentation on the "Geology of the Chicago Area and the Metropolitan Sanitary District Deep Tunnel Project," at its next meeting Dec. 16. The presentation will be made by Walter Neid, a geology student at Northern Illinois University and a member of an engineering exploration team at Harza Engineering Co., which is involved in deep tunnel work for the sanitary district.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. Dec. 16 at West Park fieldhouse, 651 S. Wolf Rd., Des Plaines.

Vote 'YES' On School Referendum

Maine Township High School Dist. 207 has a deficit of $3 million which the board of education says will reach $4 million by the end of the current school year.

To stop this deficit from growing past $3 million, board members say one of two things must be done — either education programs must be cut by 10 per cent or district taxpayers must agree to raise their taxes.

They will be asked to do so tomorrow by approving a 27-cent education fund tax increase referendum that would raise the levy from $1.63 to $1.90 per $100 assessed property valuation.

The Herald urges voters to approve the referendum to help the district control its deficit without sacrificing education programs.

The school board has asked Maine Township residents to increase the tax fund levy 10 times in the last 10 years but only three of those referendums have been successful.

During this period, student population has doubled to 11,600, Maine East and Maine West have been joined by Maine South and Maine North high schools, teachers' salaries have increased by 65 to 70 per cent and school operating costs have grown steadily.

Meanwhile, the educational fund tax rate to operate all four schools and serve twice as many students has risen by only 53 cents per $100 assessed property valuation, less than 50 per cent.

The last education fund tax hike referendum brought a 21-cent increase in December of 1968, after two previous votes that year were unsuccessful. Dist. 207 Supt. Richard Short said at the time that even the added taxes would not solve the district's long-range financial problems.

The same thing is true of tomorrow's referendum vote for a 27-cent tax hike. Dist. 207 will still have to grapple with a large, long-range debt problem.

School officials say they first must be concerned with the critical, short-term revenue situation and we agree. But something must also be done to end the need for regularly recurring tax hike referendums in Dist. 207.

The board has shown an inability to reduce its deficit and the district has operated in the red for 9 out of the last 10 years.

Board members are well aware of taxpayers' hostility toward referendums. If they win approval of this one, their first concern should be to make sure that another referendum is not needed in two or three years.

They have already made an attempt to cut costs by hiring only two additional teachers to serve more than 400 extra students, eliminating some summer school programs and sharply reducing the supply and equipment purchasing budget. Dist. 207 officials are also working to end what they say is state aid discrimination favoring combined unit school districts over dual school districts.

They say if their "one shot try" at getting financial help from district residents is successful tomorrow, they will have enough breathing room to concentrate on reducing the deficit. We hope the taxpayers will support the tax increase and hold school officials to their pledge to try to solve Dist. 207's long-range debt problems.

Seek To Stop Oakton Site

alternate sites offer less expensive land, less residential involvement, less traffic congestion and more room for parking facilities than the Maryhill site. Neither the Maryhill site nor the alternate sites offered would remove property from the tax rolls.

DIRECTORS OF MARYHILL have attacked Oakton's demand for the site as "rank injustice" in consideration of the rights of thousands of families who use Maryhill and St. Adalbert cemeteries.

According to Koehnline, Oakton trustees "have their hearts set" on the Maryhill site and would not like to face the "tedious task" of having to pick another one.

If the state board stands by Oakton next week, college attorneys will soon give the archdiocese an offer for the land.

Should the archdiocese refuse to accept Oakton's offer, trustees have said condemnation proceedings will probably begin before Christmas.

Oakton, now in its second school term, is currently operating from an interim campus in four former industrial buildings located on a nine-acre site at Oakton and Nagle streets in Morton Grove. Oakton has a 10-year lease on the buildings. Enrollment has grown from 832 students in 1970 to more than 2,300.

Thacker May Become Major Roadway

city council and the Cook County Board of Commissioners, according to a city engineering consultant.

LAST JUNE, the city received a request from the Des Plaines Redevelopment Assn. to widen Prairie, connect Ellinwood Street on the east with a north-south road to Prairie, and continue this road to Thacker, along the east edge of central school property, 1526 Thacker.

The Prairie-Thacker north-south connection would handle the increased traffic expected to the proposed "Super block" shopping mall being planned for a central downtown area, bounded by Lee Street, Prairie, Pearson Street, and Ellinwood.

The city has begun plans to widen Prairie and has designated use of motor fuel tax funds for the project.

The county department of highways plans to widen Thacker between Wolf and Elmhurst roads within the next five years into a four-lane road, according to Glen Friedrichs, assistant county highway superintendent.

The county has already widened Thacker between Elmhurst and Algonquin west of the city, he said, and Elmhurst Wolf and Algonquin have been widened to allow them to handle more traffic.

If the Thacker plans are carried out, it could mean the downtown area traffic system could handle more traffic.

The two overpasses could eliminate the Miner-River Road-railroad bottleneck according to Richard Beebe, city engineering consultant and James Paroubek, redevelopment president.

TRAFFIC FROM the north, on River Road, could avoid the railroad crossing at Miner Street downtown, and have easy access to the south side of the city, on the west side, by traveling down Thacker.

Trains now block River Road 73 times a day, and once every two minutes during rush hours, Beebe said.

The River Road overpass could allow flow of twice as much traffic as now goes through the downtown area during rush hour, Beebe said. Average daily traffic over various parts of River Road ranges from 13,000 to about 18,000 studies show. Projections indicate that by 1990, some 25,000 cars would travel River Road through downtown daily. Traffic is expected to increase by 15 per cent a year, Paroubek said.

Cars entering downtown Des Plaines from the east now have no other way of getting into the city than by going through the Miner-River Road bottleneck, Paroubek said.

Traffic from Dempster, Golf, the Tri State Tollway and Busse Highway meet at the bottleneck, he said. The Thacker-Dempster connection would relieve a bottleneck and decrease traffic through downtown and on Northwest Highway, he said.

Thacker is expected to become more heavily traveled even without the planned changes. A study by the city in 1970 showed that at present 8,700 cars used the street daily, and this will increase to 11,000 autos per day by 1990.

DOWNTOWN REDEVELOPMENT would increase traffic on Thacker to 15,000 a day, according to county projections. Highway improvements west of Des Plaines will route additional east-bound traffic onto a Dempster-Thacker connection, a city consultant told residents last year at a public hearing.

Aldermen in the Thacker area indicated that they have not yet heard many objections to the city's plans for Thacker. Ald. Morgan O'Brien, chairman of the council's streets, traffic and forestry committee, said he has received some complaints and he expects more.

Property transfer reports indicate that only a few Thacker homes have been put up for sale in the last year. However, in the last few months seven homes have been put on sale, and four have been sold, according to a check of "For Sale" signs.

Principals at the two public schools on Thacker, Central and West school, 1012 Thacker, told the Herald that traffic lights and other precautions will be necessary to protect the more than 1,000 students at the schools, if traffic increases.

Pin Down Phase II: Call IRS Office

by LEA TONKIN

Businessmen trying to pin down the dollars and cents meaning of Phase II can start by asking questions at the local Internal Revenue Service (IRS) office in Des Plaines.

Perhaps the only hard and fast rule is that there are exceptions to every ruling as described by Mrs. Viola Kostal, taxpayer representative in the office at 770 Lee St. "There are many companies in the area asking for price increases, for example," she said.

"They can come in to any IRS office, obtain the proper forms and fill them out. Within 10 days they should get a reply. However there are some companies that do not have to go through this procedure."

"Companies asking for a price hike may be entitled to an exemption or an exception to the general 5.5 per cent guidelines," she said. "The Price Commission so far has been pretty fair in its rulings, but there are always exceptions to the basic price guideline."

A ruling will eventually be published or if the request is considered too small to merit a ruling the applicant should receive a written reply.

IF A BUSINESSMAN is asking for an exemption to a general Price Board ruling it can either fill out a form at an IRS office, or write directly to Internal Revenue Service, Chicago, Ill. 60602, or IRS at Springfield, Ill. 62704.

The same basic procedure is required for a wage increase request, Mrs. Kostal said. The request can be handled through a local IRS office. Requests for exceptions or exemptions to Wage Board rulings can also be addressed to the IRS offices in Chicago or Springfield.

"We will talk to anyone who walks in about Phase II or other IRS business," said Mrs. Kostal, adding that most preliminary questions can be answered over the telephone (824-5131). Office hours are 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

"We serve the Northwest suburbs, but we are not limited to a specific territory. Any IRS office will serve those people who come in for advice," said Mrs. Kostal.

QUESTIONS and complaints are usually on rental increases, wage and price violations by the chain stores according to Mrs. Kostal. "People can make a complaint in writing or we can take this information on the telephone," she said.

They have to check first with the store, on a price complaint, to make sure the price in question is not the original price charged in before the price freeze was effected. She said stores are required to make comparative price information available to consumers upon request.

The Des Plaines IRS office has not added new personnel to handle its load of Phase I and Phase II questions according to Mrs. Kostal. "I don't think we have as many problems out here as in the City of Chicago in Phase II violations," she said.

SMOKE FROM THIS fire in Addison Northwest suburbs yesterday, as a rose from the firefighting battle. At least four firemen were reported injured at the site of the Quality Molding Co. fire in the extreme north end of DuPage County.

Blaze Injures 4 Firemen

A fire and series of explosions yesterday morning at an Addison plastics firm injured four fire fighters and caused heavy damage to the building.

Firemen were fighting a smoldering fire at Quality Molding Co., 31 Industrial Rd., when blasts of undetermined origin ripped through the building, knocking out the building's west wall and damaging several trucks parked outside.

Night shift employees of the company were out of the building when the blasts occurred. They had left the building when the small fire broke out at about 2:45 a.m., four hours before the blasts occurred.

The company, which makes plastic pots, employs about 150 persons.

Neil Jones, 27, of Villa Park, was treated for leg burns at DuPage County Memorial Hospital in Elmhurst. Three other firemen were overcome by smoke from the fire, which was fought by fire departments from four neighboring communities in addition to the Addison Fire Department.

Fire equipment from Elmhurst, Lombard, Villa Park and Wood Dale were called in to battle the blaze, the Bensenville department was standing by to offer assistance. Smoke from the fire could be seen for miles before it was brought under control late yesterday morning.

Mail Cards Early, Urges Postmaster

Des Plaines Postmaster John Koulenes has proclaimed Dec. 5 through Dec. 12 "Christmas Card Week." He urged residents to mail their cards by that week.

Holiday greetings mailed before Dec. 12 will have the best chance of arriving before Christmas Day, said Koulenes, who warned that cards mailed later may arrive late.

Arlington Views Housing Report

"Is there a need for low and moderate-income housing in Arlington Heights?"

This was one of the sections included in a preliminary draft of the Arlington Heights Low and Moderate-Income Housing Committee study report which committee members worked through Tuesday night.

The work session was one of several the committee has held recently for the purpose of drafting its report on the controversial housing issue it has been studying for more than a year.

The committee, which consists of three village board members and four plan commissioners, read through preliminary sections recapping the formation of the special study group, defining terms relevant to the discussion of low-and moderate income housing, summarizing some of the frequently heard opinions from both proponents and opponents as well as touching on the question of local need.

THE INITIAL report was written by Trustee Dwight Walton who said he anticipated the size of the section on need would double or perhaps increase by two-thirds over what was presented Tuesday night.

At an Oct. 26 meeting, the committee agreed on the need for some low-income housing and set preliminary requirements at between 200 and 250 units.

The committee also agreed Tuesday its report should try to answer, at least in a general way, some of the more frequently voiced opinions and fears on both sides of the housing issue.

Among persons opposed to low-and moderate-income housing, the report identified the following as recurrent opinions:

—Low and moderate-income housing in Arlington Heights would almost certainly require spot zoning which should be resisted.

—Local property taxes would increase.

—Assistance programs take away individual incentive.

—Low and moderate-income housing developments breed crime.

—People whose income would qualify them for low and moderate-income housing do not deserve to live in Arlington Heights.

—Property values in the vicinity of low and moderate-income housing sites will decline.

AMONG PERSONS who favor low and moderate-income housing in Arlington Heights, the report summarized these opinions:

—Arlington Heights cannot plan a zone without thinking of all its residents.

—There is a local population of both residents and persons working in the village who qualify for low and moderate-income housing.

—There is a lack of transportation from many parts of Chicago to Arlington Heights.

—Industry is moving to the suburbs and Arlington Heights can expect to receive more industries in the future.

—Local attitudes and horizons could be broadened by the presence of low and moderate-income families.

—Zoning which tends to be economically exclusionary should not be tolerated.

The committee members agreed that the final report should make clear that these statements were not necessarily fact or the opinion of the committee, but rather were general expressions of opinions from various witnesses, who had appeared before them.

Committee members Alice Harms and Dave Patterson said they would work on answers to the statements for inclusion in the final report.

A New Sound Is Coming For Phone Customers

There's a new sound coming for Central Telephone Co. customers in Des Plaines whose phone number prefix is 827.

On Jan. 23, the company will convert the 827 exchange to modern crossbar switching, marking completion of three-fifths of Central's multi-million dollar expansion and modernization program, which began in 1967.

Dial tones with the new crossbar switching have been described as higher-pitched and deeper than the old dial tones, company officials said.

This is the third major conversion for Central Telephone since its multi-million dollar expansion and modernization program began. An average of $13 million annually has been spent upgrading area telephone facilities, the company said. The first crossbar switching system was installed at Des Plaines in 1968. Second installation was at Park Ridge in 1969.

Installation of the third crossbar system costing an estimated $3.7 million has just been completed by Western Electric at the Des Plaines switching building. A fourth installation gets underway at Park Ridge in 1972, the fifth conversion from step-by-step to crossbar gets underway in 1973 at Des Plaines.

The third crossbar installation now completed is being tested by Western Electric Co., which will turn it over to Central Telephone Company Dec. 19. The 827 change will affect approximately 8,000 Central Telephone subscribers living in Des Plaines.

The new Crossbar equipment is highly computerized and has many self-testing features, allowing trouble to be spotted more quickly. The equipment is identical to that used by Illinois Bell Telephone in surrounding areas and it is directly compatible resulting in faster switching of calls.

City Boys Club Elects Officers

The Des Plaines police Boys Club recently elected new officers for the coming year. Named president was Gary Braun. First vice president is Tom Mandik, second vice president is Bob Mandik, treasurer is Gary Sebastian and secretary is Dave Wilson. Jim Deckrow and Bob Withey were named sergeants at arms.

The club, sponsored by the Des Plaines Police Association, is open to all boys between the ages of 13 and 17 who live in Des Plaines.

What's In A Name? At Least $1,000

by DOUG RAY

There is an innate value in the name of Arlington Heights.

Prospective homeowners in Arlington Heights may find themselves paying about $1,000 more than persons in a development next door in Buffalo Grove for a similar home. And salesmen for the Miller Development Co., which has housing projects in both Arlington Heights and Buffalo Grove, believe "the name Arlington Heights will demand a little more money" than Buffalo Grove.

According to a local Miller salesman, the name Arlington Heights may "jack up the price as much as $1,000" over the same structure in Buffalo Grove.

Miller Development Co., which is constructing housing in at least 24 suburban communities, including Palatine, Des Plaines and Mount Prospect, prices a home in Buffalo Grove at $36,450 and one quite similar in Arlington Heights at $39,950. The home in Buffalo Grove is called the Gateway and is located in the Mill Creek subdivision south of Dundee Road. Miller's similar Arlington Heights home is called the Jamestown and is in the Northgate subdivision near Arlington Heights and Hintz Roads.

While there are minor differences in the two homes, the basic design and structure are the same. A Miller salesman said "we (Miller Development) used the market value of the name Arlington Heights" to increase the cost of the Arlington Heights home.

The differences in the two homes include brick siding, a crawl space and cedar siding in the Arlington Heights Jamestown model compared to less brick veneer, no crawl area and aluminum siding in the Buffalo Grove Gateway model. However, a Miller salesman said, the differences do not add up to the higher costs.

The standard lot at the Northgate subdivision is 70 feet by 125 feet and the lot at the Mill Creek development is 65 by 115 feet.

The two subdivisions are adjacent and only the village boundary lines separate them. Children attend the same school and nearby shopping facilities are equally convenient, salesmen say.

The outward and interior appearances of the two model homes are approximately the same. Most of the selling points in company brochures are the same.

The homes are bi-level, with three bedrooms, two baths, two car garage and a finished recreation room. Sheldon Lazaar, Miller sales director, said the land costs are higher in Arlington Heights than Buffalo Grove. He estimated about $1,500 higher for the salable tracts. He said the added brick, cedar siding is more costly along with interior designing. He did not say the Arlington Heights name added to the cost of the home in that village but said "it's a matter of economics."

He said the Mill Creek subdivision is a $36,000 to $44,000 development and the Northgate is priced from $40,000 to $50,000. People make their own decision," he said.

He said the sales of the Jamestown and Gateway homes are "about even" and said the facilities in both communities are the same.

Another Miller salesman said prospective home buyers take into consideration whether the homes are in Arlington Heights or Buffalo Grove. "We see it every day," he said.

Bakalis To Address Head Start Rally In Chicago

Residents involved with the Northwest suburban Head Start program will be among those attending an "Operation Unity" rally Saturday in Chicago.

Guest speaker for the rally will be Michael Bakalis, state superintendent of public instruction. The rally, sponsored by the Cook County Office of Economic Opportunity, will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Malcolm X College, 1900 W. Van Buren. Bakalis will speak at 1:30 p.m.

All persons involved in Chicago-area Head Start programs have been invited to attend the rally.

The purpose of the rally is "to place in the public eye, the work, mission and the accomplishments of this greatly-needed federal program for tiny tots of low-income families," according to Rocco Facchini, director of the Northwest suburban Head Start program.

Invited to attend the rally from this area are parents of Head Start children, staff members of the Head Start program, Norwesco members (the delegate agency which runs the local program), local school officials and members of various church, civic and service groups who have donated time to the Head Start program.

FREE BUS transportation will be provided by Head Start for those from the area who wish to attend the rally. The bus will leave Pioneer Park, 500 S. Fernandez, Arlington Heights, at 8 a.m. and return at 4 p.m. Sack lunches and baby-sitting services will also be provided free of charge by the local Head Start program.

Those who desire additional information or who plan to attend and wish to reserve a seat on the bus should call the Head Start office at 394-9990 by today.

A second speaker at the rally will be Theodore Taylor, executive director of the federal day care and child development council.

Entertainment will be provided by the Operation Breadbasket choir and band.

About 100 preschool children from low-income families in the Northwest suburban area are enrolled in the local Head Start program. Head Start centers are operating in Arlington Heights, Wheeling, Palatine and Des Plaines.

Dems Favor J. Condylis To Oppose Rep. Crane

Democrats in the new 12th Congressional District are attempting to enlist John Condylis, 103 Landmeier Rd., Elk Grove Village, as a candidate to oppose U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane in the 1972 election.

Crane, Republican representative in the present 13th Congressional District, will formally launch his campaign for re-election in the new 12th District at a press conference at his Randhurst office tomorrow.

Grove Village March of Dimes in 1964.

He has previously been favorably considered by Democratic leaders as a congressional candidate, but was prevented from running by demands of his business, according to Chester Chesney, Elk Grove Township Democratic committeeman.

Chesney said he has urged Condylis to appear before township committeemen, who will meet Monday evening to interview candidates for the Illinois General Assembly in the new 3rd Legislative District.

CHESNEY SAID he was hopeful that Condylis would agree to seek election to Congress or to the state Senate in the 3rd District.

Expected to appear before the five township committeemen Monday are incumbent Rep. Eugenia S. Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, and John Kelley of Schaumburg, candidate for the state House Committee on the screening committee are James L. McCabe, Wheeling Township; John Morrissey, Schaumburg Township; Richard Mugalian, Palatine Township; Nicholas B. Blase, Maine Township; and Chesney.

They will meet at 8 p.m. Monday at the Maitre D' Restaurant, 111 E. Higgins Rd., Elk Grove Village.

Nurse's Blood Saves Baby With Liver Condition

Paul Joseph Slad, a 5-day-old Streamwood boy, owes his life to a nurse at Alexian Brothers Medical Center.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Slad, was born Nov. 28 at the hospital in Elk Grove Village suffering from a liver condition that prevented his blood from clotting properly.

The problem can only be treated by transfusions of fresh blood until the liver begins to work properly, according to hospital spokesman Robin Leach, and after several transfusions the hospital ran out of the baby's blood type.

The baby was going into shock, Miss Leach said, when one of the nurses in the maternity ward offered to donate blood for him.

THE NURSE, who wishes to remain

anonymous, had the proper type of blood for the baby and made the donation. The doctor said later the transfusion was the "decisive factor" that saved the baby's life.

Miss Leach said the nurses at the hospital all know their blood types and added, "I think this demonstrates that the people who work in the hospitals think of their patients as more than just patients. She saw the baby needed help and she gave it."

Paul went home yesterday in good condition, and although the doctor will follow his case closely, he appears to be a healthy, normal baby now.

Joseph Slad described his son's recovery as "a miracle come true. We're very happy about everything."

Democrats Endorse Simon

The Regular Democratic Organization of Schaumburg Township has endorsed Lt. Gov. Paul Simon's bid for governor of Illinois.

The action took place during the organization's November meeting. The motion, approved unanimously by the 50 members attending, "urged and supported the candidacy of Paul Simon for governor of the state of Illinois."

The action makes Schaumburg Township one of the first Northwest suburban areas to endorse Simon. Township Democratic Committeeman John Morrissey has advised Simon of the endorsement.

The township Democrats also announced the formation of a Citizens Committee for Simon. Spearheading the committee are Edwin L. Frank, former Hoffman Estates park commissioner; Selwyn Schwartz, coordinator of the Adlai Stevenson campaign in Schaumburg Township in 1970, and William Holmes, president of the Schaumburg Township Democratic Organization.

The Citizens Committee is open to township Democrats, Republicans or Independents who support Simon.

Maine West, North Open In League Play

New Trier West Opening Challenge For Warriors

by LARRY MLYNCZAK

One of Ara Parseghian's favorite lines is, "It's easier to reach the top than it is to stay there once you've reached it."

Parseghian's reasoning is quite simple — every team around wants to knock off the best and will get fired up to do so.

Such is the case which Maine West's basketball team will be facing as it undertakes its first of its 14 Central Suburban League games — New Trier West. The Cowboys will visit the Warrior gymnasium tonight at 8:00.

Maine West won the Central Suburban League co-championship (with Maine South) and it is definite that every team around the conference will be looking to knock off the Warriors.

The Warriors posted a 12-2 CSL record and went 17-6 overall. They faced New Trier West twice last year and the pesky Cowboys gave the Warriors troubles for a while before losing 69-69 and 66-54.

In one of its best efforts this season, New Trier West bothered Maine East considerably before falling, 66-61.

Maine West, meanwhile, opened with a 65-48 loss to Forest View but then came back to down Arlington 72-68.

Against Arlington, no less than four

Warriors scored in double figures with Joe Thimm getting 24, Rick Wolfgram 18, Jeff Heist 15 and Mark Tuttle 13.

Wolfgram and Heist are the probable starting guards with Thimm and either Fred Campobasso or Fred Schmidt at the forwards and Tuttle at center.

After being outbounded by a slim margin against Forest View, the Warriors dominated the boards against Arlington with Thimm getting 15 rebounds, Tuttle 11 and Schmidt eight. Schmidt was Maine West's leading rebounder against Forest View with eight.

Traditionally, New Trier West places a fine defensive unit on the floor each season. The Cowboys will attempt to force the Warriors out of the offensive patterns which Maine West likes to use. New Trier West was fairly successful doing so last year but Maine West, with superior talent, still managed to win by 10 and 12 point margins.

Maine West ran fewer offensive patterns against Arlington last week and went to an offense which ran a bit more and got off more shots. The fine game which the centers and forwards had in the rebounding department enabled the Warriors to use the running game more often.

BIG TIPPER. Maine North's husky 6-6 center Bob Allen tries to tip in a rebound but finds his shot going astray during the Norsemen's cage bout at Schaumburg last week. The pint-sized Saxons went on to annex the victory 73-55. (Photo by Dom Najolia)

Norsemen Hope To Crack Win Column Against Niles

by LARRY MLYNCZAK

After its best week of practice of the season, there is a hint of optimism as Maine North opens its Central Suburban League season tonight against Niles North.

The CSL contest will be played in the Maine North gymnasium at 8 p.m.

"The team has looked real good in practice this week," said head coach Jerry Nelson. "I think that we now have a few problems worked out."

The Norsemen opened the season with three consecutive losses — two of the three losses due directly to mistakes and turnovers. Thornwood took advantage of Maine North mistakes to defeat the Norsemen 76-65 in the opener. Schurz was simply a better basketball team and downed Maine North 70-49. Mistakes proved costly against Schaumburg in the third game as the Norsemen lost 73-55.

"The biggest mistake we made against Schaumburg was that we played their style of game," Nelson said. "They have a real small team with speed but we ran up and down the court with them which we shouldn't have done. They hurt us some with their press and, when we did beat the press, we were not waiting for the good percentage shot."

The Norsemen will face another small, quick team in Niles North tonight. Nelson is hopeful that this week's practice lessons have been learned and that his squad will settle down into its own style of play — a patterned, patient offense.

Frank Yturriago and Harold Taylor will again start at the guard positions. "These two boys have come a long way in our program," Nelson said. "Frank is a transfer student and Harold is out for basketball for the first time. I think they are now starting to get the 'feel' of our system."

Marty DiFlavio, the team's leading scorer, will start at one forward spot with Doug Werhane at the other. Either Bob Allen or much improved Tom Michaelson will get the starting nod at center.

Niles North's quick offense and defense is highlighted by 5-9 guard Dennis Cooper. "He controls the ball real well and has good shooting range," Nelson said. "We'll have to contain him as much as possible."

In its last two outings, Niles North lost to Niles East and Notre Dame, but the Vikings were within striking distance all the way in both contests.

Larry Mlynczak

MAYBE I SHOULD quit while I'm ahead.

After two years of doing miserably while making predictions in high school athletics, I finally had a good season this past fall in football.

In the Central Suburban League, I predicted that Glenbrook South would win the championship and that Niles West would finish second. Glenbrook South came up with an ordinary season — a fifth place finish — but Niles West won the championship.

Deerfield, the team I picked for third, finished in second place. I pegged Maine West fourth and Niles North fifth but both teams finished in a tie for seventh. I hit Maine North on the nose, in sixth place.

Glenbrook North was tabbed for seventh and Maine South for eighth and both were underrated. The Spartans took third place and Maine South took fourth. New Trier West finished in a tie for last, the same place as predicted.

In the West Suburban League, I had Hinsdale Central first and Glenbard West second and both teams tied for first. LaGrange was picked for third and Riverside-Brookfield fourth and both teams tied for fourth. Downers Grove North was a fifth place tab but finished third. Proviso West, picked for sixth, finished fourth. York finished seventh and Maine East eighth, just as predicted.

Marist and Holy Cross tied for first place in the Suburban Catholic Conference but I predicted only one, Holy Cross, for the top spot. Marist was tabbed for seventh (ouch). Notre Dame, picked for third, finished fourth; Carmel, picked for fourth, finished seventh; St. Viator, picked for fifth, finished third; St. Joseph, picked for sixth, finished eighth; St. Francis DeSales, picked for eighth, finished sixth.

In the Mid-Suburban League, Wheeling was picked for first in the North Division and finished tied for first record-wise. Fremd was pegged for second but finished fifth. Hersey was picked for third but reached the top spot. Arlington and Palatine, chosen for fourth and fifth, respectively, finished in a tie for third.

I picked Elk Grove for first in the South and Forest View for second and that was how it ended up. Conant was picked for third but finished in a three-way tie for fourth with Schaumburg and Glenbard North which were picked for fifth and sixth, respectively. Prospect, picked for fourth, finished third.

In the five leagues, I picked four champions and one of the champions I had predicted for second place.

So, I should quit while I'm ahead, right?

Right. But I just can't avoid the temptation to pick 'em for the basketball season. So, here goes:

CENTRAL SUBURBAN

1. MAINE SOUTH — The high flying Hawks could very well go undefeated.
2. MAINE WEST — Possibly the best of the rest.
3. DEERFIELD — Good nucleus returns from 15-7 team.
4. GLENBROOK SOUTH — Much improved, particularly in backcourt.
5. NILES NORTH — Not much height, but plenty of veterans.
6. NEW TRIER WEST — Will pull an upset here and there.
7. NILES WEST — Suffered 2-16 record last year; will be much better this year.
8. MAINE NORTH — Should develop as season goes on.
9. GLENBROOK NORTH — Rebuilding year.

WEST SUBURBAN

1. HINSDALE CENTRAL — Also unanimous choice by league's coaches.
2. GLENBARD WEST — Ready for contention.
3. MAINE EAST — If Demons cut down on turnovers, could threaten Hinsdale.
4. YORK — Offense is the byword this year instead of the traditionally strong defense.
5. LaGRANGE — State champs of two years ago slipping.
6. DOWNERS GROVE NORTH — Should go something like 9-13, same as last year.
7. PROVISIO WEST — Will be forced to play spoiler's role.
8. RIVERSIDE-BROOKFIELD — Went 2-20 last year; won't be as bad this year.

SUBURBAN CATHOLIC

1. ST. PATRICK — Defending champs still look good.
2. CARMEL — Out to improve fine 17-8 record of last year.
3. ST. JOSEPH — Some are saying this team can take it all.
4. NOTRE DAME — Hard pressed to win 20 again.
5. MARIST — Defense is there; but where is offense?
6. ST. VIATOR — Looms as darkhorse contender.
7. ST. FRANCIS DeSALES — New entry could surprise.
8. HOLY CROSS — All the glories went out with the football season.

MID-SUBURBAN

1. WHEELING — With a seven-foot center, what else do you need?
2. HERSEY — Has not come around as well as many expected.
3. FREMD — Prospects for a winning season.
4. ARLINGTON — Plenty of shooters, but defense and rebounding suspect.
5. PALATINE — After 2-19 record last year, may come close to .500 mark.

(South)

1. FOREST VIEW — A fine, steady ball club.
2. PROSPECT — Plenty of quickness as usual.
3. CONANT — Has plenty of sharp newcomers.
4. SCHAUMBURG — Tallest man is 5-11; need we say more?
5. ELK GROVE — In rebuilding stages.
6. GLENBARD NORTH — Somehow, won 10 games last year; will be hard pressed to win half that many this year.

THE BEST IN Sports

Norsemen Mat Team In Debut

After a fine 7-5-1 dual meet record against a combined jayvee-varsity schedule last year, Maine North will embark on its first all-varsity wrestling schedule starting tonight at Niles East at 7:15.

"We do not have much depth," said head coach Dan Bianucci, "but if we don't get many injuries, I feel we'll do all right."

Maine North's 98 pounder this year, as last, will be Jack Horowitz whom Bianucci considers "one of the best in the area." Sophomore Kevin Thompson will wrestle at 105 and either sophomore Jim Elliot or junior Rick Wingereid will go at 112 pounds.

Another sophomore, Bryan Clark, will be Maine North's 119 pounder while Phil Kolpek, one of the team's better wrestlers last year, will go at 126.

The 132-pound position will be filled by either junior Steve Merker or senior Oesie Amaro. Norm Lau, who saw plenty of action last season, will start at 138 and Gary Heintz, a transfer from Willowbrook High, will be the 145 pounder.

Senior Frank DeMarco will grapple at 155 pounds with junior Rich O'Connor also seeing action at that weight. Mike Fiske, a senior, will start at 167 and Steve Boucher and Ron Dietz, both seniors, will wrestle at 185. Senior Chester Dombek will compete in the heavyweight division.

Bianucci considers the Central Suburban League to be very strong and balanced this year saying, "There are a few teams who can win it." The Norsemen coach rates Deerfield, Glenbrook North and Glenbrook South as the primary contenders.

Bianucci says about his team's chances, "We'll be quite competitive, particularly if we can avoid injuries or illnesses. Our depth situation is such that if we have injuries, we'll have to depend on sophomores to fill the positions."

RUNNER PAYS TRIBUTE

Dear Mr. Logan:

I am writing this concerning your column on my coach, Mr. Bill Mohrmann, and our Forest View cross country program. Although it was about two weeks ago that the article was printed in the Herald, I read it over and over and still get a lump in my throat every time.

Even though I have experienced all the accomplishments that were mentioned in your article and others, I am still almost unbelieving. Ever since Mr. Mohrmann has been coaching us in my sophomore year, he has never stopped encouraging us to push ourselves and each other. Everything he said and did brought us hopes and dreams of someday really being something.

He has gotten and kept more boys on the team than any other coach could have or would have. I know that some of the guys on this year's very successful varsity team, including myself might have quit or never come out if it weren't for him. I'm sure all the other guys on the team will agree with me when I say that Mr. Mohrmann has been more than a coach and more like a father to us.

To close, I'd just like to thank you for writing what you did. There's no one I can think of who is more deserving of such praise than our great coach and friend, Bill Mohrmann.

PUBLICITY HELPED

Dear Sirs:

I want to thank you for your assistance in publicizing our recent basketball benefit game for the Schultz Memorial. Sport fans like to read a column like yours and we appreciate you devoting space to our game.

We felt our cause was very worthwhile and we offered a good sports program for the evening. Those who came had a nice evening. Your articles helped us realize a substantial contribution. Many thanks.

BEAR DRAFT: "JANUARY FOLLY"

Dear Sirs:

Well, the season's almost over and it'll be time once again for that annual January folly, the Bears and the college player draft. And once again Papa Bear and his staff of "experts" will figure they can pick up another gimpy-legged running back at a bargain price. (Remember Mike Hull? Joe Moore?)

There's a bumper crop of runners with potential coming out of the college ranks this winter. Please, Mr. Papa Bear, let's not let ourselves get slickered out of another John Brockington this time around. OK?

MORE TRADES NEEDED

Dear Sirs:

As a Cub fan, I was dismayed to read that the team does not plan to make any more trades, being content with only the Ken Holtzman-for-Rick Monday deal.

It will take a lot more than this to make the Cubs a winner. There are still too many overpaid, under-productive crybabies on the squad and too many who will not put out their best for Leo Durocher. (By the way, that is his correct name for you people and the immature Chicago sportswriter who keeps referring to Durocher as "Whats-hisname").

At first glance, this week's deal looks like a big-name transaction. But if you look at last year's statistics, it was merely a swap of two players who have been overrated and never nearly lived up to expectations. The Cubs got rid of a pitcher with a 9-15 record and 4.55 earned-run average for a guy who wasn't even a regular last year and hit .245.

To be a winner next year, the Cubs had to do one of two things: Either get rid of Durocher or make a major house-cleaning of players. I'm glad they kept Leo because I feel he is still a good manager and is not to blame for the failures. But it has been clearly proven in the last two seasons that the present group of players will not be inspired to play their best for Leo. And there are still some urgent needs talent-wise: A bullpen, at least one GOOD pinch-hitter, a fast, hard-hitting outfielder and a shortstop (Kessinger is really over the hill).

If (general manager) John Holland thinks he is an astute wheeler-dealer just because of that one trade, or if he thinks the same tired old bodies are going to get any better, he's kidding himself.

Michael Dean

SOMEONE UP THERE LIKES BEARS

Dear Sirs:

We Bear fans — and the Bears themselves — should be thankful that Chicago has won six games this year.

While looking over the team statistics for every team in the NFL, I came across the fact that, of the 26 teams in the NFL, the Bears rank 26th in first downs, 25th in protecting their quarterbacks from getting sacked, 23rd in completion percentage, 22nd in rushing yardage, 21st in total offense, 19th in punting and 18th in passing yardage.

In total defense, the Bears rank 18th out of the 26 teams in the NFL. Somebody up there somewhere must like the Bears very, very much.

NO MORE ENVY

Dear Sirs:

I just turned off the television set after watching the Bears humiliated by Miami.

I used to be envious of the season ticket holders at Wrigley Field.

No more. I pity them.

East Tankers 2nd In Triangular

In its first two meets of the season, Maine East's swimming team lost to Highland Park 57-38 and finished second in a triangular meet. In the triangular, Lane Tech won with 80 points, Maine East was second with 64 and Hersey was third with 20.

Against Highland Park, Bob Wadman nabbed first place in the 200-yard individual medley and first in the 100-yard butterfly. He set a new school record in the butterfly, 56.1, breaking the old record of 56.9 set by Joe Sommer in 1959.

Phil Bergquist in the 200-yard freestyle and the 400-yard freestyle took second places, Howard Christensen was second in the 50-yard freestyle and Ken Meyer was second in the 100-yard backstroke.

In the triangular, Bergquist was first in the 200-yard freestyle, Glen Sedjo was first in diving and Wadman took first in the butterfly.

Taking second places were the 200-yard medley relay team of Meyer, Scott Shaver, Bob Miner and Christensen, Wadman in the 200-yard individual medley, Tom McKervey in diving, Bergquist in the 400-yard freestyle, Meyer in the 100-yard backstroke and Wadman, Miner, Meyer and Bergquist in the 400-yard freestyle relay.

Cub-Faculty Game Tickets On Sale

Tickets for the Chicago Cub-Maine East faculty basketball game are available at Maine East High School Monday through Friday between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.

The game will be held Tuesday, Dec. 14, at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are two dollars.

Maine North Opens Swim Slate Tonight

Maine North's first varsity swimming team will open its season tonight at 7:30 at Niles East.

The Norsemen schedule, according to head coach Bob Retel, "Looks very tough."

"The Central Suburban League is usually very good," Retel continued, "and it should be again this year." Retel rates Deerfield and New Trier West as two of the top teams with Glenbrook North, Maine South and Glenbrook South as contenders.

Since there are only 14 varsity competitors for Maine North, the Norsemen could be lacking for depth to fill a number of individual events and two relay events.

According to Retel, the best times in practice produced thus far have been by freshman John Monaghan, sophomores Jeff Rusk and Junior Mark Lange. Monaghan can swim nearly any event, Rusk will be used primarily in the freestyle events and Lange will swim in the freestyle and the butterfly events.

Maine North's first home meet will be held at Maine South and the remaining three will be held at Maine East.

Arlington Swimmers Swamp Dons

Three records were set in the dual swim meet between visiting Notre Dame and Arlington Tuesday at Olympic Pool.

Charlie Dunn, the Cardinals' outstanding sophomore, had two of those marks as he led his team to an easy victory, 74-21. Dunn won the individual medley in 2:13.4 and the 100-yard backstroke in 59.3, the first time any Arlington swimmer had gone under a minute in the latter event. Dunn had also owned the previous records.

Also turning in first-place performances were Steve Jurco in the 100 freestyle (53.7), Dave Hartman in the 400 freestyle (4:23), Mike Nitch in the 200 freestyle (1:58.1) and Dennis Stout in the breaststroke (1:10.5).

The freestyle relay team, made up of Jurco, Hartman, Nitch and Jim Stoll, won with a 3:39.2 clocking. The medley relay team, made up of Stout, Dunn, Rick Cook and Oliver Peale, won with a 1:51.6.

Mike Borman of Notre Dame set a new pool record with a 56.4 in the butterfly. Jim Stoeser rounded out the first-place showings for the Dons with a 24.5 in the 50 freestyle.

Tim McGratic paced the Arlington sophomore team to a 62-33 victory with wins in the 50 and 100 freestyle events.

Area Leagues Launch Seasons

The Mid-Suburban League, the West Suburban League, the Suburban Catholic Conference and the Skyway Conference will open up their seasons tonight.

Two non-conference games are slated for Saturday as the area's basketball season moves into its third weekend.

Elk Grove will be home with Wheeling tonight, facing the Wildcats' 6-11 center Roger Wood and teammates. Wheeling is 1-1, having lost to Moline — at Moline — in its latest outing, 57-53.

The Grenadiers opened their season against Addison Trail and lost 72-48.

Forest View will be home with Fremd in what should be an interesting match-up. Forest View opened the season with an impressive 65-48 victory over Maine West and then lost to Elgin 50-49 in the closing seconds.

Fremd defeated Notre Dame 59-58 on a last-second shot in its opener before losing to St. Viator 68-58 and Glenbrook South 68-59.

In Suburban Catholic Conference action, St. Viator will host Notre Dame in what usually is a very spirited affair. Notre Dame lost to Fremd on a last-second shot, defeated Niles North 58-53 and then lost to Glenbrook South on a last-second shot, 65-63. St. Viator's only game was against Fremd.

Maine East will open its West Suburban League schedule at defending conference champion LaGrange. The Demons have beaten New Trier West 66-61 and lost to Palatine 70-68 and Hinsdale South 69-54.

Harper College, recent champs in the DuPage Tournament, will travel to Elgin for a Skyway Conference contest. The Hawks have lost to Wright 103-83 and beaten Prairie State 114-59 and DuPage 92-79.

Saturday's schedule has Elk Grove traveling to Fenton and St. Viator playing at Palatine.

All games are scheduled for 8 p.m.

Ohio, Illinois Lead In Entries

Twenty-eight states, Australia and Japan will have league bowlers representing them in the $100,000 BPAA U.S. Open which will be held at Madison Square Garden Bowling Center Jan. 2-8.

Lou Frantz, Louisville, Ky., chairman of the Bowling Proprietors Association of America Tournament Committee, announced allocation of 96 spots to the various states and reported that in some states qualifying tournaments already are under way.

The tournament is sponsored by the Bowling Proprietors Association of America and will be conducted by the Professional Bowlers Association (PBA).

as the first event on the PBA's 1972 winter tournament tour.

Ohio leads the nation with 19 spots, Illinois has 15 and has 14 state New York, 12. Three bowlers will come from Japan and one from Australia.

The entire field will consist of 192 bowlers, 96 of them league bowlers qualified from the various states and the other 96 from the roster of the PBA.

Invitations also will be extended to 13 former champions of the event when it was known as the BPAA All-Star, including Mike Limongello, N. Babylon, N. Y., winner of the first BPAA U.S. Open last January in St. Paul, Minn.

guaranteed auto & truck rustproofing

A recent article in Motor Boating Magazine on Corrosion prevention & control in metallic yacht hulls describes the loss of a luxury hull in just 3 months. The culprit was the fastener — ordinary steel rivets used to fasten on hull plates below the water line. Galvanic corrosion destroyed the rivet and the hole it left was like an open sea cock.

ROUTINE MAINTENANCE is handled by the maintenance staff in each school. However in the future all maintenance tasks may be reorganized into a centralized, computerized preventive maintenance operation.

Schools Will Consider A Maintenance Program

Should a school district wait until a breakdown occurs to make repairs or should it avoid breakdowns with upkeep in maintenance?

This question is currently being studied in High School Dist. 214. Traditionally school maintenance has been approached as a handyman's fix-it job. But now as school districts are expanding and building more facilities, school officials are finding that the fix-it approach is too costly.

To keep repairs and expenses at a minimum school officials may have to turn to a centralized, preventive maintenance program. Rather than wait till equipment breaks or wears out, a maintenance force would inspect it regularly and keep it in working condition.

THE FEASIBILITY of centralized maintenance is being studied by the Dist. 214 School Board. Robert Weber, assistant superintendent for business services, has suggested that the district use a computer to organize such a program.

Currently the district operates maintenance on a central and local level. Routine jobs are handled by members of the maintenance staff in each school. The major jobs are directed by administrators in the district's central office. Often someone in the business manager's office will contract a specialist to do the job.

WEBER HAS PROPOSED to the Dist. 214 School Board that it computerize the district's maintenance program. "You would have to take a look at every piece of equipment and facility in the district and establish a schedule of upkeep for each item. Then you would develop a master schedule and feed it into the computer. The computer would crank out a weekly work order.

"It would be relatively expensive getting a computerized preventive maintenance program started. But in the long run it would save money," said Weber. The board has taken his proposal under consideration.

The location of a major hockey stadium will be announced in about two weeks, according to Tim Worcester, spokesman for Chicago Hockey Inc.

Groundbreaking for the stadium, to cost an estimated $20 million, still is planned before the end of this month, said Worcester, who declined to commit his firm to any location.

Chicago Hockey Inc., owner of the franchise for the Cougar hockey team, is negotiating with "a number" of land holders over the site, said Worcester. The team owners have been approached by persons wanting to locate the stadium in the southwest suburbs, but the northwest area still is the top choice, he said. The stadium "will be in the northwest," Worcester said.

Schaumburg has been a frontrunner in speculation over where the team will build its new home, although Arlington Heights, Palatine, Rolling Meadows and Barrington also have been suggested as possibilities.

The director of the team owners is Richard Pain, president of Woodfield Development Co., owner of large tracts of land around Woodfield Mall. In October, the development company announced general plans for the Woodfield area property, and included was a hockey rink.

The company shied away from any specific comment on the rink, although A. Harold Anderson, developer of the land, said it could host professional sports but not of major proportions. Pain said at the same time that "no possibility can be ruled out."

If the team comes to Schaumburg, it is anticipated the Woodfield area site, on Meacham Road, would house the stadium.

While some details about the proposed stadium have been made public, Worcester said there have been changes in plans since an announcement made Oct. 29. For example, said Worcester, 3,500 stadium seats were planned for the central arena, but architects now are drawing some of those seats as bleachers.

New renderings of the building will be made available when the location is announced, said Worcester.

There still will be approximately 20,000 seats in the stadium, and it still is seen as part of an office-hotel-apartment complex, he said.

John Syke, president of Chicago Hockey, Inc., described the complex in October as having a 250-room hotel, three office buildings and apartment buildings on a 40-acre parcel.

Woodfield Development Co. plans also showed a hotel and three office buildings, as well as apartment areas, but the plans were described by firm officials as tentative and subject to change as negotiations with potential occupants progressed.

Snowmobiles And Scarves Not A Healthy Mix

A new scarf for Christmas and a snowmobile ride could be a deadly combination.

In Wisconsin last year, an eleven-year-old boy suffered partial strangulation when the long wool scarf he was wearing while snowmobiling wrapped around the machine's spinning flywheel pulley.

A 12-year-old girl wasn't as fortunate — she was strangled to death when her scarf caught in the flywheel of the snowmobile she was riding.

Here's advice given by the National Safety Council: To enjoy snowmobiling safely, dress comfortably for wind and weather conditions — but avoid wearing long scarves or other loose-fitting apparel which may become entangled in moving parts of the machine.

Do not wear apparel which could get caught in moving parts of the snowmobile and cause injury or death.

YESTERDAY'S REPRIEVE from rain, Christmas decorations creating the snow and sleet found many people outside decking their homes with proper setting for a festive mood.

Randhurst Fights Woodfield Mall

With the opening of the Woodfield Mall, it may no longer be true that, "All roads lead to Randhurst."

Some merchants at the Mount Prospect shopping center are worried that their slogan is no longer applicable and that shoppers are going more to the new Schaumburg center.

However, this feeling is not shared by all the merchants, and the official position of the Randhurst Corporation is that it is simply too early to tell.

"October sales figures will not be available until later this month," said Harold J. Carlson, vice president and general manager of the Randhurst Corporation. "But I would be surprised if we were that heavily affected — quite surprised."

Carlson said Woodfield had "almost no impact" in September. "I certainly can't forecast our Dec. 31 position now, but we have been quite pleased with what we have seen so far," he said.

The nine-year-old center, he said, is still in a growth position. Every month this year the center has done more volume than in the same month last year.

BUT THE MANAGER of a men's clothing store at Randhurst said he notices that "the traffic pattern is a little less." He said this could affect their sales.

"You don't have to write this down but I think it will be difficult for all of us (merchants at Randhurst) no matter what Mr. Carlson says," he said.

Carlson, at a meeting with Mount Prospect Village Board members, said that October sales were "down 15 per cent across the board." Clarifying his comment later, he said, "what I was doing was comparing apples to apples. I had stood still, that's where we would be."

But the Randhurst Corporation and the Randhurst merchants did not stand still. Prior to Woodfield's triple opening — Sears in August, Marshall Field's in September and Penney's in October — steps were taken to make sure Randhurst would stay competitive.

Carlson outlined the steps. First, the Jewel Food store was relocated in a separate building along Euclid Avenue. Charles A. Stevens, a clothing store, moved into Jewel's old mall site in April. Then Mary Lester Fabrics was added. Finally, Montgomery Ward's almost doubled its main floor through an expansion-building project.

"Most tenants remodeled their stores to some extent, some very expensively," Carlson said. "We encouraged this at every level."

"ALL THESE THINGS had one goal in mind, to make the center as attractive and competitive as could be. It would have been nice if we could have done this on our own but we didn't. Our people have sharpened their (selling) skills, basic skills that were the reason for our success in the first place."

Higher standards and more aggressive attitude there may be, yet Carlson admitted some stores were feeling the pinch. "Some tenants, in the nongenerative type businesses, have felt the competition more," he said. "They rely on the other stores to bring customers into the center."

Village officials in Mount Prospect are concerned over the situation because of vital sales tax revenues. The village makes a penny on every retail dollar spent in the village. With sales of about $60 million last year, Randhurst sales contributed some $600,000 or 61 per cent of the village's total sales tax receipts.

Mayor Robert D. Telchert said the village was "not going to get hysterical or panicky." "I don't know if we know anything yet. Later, we should have measuring sticks."

HE ADDED THAT he hoped everyone would not use Woodfield as a "whipping boy" pointing out that declines in the economy and the wage-price freeze have also affected retail sales in the village.

Some merchants at Randhurst agreed that the muddy economy and recent freeze have complicated the question of Woodfield's influence on Randhurst. The fact that Woodfield is new was also frequently mentioned.

"It's like a baby seeing a toy for the first time," the manager of a shoe store said when he referred to Woodfield.

Median Teacher Age Declines In Decade

The teaching profession is growing younger, a research study by the National Education Association (NEA) reveals. At the same time, teachers are better educated than ever before.

Median age of all teachers is now 35 years, almost 6 years younger than in 1961. The survey of public school teachers by the NEA Research Division found that women teachers accounted for most of the drop in median age, declining from 45.5 years in 1961 to 40 in 1966 and to 37 in 1971. Men teachers, as a group, have been relatively young — 33.6 years in 1961 and 35 five years ago and in 1971.

Teachers, the preliminary report shows, tend to have shorter lunch periods than a decade ago, and they continue to exceed the 40-hour work week in school duties. They are politically active, and are involved in many self-improvement activities such as advanced college study, workshops, and educational travel.

Less than 3 per cent of the teachers lack a bachelor's degree, a big drop from the nearly 15 per cent without the degree a decade earlier. Seventy per cent have a bachelor's degree and an additional 27 per cent have a master's degree. Increasingly, the degrees are being earned at public institutions rather than nonpublic.

Most teachers still are students. In the recent survey, 61 per cent of them reported they had earned college credits in the last three years.

IN POLITICAL philosophy, teachers tend to be conservatives. More than 60 per cent indicated they are "conservative" or "tend to be conservative," contrasted with less than 40 per cent who are "liberal" or "tend to be liberal."

Teachers earned an average of more than $9,000 in 1971, but 57 per cent also had income from other sources, and three-fourths of the married teachers reported that their spouses were employed either full-time or part-time. The teacher's salary provides an average of 71 per cent of the total family income for teachers as a whole. Married women teachers, 89 per cent of whose husbands are employed, provide an average of 52 per cent of the total household income from their teaching salary.

The survey revealed that 89 per cent of the elementary and secondary teachers report to a male principal. In the case of secondary teachers alone, nearly 99 per cent do so.

Less than 6 per cent of the teachers have a black principal but more than 12 per cent have a majority of black pupils.

The per cent of elementary teachers who teach more than one grade rose from 14.5 in 1961 to 21.5 in 1971.

The nationwide survey of teachers in public elementary and secondary schools was conducted in the spring of 1971. Eighty-four per cent of the teachers surveyed responded.

Harper Achievement Program Set

Harper College in Palatine will participate in the third annual student achievement awards program. The program is sponsored by the Continental Bank in Chicago for all Illinois' public community colleges.

Named to coordinate the recognition program on Harper's campus is Fred Vaisvil, the college's director of financial aids and placement.

Two Harper students, one man and one woman, will be chosen next February by locally-selected judges as winners of the campus competition. The winners must have demonstrated noteworthy achievement toward their desired career goals and have shown leadership qualities through participation in campus and community activities.

The winners will receive a $100 cash award, a certificate of merit and their names will be permanently inscribed on a school plaque. Their achievement also permits them to compete in the district and final state competition.

Last year Christina Lukowski and Cary Annen, both of Arlington Heights, were selected as the two outstanding Harper students.

THE AWARD winners from Harper College will participate in one of six district competitions next March with the winners from the 45 other public junior college campuses in Illinois. Two finalists will be chosen from each district, one man and one woman, each will receive a $250 cash award and a personally engraved plaque.

The 12 district winners are then invited to Chicago where two state winners will be selected, again one man and one woman. The two will be honored at an awards banquet on April 27 and will receive $1,000 and a trophy.

Entry applications are now available at the Harper Financial Aids office (Room A349) or from the information booth in the College Center, Building A. They are accepted from candidates or from faculty and administration sponsors until Jan. 14, 1972. Entries should be submitted to the Financial Aids office.

To be eligible, students must be in good academic standing and have completed nine semester hours or 12 quarter hours and be an enrolled junior college student at the time of the final judging in April.

Continental Bank is sponsoring the program in cooperation with the Illinois Association of Community and Junior Colleges. The bank is providing over $14,000 in award money and is administering the program.

IVC Sells Gourmet Booklets

As a fund raising project, the International Visitors Center (IVC) is selling special gourmet coupon booklets.

A coupon for each of 20 different restaurants in the Chicago area allows two people to eat for practically the price of one. Only the higher priced of the two meals has to be paid. A coupon covers the second.

All 20 restaurants featured in the book, including the Bavarian Haus in Wheeling and Bimbo's in Palatine, serve ethnic food.

Also included in the booklet are coupons for Armando's, specializing in Italian food; La Champagne with French cuisine; and Elendi with Turkish food. The price of the coupon booklet is $10.

IN THE SPIRIT of extending a friendly hand, the International Visitors Center, founded in 1964, provides Chicago contacts for both foreign visitors and students attending colleges and universities in the area.

Over 3500 foreign visitors came through the Center's doors this year. Besides the professional programming, the Center makes it possible for the foreign visitor to Chicago to meet its members in their homes, to dine with them and learn something about our mores.

In turn, members of the International Visitors Center have the opportunity to gain further insight into customs, cultures and ideas from around the world.

IVC IS A private organization which receives no government financing and is supported entirely by individual and corporate contributions. Over 50 residents of Arlington Heights are members of the International Visitors Center.

Those wishing to purchase coupon booklets may order through Mrs. Peter Diol, 358-4914. One free book is given out with every order of 12.

JANE GONSALVES of Tanzania, Africa, student at Chicago Circle Campus, offers William Narup of Arlington Heights, member of the International Visitors Center, a sample of a native dish. The IVC is selling gourmet coupon booklets to help support the center.

Eastern Star Installation

The public is invited to attend the installation of officers of Des Plaines Chapter 765 of the Order of the Eastern Star at the Des Plaines Masonic Temple, Graceland and Prairie, Des Plaines, Dec. 4 at 8 p.m.

Those who will be installed include: Mrs. Helene Mueller, worthy matron; Clarence Deckworth, worthy patron; Mrs. Irene Middle, associate matron; Raymond Anderson, associate patron; Mrs. Blanche Jauman, secretary; Mrs. Jean Lonsby, treasurer; Mrs. Margaret Hück, conductress; Mrs. Ida Stream, associate conductress.

Also Mrs. Isabelle V. West, chaplain; Halsey C. West, marshal; Mrs. Margaret Knittle, organist; Mrs. Betty Oas, Adah; Mrs. Nan Fallon, Ruth; Mrs. Susan Eyre, Esther; Mrs. Ethel Fay Horwitz, Martha; Mrs. Hilma Turba, Electra; Mrs. Katherine Richter, warder; Elmer Beckwith, sentinel; and Norman Wolstenholme, color bearer.

Tri-Delta Alums Set Party Date To Sample Wines

Two social events are on the agenda during December for the Chicago Northwest Suburban Alumnae Club of Delta Delta Delta. An informal wine-tasting party for members and their husbands is set for next Friday, Dec. 10, at the Melvin Riley home at 605 S. Greenwood, Park Ridge.

A variety of wines and background information on the vintages will be provided so that the guests may leisurely taste samples that intrigue the individual.

All Tri-Deltas are welcome and may at 825-4807, or the cophoets, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Glass of Des Plaines, at 299-3534.

The other special event for the holidays is a Christmas party for Delta Delta Delta collegiates to be held Sunday, Dec. 26, at the home of Mrs. Edward

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: After purchasing a used car recently, I noticed a strong odor in the back seat upholstery. I've used various cleaning solutions, but the odor is still as strong as ever. Could you help me get rid of this odor? —R.K.

There are certain odors that are all but impossible to get out, especially in something like upholstery. However, you've bought the car and anything you try might be a plus though it will be experimental. Make some holes in some paper plates and cover the surface of the plates with activated charcoal granules. Leave them on the seat for at least 48 hours. If anything will draw out an odor this amazingly absorptive material will.

Dear Dorothy: This is not directly a Home Line question but I'm sure your readers would be interested in it. Mushrooms are zooming up everywhere — pillows, pictures, ceramics and so on. I've been asked if there is any symbolic meaning connected with mushrooms. Would you happen to know? —Mrs. Wm.

H. McFarland.

Have never heard of any symbolism regarding mushrooms. Has any reader? My off-the-cuff guess is that its sudden popularity might well be the copycat tendencies of most manufacturers.

Dear Dorothy: If you are about to travel in areas that get pretty cold, don't forget to put a blanket in the trunk. If the car stalls, it can get pretty cold waiting for assistance. Also, it's smart to keep a shovel or carton of sand on hand to get out of ice and snow. —June Abbott.

Dear Dorothy: Ever since I read in your column that garlic powder should be stored in the refrigerator, I've never had to worry about it getting hard. Thanks again. —Roberta M.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to Dorothy Ritz in care of Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Next On The Agenda

WOMEN OF THE MOOSE

Dr. Baranowski of the Maine Township Mental Health Center will discuss mental health services in Maine Township at the Social Service Night to be held next Thursday by Des Plaines Chapter of the Women of the Moose.

Because of the approaching holidays, the December business meeting will be held early. It will take place Thursday, Dec. 16. Co-workers are asked to bring a $1 grab bag gift for the Christmas party.

SAINTPAULIA SOCIETY

The annual Christmas party for the Suburban Saintpaulia Society takes place Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Clarence Paeglow, 2703 Meadow Drive, Rolling Meadows. It begins at 11 a.m.

WEST VALLEY SECTION JEWISH WOMEN

Joel Sprayregen, general counsel of the Illinois Division of the American Civil Liberties Union, will speak to the West Valley Section of the National Council of Jewish Women at their meeting Tuesday.

His speech and slide presentation will focus on "The New Serfdom in the USSR: A Visit With the Jews of Audacity." Sprayregen has pictures of Jews in Russia and traces their release and arrival in Israel pictorially.

Husbands are welcome at this meeting which will begin at 8 p.m. at Oketo Park, 8950 N. Oketo, Morton Grove. For further information interested persons are asked to call 743-4897.

VFW Auxiliary Donates Flag

Members of the Des Plaines VFW Auxiliary to Post 2993 recently donated a flag and flagpole to a new Girl Scout troop, 420, which meets at South School in Des Plaines.

Auxiliary president Mrs. Wayne Reder and Mrs. Ellen Mae Willis, Americanism chairman, made the presentation Nov. 2. Accepting the flag and pole were troop members Jeanette Lands, Mary Beth Newmann, Karen Fischer and Nora Nawar. Troop leaders are Mary Gregory and Alberta Fischer.

Anniversary Pair Serves A 'Basket'

A 10-layer cake shaped like a large golden basket and covered with multi-colored flowers was cut by Mr. and Mrs. Frank James Stevenson Nov. 20 at a dinner dance celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary.

The cake was served to 90 relatives and friends who came from nine states. Toasting the couple, who are 13-year residents of Arlington Heights, were their grandsons, Kurt Markhausen of Naugatuck, Conn., and Kim Markhausen of Arlington Heights. The party was given by their daughter Nerida Markhausen and was held in the Des Plaines Veterans Corp.

Prepare Land Sale Papers

Contracts for purchase of two Mount Prospect School Dist. 57 properties may soon be sent to the Mount Prospect Park District and Village officials.

The contracts for the sale of the 11-acre Sunrise Park site to the village and the approximately eight-acre Gregory School site to the park district are being drawn up by the firm of Louis Ancel.

According to J. C. Busenhart, school district business manager, copies of the papers will be submitted to the Dist. 57 school board for approval at its Monday meeting. The meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. in Lincoln Junior High School, 700 W. Lincoln St.

The papers are being prepared at the request of board member Leo Floros. Floros, a member of the committee working to sell the two Mount Prospect parcels, said he will recommend the contracts be sent immediately to the park district and village.

"I WOULD HOPE the village would receive the contract in time for their meeting Tuesday night," Floros said. The village board is scheduled to meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

The contract for the Sunrise Park site,

Golf and Mount Prospect roads, would stipulate a $25,000 down payment with $25,000 a year until the property is paid for though the board has not set the price for the land, but officials have been considering $180,000 or $192,000.

Mount Prospect Mayor Robert Teichert said yesterday he hadn't expected a contract, but if arrives, "we will certainly take action upon it." He said he thought talks between school, park, and village officials should be continued and nothing had been settled yet. He said he would like to meet again before making further comment.

Village Mgr. Robert J. Eppley had indicated earlier the village would be interested in purchasing part of the Sunrise site for water storage. Members of the Mount Prospect Library board also plan to request the village consider Sunrise as a possible site for a new library.

The contract for the Gregory School site, on the same terms as the Sunrise site, would charge the park district probably $250,000.

"IT DOESN'T LOOK like we're going to get any federal funds, so the park district will probably try and get one parcel," said Tom Cooper, park district director. He said the park district may arrange to lease part of the Sunrise Park site, if the village decides to buy it.

The park district, which has been interested in buying both parcels, has applied for funds from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). To receive funds, projects must meet one of four priorities including limited open space and equal opportunity. HUD also gives priorities to projects that would benefit low and moderate-income housing.

Even if funds would be granted, money would not be reserved until next March, according to a HUD spokesman. Then, she said, she did not know how long it would take before actual funds would be transferred.

Floros said he is hopeful both taxing bodies will vote to sign the contracts. "If they vote no, I would seriously consider recommending selling to private buyers," he said. "We want to get out of the land business." The school board offered the land for sale in July.

Dist. 57 has already received a letter from Old Orchard Estates, the developer which originally sold the Sunrise site to the school district. The organization expressed an interest in buying back the site.

The school board wants to sell at least one of the parcels to pay for an approximately $150,000 expansion program at Fairview School, 300 N. Fairview Ave. The Expansion could begin as soon as an agreement of sale is signed.

Seeks Secretary's Office

As soon as Michael P. Taras of Arlington Heights gets that matter about his license plates straightened out, he will summon reporters to Springfield to announce his candidacy for Illinois Secretary of State.

Taras, a Republican, announced this week that he will conduct a "grass roots" campaign for the party nomination for the office.

He will open his formal campaign after a jury trial Tuesday in Worth, Ill., on a charge of failing to apply for replacements for lost license plates.

Taras is a marketing specialist who operates Noelle Enterprises from his home at 2215 N. Champlain St., Arlington Heights. He said, however, that he will soon move to his parents' home in Madison County (near East St. Louis). Taras appeared before the Wheeling Township Republican Organization Monday to inform members of his candidacy.

TARAS DECLARED his immediate goal in seeking public office is to eliminate from government what he terms WASPS, meaning not White Anglo-Saxon Protestants, but those whose motto is "We All Seek Profits Secretly."

Among other things, he called for elimination of state highway department through integration with county highway departments and urged a total inventory of cost of highway equipment and usage.

Taras also scored both Democrats and Republicans for involvement in secret race track stock deals and pledged to remove secrecy from finances in the secretary of state's office. He also urged abolition of land trusts.

Taras is a 1958 graduate of the University of Illinois. He said his campaign organization will include Joe Trelio, a Springfield hospital administrator; Robert Johnson, a systems planning expert from Western Springs and Jerry Maeras, a Madison Democrat and friend.
